Unannounced escort fighters cause tense moments

Nixon security scare in skies over Syria

DAMASCUS (UPI) — Flying in through an unintended security scare that caused tense moments aboard his Presidential jet, President Nixon Saturday got a cordial welcome to Damascus followed by the toughest lecture he has yet heard on the Arab requirements for Middle East peace.

President Hafez Assad greeted Nixon with formal honors upon arrival at his third Middle East tour stop, rode with him through throngs of applauding citizens in the heavily-guarded capital and then bluntly stated in an evening dinner speech what it will take to establish peace in the region.

"The only lasting and durable peace would be a peace that would terminate Israeli occupation, restore the land to its (Palestinian) people, remove the grievances inflicted upon the people of Palestine and ensure them of their ligitimate national rights," he said.

Assad said the rights of the Palestinians lay at the heart of these peace requirements and, blaming Israel, he added that Palestinians "despair of the justice of man and international organizations."

"By doing this, they (the Israelis) have forced the Palestinian people to follow a path not of their own choice in order to remind the world of their existence, of their case," he said, referring to guerrilla action.

Assad also praised U.S. initiatives in attempting to mediate peace and Nixon responded, as he has to other Arab leaders, that he has "no instant solutions" to the problems of the region.

"You have indicated your concern about such matters as the Palestinians which we of course understand, your borders which we of course understand and your concern for other matters," Nixon said.

He said he and Assad Sunday would "explore in greater detail all of the factors involved in the problems you have touched on tonight."

"I can simply state tonight that we do not consider the first step the Syrian-Israeli disengagement agreement) to be the last step," he said. "It is a beginning and a good beginning."

Nixon's visit began with a brief scare, when Syria dispatched unannounced MIG fighter escorts to meet his inbound plane and the presidential pilot, unsure who they were, put Air Force One through a series of evasive swoops and dives until the matter was cleared up.

The seven tense minutes of aerial acrobatics and the protocol mix-up that caused them gave way to a relatively cordial greeting in Damascus, a stronghold of Palestinian sentiment and militant Arab feeling that was guarded by thousands of soldiers and security men for Nixon's protection.

Officials said the Damascus visit might lead to restoration of U.S.-Syrian diplomatic relations, but possibly at a high price. Syrian sources said Damascus would press for even more than the $100 million in aid and investments the United States has been considering.

Before dinner, Nixon and Assad talked for half an hour on Syria's plans for economic development and reconstruction, White House aides said.

No one in the White House party had an immediate explanation for the nerve-racking aerial incident that opened the visit to Damascus.

Suddenly, as Air Force One swept into Syria about 60 miles south of Damascus, four camouflaged MIG fighters approached and settled not far off the big jet's wingtips.

The president's pilot, Col. Ralph D. Albertazzie, threw the Boeing 707 into a violent righthand curve as an evasive measure and there followed seven minutes of aerial tag — with the President's jet zooming on right-angle tacks above and below the fighters —while Albertazzie tried to confirm their identity and intentions.

Albertazzie tried communicating with the MIG pilots through aviators' code maneuvers and finally got his answer from Damascus airport tower: They were indeed an honorary escort.

There was no early word of how Nixon took this, but back in the rear press section of the plane even veteran Middle East traveler Henry A. Kissinger showed concern.

"I've been here 14 times and none of this ever happened before," said Kissinger, who negotiated the Syrian-Israeli disengagement pact that cleared the way for Nixon's visit. Kissinger quickly broke off his chat with newsmen and returned to his seat.

White House officials awaiting Nixon's arrival in Damascus later said they had been told about the escort jets, but they did not know why Nixon's pilots were not informed.

Truckers warn of strike unless Congress acts

HARLINGEN, Tex. (UPI) — The president of Independent Produce Haulers of America who was instrumental in preventing a second truckers' strike four months ago Saturday said Congress had better aid the independent truckers' plight or a third shutdown might be in order.

"It seems the Congress of the U.S. is not concerned (with us) because the trucks continue to roll. What do we have to do — shut down the nation, hurt the economy —in order to urge Congress to action?" Millard Holden said in a statement to reporters.

Holden said he had just returned from Washington to lobby for a bill to increase trucking load weights and tares. He said he wasn't too optimistic.

"In today's world we can no longer take transportation for granted," Holden said. "It is a vital link in our nation's economy.

"During the last truck shutdown in early February the Department of Transportation in Washington promised to draft a bill to increase weights and tares. They have kept their promise. The bill is HR-14046," he said. "This bill is now lying dormant in the Senate Public Works Committee."

Holden said if the bill passed, it would mean truckers could carry more weight in their trucks.

"This will increase his revenue and helps offset the higher cost of operation," he said. "This way he will not have to increase produce rates that is passed on to the consumer."

Holden urged truckers and other interested citizens to wire their congressmen and let them know they must produce or they will not be reelected."

High court refuses to open up grand jury documents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Saturday refused to make public documents related to a grand jury decision naming President Nixon as an unindicted coconspirator in the Watergate cover-up, but it agreed to decide if the jurors had the power to list an incumbent President.

Both Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski and James D. St. Clair, Nixon's Watergate lawyer, had asked that the documents be made public. But lawyers for the six defendants in the cover-up case opposed it.

The documents are briefs and transcripts of private in-chamber discussions last May with Distrit Court Judge John J. Sirica, Jaworski, St. Clair and lawyers for the defendants. After those discussions, Sirica ordered tapes and documents relating to 64 White House conversations turned over to him for study and the President refused to comply.

No dissent was noted in the Supreme Court's brief unsigned order. Justice William H. Rehnquist, who worked for former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, refused to take part. Mitchell is a defendant in the cover-up trial, scheduled to begin Sept. 9, and Rehnquist has stayed out of previous consideration of the case.

The high court said it would hear oral arguments July 8 about the power of a grand jury to name a President as an unindicted co-conspirator. The White House had requested a ruling on that issue.

The issue of the grand jury's power will be combined with a dispute over whether Nixon can claim executive privilege in refusing to hand over the White House tapes and documents Jaworski says are needed to prosecute the cover-up defendants.

CASCADE, Idaho (UPI) — McCall, Idaho, Police Chief James Perkins was shot and killed Saturday following a high speed chase involving state police and county sheriff's deputies.

Perkins, driving wildly and reportedly shouting obscenities over the radio in his city patrol car, smashed into the front end of a camper vehicle driven by James Stavast, Grand Juncion, Colo., smashed windows and fired two shots into the Stavast car before he was killed by deputies and state police.

"When he hit our car he shouted, 'They won't get me here'," Stavast quoted Perkins as saying.

Cascade County prosecutor Robert Remalkus said Perkins was the object of a high-speed chase along state Highway 55 south of Cascade.

Citizens band radio operators who monitored police calls during the afternoon chase said Perkins apparently "went berserk," shouting obscenities to the officers chasing him.

Plane in search of yacht survivors

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — A Navy P2V aircraft was dispatched from Pt. Mugu, Calif. Saturday to make a radar sweep of a 7,400 square mile area off the coast of Baja California, Mexico, for 10 survivors of the yacht "Shooting Star."

Coast Guard headquarters here said that weather conditions were providing the biggest obstacle in the search for the ship, which was last heard from in a "mayday" call Thursday.

IS THERE A GENIE INSIDE?

Escorted by machine guns

Pat goes shopping in Arab bazaar

JEDDAH, Saudi Arabia (UPI) — First Lady Pat Nixon enjoyed a brief shopping trip Saturday through an Arab bazaar, but she noted she would like to return some day without her machine gun-toting escorts.

Bowing to Moslem custom by wearing a long-sleeved dress in the scorching desert heat, Mrs. Nixon purchased a copper coffee pot for about $6 and discussed the peddler economy with a jewelry salesman, who spoke excellent English.

"How's biz?" she asked, testing the peddler's American slang.

"Pretty good," he replied quickly.

Like other tourists, Mrs. Nixon admired the hand-crafted gold jewelry selling for $6 a gram and the fine woven fabric, but satisfied her souvenir urge with the coffee pot.

"You have everything imaginable," she told one shopowner. "I could spend days here.

"I'd love to come back here some time without any escorts."

Mrs. Nixon had plenty of company on her shopping excursion. Five limousines carried the First Lady, traveling companions, reporters and Secret Service men.

Two jeeps led the motorcade. Machine guns were mounted on both, manned by soldiers assigned to keep a watchful eye on the First Lady. A street crowd applauded Mrs. Nixon from a distance.

Although her escorts were perspiring, especially the women who were told to wear long-sleeved dresses, Mrs. Nixon appeared cool and immaculate in her blue dress with horizontal white stripes.

An aide said Mrs. Nixon was fatigued from her difficult trip as she joined her husband for a two-hour flight to Damascus, Syria, Saturday afternoon.

She was the guest of honor Friday night at a dinner given by the queen. Moslem custom prevented her from attending an all male dinner given in the President's honor by King Faisal.

Nixon, Portugal's leader to meet?

LISBON (UPI) — Lisbon newspapers reported Saturday President Nixon and Portugal's new leader, President Antonio de Spinola, might meet in the Azores Tuesday. The government said it was just speculation.

Heat wave hits; only slightly cooler today

By JON MORRIS

P-B Staff Writer

Hotter temperatures than expected, reaching 100 in the valley, along with heavy smog Saturday combined to send area residents to the beaches or in search of some shade.

The National Weather Service predicted readings in the upper 90's today, cooling to the lower 90's by Monday.

Health advisories were issued Saturday for all but coastal sections of Los Angeles County because of excess levels of ozone-charged smog.

Smog reached levels of .30 parts per million in the Pomona-Walnut valleys, according to the Air Pollution Control District, and was expected to remain there today. Lowest visibilty was between one and three miles.

It was no picnic in other areas, either, as the east and west San Gabriel Valleys received dosages of .25 to .30 parts per million. Most of the San Fernando Valley reported .20 parts per million, while .10 to .15 was reported elsewhere.

First-stage smog alerts were issued for the Pomona-Walnut areas, and the APCD advised motorists not to drive unless it was necessary.

Persons with respiratory and heart problems were advised to consult physicians before venturing outside. Small children and the elderly were told to curtail strenuous activities.

The wave was expected to continue with the smog, at least through Monday.

The 100-degree mark reached Saturday was recorded for the area at Ontario International Airport.

A second-stage smog alert was issued for the second straight day for San Bernardino, County. Areas such as Riverside, Fontana, Bloomington and Rialto received the heaviest smog in this area.

Those who traveled to beaches to escape the heat were bothered by an onslught of jellyfish and strong riptides, at least at South Bay and Santa Monica area beaches.

More than a million persons made it to county beaches.

STOCKTON (UPI) — A man was killed Saturday by the propeller of a houseboat as he tried to rescue two swimmers in the San Joaquin River delta.

John T. Debrick, 58, San Jose, was killed after he leaped into the river to aid a teen-ager and another man who became panicky while swimming near Bouldin Island, the San Joaquin County sheriff's office said.

The swimmers were rescued unharmed.

Door-to-door search on for escaped killer

EUGENE, Ore. (API) — Escaped killer Carl Cletus Bowles, 33, who once kidnaped California's state finance director remained at large Saturday after eluding a wave of police and exchanging shots with FBI agents.

Heavily armed officers made a cautious door-to-door check of homes in a four-square-mile area without finding a trace of the bearded convict.

"We certainly hope that Bowles has not taken a hostage somewhere in the area," Eugene Police Chief Dale Allen said.

Allen said residents of the area remained calm during the hunt for the man convicted nine years ago of killing a Lane County sheriff's deputy and kidnaping California Finance Director Hale Champion and his family.

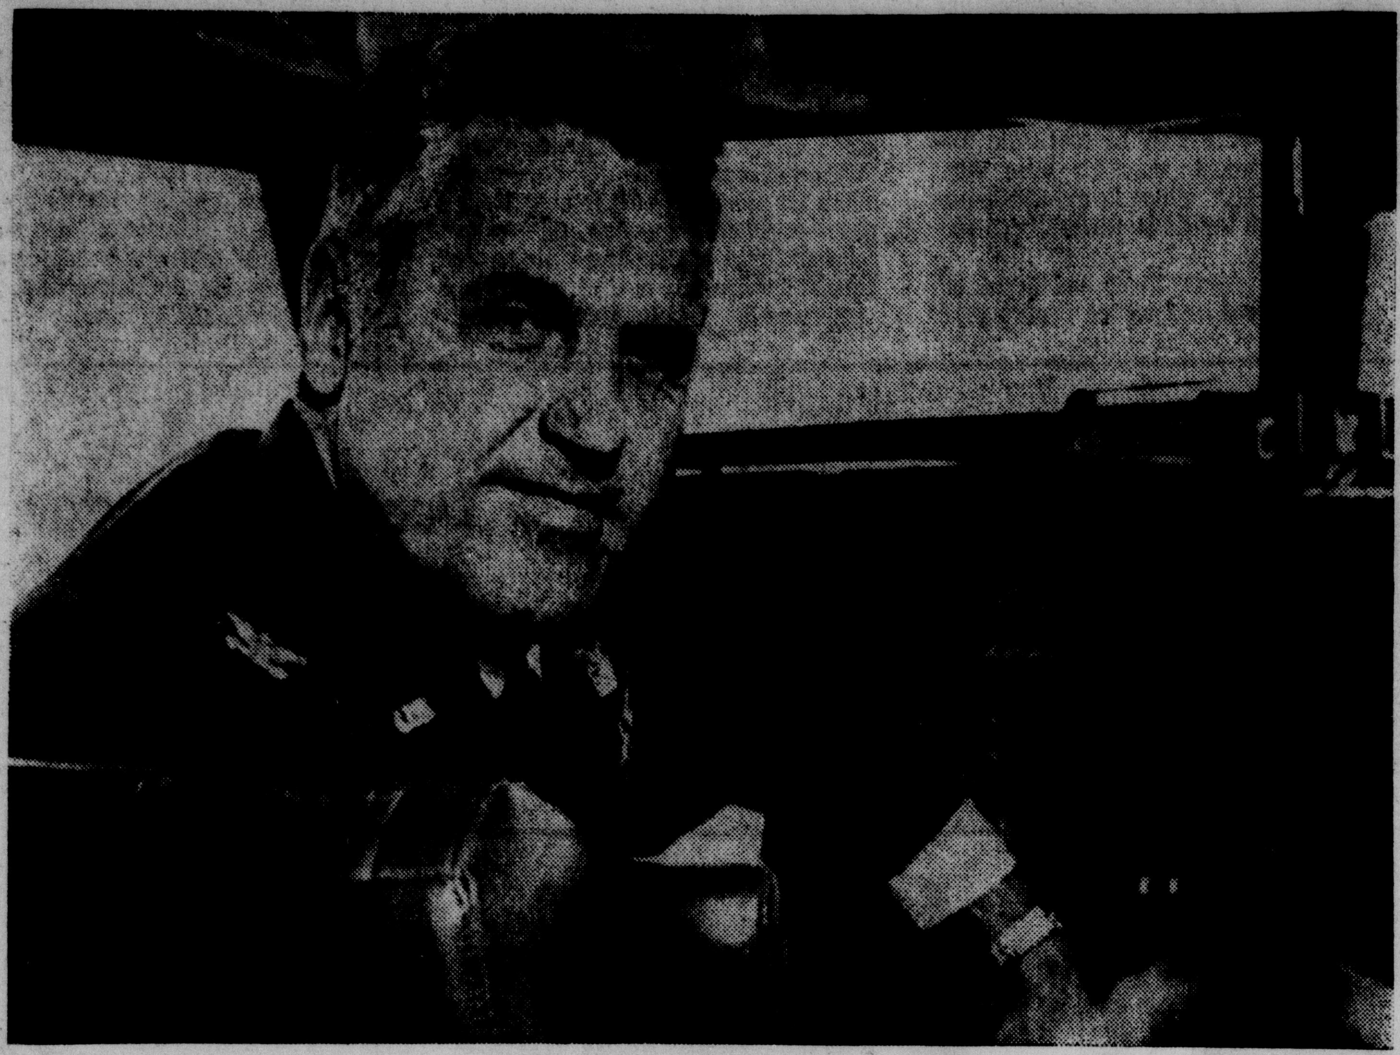
Two FBI agents pulled alongside Bowles in their car Friday as he walked on Willamette Street. They spoke to him, and Bowles drew a pistol, opened fire and fled.

Police sources said later that one of the agents tripped and dropped his service pistol, and that Bowles grabbed the weapon and made off with it. Robert Denz, assistant special agent in charge of the Portland FBI office, refused to confirm or deny that an agent's pistol was lost.

The escapee fled through the parking lot of an elementary school, and later ran through the back yard of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Herbison about three blocks away.

More shots were fired there, one of them crashing through a window in the Herbison home. Denz said he had not determined who fired those shots.

A door-to-door search was begun and 30 minutes later, officers located Joan Coberly, 23, in a house in the area. Bowles was visiting Mrs. Coberly on a "social pass" from the state penitentiary May 17 when he fled.



PILOT OF NIXON PLANE

If Nixon plane a target...

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pentagon officials are reluctant to talk about security precautions for President Nixon's plane, but they do admit the craft is normally protected by air and sea and a special communications system.

The question of protection arose Saturday when Syrian jet fighters provoked diving, twisting evasive tactics by Air Force One before landing in Damascus. The four Soviet-built MIG fighters with camouflage markings appeared in pairs just as Nixon's Boeing 707 jet crossed the Jordan-Syria border.

Pentagon officials said their chief worry about Nixon's trip over the Middle East was that Air Fore One might trigger Russian-built SAM7 antiaircraft missiles, which target on the heat of jet engines and can be fired by a single soldier in similar fashion to the World War II "bazooka." At least one Palestinian guerrilla group was believed to own some of these missiles.

The Pentagon said the protection system for the President's plane is designed primarily to prevent crashes and engine trouble.

The Navy stations ships at 250-mile intervals along any oceanic routes the President takes and U.S. Air Force fighters are located nearby, officials said. The plane also has two communications systems for instantaneous ground contact, including the President's National Military Command System.

Although U.S. fighters have flown protective cover for the President in the United States, they do not fly over foreign nations.

It is customary, according to diplomatic observers, for host countries to provide fighter escorts while dignitaries are in their air space. When Pope Paul VI flew across the Middle East in late 1970, he was accompanied by Lebanese fighters over Lebanon, Syrian jets over Syria, Iraqi jets over Iraq and so on.

Robbery ring whose victims were shady characters broken by 2 cops

NEW YORK (UPI) — It was a sweet scheme, the way the ringleaders had it figured out. They would rob the homes of people with lots of money who wouldn't dare complain to the cops —people like loan sharks, bookmakers, and narcotics dealers.

And it worked. The ring, which involved as many as 40 men, sometimes was able to get away with as much as $35,000.

It worked because, as they figured, none of the victims squawked. But then the ringleaders made their big mistake —they tried to bribe two honest cops. The two honest cops, city detectives Vincent Rizzo and Edward Denaro, pretended to go along with the scheme until they got all the information.

Saturday the roof fell in on the ring.

The office of special state prosecutor Maurice Nadjari, which revealed the scheme, announced the arrest of three of the ringleaders —one of them a professional makeup artist who provided the gang with elaborate disguises when he wasn't working parttime for the police department.

Arrested were Stanley "The Fly" Simmons, 32, and Melvin "Cisco" Barnes, 29, and the makeup artist, Robert Martin, 30.

In a raid Friday on Martin's home, police confiscated an arsenal of 14 handguns, rifles and shotguns along with fake badges, wigs, masks and a professional makeup kit.

According to authorities, Rizzo and Denaro ran into Simmons in April while arraigning Barnes on a larceny charge. It was a reunion for Rizzo and Simmons —they had been high school classmates in Brokolyn.

Subsequently, Rizzo and Denaro, working with the Organized Crime Bureau, "accepted" $100 a week "protection" money.

Convinced the two were "rogue cops," the suspects told Rizzo and Denaro of the robbery ring. Rizzo and Denaro were good listeners.

Often, police said, the homes to be robbed by the ring were "fingered" by other organized crime figures in return for a percentage, but the ring sometimes found their own targets.

Three weeks ago, Simmons and Barnes allegedly recruited the detectives to join them in a different kind of robbery —that of the Brooklyn home of a city official.

The suspects took them to Martin, who concocted elaborate disguises so the detectives would not be recognized.

The robbery was scheduled for Friday morning but was postponed. Authorities decided to arrest the men before the robbery because the official's life might be endangered.

Message of Cal Poly graduation speaker

Keeping an eye on the road ahead in life, and looking backward over one's accomplishments may mean not seeing life for what it is today.

This was the message Marcia L. Lasswell, professor of behavioral sciences at Cal Poly presented to the graduating students at Cal Poly Pomona Saturday afternoon.

"It is easy in the kind of world we live in to get caught up in equating self worth with what we have accomplished and how far we have come. Somehow, looking back to things accomplished, the material possessions accumulated, and other signs of what we have produced serves as evidence of self worth.

"The problem of this measure of self worth, however, is that it more often than not results in the feeling of being overwhelmed by the unceasing need to produce more and more in order to continue to feel good. It's like a treadmill. It alienates us from what we really want in life and who we truly are," she said.

In summing up her short address, "A Psychologist's View of Commencement," Mrs. Lasswell said, "One of the most important lessons I have learned in life is that production does not have to be the goal itself, but instead, if I can do what I love, my enthusiasm for my work will make production a byproduct."

Mrs. Lasswell, who joined the Cal Poly Pomona faculty in 1961, the year women students were first admitted to the Cal Poly campus, was the first woman in the university's history to address the graduating students.

Degrees were conferred by Dr. Robert C. Kramer, president of Cal Poly Pomona after he greeted the parents, congradulated the students and thanked the faculty for their involvement in making the current class the largest in the history of the university.

"The university does not run without a support staff," said Dr. Kramer as he paid tribute to the administrative team at Cal Poly.

Robert B. Marshall, senior class chairman, announced that the Class of '74 gift to the university will be a set of playground equipment for the new Child Care Center.

"It will be for youngsters today who will be Cal Poly students in the future. It is a gift of love," he said.

Dr. Kramer announced that the current class included students from 40 foreign countries, from 28 California counties and from 19 states.

The graduating class of 2,147 included 1,579 men and 568 women; 124 received master's degrees, and 431 graduated with honors.

Israel sounds note of concern

Egypt nuclear deal might tempt other Arab nations

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon said Saturday night he was "not happy" with the U.S.-Egyptian nuclear know-how agreement, saying it came to Israel as a surprise and might tempt other Arab states to seek atomic fuel from the Soviet Union.

In a national television interview, Allon sounded Israel's first note of concern about the deal, in contrast to his and Information Minister Aharon Yariv's earlier statements that played down its significance. But Allon repeated that the accord posed no military threat to Israel.

Allon, who is also foreign minister, said, "I am not happy with the paragraph concerning American aid to Egypt for the building of an electric power station based on nuclear energy."

"Effective inspection will prevent the use of the uranium (supplied as nuclear fuel) for military purposes," Allon said, adding he was sure "the inspection will be absolutely effective."

But he said: "I ask myself: Does Egypt already need atomic power so much, when she still hasn't exhausted the exploitation of energy from the hydroelectric power stations on the one hand or her independent oil resources on the other?"

In earlier Hebrew and English-language interviews carried on national radio and television, he and Yariv sounded no cautionary notes about the accord that was announced in Cairo Friday at the close of President Nixon's state visit.

But, Allon said in the later broadcast, "It might have been expected, owing to the special nature of the relationship that has evolved over the years between Washington and Jerusalem, that a subject like this would be made known to Israel..."

Asked whether the agreement would give other Arab countries "legitimization" to demand atomic fuel from Moscow, Allon answered: "legitimacy-no. An excuse-yes."

Allon had said ealier Israel saw little cause for concern over the Cairo agreement and indicated a similar accord would be reached in Jerusalem.

Allon said in a radio interview hundreds of thousands of Israelis would turn out to greet Nixon as he drives into Jerusalem in a closed bulletproof limousine from Ben Gurion International Airport.

Despite the smaller crowd, compared to the millions who saw Nixon in Egypt, "I'm sure President Nixon will realize this is a spontaneous, sincere and very warm welcome, not only on behalf of the people," Allon said.

Government sources said American security officials turned down Israeli proposals for sightseeing stops by the Nixons in the walled old city of Jerusalem and at the ancient Jewish desert fortress of Masada. Newsmen will be barred from viewing Nixon's tour of Yad Vashem, the capital's memorial for the Jewish dead of World War II, reportedly at the orders of the White House.

Asked about Israle's reaction to the expressions of closer U.S. relations with the Arab states sounded during the Presidential tour, Allon said:

"If the Arab governments don't misinterpret this closeness and try to impose upon America certain concessions at the expense of Israel, I don't think we have to worry."

Aside from talks to "clarify further commitments" to Israel, Allon said Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and other Israeli officials will try to secure Nixon's help in winning emigration of Jews from Syria and the Soviet Union.

Walnut schools may seek end to daylight savings

WALNUT — School trustees will consider approval of a resolution Monday night to urge the U.S. Congress to go off daylight savings time next winter.

The Walnut board, meeting at 7:30 p.m. in Walnut High School's multipurpose room, will discuss a resolution that is expected to be considered by a number of Los Angeles County school districts.

If the majority of the districts favor dispensing with daylight savings, then the county superintendent of schools' office will urge Congress to enact legislation, officials said.

Complaints were common last winter about daylight savings because students had to travel to school in the dark in the early mornings.

The school board also will consider a possible salary boost for administrators at Monday's meeting. Administrators and other management have requested a 6 per cent increase.

Also on the agenda is a proposal for a new location for Del Paso Continuation High School, which is being forced by its landlard to find new quarters.

Error in headline

The Progress-Bulletin regrets an error in a headline Saturday which said that a La Verne man was involved in a killing.

OXON HILL, Md. (UPI) — Robert Chambers, 28, said Saturday he will withdraw from Maryland's fourth Congressional district Democratic primary if the public feels he should not run against his father.

Chambers, a tennis instructor and self-proclaimed liberal, is running in the primary race against his father Roy, 54, who campaigned for George Wallace in 1964, 1968 and 1972. But the younger Chambers said he has been coming under heavy criticism for running against his father and will drop out of the race if the public tells him to.

In a letter mailed Saturday the younger Chambers urged his father to withdraw from the race to run against Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md. So far no Demorat has emerged to run against the popular incumbent.

"Why don't you withdraw from the fourth district Congressional race and run against Sen. Charles Mac Mathias of Maryland? Mathias has supported forced busing which would give you a good reason to defeat him. But whatever the reason, please withdraw from the Congressional race so that I can have some peace of mind," Chambers wrote.

"I have come under a lot of criticism for running against you. The voters are blaming me for the father-son contest because they believe that the father in a household should have the right to run and have the support of his family. As a remedy, I will ask the citizens of this great country to help me conduct a poll.... I will abide by the results of the poll."

"I'm afraid of what the results will be," Chambers said in a telephone interview. "I would like the results to say stay in there and try to defeat my father, but I have my doubts."

If his father decides to run against Mathias, "I would campaign for Mathias," the younger Chambers said.

AN EXCITING MOMENT

Local gardeners reaping benefits from 'good earth'

POMONA — A 1.4-acre organic vegetable garden, a project of the Pomona Valley Organic Garden Club, has begun producing food for 20 of the club's members.

A result of cooperation between the city's Parks and recreation department and the garden club, the organic vegetable plot is adjacent to Philadelphia Park on E. Philadelphia St. between Towne and Gary avenues. Animal manure and decayed vegetable matter are the only fertilizers used by the gardeners.

Raymond Hutton of Claremont, chairman of the club which has more than 50 members, explains that the vegetable-growing endeavor is highly relevant to an era facing a world-wide food shortage.

"We're trying to get people involved in the food problem," Hutton says. "The more food you can grow yourself the better."

Hutton, himself, was the driving force behind the effort to establish the organic garden, and he enlisted the crucial support of Roger Taylor, the city's superintendent of parks.

Vivian Dube, a teacher at Arroyo Elementary School and secretary-treasurer for the club, is a native of east Texas. She is especially proud of her okra, a vegetable indigenous to the South, and her zucchini.

One of the more unusual vegetables grown at the Philadelphia St. lot is kohlrabi, a turnip-shaped cabbage which can be eaten like cauliflower. Mrs. Dube already has begun to eat kohlrabi she has grown.

The garden project, started eight months ago, now produces, in addtiion to the vegtables already mentioned, corn, reb cabbage, spinach, beets, collard and egg plants.

Four hospitalized in auto crash in good condition

POMONA — Four persons injured in a head-on collision on Garey Avenue at Eleventh Street Friday were listed in good condition Saturday at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

The injured are Annie Pearl Smith, 34, of 2188 Glenroy St., Pomona, and her son Kevin, 6, Pete Hayes, 26, of 1114 S. Campus Ave., Ontario, and Bruce Smith of Mira Loma.

The accident occurred, said police, when Mrs. Smith attempted to turn left onto Eleventh Street from Garey Avenue in front of Hayes' car.

Three other persons sustained minor injuries in the accident but were not hospitalized.

Fourth blaze hits Industry warehouse

INDUSTRY — The fourth fire in 90 days did $6,000 damage early Saturday to a warehouse at A and E Plastics Co., 14505 Proctor Ave. The blaze, which broke out shortly before 8 a.m., was doused in about 10 minutes by two county fire engine companies.

The fire failed to close down operations, a spokesman said, and arson investigators were assigned to determine the cause.

Veterans roll on to Washington rally

LAS VEGAS (UPI)— A caravan of buses, cars and vans carrying about 150 veterans was rolled eastward Saturday toward a scheduled mass rally in Washington, D.C., July 4.

The AVM, which claims about 6,000 members, said a rally will be held at Washington's Lafayette Park, across from the White House to protest policies of the Veterans Administration.

Ron Kovic, Los Angeles, said the veterans are demanding improved conditions in all VA hospitals and increased benefits for veterans. He said thousands of veterans across the nation would join the march on Washington to recreate the 1932 protest in which World War I veterans demonstrated in a similar manner to seek increased benefits.

Kovic said a tent city would be set up in the park and the veterans would stay until their demands are met.

AVM is the group that staged a 19-day sit-in and hunger strke in February at the offices of Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., to protest VA hospital conditions.

348 receive diplomas at Chino High School

CHINO — Chino High School held graduation ceremonies Friday evening on Memorial Field at the campus, as 348 students were awarded diplomas.

In the salutatory address, Lori Pinder told the graduates that they had been under great pressure to conform, but that they must now learn to make their own decisions.

Her address was entitled "The Teenage Fantasy."

Valedictorian Colleen Kayashima said that the high school was inheriting a society filled with technical achievements, but overshadowed by a multitude of social problems.

"We must face the ugly realities," she said, "overpopulation, pollution, political corruption, discrimination, immorality and drugs."

Education is the first step in learning to understand and reshape society, she said.

Closed door may have saved life

Mrs. Diane Rasmussen awoke to a popping sound at about 4:23 a.m. and discovered the couch on fire in the living room of her apartment at 1111 E. Seventh St., Apt. 7. She called the police department to report the fire, but could not make her way to the rear bedroom in the house where her son, James, was sleeping.

When firemen from Engine Co. 3 arrived they found the living room of the apartment totally in flames. Fire Capt. Beryl Felty and firemen John Schmelzle and Dane Prall entered the apartment through the living room to search for the small boy. Prall found James in the rear room and passed him from a window in the bedroom to an observer outside the building.

Capt. Felty said the closed door to the child's bedroom saved James from the heat and smoke of the fire and possibly saved his life.

Mrs. Rasmussen suffered smoke exposure, but was not hospitalized.

The fire, which was contained to the living room of the apartment, is believed to have been caused by a smoldering cigarette in the couch. Approximately $1,200 damage was done to Mrs. Rasmussen's apartment and the apartment above.

Kelly said that the graduates are being encouraged to invite their families and girl friends to the commencement and ball. Arrangements are being made for a live orchestra.

Efficiency tags now found on some air conditioners

By MICHAEL CONLON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you're thinking about buying an air conditioner before summer settles in, here's something to keep in mind.

Some manufacturers of room air conditioners are now placing tags on the units to tell you how efficient the machines are in terms of using energy. With electric bills going up in many parts of the country, that information may prove valuable in terms of your future utility bills.

Up to now, it's been hard to choose between two units with about the same cooling capacity but which require different wattage. One that uses more watts is usually cheaper than one that runs on less wattage — even though both might cool your room about the same.

To a degree the buyer still has a problem in making that choice. If you don't use the air conditioner very much, you may not save that much in electric bills by buying a more expensive, more energy-efficient air conditioner.

Formula Proposed

But in most cases efficiency is a good buy. And on May 1 of this year the government decided on a formula for manufacturers who want to may give efficiency information to the buyer in a standard formula on tags that will read the same throughout the industry.

The central feature of this tag is a number called an "energy efficiency ratio." The higher the number, the more efficient —and cheaper —the unit is to run.

The number is arrived at by dividing the unit's BTUs per hour (the cooling capacity) by the number of watts it uses. The tags not only will list that number, but also will show what the range of numbers is likely to be for other models with about the same cooling capacity. And the buyer is advised in writing on the tag that the higher numbers mean the unit will cost less to run over the years.

There are no firm figures available on how many of the 5.3 million window air conditioners turned out in the United States each year will be carrying the tags since the whole program is voluntary — although there are proposals pending in Congress to make it mandatory.

Helpful to Buyer

But there are indications some of the bigger companies are offering the information. Sears Roebuck & Co. tells us that energy efficiency ratio numbers are listed both in their catalog and on labels pasted on top of window units when they leave the factory.

General Electric reports GE and Hotpoint air conditioners have carried the efficiency numbers derived from the same formula for two years. The company plans to adopt the whole government formula tag for production starting this summer —meaning the tags will probably start showing up on their products later this year.

The Commerce Department now is working on a similar formula for refrigerators and freezers, but no firm date has been set on when it will be finished.

While the energy efficiency ratio number formula has been in use for some time, the fact that the information —and the explanation of what it is —will now be available on a standard tag should be a big help to the buyer.

Recent discussions in this column on how to avoid possible fire hazards witt "instant on" television sets prompted yet another possible solution from a reader in Alexandria, Va., who writes:

"My husband purchased an 'AMF. Nite-Owl TV Timer' and connected it to the wall plug. The TV plugs into it. The timer may be set for six hours or less, and to watch, one must turn on both the TV and timer. However, it is necessary to turn off the TV only. Although at this point the 'instant on' is still burning, the timer will automatically shut off everything shortly without further attention.

"As I have a small child I would not want her to fiddle with anything at the back of the set, and find that we do have much greater peace of mind now."

Thank you.

Previous suggestions, in case you missed them, involved turning off the "instant on" switch behind the set, or installing an extension cord with a line switch between the plug and the TV cord so the power can be shut off without pulling the plug.

We'll be happy to hear your suggestions or complaints. Write us care of Buyer's Billboard, UPI, 315 National Press Building, Washington D.C. 20004.

Artistic talent is inherited

Client asks if artistic talent is inherited. In a way, I think. Consider Edward Dickinson of Amherst, Mass. Certainly, he was no poet to compare with his daughter Emily, among the greatest. But one night a particularly beautiful sunset colored up the sky with pink and gold. The record shows Edward got so excited about it he rang the town fire bell violently until everybody went outside to see. Emily inherited something that Edward possessed before her.

City editors are a cynical lot. Years ago, when H. Allen Smith was a reporter, he telephoned the office to say he couldn't get to work that day, because he had slipped on the ice. Replied his city editor: "How did you get your foot in the glass?"

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS

Q. "How much did the first coast-to-coats telephone calls cost?"

A. Exactly $20.70 for three minutes. In 1915, that was. And that year, there were three transcontinental calls per day, average.

Q. "What proportion of the grownups in this country are over 6-feet tall?"

A. One man in 10, one woman in 1,000.

Q. "All right, Louie, get your Love and War man to recommend a diplomatic line I can drop on my wife now that I've forgotten her birthday?"

A. Suggests he: "How can you expect me to remember when you never look any older?"

Q. "What's the highest escalator in the world? And the fastest?"

HEALTHIEST

Most healthful place to live is where the average temperature varies at least three degrees from day to day in the summer and seven degrees in the winter. That's the claim of a climatologist.

It has been reported that food packaged in green sells best. Toys packaged in green, however, sell least well. Or so the toymakers report. They say red is their best package color with blue second.

"Truth always originates in a minority of one, and every custom begins as a broken precedent," said that sage Will Durant, sagely.

Just as a bullet can be linked by ballistics to the gun that fired it, so can rolled film be linked to the camera that took the pictures thereon, always.

Italian-Americans

Anti-bias league formed as reaction to stereotyping

NEW YORK (UPI) — When an apartment neighbor of Queens College Prof. Richard Gambino was found murdered, a police detective questioned Gambino repeatedly about his possible Mafia relationships and was surprised that this angered the educator and author.

The detective knew of Gambino's professional status—chairman of the first college program of Italian-American studies in the United States—but this might suggest Gambino got where he was through "connections."

Such is the logic, claim many Italian-Americans, that has grown out of the Mafia mania that swept the nation in the 1960s and rages on in the 1970s. Gambino's name alone—the same as that of a Mafia clan— was enough to make him of special interest to police.

Gambino is not the only American of Italian descent who is angered by a bigotry that links even men of eminence to a criminal minority. A group of business and professional leaders calling themselves the Columbian Coalition are channeling their anger into efforts to combat discrimination and ethnic stereotyping that has become respectable, even among educated, influential Americans.

Success Discounted

"So many men I talk to tell me their success is discounted as 'having connections' instead of being credited to talent, energy and drive," said Frank Bianco, a former public relations executive who is now executive director of the Columbian Coalition. "That's what they find most offensive. They tell me, 'Now that I own my own business, they won't let me own my own success.'"

Former New York Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo started the coalition, with headquarters in midtown Manhattan, two years ago and has enrolled more than 100 members at a $1,000 initiation fee. They include Phil Rizzuto, sports broadcaster and former N.Y. Yankees baseball star, TV personality Joe Garagiola, Bernard Castro of convertible bed fame, fabrics tycoon Franco Scalamandre, and fuel distributor Victor Allegreti, who is president of the organization.

The coalition's second Waldorf-Astoria dinner to raise funds for Verrazzano College on June 7 will be a showcase for such coalition supporters as Lee A. Iacocca, president of Ford Motor Co., Jack Valenti, head of the Motion Picture Association of America, and John Riccardo, president of Chrysler. Allying themselves with an Italian-American organization is a new experience for some of these men.

"Italians used to maintain as low a profile as the Jews, but ethnic stereotyping has gone beyond the tolerance level," Bianco said. "Italians have been singularly isolated and under great pressure to dive into the melting pot. We used to think you couldn't be ethnic and be American. Now there is a realization that much Italians brought with them and much in the Italian personality is valuable—worth putting up front. We are fighting our case in two courts—the court of public opinion and the court of law."

Film for students

Gambino, in a book, "Blood of My Blood: The Dilemma of the Italian Americans," recounts the responses he received from non-Italians he interviewed to the question, "What comes to mind when you think of an Italian-American?" He said the answers repeated with remarkable uniformity were, "the Mafia, pizza, hard hats, blue collar, emotional, jealous, sexy girls, overweight mammas, rough men, pop singers."

Musician can 'saw away' all night long

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — When Allen deLay buys a handsaw at the hardware store he doesn't buy it because he wants to build a house. He plays it.

"I buy it for tone, too," said the 59-year-old photographer, who first heard a carpenter play the tool in Topeka, Kan., when he was a boy. The saw carried him through the Depression, a seven-sergeant band that toured Alaska in World War II, and most recently a two-night stand with the Oregon Symphony Orchestra playing the Khachaturian piano concerto, a 19th-Century Russian folk ballad.

When he was 16, deLay said he found a saw hanging in the maintenance room of a Portland bank, and remembering the enchanting tunes played by the Topeka carpenter, began to experiment during lunch hours. He asked to take the saw home on weekends and was soon playing along with the radio.

A demonstration to the Milwaukie Grange one night as a 17-year-old soon brought more offers to hear his saw.

"I played for assemblies, garden clubs, for Job's Daughters," deLay said. "I'd play for a drink or dinner, and in those days that was really OK."

"It's all by ear, I just picked it up," he said.

DeLay's saw accompanied him in World War II and "played guys to sleep in the quonset huts." He tried out for a musical group while in Alaska and was promoted to sergeant to play in the seven-member "Arctic Antics." While touring Army bases there he met violinist Yehudi Menuhin and instructed him in the art of playing the saw.

To play his saw, deLay puts the wooden handle between his legs and grips the end with the left hand, thumb pushing back on the blade of the saw making a slight "S" curve. By increasing or decreasing pressure of the thumb the "S" curve is enlarged, flattened or moved up and down the saw. With a shortened violin bow, deLay strokes the saw in the "flat" of the "S" curve on the side opposite the teeth, producing a soprano-like melodious sound.

"It's an unusual tone, but a clean pure tone," he said.

"I haven't done much in the past years, just kept my mouth shut," deLay said. "But it's become such an oddity, and it's really well accepted."

DeLay says the highlight of his saw-playing career came during two nights last March when he performed with the Oregon Symphony playing the Khachaturian Piano Concerto.

St. Jude's mission still rolling along

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — Gasoline shortages and the leaping cost of living haven't stopped the St. Jude's Express.

This July, the mercy project run by some 25 Albuquerque area volunteers with donated goods will complete seven years of transporting tons of free food, medicine and clothing to remote areas of the Southwest and Mexico where they are most needed.

That's why the Express, which counts a small Cherokee aircraft and a truck as its principal material assets, is named for the patron saint of hopeless cases.

"This year, we have distributed more than 125,000 pounds of clothing, more than 3,000 pounds of food, and more than 3,000 pounds of medicines and medical supplies," Express president Art Eiffert said in a yearend report for 1973.

Dentist gives supplies

Beneficiaries of the mercy missions are mainly Indians and other persons living in poverty and being served by religious missions—both Catholic and Protestant.

Others during the past year have included a young man, paralyzed from the waist down, who was flown by an Express pilot to California for further treatment and rehabilitation. Fifteen priests and ministers got free transportation to their missionary posts the same way.

The work of the Express volunteers hasn't gone unrecognized and the rewards are all channeled to a furtherance of the group's charitable aims.

A Plainview, Tex., dentist—Dr. Kenneth Crum—donated $8,000 worth of office equipment and medical supplies, which were stored at Albuquerque for distribution to clinics in need of the items, said Eiffert, an employe of Sandia Laboratories in Albuquerque.

Costs Increase

When the Express' first truck was demolished in an accident, two Catholic parishes in Albuquerque provided sufficient donations for the purchase of a new truck. Several parochial schools made it possible for the Express to distribute 1,475 school desks in Mexico.

With inflation, Effert said, "our cost of operation has increased, as well as the cost of medicine and the food we buy. Dry milk has doubled at least. And pinto beans—last year we were buying them for $8 a sack, and now they are like $50."

Also, according to Eiffert, with the rise in the cost of living, "our contributions are down a little bit." But there is no thought given to pulling back on the services provided by the Express.

The project has five pilots and about 20 other members, including welfare workers, a Navy commander, a nurse, school teachers and defense industry employes.

Trucks Used

The idea of the St. Jude's Express took shape in 1967 in the remote Sierra Madre Mountains of Mexico at the small village of Sisoguichic.

The aircraft was acquired with money donated by the Raskob Foundation of Delaware, Eiffert said. He said in the early years of the Express, the plane often used remote rural roads on American Indian reservations for landing strips.

However, most goods delivered to the Indians of the Southwest are transported by truck, he said. The plane still serves about 15 missions, but always has safe conditions for landing at regular commercial airports in Mexico. Missioners to whom the goods are delivered meet the St. Jude pilots and pick up their cargos by truck.

Famed painting now in Russia

Armed guards and a squad of police cars met Leonardo da Vinci's masterpiece and escorted it to the museum near the Kremlin where it will be on display.

"Mona Lisa made the trip in very satisfactory conditions and has not suffered from her voyage," said Pierre Kouniam, director of Paris Louvre museum where the painting is normally displayed.

Demos hold edge in 5 of 7 district races

If valley residents follow their political party registration, area Democratic candidates will win most state and federal offices on Nov. 5.

Based on voter registration as of April 11, Democrats outnumber Republicans in the 62nd and 65th Assembly districts, 32nd Senatorial District and the 33rd and 35th congressional districts.

But in several districts where neither major party carries over 50 per cent of the registration, selection of who goes to Sacramento or Washington, D.C., could be decided by those listed under "miscellaneous" or "declined to state."

All the districts which include all or a part of the local valley have new boundaries which were carved out last year during reapportionment proceedings. In some cases, legislators had to switch their offices to new districts.

The districts, candidates, areas represented and voter registration follows:

Registration, Democratic, 56,521, 47.6 per cent; Republican, 54,616, 46 per cent; American Independent, 618, .5 per cent; Peace and Freedom, 391, .3 per cent; miscellaneous, 190, .2 per cent; and declined to state, 6,494, 5.5 per cent. Total, 118,830.

Registration, Democratic, 54,406, 46.2 per cent; Republican, 56,388, 47.9 per cent; American Independent, 602, .5 per cent; Peace and Freedom, 308, .3 per cent; miscellaneous, 363, .3 per cent; and declined to state, 5,700, 4.8 per cent. Total, 117,767.

—65th Assembly: Bill McVittie, Democrat, Upland, Chino city attorney; Peter VanderPoel, Republican, Chino, dairyman and member of Chino school board; William Vogel, American Independent, Ontario, interior designer. Includes Pomona, Chino, Montclair, Upland, Ontario and Cucamonga.

Registration, Democratic, 48,332, 52.8 per cent; Republican, 38,444, 42 per cent; American Independent, 411, .4 per cent; Peace and Freedom, 205, .2 per cent; miscellaneous, 302, .3 per cent; and declined to state, 3,849, 4.2 per cent. Total, 91,543.

32nd Senatorial: Ruben S. Ayala, Democrat, Chino, presently representative of 20th district; John Marcus, Republican, San Bernardino, attorney; Ray Clark, American Independent, San Bernardino. Includes Pomona, Ontario, Montclair, Chino and other San Bernardino County communities.

Registration, Democratic, 105,936, 58.3 per cent; Republican, 65,729, 36.2 per cent; American Independent, 1,030, .6 per cent; Peace and Freedom, 435, .2 per cent; miscellaneous, 470, .3 per cent; and declined to state, 7,969, 4.4 per cent. Total, 181,569.

Voter registration figures were compiled in a "Report of Registration" compiled by the office of Edmund G. Brown Jr., secretary of state.

In a registration breakdown by cities, Chino, Montclair, Ontario, Pomona and San Dimas had more Democrats registered, while in Claremont, La Verne and Upland, the Republicans had the most number.

3rd month over 100,000

OIA passenger totals mount

ONTARIO — For the third consecutive month, the number of passengers passing through Ontario International Airport exceeded the 100,000 mark. And based on last year's figures, the passenger count should continue strong during the remainder of the summer.

This marked a big increase over May 1973, when 93,843 passengers were counted.

"Our best months last year were during the summer," said Al Dubiel, public relations officer. "We had 112,000 passengers during June, 117,00 during July and 126,000 during August."

Last month's passengers included 89,046 on scheduled flights, 11,966 on scheduled commuters, and 61 on non scheduled flights. There were no alternate operations.

This boosted the total number of passengers so far this year to 493,796, a 14 per cent increase over the 431,716 passengers for the same period last year.

The reason for the increase is "probably because a lot more people are becoming aware of our facility," said Dubiel. "And this may be due to the efforts of sales people from the various airlines which use the airport," he added.

Actually, he noted, there is a slight decrease in the number of scheduled flights this year compared to last year.

"We now have 72 scheduled carrier operations per day—36 departures and 36 arrivals. These flights connect Ontario with cities such as Chicago, Denver, Dallas, Portland, Las Vegas, Phoenix and also Northern California."

Popularity of the Chicago flight is noted by United Airlines starting a new service, said Dubiel. This flight will depart at 10:20 a.m., augmenting United's present service which has an 8 a.m. departure.

"United already has a large advance booking on its second Chicago flight, he added.

While the number of passengers increased last month, the number of flight operations was decreased. Officials counted 11,531 operations (landings and takeoffs), down from the 12,059 recorded in May of 1973.

Teachers may get 7% offer in Claremont

CLAREMONT — Schools Supt. R. S. Kirkendall will present to the school board Monday night a proposal for a 7 per cent salary increase for teachers.

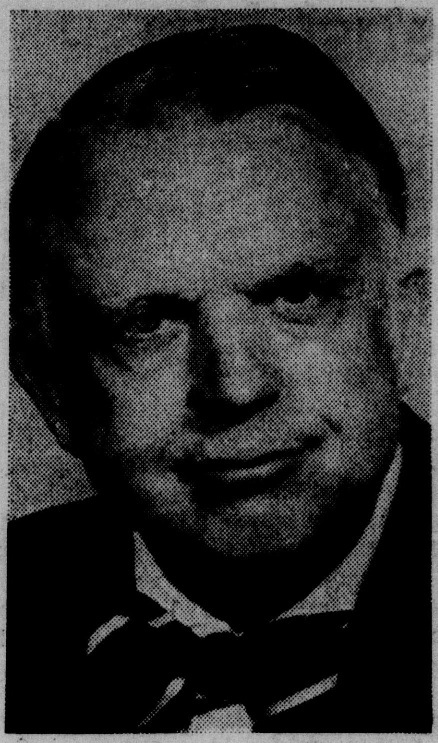
The salary proposal, if approved by the board, would go into effect July 1, and would raise a beginning teacher's salary from $8,141 to $8,710 on the teachers schedule.

Kirkendall said he would support the proposal, put together during a recent meeting with the teachers group, the Certified Employes Council. The CEC has never publicly requested a percentage increase for this coming year.

Also for consideration by the board will be proposed salary increases for certificated supportive services, such as nurses and psychologists; administators, which includes principals and vice-principals; classified employes; and classified supervisors.

The board will discuss increased district contributions to group health insurance programs for employes, and changes policies on different salary schedule classifications.

The board will open sealed bids on the sale of the Garey and Sage school sites, and will receive oral bids on the two parcels.



NORMAN WILLIAMSON JR.

Red Cross unit elects officers

POMONA — The uniqueness of America lies in the vast scope of its volunteer programs, stated Dr. John B. O'Hara, dean of continuing education and educational services, Kellogg West Center, Cal Poly, when he addressed the 57th annual meeting of Pomona Red Cross.

With the outgoing chairman, Vincent F. Martin, presiding, the luncheon at Kellogg West was highlighted by the election of new officers and board members and the honoring of five volunteers.

Norman Williamson Jr. was elected chairman of the board for the 1974-75 term. Other officers named are Judge Clifton L. Allen, vice chairman; Mrs. Fred C. Utech, vice chairman; Mrs. Phillip Stoddard, secretary; and Joseph Corey, treasurer.

Hearing due for Pomona city budget

POMONA — The City Council will hold a public hearing Monday night on the proposed 1974-75 city budget of $18,198,701, which is 7.7 per cent higher than the budget for 1973-74.

The budget as it presently stands is balanced and will not require increases in taxes.

The budget was balanced through the use of more than $1 million in revenue sharing, $20,000 of the $325,000 received from the sale of the old City Hall, $86,000 from a fund set up for a northside library branch, and additional amounts from reserves and other sources.

The $18 million total includes $16,250,601 for the municipal budget and $1,948,100 for the water department.

Of the municipal budget total, 61 per cent would be spent for employe salaries, 22 per cent for operating costs, 13 per cent for personnel overhead, 2 per cent for bond retirement and 2 per cent for capital outlay.

In addition to the budget hearing, some two dozen other items are scheduled for the 8 p.m. meeting.

The council will consider recommendations from a study committee on the possibility of making the Community Redevelopment Agency separate from the City Council.

Fred Sharp, executive director of the agency, is retiring in September and the committee recommends that the council, as the governing body of the agency, enter into an agreement retaining Urban Projects, Inc. as interim executive director for a 90-day period.

According to the agreement, the cost would not exceed $21,000.

Urban Projects would assist "in developing and implementing an overall strategy for reorganizing the agency's structure so as to improve the agency's capability to function efficiently, effectively, and expeditiously in pursuing redevelopment goals and objectives."

The council also will be asked to authorize submittal by Pomona, as lead agency, of a grant application to develop a regional bicycle trail system that would involve the counties of Los Angeles and San Bernardino and six cities in those two counties.

HAND TO MOUTH

"Joy," a 14-day-old mockingbird, is fed by his (or her) surrogate mother, Linda Dalton, who saved the bird after it fell from its nest in her backyard.

A fussy gourmet

Bird rejects mother's food, prefers zucchini from human

POMONA — An unfledged mockingbird has rejected its natural mother in favor of Linda Dalton, her 3-year-old son, James, and her mother, Katherine Wolf.

The hapless bird fell out of its nest in a tree behind Mrs. Dalton's home at 1365 S. San Antonio a week ago and was adopted by the inhabitants of the house. Mrs. Dalton fed the tiny bird a mixture of egg yolk and milk until it showed a preference for zucchini and other vegetables.

The mockingbird's mother has made numerous attempts to bring bugs and other conventional forms of comestibles to her fallen offspring, but the wayward tot has refused vehemently to take food from its mother's beak. Instead it eats from the fingers of Mrs. Dalton, her son and her mother.

After doing a little research at the library, Mrs. Dalton has concluded that her newest charge is approximately 14 days old. It has begun to fly about the house and has chosen a curtain rod as its favorite observation post. The bird appears to be undaunted by the two cats and the two dogs which also occupy the house.

Mrs. Dalton has read that mockinbirds reach maturity at 24 days. She plans, therefore, to give the creature its freedom in about a week. She hopes that it will decide to stay with her rather than take to the wild, but if the bird leaves, Mrs. Dalton believes that it may one day return to her with its future mate.

The mockingbird, Mrs. Dalton says, is extremely docile and seems to have accepted her as its surrogate mother.

Mayor Ray J. Lepire and Councilman Mrs. Georgia Grove, wearing hardhats, inspect site at 2738 Barjud Ave., as bulldozer zeroes in on one of five abandoned houses on the street to which City of Pomona has received title from the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Under a $2,675 contract received from the city, Thomas House Movers will demolish the vacant houses at 2738, 2726, 2722, 2718 and 2712 Barjud. The razed sites will become an open space belt until the city has funds for minimal landscaping. Lepire pointed to project as one way of removing the blight of abandoned housing while at the same time providing open space areas for the city's neighborhoods.

The environment loses a round

Nearly 178 years ago, George Washington left office as the first President of the embryonic United States. If at that time the fledgling nation could have been personified, it might have been depicted as a pink-faced lad with the world at his feet.

When the nation's first chief executive stepped down from office, he did not spew promises of nirvana in the years ahead.

Instead, Washington admonished the 13 disparate states to avoid enormous public debts, entanglement with foreign powers and a mammoth military, to remain essentially an agrarian country in order to feed its masses and preserve natural resources, to guard against an elite cadre of politicians centralizing and seizing power and always to be wary of big business.

It is ironic today to recall these ancient blueprints for the national future. Almost from the moment Washington turned over the presidency to his successor, John Adams, America began to follow an opposite course.

Disregard for Washington's warning on the economy and the environment is particularly relevant today.

One has only to look at our capricious environmental protection laws. And conservationists, who a few years ago had such a good thing going, today are prime targets for brickbats of corporations, bureaucrats, Wall Street's "Monday morning quarterbacks" and even the fellow who pumps gas at the neighborhood station, reasoning being that if these alarmists had not shot their mouths off, we'd still be burning away 34 cents a gallon hi-test.

Undaunted conservationists are nevertheless stepping forward again, but this time as sitting ducks and not messiahs.

Five conservation groups and three states filed suits against the Reserve Mining Company of Minnesota last month to stop its dumping 67,000 tons of industrial waste into Lake Superior every day. The plaintiffs charged the taconite rock discharge produced asbestos-like fibers in the lake which provides drinking water for residents of nearby Duluth.

U.S. District Judge Miles Lord subsequently issued an injunction against Reserve Mining citing their dumping as an "immediate health hazard" and ordered they cease at once.

On appeal, a three-judge federal panel overturned Lord's decision and issued a 70-day stay permitting the company to continue dumping wastes into the lake. The judges did stipulate that Reserve Mining must provide its own land disposal facility as soon as possible.

Reserve Mining officials claim it will require three to five years to complete the land disposal site. The judicial panel acquiesced, stating there was no proof of Lord's contention there is an immediate health hazard. (Reserve Mining has also requested $100 million in state and federal aid to offset the costs of preparing their land disposal.)

After all, the injunction might curtail Reserve Mining's production schedule whereas dumping will only effect anyone in Duluth who drinks water.

So Lake Superior joins that list of mistakes brought about by myopia and indifference.

Ailing isle

Romantic Ireland may not be dead and gone, as Yeats mourned sixty years ago, but it is sure a'hurting today.

Collapse of the coalition government—the five-month old Executive—came as the almost inevitable result of the general strike called by Protestant extremists — a strike that has crippled Northern Ireland with skeletonized power supplies, interrupted water and sewage service, and food shortages.

Creation of the Executive had been hailed as a substantial advance toward eventual realistic compromise and cooperation between the Protestant majority and the Catholic minority, which have been feuding for centuries. Moderates on both sides hoped that the fragile truce it created might give the province an opportunity to take a deep breath, search its collective soul and come up with some sort of brotherly acceptance inherent in the basic tenents of both religions. But ancient hatreds overcame.

What now? Temporary cessation of the strike certainly should help. But no one can tell for sure, of course. Brian Faulkner, who resigned as chief executive of the coalition government is one who won't give up. Asked if he intended to retire from politics he answered in a firm negative.

"I've come through a lot of difficulties in my life," he said, "and I have fought very hard, especially over these last two years, to try to see Northern Ireland set a path of progress and stability."

Dog bites taxpayer

Dog bites are costing the American taxpayer some $400,000 a year and maybe more, says an "urban ecologist."

According to Alan M. Beck of Washington University at St. Louis and author of a study entitled "Ecology of Stray Dogs," an estimated 10,000 persons are bitten each year by dogs. Government investigation of each case costs between $40 and $70.

Why the government should be investigating dog bites, he didn't say.

Nixon's risky Mideast trip

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's stubborn determination to visit the Middle East, in the opinion of experts, has placed him in the greatest physical danger of his White House experience.

He ignored secret intelligence warnings that the Popular Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine, an Arab terrorist ring, might attempt to assassinate him. They are believed to be equipped with shoulder-fired, heat-seeking Soviet missiles, which could knock down the presidential plane or blow up his ground transportation.

The greatest security precautions in history have been taken, therefore, to protect the President as he tours the world's most volatile hotspot.

Most of the Secret Service protection force has been airlifted to the Middle East to provide bodyguards for Nixon and to coordinate the security preparations of the host nations.

Intelligence teams departed a week ahead of the President and fanned out to every city on his itinerary. Secret Service chief Stuart Knight himself flew to the Middle East to direct the operations.

In case of an attack upon the President, a special medical team has been rushed to the Mediterranean and is now standing by on an aircraft carrier.

The five-man team is led by Capt. William J. Fouty, chief of surgery at the Bethesda Naval Hospital, and Dr. Myer Rosenthal, head of the hospital's Intensive Care Unit. Ready to assist them are three crack Navy corpsmen. The carrier was chosen because of its excellent hospital facilities.

The Secret Service considered the President's train trip from Cairo to Alexandria as the most dangerous time. The vulnerability of the train threw the security experts into a near panic. The Egyptians, therefore, stationed security police at every bend in the track along the entire route.

However, intelligence reports suggest that the terrorists, because of their good relations with Egypt and Syria, wouldn't want to embarrass them with an incident. They are more likely to attempt an assassination in Israel or Jordan, the two countries most hated by the Palestinians.

The intelligence reports warn, indeed, that the terrorists will hardly be able to resist attempting a spectacular stunt while the President is in Israel.

White House sources say the President insisted on making the trip, despite the risk, because he is determined to carry out his diplomatic objectives in the Middle East. He told visitors that the danger wouldn't deter him, recalling is experience with a mob that beseiged his vice presidential limousine in Venezuela in 1958.

Perhaps he also remembered that he received a hero's welcome after his return from Venezuela. Some insiders wonder whether he deliberately might now be courting danger in the Middle East to win public sympathy on the eve of the impeachment hearings.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: There is tentative talk inside the White House of extending President Nixon's travels to the Pacific. Congress would look bad trying to impeach the President, advisers feel, while he is traveling around the world in pursuit of peace . . . The President has told friends he sometimes remembered, sometimes forgot that recorders were taping everything said in his office. Those who have listened to the tapes agree he talked sometimes as if he didn't realize he was being bugged, other times as if he were making statements for the hidden microphones. Former Vice-President Spiro Agnew has told friends he'll hold his tongue until President Nixon is out of the White House. But then, said Agnew, he'll have a story to tell . . . The decision to take the patrols along the U.S.-Mexican border away from the Customs Service, Commissioner Vernon Acree complained to us, would cost the taxpayers $1.5 million. The budget managers have ordered the Custom Service to surrender the border authority to the Immigration Service. "They were tripping over each other's sensor devices, and there were even shootouts," a budget official told us. . . .

The Federal Aviation Administration, which licenses pilots and carefully regulates the number of hours they can work, lets the airlines overwork flight attendants on international trips. Some have told us of working 25 hours without a break until they couldn't respond properly to a hijacking or ditching. An FAA spokesman told us there "no justification" for licensing flight attendants or regulating their working hours. . . .

In our June 9 analysis of the American foreign aid program, we listed seven European countries while owe money to the U.S. In this "deadbeat" class we listed, unfortunately, the nation of Finland. It is true that Finland has an outstanding debt of about $8.8 million. But Finnish Ambassador Leo Tuominen has assured us that it is being paid off, with interest, in accordance with the loan agreements. "Finland is known around the world," he told us, "as a country which always pays her debts." . . .

In two columns last month, we revealed a secret White House master plan to use government agencies to generate votes for President Nixon in 1972. Not long afterwards, we appeared with White House aide Fred Malek, who authored the plan, on columnist Irv Kupcinet's television show. Unlike many other White House aides, Malek was able to disagree with us without malice. The transcript shows he finally turned to us and said generously: "The White House may not like you, but we find you are accurate, which is more than we can say for many of your colleagues."

BASH FOR BIBLE: Interior Secretary Roger Morton threw a bash the other night for retiring Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., and Rep. Julia Butler Hansen, D-Wash., at the stately Arlington House.

Outdoor torch lighting, wooden steps to the patio and other frills were installed at the taxpayers' expense. For the Arlington House, a Virginia estate, is run by the National Parks Service.

Food and liquor for the 100 guests was paid from a special Parks Service "discretionary fund," from souvenir sales. The fund has been set aside for promotion, entertainment and the like. An official spokesman said Morton's extravaganza cost $2,000. An unofficial source said it was closer to $18,000.

"What do you mean you feel left out? You get to take the picture, don't you?"

Gossip for today

The world is full of exceptions which, as the saying goes, proves the rule. And among those exceptions I feel sure, we must now include political contributions. As time goes on it becomes increasingly apparent they fail to live up to the Biblical admonition that it is more blessed to give than to receive. Indeed, instead of being more blessed, political contributions have now been ruled not only wicked to give but also wicked to receive — at least in amounts and denominations that can be easily traced.

But then a true statesman doesn't have to stoop to contributions in order to exist. After all, he knows we are going to pay him to take our money from us. What's more, he is going to charge us for handling it. And then, when he gives us a little of it back in the form of subsidies, small business grants, food stamps and increases in Social Security, unemployment relief and welfare aid, he knows we are going to bow down and fawn and smirk and loudly proclaim him a paragon of virtue and a fount of political wisdom — and when the time comes re-elect him for another term

Students get to see their school records

By RICK GOTCHER
P-B Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Using his state's Freedom of Information Act as a guideline, Virginia Attorney General Andrew Miller recently ruled that children are entitled to see school records that have heretofore been kept confidential.

Miller rightly makes the point that children are citizens and should be accorded the privileges that entails. So, with a note from their parents, Virginia students can now entreaty teachers and principals to make available the "straight stuff" about their status as pupils.

In broad terms, Miller's effort is to insure students be given equal footing with each other and with the system. But his rationale fails to take into consideration that varying levels exist for individuals. That failure could have profound implications.

Not too long ago, it was customary for teachers to assign slow readers to themselves, as a unit; intermediate readers and fast readers received the same treatment.

Being relegated to the slow readers created an inherent distaste for reading among many of those in the lower group. It was humiliating to be publicly demeaned because of an inability to keep up with the class.

In some areas the categorizing of pupils continues. But many teachers are aware the system causes undue personal concern for students and they use other means.

The point here is that a pupil's personnel file may well contain private remarks teachers feel are necessary to pass on as a child moves from grade to grade. The significance of those remarks may be enlightening to a teacher — trained and equipped to deal with them — but what of a student? How can a child be expected to cope with a notation that says a learning handicap exists?

That information enables a teacher to proceed properly. But for the student, who has spent formative years dealing with his learning process in the best way possible, it can only be an ego-damaging revelation.

Further, other information contained in student files — I.Q. scores, various test ratings, etc. — may not be up to the level the individual feels is achievable. That kind of knowledge will urge some students to work harder, but it can also kill learning initiative for others who cannot accept the critical implications.

Teachers and administrators are fallible as anyone. Remarks they enter on a student's card may be correct. They may also be wide of the mark.

And, bluntly, children do not have every right their parents or teachers have. Some children are treated as welcome "house guests" and are extended gracious civility. While others are simply tolerated until they are old enough to move on.

It is somewhere between these two extremes — using a proper combination of head and heart — that is best suited to get the job done of rearing kids.

Already, youngsters are into awareness more than any generation has ever been. Much of that "awareness" is a commercial rip-off — movies that exploit; music that promotes drugs and sex; styles that intentionally stultify.

The Virginia attorney general has set a precedent that is liable to crack one of the last solidarities this society has reserved for its children. They enter the adult world soon enough; let them do so thinking they got there the best way they could.

Fire station project on L.V. council agenda

LA VERNE — The City Council will discuss contstruction of its proposed fire station in La Verne Heights when it holds its meeting Monday night.

Mayor Mike Morales said he decided to place the project on the agenda to get a progress report.

The council already has committed some $200,000 to the substation on N. Wheeler Avenue, including purchase of a new $65,000 pumper.

Morales said two possible sites, almost across the street from each other, are under consideration. He said he thought construction will start next year.

Money for the capital outlay is coming from federal revenue sharing funds.

The mayor said any person who wishes to comment on the city's plan to expand fire services to the north will have an opportunity to air his views at the meeting.

Pomonan has role in global weather study

POMONA — Stephen Whitaker of Pomona is one of the 4,000 scientists participating in a weather study described as the world's largest scientific experiment ever undertaken.

Whitaker, 25, will leave Moffitt Field for Dakar, Senegal, on Monday to join other scientists from around the world in a 100-day investigation of global weather. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Whitaker of 1277 Douglass Drive, Pomona.

Whitaker graduated from Ganesha High School in 1966 and entered UC Santa Barbara where he studied physics. In 1971 he joined the Navy and was assigned to the National Oceanography Atmospheric Administration. He spent two summers in Alaskan waters on the USS MacArthur, which was conducting scientific surveys.

In 1973 the Navy sent Whitaker to the Atmospheric Research Center at Boulder, Colo., and assigned him to a specialized U.N. project known as GATE, an acronym for the Global Atmospheric Research Program Atlantic Tropical Experiement. He currently holds the naval rank of lieutenant.

Whitaker's wife, Suzanne, will join him in Africa for the summer. His assignment there will involve photographing clouds for future measurement, analysis and evaluation.

The weather survey includes 72 participating nations, ships from 10 countries and aircraft from five nations. It has been organized by a United Nations agency, the World Meterological Organization, and the project is under ths direction of Dr. Joachim Kuettner of the United States and Dr. Yuri Tarbeev of the Soviet Union. Its costs has been estimated to be $100 million.

Reading plan for youths in Claremont

CLAREMONT — The Claremont Public Library invites all children to its summer reading program, beginning Monday, with the theme—"Time Trek—Travel the Time Line — Share Books All the Way."

Children's Librarian Martha Ainsworth explained that a child may become a member of the program by reading a book and starting a folder which will be kept for him at the library, 1375 N. Indian Hill Blvd.

A star is affixed to the folder for each book a member completes. There is no maximum number of books to read.

"The Main ideas of the program is that a child enjoys what he reads without pressure," Mrs. Ainsworth said.

A large mural depicting the time span from prehistoric life to the space age has been painted for the program and is hanging in the main section of the library. Members may put colored tacks in the mural space representing the era of the book they have read.

Also continuing during the summer will be the library's monthly children's film program the second Saturday of each month in the community room of Frist Federal Savings and Loan Association.

A preschool story hour will be held each Tuesday from 11 to 11:30 a.m. for children 3 to 5 years old.

Expo '74 features 56 exhibitions

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — "The earth does not belong to man, man belongs to the earth."

These words were first spoken by Chief Seattle of the Suquamish tribe in 1854 when the federal government offered to purchase his tribal lands.

The statement is now emblazoned in 20-foot letters across a wall in the U.S. pavilion at Expo '74—this city's world exposition on the environment.

In sharp contrast are the metallic letters which form a passage from the Constitution of the Soviet Union affixed to the side of that nation's sprawling pavilion:

"The land, its mineral wealth, waters, forests, factories ... are state property, that is, belong to the whole people."

Ten foreign and 46 domestic exhibitors have come together to define "environment" in their own way.

Some exhibits touch on environmental themes lightly.

But few visitors go away from Expo '74 without some awareness of the world around them.

Just about all the exhibits on the 100-acre site fall into either of two groups: Those that are simply impressive and those that are impressively simple.

The Soviet Union heads the list in the first group with the most extravagant and flashy pavilion at the fair.

The fairgoer winds his way through 54,000 square feet of flashing lights, cascading water and massive and intricate displays on reforestation, city planning, endangered species, soil erosion and water pollution exhibits.

The mood is visibly different on Canada Island, where the Province of British Columbia shows a seven-panel slide show quietly projecting the beauty of the Canadian province.

The remainder of the small island has been turned into a park, with a children's playground for youngsters of all ages.

A large open-air mall beneath the canopy is sandwiched between an environmental action center and the Imax Theatre, possibly the most memorable fair experience of all.

Projected on the world's tallest indoor screen, measuring just over six stories, the movie is so realistic that those entering the theater are warned to sit near the aisle if they suffer from motion sickness.

The Washington State pavilion, centered around a melodramatic account of a young girl becoming aware of nature, includes a nifty toy called "decisions on the environment."

Visitors are given the opportunity to decide the fate of a small stream in an animated videotape presentation.

Two exhibitors—South Korea and Australia both present cases for comprehensive planning as a solution to the pollution problem.

Iran, Japan and Taiwan all express a similar theme of man's harmony with nature that has lately been overshadowed by industrialization and overpopulation.

The West German exhibit, although small, presents the devastation of strip mining in the brown coal development near Cologne and efforts made at reforestation in the area.

It also details the pollution problems of the Rhine River and instructs the visitor that technology must be brought into the picture when a river's natural regenerative powers are overtaxed by pollution.

In the middle of the exhibition, a simple sculpture presents for all to see a brief warning:

"Man destroys his environment to live. He must restore it now to survive."

Electroux convention cost high

NEW YORK (UPI) — Radio City Music Hall, New York's biggest theater, and the Waldorf-Astoria, its biggest hotel, both will be taken over June 27 through July 1 by Electrolux Co. of Old Greenwich, Conn.

Counting hotel bills and plane fares and overall traveling expenses of those who attend, president Charles McKee will spend half a million dollars on the vacuum cleaner maker's 50th anniversary sales convention.

Nor is such an outlay terribly unusual in American industry. Sales conventions costing upwards of $100,000 are common today.

The Waldorf won't be able to accommodate all of Electrolux's 4,000 or more guests, so the company is reserving space in two nearby hotels. A special train has been engaged to take the Electrolux regiment to Old Greenwich to see the factory and a company trade fair in nearby Stamford.

The fair will include a huge display of early vacuum cleaners and antique cleaning tools. Electrolux will spend $100,000 on this show, which will be sent all over the country as an educational exhibit.

The sales folk will be entertained both in New York and Old Greenwich by musical and other stage stars in a show being put together for Electrolux by Jack Morton Productions, Inc., of New York.

Electrolux is a division of Consolidated Foods Corp. of Chicago, the empire built by Nathan Cummings. Originally a small outfit like most vacuum cleaner makers, it has been built up by Consolidated Foods under McKee's leadership until its sales now run to $250 million a year.

In addition to home vacuum cleaners it sells floor polishers and waxers and industrial floor care machines and supplies. It is one of Consolidated Foods' two big house-to-house marketing companies that make their own products. The other is the Fuller Brush.

Asked just what a company hopes to get out of such an extravaganza, a spokesman for Electrolux explained succinctly: "Enthusiasm! We've been doing this for years. This 50th anniversary show will just be bigger than those of previous years, but the idea is the same. Get everybody together for a few days, show them a good time and reward those who have done exceptionally well with prizes. Experience shows you can't beat that for sales incentive.

He said Electrolux was returning to the Waldorf for the first time in about 15 years. "We used to hold all our sales conventions there until they got too big for the hotel. So, in recent years, we've had several regional shows instead of one big one."

Bill Morton of Morton Productions also said a convention and show could create sales incentive. He cited other recent shows of this kind by Deering Milliken, the textile people, Sony, the Japanese TV and radio producer, and State Farm Mutual Insurance Co. as having been successful in generating enthusiasm in the sales force.

"For a time last winter, my company and other producers of sales convention shows and trade fairs were worried that the gasoline shortage would hurt our business," Morton said. "Some of our customers did delay shows. Now everybody is going ahead full blast and things look rosy unless there's another gasoline shortage."

Morton said several thousand talent agents, convention arrangers and other firms around the country are producing or contributing to such shows. "We hire an awful lot of musical, acting and writing talent, stagehands, electricians and the like," he said. "and the number of shows that cost $100,000 or more would surprise you."

Counties of all sizes

Men's liberation movement increasing

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Family Editor

Over chicken with walnuts in an oriental eatery he told how the Men's Liberation Movement he heads will make life happier for men, women and children.

Farrell, of Arlington, Va., was in town to run a two-day meeting of the National Organization for Women (NOW) Task Force on the Masculine Mystique. He is national coordinator of that group.

The Men's Liberation Movement was spawned at that conference.

The spirit of it all in many ways runs on tracks put down by the Women's Liberation Movement. Lib and let Lib seems the thrust in each movement.

"We want to give every person the freedom to get into any area and pursue it," Farrell said. "Regardless of sex."

Farrell's wife, Ursula, is a mathematician and White House Fellow. She is executive assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury.

When she moved to Virginia from New York, Farrell pulled up his roots—becoming "the victim of a transfer," as many corporation wives refer to themselves when the company says "move."

He lectures on the movement and leads consciousness raising groups—the latter being key to the male liberation movement. He also writes and will tell all about the movement in a book that's to come out in the fall. It's called "The Liberated Man" (Random House).

One trouble is that most men don't realize how bad things are, according to Farrell. That's why the consciousness-raising groups—to make them understand how much better their lives could be if they were truly liberated.

Farrell, who will be getting a Ph.D. from New York University soon, said on the male problem about 300 consciousness-raising groups are functioning in the nation—on the male problem.

Problems of masculinity are considered at the meetings. Men meet alone, women meet alone, then they meet together to discuss the problems. Then they go back to several meetings of the single sex format. The meetings last about four hours and span several months' of weekly sessions.

Farrell said the problems of masculinity include pressures on a boy to recall with joy his first touch of Playboy magazine, his first Little League exposure. Also: such masculine pressures as-boys never cry, boys always are strong, boys and-or men must always be problem solvers.

"Middle-age is when men realize how the male mystique has been hurting them," Farrell said.

"They're on the corporate ladder and know they aren't going to make it to the top in middle-age—or else they may even fall off. They think they've been working all their lives as a way of showing love for their families.

In middle age they find they don't know how to express love to wife or children."

At this stage the men find some time to spend with the children -something they have been promising for many years. They make the time only to find the children are grown and they don't really have the time to spend with a dad who's just discovered them.

Farrell said a society that makes "success objects" out of men keeps the men in the rat race. This success object —win the game, bring home the bacon —role is just as unfair to men as is the sex object role thrust on women.

The destructiveness of the success object role is not so visible. American society values success so much, according to Farrell. Running after success can make a man race all the way to the grave —with never having time to know or be what he wants to be.

"The key to masculine liberation is giving every man a chance to ask —What do I want to do with my life; How do I make a living doing it," Farrell said.

"Today the questions are: How do I make a living and how must I shape myself to make that living." Young women can take a little test to show if they are helping to make success objects out of men. Farrell said:

"If the boy you love wants to be a poet, would you introduce him to your parents and friends with the same pride you'd introduce a young man who wanted to be a doctor or lawyer?"

"If you say yes —you are not making a success object out of men. If you say "no" you are."

NOW's Masculine Mystique Task Force focuses on those problems of masculinity which simultaneously hurt both women and men.

Consider:

The expectations for a man to dominate in conversations prevents a man from listening while it discourages a woman's full participation.

The pressure of society which dictates a dependent role for a woman pressures a him to put his ego on the line to be sexually indirect forces solver. The pressure for her man into being the problem by taking the initiative.

Farrell said:

"The Task Force's belief that the problems of masculinity start in many of the same areas in which the discrimination against women occur, has led to its encouragement of research and actions in the areas considered in the past only concerns of women's lib:

These areas include advertising, labor, reproduction, among others.

In advertising, the Male Mystique Task Force wants "elimination of the 'macho' figure." This would relieve the pressure on men to constantly perform and compete.

In communications, it is the Task Force position that violence and conflict orientation of the press should be minimized to allow space devoted to growth values. The former is part of the masculine mystique.

In labor, the Task Force asks for provisions for paternity leave and split work shifts, allowing men to participate in the lives of their families; elimination of division of work into men's jobs and women's jobs.

In reproduction, the Task Force wants more research on male birth control, reversible vasectomies, re-education of male attitudes toward their sex organs.

Great-grandma gets her high school diploma

Mrs. Moore, mother of six children, grandmother of 22, and great-grandmother of two, has been working 10 years for the high school diploma she received recently at Burlingame High School.

"I remembered I had studied many of these things when I started school in Macon, Miss.," she said.

"But science was the hardest thing I ever studied. We had nothing like that at all when I was a girl.

"School was three miles away and we had to walk."

Chinese love seat

By DOROTHY HAMMOND

QUESTION: I am interested in learning the value of this Chinese love seat with exquisite hand carving. P.G.S.

ANSWER: Your ornately carved seat is an example of Chinese export furniture, fashionable during the late nineteenth century. Today, pieces like yours are selling around the $400-$500 figure.

QUESTION: Because heavy Victorian pieces of furniture are not too popular in our area — and the amount we can spend on furnishings is limited—we have been able to purchase a graet many handsome old pieces very reasonable. One of the most interesting is a metal English coal vase in the shape of a nautilis shell, complete with small matching shovel. This fancy old containers still retains most of its original transfer-decorated gilt, and has been nicely japanned on the front side. We will appreciate anything you can tell us about these objects. M.H.

ANSWER: Coal vases — fancy containers for lump coal —became popular in English homes during the second half of the 19th century. Many were made in the metal and japanning shops of Wolver-catalogs of American jobbers during the 1870s.

QUESTION: Can you tell us what a middle-sized pressed-back rocking chair might be worth? The one that we have is solid oak with nicely turned hampton, the oldest center for iron trade in England. In 1862, Jones Brothers and Company introduced a new type of coal vase made like yours, and because of its unusual shape, rival companies copied this form. Many were exported to America and can be found illustrated in spindles, original seat (caned), and has just been refinished. My crude drawing will give you an idea of the style and size. G.R.

ANSWER: Fancy, refinished, pattern-back oak rockers like yours bring premium prices nowadays, selling from $75-$90.

QUESTION: I have many different items and find it impossible to evaluate most of what I have. I know that antique dealers use a manual which gives an estimated value as per market price for items from coffee grinders, butcher blocks to an old hutch . . . . etc. It would be appreciated if you could tell your readers of at least one good one of general nature that I could purchase or borrow from our local library (however, the library copies we have here are of an antique-nature in themselves.) M.H.L.

ANSWER: The three most popular price guides on the market are: Twelfth Antiques and their current prices by Edwin G. Warman, Warman Publishing Company, 8 Frankhoover Street, Uniontown, Pa. 15401; The Complete Antiques Price List by Ralph & Terry Kovel, Crown Publishers, Inc., New York; and the Antique Trader Price Guide to Antiques (published quarterly), Babka Publishing Company, P.O. Box 1050, Dubuque, Iowa 52001.

QUESTION: I recently purchased a 12-inch pewter plate for under fifty dollars. A very nice clear touch mark indicates that this piece was made by "L.H. Vaughan, Taunton, Mass."

Upon examining this plate more closely, I also found two other marks, one of which reads "L.H. Vaughan, Pewter." Is it true that the more recent pewter is marked in this fashion? How about those pieces marked "Pewter by Wilcox, Puritan Pewter, and [illegible] Pewter? P.F.

ANSWER: When the word "PEWTER" is found on an article, this indicates that the piece was made during the present century.

QUESTION: My question concerns two pieces of beautiful Heisey glass, two mallard ducks or geese — one with wings up and the other with wings down. Both are perfect. Can you tell me their value and if the firm that made them is still in operation. These were purchased new by my mother-in-law many years ago. Mrs. O.C.

WER: The A.H. Heisey Company began operations in [illegible] at Newark, Ohio, and the firm's name and molds were purchased by the Imperial Glass Company of Bellaire, Ohio, in 1958. Today, Heisey figures like yours are selling for about $50 each.

And God... created fathers

By ERMA BOMBECK

And a female angel nearby said, "What kind of Father is that? If you're going to make children so close to the ground, why have you put Fathers up so high? He won't be able to shoot marbles without kneeling, tuck a child in bed without bending, or even kiss a child without a lot of stooping."

And God smiled and said, "Yes, but if I make him child-size, who would children have to look up to?"

And when God made a Father's hands, they were large and sinewy.

And the angel shook her head sadly and said, "Do you know what you're doing? Large hands are clumsy. They can't manage diaper pins, small buttons, rubber bands on pony tails or even remove splinters caused by baseball bats."

And God smiled and said, "I know, but they're large enough to hold everything a small boy empties from his pockets at the end of a day . . . yet small enough to cup a child's face in his hands."

And then God molded long, slim legs and broad shoulders.

And the angel nearly had a heart attack. "Boy, this is the end of the week, all right," she clucked. "Do you realize you just made a Father without a lap? How is he going to pull a child close to him wihtout the kid falling between his legs?"

And God smiled and said, "A Mother needs a lap. A Father needs strong shoulders to pull a sled, balance a boy on a bicycle, or hold a sleepy head on the way home from the circus."

God was in the middle of creating two of the largest feet anyone had ever seen when the angel could contain herself no longer. "That's not fair. Do you honestly think those large boats are going to dig out of bed early in the morning when the baby cries? Or walk through a small birthday party without crushing at least three of the guests?"

And God smiled and said, "They'll work. You'll see. They'll support a small child who wants to 'ride a horse to Banbury Cross,' or scare off mice at the summer cabin, or display shoes that will be a challenge to fill."

God worked throughout the night, giving the Father few words, but a firm, authoritative voice; eyes that saw everything, but remained calm and tolerant.

Finally, almost as an afterthought, He added — tears. Then He turned to the angel and said, "Now, are you satisfied that he can love as much as a Mother?"

The angel shuteth up.

Gov. Evans urges amnesty for Nixon over Watergate

SEATTLE (UPI) — Republican Gov. Dan Evans of Washington urged Americans recently to join together and end the Weatergate affair by granting amnesty to President Nixon.

Evans, immediate past president of the National Governor's Conference, told a banquet meeting of the National Council of Christians and Jews that amnesty would end the turmoil for most Americans who he said are unsure about the president's culpability in Watergate.

He said the nation is headed down a road "with three perilous forks: resignation, which would leave millions more uncertain about the truth; impeachment, which would cause increasing turmoil and increasingly dismay among citizens; and acquittal, perhaps the least disruptive but not acceptable to many today who believe passionately in the President's guilt."

Evans said his plea for amnesty was not for "a man or even an office, but for a country and its people." He called for a joining of hands in a new political start free of the conflict and turmoil of Watergate.

He said he was prompted to suggest the alternative of amnesty when he noticed in the daily newapapers "niggling articles speculating on the intracacies of the Watergate affair" in the same edition with headlines about "an unprecedented reception for an American president" in Egypt.

He said the two views of Nixon were "a Jekyll and Hyde view of the President, totally without parallel in this nation's history."

"The cheers were for a nation and its people, as well as for the man," Evans said.

First office baby at Ms. proves boon to employes

NEW YORK (UPI) — When she was three months pregnant and job-hunting, Phyllis Langer felt most uneasy during interviews when asked:

"You're not going to have children, are you?"

Or, when asked:

"You don't have any children, do you?"

She heard of an opening at MS. Magazine, the publication spawned by the women's liberation movement by, among others, Gloria Steinem.

"I called," Mrs. Langer said in an interview. "And I said at once—I am pregnant. I hear you have a job opening."

Mrs. Langer, expectant mother, got the job on the staff of MS. Magazine. In August of '73, little Alix was born. She has become the first MS. Office Baby.

"I have been taking Alix to my office at MS. Magazine since she was five weeks old," Mrs. Langer said. "This has allowed me to see her grow and be with her during all those marvelous firsts—first smile, first word, first crawl—while also continuing to work in a job that is important to my feeling of independence."

Mrs. Langer said it is very important to she and Alix's father, Arnold, that they spend as much time with her as possible.

"We share the responsibility of her care at home and I find it important to integrate her into my work life."

What has happened at the office with Alix there is something of an old-fashioned nature. As Mrs. Langer put it:

"We no longer have large family networks and community ties in which children once were able to grow and develop within a more supportive and natural atmosphere.

"In our society, children often are the 'exclusive property' of two parents. But Alix is fortunate because she has an entended family at MS.—42 mothers and four fathers.

"It allows her to come in contact with people who love her, play with her, and help her to learn what people and the world are really like."

In the extended family of old —three generations living within earshot of one another— many hands helped to raise the babies and to spread work as well as joy. Mothers of that era weren't so prone to hang by the fingernails over being all alone. And fathers felt less trapped. Burdens could be shared.

Mrs. Langer said Alix's father has taken her with him to appointments associated with his work. As a result she has also made friends in the travel business.

Alix goes to the office three days a week. The other two working days a sitter comes in. Mrs. Langer has a set of the baby's gear in the office—food, case of pampers, other things. The baby, now nine months, sleeps in her stroller which makes into a bed.

Having Alix at MS. has allowed many of the staff members, for the first time, to have an ongoing relationship with an infant.

Some are taking new looks at motherhood.

"They are participating in all the ups and downs—with diaper changing, the feeding, the crying, the joys of her breakthroughs," Mrs. Langer said.

MS. Magazine is expanding its quarters and if the policy of office babies continues, who knows, there may be a playroom for the little ones.

Patricia Carbine, publisher of MS. Magazine, talking about the office baby, said:

"Ever since Alix came to MS., I've stopped worrying about how to get enough light and sun into our busy lives.

Right on, little Alix!

Computers used to find campsites

NEW YORK (UPI) — Computers are coming to the rescue of summer vacation campers who are finding overnight sites in popular state parks increasingly difficult to find.

A computerized campsite reservation system, devised by Ticketron, was pioneered successfully in California in 1971 and was extended to Virginia the following year. Since then, Florida, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania have joined the system which may eventually become nationwide.

The service is available in 1,000 department stores, shopping centers and banks. Computers have information on the space inventory at every campsite, issue reservations for place and time desired, or provide information on alternate camping areas if the preferred site is filled up.

The system eliminates the slow process of making reservations by mail or the risky business of finding locations by chance. Guaranteed reservations also will save gallons of precious gasoline and dollars because campers will no longer have to go from park to park looking for space.

"Campsite reservations were a logical extension of the theater-sports-family show concept which has made computerized tickets a nationwide concept in only six years," said William Schmitt, president of Ticketron. "We envision the day in the not too distant future when the vacationer can go coast-to-coast with every night's campsite assured in advance by computerized ticketing."

Death toll drops

The National Safety Council reports the nation's accident death toll dropped 1 per cent in 1973 and gives part of the credit to the gasoline shortage.

Watson overtakes Arnie

Palmer falls three behind in U.S. Open

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (UPI) — Tom Watson, who was five years old when Arnold Palmer won his first pro tournament, birdied three of the last six holes Saturday to vault past Palmer and take the third round lead in the U.S. Open.

The 24-year-old Watson, only in his third year on the tour, escaped near-disaster with a bogey on the final hole to shoot a one-under-par 69 for a 54-hole total of 213.

His performance was only the sixth sub-par round in this tournament—one of the highest scoring Opens in recent years— and left him with a one-shot lead over Hale Irwin, who had a 71 Saturday.

Three other men who shared the second round lead with Irwin —Palmer, Gary Player and Ray Floyd —drifted back and when the day was over, only the 44-year-old Palmer could still be said to have a chance at the title.

Palmer started the day with a brief charge reminiscent of old but then encountered more of the problems that have been dogging him in recent years, bogeying the final two holes. He was alone in third place at 72-216.

Jim Colbert, Bert Yancey and Frank Beard were two strokes further back at 218.

Watson, a frequent challenger in the last year and a half but still looking for his first professional victory, said before he went out that he felt he — like Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino before him —was capable of winning the Open for his first pro victory.

"I've been in this position before," Watson said. "This time I hope to break through."

"I think I've learned from my failures. Of course the U.S. Open has more pressure than any of the other tournaments. It's the best tournament and the toughest —it has more pressure that the others."

Watson began the day a stroke behind the leaders and parred his way around until the tough ninth hole, where he missed a three-foot putt and made a bogey.

But he got that shot back at 13, a 212-yard par-3, where he ran in a 28-foot birdie putt. At both 16 and 17—exceptionally tough and long par-4s—Watson belted his iron approach shots to within 10 feet of the cup and sank both putts for birdies.

With Palmer and Player in the group directly behind him, and their huge gallery closing in, Watson hit his second shot at the 18th hole into a thicket of tall rough at the right side of the green.

He wedged over the green and into a bunker from there, but hit a superb sand trap close to the hole and made the pressure-packed putt for a bogey.

Player, the Masters champion who openly was talking about a Grand Slam sweep this year, found nine bunkers on the first 14 holes, finished with a back-nine 41 in a round of 77 and was at 220, seven strokes behind Watson.

Floyd, a non-winner since his triumph in the 1969 PGA championship, bogeyed the first four holes and ballooned to 78-221. He was tied at that figure with British Open champion Tom Weiskopf, who had 72 Saturday.

Hubert Green and Lanny Wadkins both were at 224 and Jack Nicklaus, defending champion Johnny Miller and Jerry Heard had 225 totals.

Palmer, the aging hero of millions, birdied two of the first four holes and assumed an early two-stroke lead on the field that sent visions of a "charge" dancing through his Army.

It was shortlived.

He began having trouble with his driving, hitting so far left at No. 5 that he had to play down an adjoining fairway; going over the green at the eighth hole and again using another fairway at nine when he hit far to the right.

All three holes were bogeys.

Then, Palmer parred seven in a row before finding a bunker at 17 and missing the green at 18 for a fair of closing bogeys.

"I finished poorly," said Palmer, who came here in the worst slump of his career — three successive missed cuts — but now has been a challenger in the Open three years in a row.

"I had some bad tee shots and some bad irons," he added. "You just can't do that around here."

Bill Singer resting after surgery for back injury

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — California Angels pitcher Bill Singer underwent surgery Friday for repair of a ruptured lumbar disc and his doctor said the operation had been successful.

Singer, who has a record of 7-4 for the season, will be out at least two months.

Dr. Michael Sukoff, who performed the surgery at St. Joseph Hospital in Orange, Calif., said he had removed a piece of tissue three and one-half inches in diameter.

Singer was reported resting comfortably and expected to be in the hospital for about a week.

A club spokesman said that while it was hoped Singer would be pitching again by late August there was a possibility he would be out for the year.

Dalton sells Rudy May as Angels fall

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

ANAHEIM — The big trade everybody has been waiting for from the Angels didn't happen Saturday night.

General Manager Harry Dalton was able to complete one transaction during the 5-3 loss to the Boston Red Sox but it wasn't of the magnitude of a superstar like Frank Robinson leaving.

"I had to sell Rudy to pay for our phone bill," Dalton joked to the writers in referring to his many hours on the telephone trying to get some help for his sagging ball club.

"Seriously, we made this deal as much for Rudy as for the club," Dalton continued. "He has asked us to trade him if he wesn't going to pitch here. This deal should help his confidence and enthusiasm."

May, who was the senior member of the Angels in a career dating back to 1965, has been struggling this season with an 0-1 record with a 7.09 earned run average.

"I got what I wanted," May said in the locker room. "That's what counts. At least I hope I get a chance to pitch for the Yankees."

The Angels pounded out 14 hits against Boston pitchers Bill Lee and Deigo Segui but stranded 12 runners in a futile waste of opportunities.

The Cap Night crowd of 26,401 showed their emotions in the ninth inning when they lustily booed Robinson when he struck out.

Actually, the Angels only scored one of their runs with a hit when Mickey Rivers beat out an infield single in the eighth inning to score Bob Oliver. The other Halo tallies came on Segui's wild pitch in the sixth and an error by Boston second baseman Rick Burleson in the eighth.

Meanwhile, the Red Sox belted ten hits to score all five runs against Angel starter Bill Stoneman (1-5).

Carl Yastremski led the Bosox attack by driving in three runs with two clutch singles. Catcher Carleton Fisk chipped in with two singles and a double while first baseman Cecil Cooper, who struck out six times in Friday's marathon game against Nolan Ryan, redeemed himself with three singles plus a double.

First baseman John Doherty led the Angels with four hits, including a double in the sixth inning.

ANGEL ANGLES — Dick Lange (2-2) will face Reggie Cleveland (4-5) in today's 2 p.m. finale of the weekend series. The New York Yankees close the brief homestand with games here Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights. Monday's will be a Family Night attraction, with all seats on the view level priced at $1. Ken Jones, a lefthanded pitcher at Azusa-Pacific College, signed an Angel contract Saturday as a free agent. He will report to the Angels' Class A farm club at Idaho Falls in the Pioneer League.

Koosman baffles Dodger hitters

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

Despite the prepondence of righthanded hitters on the club, and a 8-2 record against portsiders at home, the Dodgers are now only 5-4 against southpaws away from Los Angeles.

Jerry Koosman (6-4) is the latest to trouble L.A. bats. Koosman put the Dodgers down easily, 4-1, on just seven hits Saturday afternoon at Shea Stadium, his first victory since May 25.

The two hits that accounted for the only Dodger run were strictly of the lucky variety. The Dodgers hit some balls well, but all at somebody. In fact, the outs were more impressive than any of the hits, except for a fourth-inning double by Steve Garvey.

Unfortunately, Garvey's hit came after two were out, and he was left stranded when Joe Furguson grounded out. Furgy continued to have his difficulties at the plate Saturday.

In four at bats, Furguson had one hit. That has been his only hit in eight at bats in two games here. Including the single, Furguson has hit the ball out of the infield only twice in two games. He has struck out twice and hit into a doubleplay.

The Dodgers left seven runners on base Saturday, and have stranded 17 in the two games here. Inability to hit with men in scoring position has caused most of the recent Dodger woes.

"I think a lot of our hitters, after getting a home run or two, try to hit the ball out of the park every time," he said. "Koosman's curveball was about two inches off the ground and everybody was trying to hit it out.

"I think the home run is a nice tool," the Dodger manager continued, "and we've made good use of it. But I think we'll hit more if we quit trying to hit the ball out of the park."

Saturday's loss had little effect on Alston. When a scribe asked him if he was concerned that his team had lost four of its last five games, he simply grinned and replied, "We'll be out there again tomorrow."

"I can't do anything to change today's loss, and I don't concern myself with anything I can't do something about. But I am concerned that our hitting might get worse before it gets much better."

Starter and loser Doug Rau (5-2) gave up six hits and all four Met runs in four and one-third innings before giving way to Charlie Hough.

"Rau didn't look like he had his good stuff, even when he was warming up," observed Alston.

Two check-swing hits accounted for the only Dodger run. It came in the first inning.

Dave Lopes knocked a double over first base while attempting to check his swing. Bill Russell pulled back on his bat but still hit a line single to left, driving in Lopes.

That brought Alston out of the dugout, Rau out of the game, and Hough out of the bullpen.

It also brought a question from the Mets' manager Yogi Berra. Berra wondered if the oversized mitt the Dodger catchers use to catch Hough's knuckler was within the legal size limit proscribed by baseball law.

Play was halted while the umpires had the glove measured. It was found to be within the legal limits. When play resumed, Hough restored order quickly by inducing Theodore to ground into a fast Russell-to-Lopes-Garvey double play.

DODGER DATA — Andy Messersmith (6-2) takes on Tom Seaver (3-5) in today's series finale (11:15 p.m. PDT on Channell 11.). Seaver has given up 15 homers in 107 innings to date and has a 3.62 ERA.

Irwin wouldn't trade sports

BY MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Eritor

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (UPI) — Hale Irwin, only one stroke off the U.S. Open lead, was an exceptionally good defensive back for Colorado and when somebody asked him whether he's sorry now he didn't take a shot at pro football, with all that money being thrown around, he just laughed.

"Never," said Irwin, who twice made All Big Eight and was regarded even better than teammate Dick Anderson, subsequently signed by the Miami Dolphins.

"Look at me!"

Irwin took his hands out of his lap and spread them wide apart to show more of his not quite Mr. America 167-pound frame.

"You mean you don't think you could've made it in pro football?" his questioner kept pumping him.

"I didn't say that," Irwin came right back. "But I don't think I could've made it there the way I have here."

Hale Irwin hasn't done badly at all "here." He has won $96,936 so far this year, good for eighth place on the money winnings list, and he's doing fine here at the U.S. Open where he had a 71 Saturday that left him only one shot behind Tom Watson.

If he should happen to win this thing tomorrow, he has some plans.

"I might fly home...without an airplane," he says in that dry dead-pan style of his.

Home for Hale Irwin is St. Louis. Home right now is 18 more holes, the final 18 he needs Sunday to nail down his first major tournament. Since joining the tour six years ago, he has been a winner twice, both times at the Heritage Classic, once in 1971 and again last year.

"It's safe to say I'm not a household word," he says about his accomplishments up to now. "I'm not an Arnold Palmer or a Jack Nicklaus, so that when my name is brought up, people say, 'oh, yeah, I know him!"

Irwin, who was 15 pounds heavier when he played football at Colorado, is the phlegmatic type, the kind who doesn't get excited too easily.

Trojans do it again in Omaha

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Southern California Saturday night defeated Miami (Fla.) 7-3 to win its fifth consecutive College World Series title and its 10th championship since the NCAA series was inaugurated 28 years ago.

The Trojans, (50-20), who entered the Series with the poorest won-loss average in the eight-team field, jumped on Miami, the nation's NCAA co-leader with Texas, with a three-run outburst in the second inning. They were never in serious trouble thereafter.

George Milke claimed the victory in relief for Southern California to win his third Series victory. Milke earned the most valuable player award. He came in to relieve starter John Racanelli in the fifth inning and pitched five innings of two-hit ball, allowing only two unearned runs in the seventh inning.

The loss for Miami (51-11) continued the frustration of eastern teams in the NCAA series. The Hurricanes were the first eastern team in the finals since 1957. No eastern team has won the Series since Wake Forest downed Western Michigan 7-6 in 1955.

Southern Cal scored three runs, two of them unearned, off losing pitcher Stan Jakubowski in the top half of the second inning. Bobby Mitchell reached base on an infield single and Ken Huizenga followed with a single when Miami leftfielder Kim Cesiete was fooled by a deceptive wind and misjudged his fly ball. Freshman first baseman Mark Carpenter drove Mitchell home with a single to left.

Both Carpenter and Huisenga advanced on a passed ball and scored when Creighton Tevlin grounded to Miami first baseman Orlando Gonzalez, who lobbed the ball too high to Jakubowski, who was covering the base.

Rob Adolph provided the margin of victory for the Trojans when he tagged Jakubowski for a two-run homer in the sixth inning. The ball went out of left centerfield at the 370-foot mark.

The Trojans then capped their scoring with two more runs in the seventh on singles by Marvin Cobb, All-America third baseman Rich Dauer, and catcher Ed Putman.

Jakubowski, who was seeking his third College World Series victory, worked seven innings and gave up seven runs, only three of them earned. He struck out seven while allowing 10 hits.

Miami scored a run in the fourth inning when Manny Trujillo singled up the middle, advanced on a passed ball, and scored on Ron Scott's sacrifice fly.

Miami scored two more unearned runs off Milke in the seventh inning when Rick D'Innocenzio walked and advanced to third on shortstop Marvin Cobb's throwing error. He scored on an infield out and Gonzalez then drove in Kim Siete with a single.

Gonzalez, the Miami first baseman, set an NCAA stolen base record when he stole his 62nd base of the season in the seventh inning. Three other NCAA records were broken earlier by Dauer, a draft choice of the Baltimore Orioles.

Tevlin and Adolph led the Trojans with two hits each as they outhit Miami 11-6. The Trojans had been outhit by their opponents in their last two ball games and had lost to Miami 7-3 in their first encounter Wednesday.

Action picks up in World Cup play

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI)—The world soccer cup games crackled into life for the first time Saturday with 11 goals in four matches and a nasty fright for second choice Italy.

Poland shook Argentina with two goals in the first eight minutes and then held on to win 3-2 in Group Four in Stuttgart while in Munich Italy, playing in the same group, found itself 1-0 down to Haiti in the 46th minute before recovering with goals by Gianni Rivera, Romeo Benetti and substitute Pietro Anastasi to win 3-1.

Holland's superstar Johan Cruyff in a Group Three game in Hannover led a 2-0 shredding of Uruguay which had center back Montero Castillo sent off in the 62nd minute for arguing with Hungarian referee Karoly Palotai.

With all 16 countries having now played one game each, South American teams have yet to win a match and have the dubious distinction of accounting for two expelled players in two days. Chilean forward Carlos Caszely today received a one-match ban from FIFA for being sent off against West Germany Friday.

Poland, which eliminated England in the qualifying round, tore apart the Argentinian defense in the first half of its see-saw match before 50,000 in Stuttgart's Neckar stadium. Grezgorz Lato tapped the first goal in after goalie Daniel Carneval collided with defender Enrique Wolff going for a corner and dropped the ball in the fifth minute. Andrej Szarmach stunned the Argentines three minutes later by hammering a 15-yard shot past the advancing Carnevalli.

Ramon Heredia pulled one back in the 60th minute and Carlos Babington scrambled a second in a goalmouth melee seven minutes later but the Poles hung on grimly to win.

Italy's 13-match golden spell was broken in its 1,142nd minute by the man who predicted he would on the eve of the match—Haitian center forward Emanuel Sanon. Haiti had the glory of leading for six minutes before Italy fought back with three goals, the specter of its 1966 defeat to North Korea looming large.

USD's Rae wins college net title

IRVINE, Calif. (UPI) — Second-seeded Andy Rae of the University of San Diego beat top-seeded Dan Lambert of Cal Poly San Luis Obispo 6-4, 6-4 for the NCAA Division II singles tennis title Saturday and then combined with Russell Watts to capture the doubles crown.

Lambert finished second in the singles competition for the third straight year.

The Rae-Watts team, seeded first, defeated second-seeded Glen Cripe and Scott Carnahan of UC Irvine 7-6, 6-4 in the doubles final.

USD picked up the team title with 25 points while host UC Irvine, winner of four straight championships, was second with 20. San Diego clinched its first-ever NCAA title Friday.

Jr. Tourney competition

The team of Raymond Linares and Anthony Parales captured the 7-10 year-old division with a best ball score of 32. In the 11-12 age bracket, the duo of Jerry Douthill and Lance Spangler took top honors with a 81 for 18 holes.

Jeff Keenan and Frank Miller teamed to win the 13-14 year-olds division with a 65, beating out the team of Frank Parales and Chris Stout in a playoff. The 15-17 group was copped by the twosome of Gary Calios and Allen Hoover with a 65.

Miss Post's 71 leads LPGA Open

MEDINA, Ohio (UPI) — Sandra Post, battling the wind and rain, fired a one-under par 71 Saturday for a 36-hole score of 143 and a one-stroke lead at the end of two rounds of the $40,000 Lawson's LPGA Open Golf Tournament.

The Canadian-born Miss Post, now playing out of Boyton Beach, Fla., started the day three shots off the pace of first-round leader Sue Roberts, who had her troubles with the elements as did many of the other players.

One shot behind Miss Post at 144 was Gloria Ehret, who had one of six 73's shot during the second round, and another stroke back was Pam Barnett who had a 74 Saturday.

Miss Roberts, who had a first-round 69, skied to a five over par 77 Saturday and a two-round score of 146, the same as Joanne Carner who had a 76 in the second round.

The tournament was halted for one-hour and 25 minutes when a thunderstorm struck the 6,142-yard par-72 Weymouth Valley Country Club course. At the same time, there were still nine threesomes on the course.

Miss Post, who was just leaving the 16th green when play was suspended, parred the 17th then ran in a 30-foot birdie putt on the 18th after the long wait.

"It was the longest putt I've made in quite awhile," said the 25-year-old blonde. She had three birdies and a pair of bogeys in a round of 35-36.

Most of the leaders played steadily for the first six holes, then, one by one, began to run into trouble.

Miss Roberts, who had escaped a bogey in her round of 69 on Friday, suffered her first bogey of the round when she hit over the seventh green, chipped back long and missed a seven-foot putt. She also bogeyed the ninth when she three-putted and made the turn in two-over 37.

Mrs. Carner started the day with a birdie on the first hole, but bogeyed the second when she three-putted. She also had three-putt bogeys on the 12th and 15th holes.

"It's funny," said Mrs. Carner, "yesteriday I drove terribly and putted good. Today, I drove it good and couldn't kink it into the hole. I think I'll go back to driving it terribly."

The 76 was the worst score in "quite a while" for Mrs. Carner, who has won three of the last four LPGA tour events.

While Mrs. Carner said she was bothered by the gusty winds, which buffeted the course, Miss Post, who was surprised to be the leader and left the course for her hotel before the last group finished, said it didn't effect her play too much.

"When you concentrate you can block it (the wind) out of your mind," she said. "But it never did really help you and it got a little scary out there with the thunder and lightning."

Five shots off the pace at 148 were Marie Astrologes, Ecko Nakamura and Jane Blalock. Another stroke back at 149 were Betty Burfeindt, Kathy McMullen and Sandra Palmer.

Murle Breer, who had a one-under 71 Friday, ballooned to an 83 in Saturday's second round and Lenore Beserra, who also had a 71 Friday, come in with a 79.

The field was cut to the low 60s and ties with 61 golfers teeing up for the final round. It took a score of 162 to make the cut.

Matras gain Le Mans lead

LE MANS, France (UPI) — Four French Matra-Simca sports cars sped to the lead in the opening hours of the 42nd Le Mans 24 hour endurance race.

The Matras, running smoothly, averaged 132 m.p.h. around the 8.46 mile circuit.

After the 10th lap, the Matras had lapped every car in the starting field of 49 but for a lone Gulf-Ford lying in fifth position.

Last year's winner, Henri Pescarolo of France, moved his blue Matra into the early lead with a second Matra driven by France's Jean-Pierre Jarier a few seconds behind.

The two British Gulf-Fords entered, and expected to give powerful Matra their only serious competition, could not keep up with the French cars in the early laps.

The Gulf-Ford driven by Vern Schuppan of Australia lost two vital laps with prolonged pit stops for ignition trouble.

The three-liter Matras gained seven seconds a lap on the other Gulf-Ford, driven by Derek Bell of Britain, in fifth spot.

The first entry to abandon was a Ferrari of the North American Racing team that hit a guardrail on the Mulsanne straightaway. The driver Jean-Pierre Paoli of France was not hurt.

Matra entered the race a strong favorite to win for the third straight year. The strong Alfa Romeo team canceled its participation one week before the race for financial reasons. Matra is currently first in the world constructors championship, with Alfa-Romeo second.

The field was flagged off under sunny skies that soon clouded over. A crowd of 250,000 spectators, less than in recent years, was on hand.

The fastest lap early in the race was turned in by Pescarolo in a Matra. He went around in three minutes 42.7 seconds. He also set the fastest lap time in the trials with a 3:35.8, thus the Matras were not pushing their motors to the limit early in the race.

Miss Musket wins

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) — Carrying top weight of 124 pounds, Miss Musket scored a length victory over Lucky Spell in the $83,550 Hollywood Oaks at Hollywood Park Saturday.

Upset a month ago in the Railbird Stakes, Miss Musket relaid claim to the mythical title of top 3-year-old filly in the country.

Her time for the mile and one-eighth event was 1:47 4-5, just two fifths of a second off the race record.

At the request of owner Aaron Jones, Laffit Pincay rode Miss Mustket for the first time. Pincay reached the 100-victory plateau for the meeting with three triumphs Saturday.

Favored at 3-2 by 35,119 patrons, Miss Musket paid $5, $3.80 and $3. Lucky Spell returned $5.80 and $3.40 while Modus Vivendi, Miss Mukset's conqueror in the Railbird, was third and returned $4.

Miss Musket earned $48,900 for Jones, a lumber magnate from Oregon, and increased her career earnings to $194,965.

Bill Shoemaker rode Miss Musket to her first six wins this year but fell out of favor with Jones after taking himself off Linda's Chief prior to that horse's fatal accident in the Los Angeles Handicap.

Pincay has 26 days left in the 76-day meeting to break his Hollywood Park record of 116 victories set last year.

The $50,000 Will Rogers Handicap will be held at a mile and one-sixteenth on the turf Sunday, matching Agitate, Battery E., Satdust Mel and five other 3-year-olds.

Teacher seeded No. 1

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — UCLA sophomore Brian Teacher was seeded No. 1 Saturday for the 90th annual NCAA tennis championships which begin at University of Southern California Monday.

Michigan's Victor Amaya was seeded second and USC's John Andrews was seeded third.

Teacher defeated Amaya in their only meeting this year and took two out of three matches from Andrews. He split a pair of matches with Alex Mayer of Stanford, last year's champion whip will not be backed to defend his title.

Andrews and teammate Sashi Menon, of India, the No. 7 singles seed, were seeded first in doubles.

Pekarcik in shutout win for Post 30

Pomona Post 30's Larry Pekarcik fired a two-hit shutout as the Gems downed South Pasadena Post 140 4-0 Saturday evening at Whittier Narrows.

The win gives the Gems a perfect 5-0 record in District 18 American Legion play.

In other games, the Rowland Legion squad rolled past West Covina 8-3 and the Walnut Thorobred nine received a 9-0 forfeit victory at the expense of Monrovia.

Pekarcik fanned 11 and walked only one in his shutout victory. Post 30 waited until the seventh inning to break the scoreless deadlock between Pekarcik and Post 140's Mike Southerland.

In that frame the Gems got a solo homer from Tracy Cowger and a two-run shot from Gerard Piccioni to take a 3-0 lead. Mark Lambert's sacrifice fly made it 4-0 in the eighth, and Pekarcik pitched out of a seventh-inning jam to win it.

In the seventh the big righthander from Damien High allowed a basehit and Post 30 committed an error, but Pekarcik settled down to fan three straight South Pasadena batters.

Rowland got a four-hit pitching job from Dave Bourque and backed him with a 12-hit attack in their win over West Covina. Ray Etchebarren had three of those hits as Rowland advanced its District 18 Legion slate to 2-3 with the victory.

Walnut made its Thorobred League record a spotless 5-0 and the Reds now hold a 10-1-1 overall ledger with the Monrovia forfeit.

Dispute triggers mass walkout of CFL players

TORONTO (UPI) — -More than 95 per cent of Canadian Football Leauge veteran players were to officially resign at midnight EDT Saturday, following a breakdown in negotiations for a new two-year contract Saturday afternoon.

The 288 veteran players were supposed to report to preseason training camps beginning Saturday, but 278 of them will not do so, said George Reed, president of the CFL Players' Association. Rookies have already reported.

The players do not have the right to strike, so are using this mass retirement instead, Reed said.

He said the players broke off negotiating because "we were just too far apart on financial questions."

He said negotiations could resume next week, but "it would be foolish to meet just to meet if they (the league) don't have new proposals."

The players are seeking an $11,000-a-year minimum wage; extra money for training camp work, exhibition games, and playoffs; and increased pensions.

Reed said an independent audit of the league's finances released Friday showed that the league could afford to pay the players more than it is offering.

Norm Kimball, general manager of the Edmonton Eskimos and spokesman for the CFL teams, said the audit incorrectly included as income money raised at $100 a plate dinners which went directly to stadium expansion and player development.

Reed said the players plan to stay in shape by holding their own private training sessions and said the players would take part in the June 26 All-Star game even if they are still retired.

Porter's on wrong team

LA VERNE — Cleve Porter will be playing on the wrong team Tuesday night at the first annual Pomona Valley High School All-Star Basketball Game.

He should be playing for the North.

It would be the ideal situation.

"I would have liked to play against Kirk Christ," stated the valley's basketball Player of the Year. "But he's on my team. Most of the guys on the North team I've already played against."

Both Porter, the Most Valuable Player from the San Antonio League, and Christ (pronounced Krist), the Most Valuable Player from the Hacienda League, will be playing on the South squad when Tuesday night rolls around.

And they are two of the main reasons why the South is favored to win the inaugural classic at Claremont High.

Porter somewhat agrees the South is favored.

"Some people are saying we're bigger than the North," stated the 6-foot-6 leaping sensation from Ganesha High, "but that's not really true. We have four tall guys, but all the rest are Earl Wilson's size (5-foot-11). We'll be doing a lot of running and we'll be quick."

But wait a minute! Supposedly the North team has all the quickness.

Porter doesn't agree.

Porter has been a busy guy lately. Holding down a 40-hour a week job, Cleve is also playing Big League baseball, practicing for this All-Star game, and also working out with the CIF All-Stars in preparation for the City All-Stars game — which will be played July 10.

Unfortunately, the All-CIF (Second team) center from Giant country hasn't found much time to work out with the South stars. He arrives for practice just in time to get in about a half-hour of work. But he is putting in three hours a day for three days a week of practice for the CIF-City game, so he's at least staying in shape for the game.

Not only is he doing all that, but there are some people who are hoping to get a share of his time — namely, the Montreal Expos of the major league baseball ranks.

The Expos drafted Porter in the recent baseball draft during the 39th round, and have asked him to compete in the Montreal camp for two months. But Cleve can't find the time for it, even though he gave it some thought.

The Ganesha High graduate recently signed a letter of intent to play for USC next year, and he thinks his chances of making the varsity roster for the Trojans as a freshman are pretty good.

"I think they (the USC coaches) think I have a great chance to make the team," he remarked. "They want a running team, and there wasn't a returnee from last year's Trojan team I couldn't play with."

He also just returned from a tour with a California high school All-Star team in Brazil. While on tour, the California team won the eight-game tournament and suffered only one loss in an exhibition game which sported three Brazilian All-Stars.

Tipoff for Tuesday night's game is scheduled for 8 p.m., with tickets still on sale at the Sportsman in Claremont and at most of the high schools in the valley.

Tickets are priced at $2 for adults and $1.50 for students.

There will be one player missing from the South squad Tuesday night, even though he will be on the roster.

Nogales High's Dean Olson notified game officials that he will be unable to attend practices and the game, since graduation and baseball have kept him too busy.

Post 330 blasts La Punte as Beltran spins shutout

By TIM CLARK
P-B Correspondent

LA VERNE — Ralph Beltran has finally put it all together. And that means completely, everything! Beltran led his LaVerne Post 330 teammates over La Puente by hurling a 13-0 shutout.

Beltran only gave up five singles in his nine frames of work, and gave up only two walks. Known as a fast fader in the late innings, the LaVerne thrower showed no signs of this in the 92-degree weather at LaVerne College.

LaVerne actually won the game in the first inning. LaPuente starter John Vanderwende walked Jim Richards. Richards stole second, as Vanderwende then walked Wally Pitts. H.P. Drake laid down a sacrifice bunt, and reached first safely as Vanderwende could not find the handle. After two strikeouts by Vanderwende, Steve Barnard received the third walk of the inning, driving in Richards for the go-ahead, 1-0 score.

With two outs recorded in the second, Richards again reached first on an error by LaPuente second baseman Mark Richichi. Once again Richards stole second, Pitts was walked again, and was followed by a loop single by Drake, scoring Richards for a 2-0 lead.

Rich Ortega then lined a single to left, loading the bases. Steve Hines, the hero of last Saturday's win over Claremont, lined a long drive to deep center for a triple, driving in Pitts, Drake, and Ortega for a 5-0 lead. Barnard finished the scoring in the inning by scoring Hines with a single to right.

Bruce McNaught started the LaVerne assault in the third by reaching first on an error. McNaught stole second, which was followed by an error by LaPuente right fielder Dave Clark of Jay Lacheur's pop fly. Beltran drove-in McNaught with single up the third base line, making it 7-0.

Art Aragon come in to pitch for the Flyers in the fourth, and quieted the LaVerne team. But he opened the fourth by walking Beltran, and later giving up a single to Pitts. Pinch runner Ranney scored on a basehit by H.P., advancing the score to 8-0.

After a walk to Hines, Barnard singled in Pitts and Drake for his third and fourth RBI's of the day.

Dave Clark came in to pitch for La Puente with his team down 10-0. After walking Richards, he yielded a double to Pitts, scoring Richards for the third time and making it 12-0.

Following Beltran's homer in the eighth, pinch-hitter Bill Bumstead singled to left. He then came home on a single by Dave Maloof for the final tally, 13-0.

LaVerne will travel to Los Altos High today for a rematch with LaPuente at 2 p.m. Coach Dan Drake will send Gary Zakem (2-0) to the mound, while keeping reliever's Ranney and Bumstead warm.

Claremont drops 8-3 decision

By BILL MORRIS
P-B Correspondent

CLAREMONT — Covina Post 207 defeated Claremont Post 78, 8-3 Saturday at Pomona College. Covina took advantage of a throwing error in the third inning to score four runs which were all they needed.

The loss made Claremont's record in American Legion District 18 play 1-4.

The big inning for Covina was the third when, after a fly out to short, John Amaluxen reached first on a throwing error by Claremont third baseman Rich Tullis.

Claremont pitcher Harry Brown then walked Bob Waldusky to put runners on first and second. Jim Wilfong singled to load the bases and bring up Chris Cashen.

Cashen singled to score Amaluxen and Waldusky. Val Primimte hit a double-play ball to Todd Ervin but when he threw it to second baseman Dave Aguilera he dropped it for an error to load the bases.

Brown struck out Dale Adair for the second out of the inning. Covina pitcher Dave Melton hit a single up the middle scoring Wilfong and Cashen. When Primimte rounded third too far, Claremont catcher Lou Caudillo threw to Tullis at third who tagged out Primimte to end the inning.

The big inning for Claremont was the seventh when they rallied for two runs. Rob Haerr got a lead-off single to center. Todd Ervin walked and Chris Tracey singled to load the bases.

Brown singled to score Haerr and make the score 7 to 2. Janusz then hit a ground ball at Covina third baseman Dan Wirth. Wirth, after allowing Ervin to score by holding the ball, stepped on third to force out Tracey for the first out of the inning.

Jim Ayers flied to left-center for the second out of the inning. Caudillo struckout to end the inning.

Claremont loaded the bases in the ninth, but the game ended when centerfielder Amaluxen made a shoe-string catch of Tullis's line drive to short center.

The two teams go at it again today with starting time set for 2:00 pm. The game will be held at Mt. San Antonio College.

Players sue Aztec owner

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two Argentine soccer players sued the Los Angeles Aztecs for $2 million Friday, claiming team owner Jack Gregory broke their contracts by capitalizing on their inability to understand English and then having them arrested as illegal aliens.

Hector Bentron and Miguel Ferrari said the North American Soccer League team agreed to pay their way to Los Angeles, put them up in an apartment and give them each $1,000 a month for six months as salaries.

MSAC girls complete big pool season

WALNUT — Mt. San Antonio College's women's swim team completed an energetic season recently by taking second place in the Southern California swimming championships at East Los Angeles College, and third place in the Swim Relays at Ventura. The team also broke six school swim records, one which had been standing since 1968.

Rose Wilson took three second places, in the 50-yard freestyle, 50-yard butterfly, and 50-yard backstroke, to lead the team in individual performances and gain 51 points toward the team total.

Wilson showed up again nn the medley relay, with Karen Baker and the Stoyanoff sisters to take a 3rd place and 32 team points. Laura Larsen took a 3rd in the 200-yard freestyle. Pam Stoyanoff took a 4th in the 100-yard individual medley, and a 5th in the 50-yard breaststroke. Denise Nance placed 5th in the diving competition.

Pam Stoyanoff, Nancy Koop, Baker and Larsen swam to 6th place in the 200-yard freestyle relay, and Koop took another 7th place in the 200-yard freestyle.

Rose Wilson broke three of the MSAC swim records this year, and figured in a fourth. Wilson swam the 50-yd butterfly in 29.5 breaking the 1968 30-4 record. She also broke the 50-yd freestyle with a 26.4 (old — 28.1), and the 50-yd breaststroke with a 34.8 (old — 35.2). Wilson joined the Stoyanoff sisters and Baker in the 200-yd medley relay for a new record of 2:03.2, over the previous 2:11.5.

Debbie Stoyanoff bested the old 33.3 mark for the 50-yd backstroke with a 32.3. And the freestyle relay team of Koop, Larsen, Baker and Pam Stoyanoff finished in 1:51.9, over the previous record of 1:52.4.

ARLINGTON, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas Rangers Saturday signed two members of the Southwest Conference champion Texas Longhorns —outfielder Terry Pyka and right hand pitcher Bobby Cuellar.

Pyka was the 19th draft choice of the Rangers last week and Cuellar was No. 29. Both players were assigned to the clubs' Sarasota farm team in the Gulf Coast League.

Quarry, Foreman tiff even

NEW YORK (UPI) — Both Joe Frazier and Jerry Quarry want to climb into the ring against heavyweight champion George Foreman.

After their 12-round battle in Madison Square Garden Monday night, only the winner may get that chance. In Las Vegas, odds makers rate the bout even.

For Frazier, who lost his crown to Foreman and then dropped a close but unanimous verdict to Muhammad Ali here in January, a victory over Quarry is vital. Although he stopped the rugged Irishman in seven savage rounds in June of 1969, the one-time heavyweight champion has obviously gone back.

In the January return with Ali, Frazier dominated the middle rounds, slowing Muhammad down with his left. But the power of the punch, once Joe's greatest stock in trade, is diminished. In their great first match in March of 1971, it was Joe's left hand that carried him to the 15-round unanimous decision over Ali. This time, over 12 rounds, he lost.

Frazier's hope is that a clean win over Quarry will bring about a rematch with Foreman —a rematch he says the champion should give him.

"I gave George the title shot," Joe says quietly, "and, as a gentleman, I think George should return the favor and give me a chance to win it back."

Both Frazier and Quarry seem convinced Ali will be no match for Foreman in their title bout in Zaire in September.

For Quarry, his clash with Frazier is the bout which the 29-year-old is certain will be the springboard to a title match for him.

"I was careless and carefree," Quarry says of the years he has wasted. "This is a new me, and when I whip Frazier people will accept me."

Depressed and disgusted with himself, plagued by marital and other personal problems, Quarry was ready to quit the ring after taking a bad beating from Ali in June of 1972. But he got things straightened out, induced the veteran Gil Clancy to take over his career, and since then everything has dropped into place.

"The key fight for me," Quarry says, "was against Ron Lyle. Everyone said Lyle was the coming tiger. Well, they saw the new Quarry that night. I fought the way I should always have fought. I kept my temper, I didn't get careless."

Jerry won the 12-rounder from Lyle decisively. It is the only bout of the six he has had since the Ali disaster in which he failed to knock his man out. Most sensational of the knockouts was the one-punch win over Earnie Shavers.

In his last outing, with the commitment already made to meet Frazier, Jerry got tagged by hammer-hitting Joe Alexander near the end of the first round, crashing down from a wicked left hook.

"The old Quarry might have been finished with that shot," Jerry agrees, "but I knew what was going on. I was in great shape, and I had no trouble putting him away in the second round."

Quarry is certain he's going to win Monday night because "Joe has gone back. The legs are beginning to go. And while I thought Joe had beaten Ali in January—the ref spoiled that fight for Frazier—it still wasn't the same Frazier who was in the ring with me back in 1969. If Joe still had the power, some of the shots he hit Ali with in January would have sent Muhammad kicking."

COMEBACK? — They're saying Joe Frazier is over the hill. He'll try to prove them and Jerry Quarry wrong Monday night in a 12-round heavyweight fight at Madison Square Garden.

Cardinals defend net title at Troy

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Stanford, minus 1973 singles champion Alex Mayer, opens defense of its NCAA tennis title Monday with the Cardinals expected to battle it out with Pacific-8 rivals University of Southern California and UCLA for the national crown.

However, Stanford won the Pac-8 championship this year, beating UCLA 5-4 in the finals. The Cards won four of the six singles matches from the Bruins and finished with a 17-1 record for the season.

A year ago, Stanford won with 33 points followed by USC with 28 and UCLA with 24. Houston and Southern Methodist tied for fourth with 15 points each.

This year's six-day tournament will be played at USC's two-year-old David X. Marks Tennis Stadium. It has attracted 64 teams and 210 players.

USC has a strong one-two threat in returning quarterfinalists John Andrews and Sashi Meonin, who also form the leading college doubles team.

For the Bruins, sophomore Brian Teacher could be the man to replace Mayer as college tennis' No. 1 man. He beat Andrews and Delaney in singles competition in the conference this year.

Foster makes 14th defense of light heavyweight title

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI) — Many people call champion Bob Foster the greatest light heavyweight boxer of all time. He gets another chance to bear that out Monday when he defends his crown for the 14th time.

The foe this time will be Argentina's Jorge Ahumada, a speedy, aggressive and solid puncher who has built an impressive record of late to earn the title shot against Foster.

The championship fight at University Arena will be Foster's third within a year and 14th since he won the title in May of 1968 from the late Dick Tiger of Nigeria. South Africa's Pierre Fourie was the latest unsuccessful aspirant to Foster's title.

Fourie failed last August in Albuquerque and again in December in his hometown of Johannesburg. Each time Foster scored 15-round decisions to defend his 175-pound title.

The champ says he could have named the round each time against Fourie, but stretched the action out because he needed the work.

Foster, an Albuquerque native who doubles as a sergeant on the Bernalillo County sheriff's force, says he could take Ahumada in three or four rounds Monday, but that it could go 14 to 15, especially for the sake of the home crowd.

"I feel good, real good. I'm in great shape," said the 35-year-old champ on the eve of his title defense. "I'm back to my combination shots —the left and the right.

"I was at my best with combination shots —and that's what I'm working on now."

It was that combination, accented by a stinging, lightning-fast left jab, that was most responsible for 42 knockouts in Foster's 57-bout career. He has lost only six fights since turniing professional.

Foster has never lost to a light heavyweight and his only two losses since winning the crown were to heavyweights Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier.

Ahumada of Mendoza, Argentina, has won nine straight fights since coming to the United States in April of 1973. Six of those were by knockouts. His overall record is 40-5-1 with 21 kayoes.

The 29-year-old Ahumada is 5-10 and will be at a distinct height disadvantage againsst the 6-3 ½ Foster.

"My toughest job will be in trying to get inside his (Foster's) reach," Ahumada said. "His arms tend to keep fighters at a distance -and he gets tremendous leverage on his left because of his reach."

To counter that, Ahumada intends to "be aggressive Very aggressive. You have to be to beat Foster."

While conceding that Foster is an excellently-conditioned fighter, Ahumada feels he can counteract that with his speed.

"I hope to use my speed. I think I have an advantage there," he said. "I don't know about matching the hard blows —the knockout punches."

Should Ahumada find a way to counteract Foster's "hard blows," he would be the first light heavyweight to do so and that could bring him the title.

Williams is No. 2, so he'll try harder

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Steve Williams was the No. 1 sprinter in the world last year but he'll be an underdog when he defends his two titles at the National AAU track and field championships next Friday and Saturday.

"I don't mind being No. 2 temporarily," said Williams, a 20-year-old sophomore at San Diego State. "It just makes me work harder.

At Bakersfield, Calif., last June, the lanky Williams won the 100-yard dash in 9.4 and the 220 in 20.4.

In Crockett and Quarrie, Williams will be facing the favorites in this year's 100 and 200-meter dashes. Crockett, an IBM marketing representative from Peoria, Ill., is a two-time AAU 100 champion who became the first man in history to run nine seconds flat in the 100-yard dash.

The 5-foot-7 veteran who runs for Philadelphia's Pioneer Club bettered the world mark of 9.1, which Williams equalled last year, and then came back to nip Williams in 9.2 at Modesto, Calif.

Quarrie, a Jamacian and a former USC star who is running free of injuries this season while competing for the Beverly Hills (Calif.) Striders, also will be a factor at 100 meters but his race is the 200.

Quarrie has run the fastest 220 in the world this year—20.2 in defeating Williams at Modesto. He shares the world 200 record of 19.8 which he set in 1971.

Reggie Jones, a Tennessee freshman who won the 100-yard dash in 9.2 and was second in the 220 at the NCAA meet at Austin, Tex., also is rated a strong threat in the AAU sprints.

Since the meet is being held on UCLA's quick Tartan surface, a world record—or world records—will not surprise anybody, including Williams.

"In any race there's a possibility of a world record," said Williams, "but the factors at UCLA for the nationals will enhance the possibility. The track is very fast, the weather will be ideal, there will be a good crowd and, of course, the competition will be super."

In addition to Crockett and Quarrie, the AAU has attracted three other world record holders—Al Feuerbach, shot put, 71-7; Dwight Stones, high jump, 7-6 ⅝, and Rick Wohlhuter, 800, 1:44.1.

Five-hundred athletes are expected for the two-day competition.

Florida favored: USC a contender

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The 77th annual NCAA golf championships, three years older than the U.S. Open, opens Wednesday with defending champion University of Florida and University of Southern California listed as co-favorites.

In the Aztec Invitational at the Carlton Oaks Country Club here in March, the Trojans finished five shots ahead of the Gators for the team title in a tournament that was billed as an NCAA title preview.

With Ben Crenshaw, the only three-time winner in NCAA golf history, now on the PGA tour, the battle for the individual crown matches, among others, U.S. Amateur champion Craig Stadler of USC and Florida's Gary Koch, runner-up to Crenshaw last year and a two-time Southeast Conference champ.

Stadler's teammates include U.S. Walker Cup member Mark Pfeil. However, Pfeil has been playing as the No. 3 man on the USC team this year behind Stadler and junior Jim Ruziecki.

While Florida has won the NCAA tournament twice (1968 and '73), the Trojans have never won the event.

"Maybe this is the year," said Stan Wood, the 17-year USC coach.

Wake Forest has a young team, including sophomore Jay Haas, Bob Goalby's nephew, and Bob Byman, 1972 U.S. Junior champion, but has to be considered (a top contender.

Also rated threats are perennial powers Houston, Oklahoma State, San Jose State, Arizona State, Brigham Young and Stanford.

Other top individual players in the 72-hole, four-day event are USC's Jon Fiedler, Arizona State's Charles Gibson, Bill Kratzert of Georgia and Mark Lyle of San Jose State. Lyle won the Aztec Invitational title three months ago over the 6,980-yard Carlton Oaks course.

Three valley players sign with San Francisco

POMONA — The San Francisco Giants Friday signed three valley baseball players to professional contracts.

The three—Mt. San Antonio College pitcher Charlie Fallon, a righthander and Cal Poly's John Riddle and Dennie Rogers. Riddle is a left handed pitcher and Rogers plays both the outfield and infield.

The trio will report to the Giants' Casa Grande, Ariz. training complex for a week of practice before moving on to the club's Great Falls Mont. franchise in the class "A" Rookie League.

MSAC baseball coach Art Mazmanian manages the Ex Great Falls team. He pointed out that Fallon was the 22nd MSAC player to sign a professional baseball contract in his six-year tenure at the valley's largest community college.

Tee to cup

Although Florida is expected to repeat as NCAA golf champion when the best teams from all over the country meet for the NCAA tournament this week at San Diego, USC golf coach Stan Wood has other ideas.

In his 19 years as the Trojan coach, Wood's golfers have dominated college play on the West Coact, winning nearly every type of event, including nine of the last 12 Pac-8 championships.

One title has eluded Wood and his troops, however, and that is the NCAA championship.

This year's tournament is hosted by San Dego State and will be played at Carlton Oaks Country Club in San Diege Tuesday through Saturday.

—The tournament is being held in California, which Wood calls a "big psychological edge."

—USC beat No. 1 ranked Florida on the same course in the 54-hole Aztec Invitational in late March.

—The Trojans came out of an April slump by winning three of four tournaments in May and all of their dual matches.

On the year the Trojans won nine of 12 tourneys and compiled a dual match record of 17-5.

Those figuring in the race for NCAA individual honors include the USC trio of Craig Stadler, Mark Pfeil and Jon Fiedler, a Claremont High product.

The top five teams, as ranked by Golf World Magazine going into the tournament are Florida, Wake Forest, Oklahoma State, USC and Brigham Young in that order.

The Trojans set two new tournament records in winning the 54-hole Trojan Invitational at Pomona National by 21 strokes in late May. The team finished a record 20 shots under par, while Fielder set an individual mark with a nine-under-par 204 (69, 67, 68).

With Fielder at the peak of his game, along with the others the Trojans appear to have as good a chance as they've ever had to bring USC its first national championship in golf.

IT WAS A BIG month for Lucille Connors during May. She not only finished second in the Palm Lakes Women's Club ringer tournament, but also shot her first hole-in-one . . . Emily Miller won the tournament and Phyllis Bass was third. . . .Ginny Ferrer was selected the most improved player.

Valley's top coaches pilot all-star teams

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

All-star baseball games always seem to generate a lot of excitement.

And why not? Usually the best coaches are working with the best players from their respective areas.

And the fourth annual Pomona Valley All-star Baseball game to be played Friday at Chino High at 8 p.m. should be no different.

Four of the better coaches in the valley will be working with the areas top 32 ballplayers in the yearly North-South tiff.

The North will be piloted by Upland High's Herb Christian, who directed the Highlanders to the San Antonio League title, and Bonita's Dick Salomon, who guided the Bearcats to the Hacienda championship and the finals of the CIF 2-A playoffs.

The South will be helmed by Chino's Jim Rawls, whose Cowboys finished in fourth place, and Montclair's Tom McFadden, who steered the Cavaliers to a second place tie.

Needless to say the coaches are excited with the talent and competition the game will feature.

"It will certainly be a challenge to see what we can come up with," said Christian. "I think we've got a pretty good group there and we shouldn't have any trouble fielding a team.

"I'm really looking forward to the game," stated the elated Upland skipper." I think it will be a lot of fun. I served as an assistant to the Fontana coach in '72 (when the game was called the San Bernardino County All-star game—which featured an East vs. West matchup). We got beat pretty badly but we had several players sign pro contracts which forced us to juggle the lineup."

"I invented the Pomona Valley game a few years ago but this is the first time I've had the opportunity to coach." said the enthused Cowboy leader. "It's very exciting. Any time you get athletes like this together you see top notch baseball."

While Rawls was tickled to be working with ballplayers of this calibre, he was quick to point out that his team should be the underdog.

"The North would have to be the favorite," stated the game's administrative supervisor. "They have some very fine pitchers in (John) Breaux (Royal Oak), (Larry) Bell (Alta Loma), (Larry) Pekarcik (Damien) and (Steve) Iles (Upland). That Breaux stands about 6-3 and weighs about 190 pounds and throws the ball about 800 miles an hour.

"We'll have to play for the big inning and do a lot of running," continued the Chino baseball-football coach. "This should be one of the better games we've had. And the pitching should be better than it's ever been."

Christian concurred that the North should have the stronger of the two mound corps.

"The South looks weak in pitching," said Christian, who has announced his retirement as Upland's head baseball coach after 11 years. "Bob Salas (Nogales) is outstanding but he can only go three innings. We saw him in the (CIF) playoffs and he's as fast as Pekarcik and may even have a better curve. They only have him and (Ed) Rubidoux (Ontario) as pitchers and they'll probably use (Lance) Parrish (Walnut)."

Even with talent of this nature problems can arise. Of the North's man squad, six are pitchers—although a couple of them play other positions as well. And the rules state every player must see action.

"We'll have a couple of guys out of position from where they're used to playing but it shouldn't be too hard of an adjustment," said Christian. "We'll probably move Todd (Ervin of Claremont) from shortstop to second and (Clyde) Christensen (Royal Oak) may play first base. We have five infielders but only four outfielders. Bell, Iles and Breaux have to putch because as far as I know that's the only position they played this year. I know pitching is all Iles did this year."

Rawls is having problems with players switch positions, only Montclair's Pat Proulx will be in a different role. He played short for the Cavs but will start at second base Friday night.

Rawls is worried about his pitching.

"Salas has already signed so he won't be available for action and Parrish may sign at 2 p.m. today (Friday). I understand they're dangling a lot of money in front of him," said a calm but somewhat preplexed Rawls." If Parrish signs we'll try to pick up Lou Johnson (Nogales) as his replacement and we're trying to get David Bourque from Rowland. Bourque throws hard and could go three innings for us.

While the game's outcome appears to hinge on the pitching, both teams will know more about their fortunes after next Thursday.

The North will practice on the Chino field at 8 p.m. on Wednesday and again at 3 p.m. on Thursday while the South is slated to workout at 4 p.m. and 7:30 p.m., Wednesday and Thursday, respectively.

Tickets for the game will be sold at $1.50 for adults and .75 cents for children under 12.

Tommy John: he knew he could do even better in '74

NEW YORK (UPI) — Los Angeles pitcher Tommy John, coming off a 16-7 season in 1973, his best record in an 11-year major league career, finds himself doing even better in 1974—and he knew all along it would happen.

"Yes, I knew that I would pitch well this year," said the 6-foot-3, 185-pound Dodger lefthander. "But I don't think you can say you'll win a certain number of games. You can go out and pitch on days that your team will score a lot of runs, then have them not score for you the next time.

"The whole last half of last year I threw the ball well, though. I thought I would keep it up this year."

John, who celebrated his 31st birthday May 22, was leading the National League in wins and winning percentage with a 9-1 record by June 12 and had a very respectable 2.67 ERA in 101 innings.

He began the season by capturing his first five starts, giving him 10 straight victories counting from last season. Three of these five victories were shutouts, one more than his 1973 total, including a 1-0 four-hitter against Philadelphia April 25.

After a no-decision game, his only loss and two more outings without a decision, John won four in a row, including another shutout, before pitching a June 9 game without a decision.

In five of his nine triumphs, he completed the full nine innings, one more route-going performance than he achieved last year. Mike Marshall has come in from the bullpen to save John's four other wins.

The Yorba Linda, Calif., resident, a control pitcher throughout his career—he has given up more than 58 walks in only two of his 11 seasons—is continuing his frugality in the free-pass department this year, surrendering only 26 bases-on-balls—an average of one every four innings.

"I rely on the fastball, curve and changeup, but the fastball is the one I use to get the batters out," he said.

"As to my control, some of it is natural ability, but the big thing is confidence in myself. Control is mental as much as physical. If your body is mechanically sound the rest is up to your head.

"I think positively and throw the ball, thinking whatever I throw is the best pitch I could have thrown at the time."

John started pitching in the major leagues with the Cleveland Indians in 1963. He had an undistinguished career in Cleveland, working there for parts of two years. He then was traded to the Chicago White Sox in the winter of 1965 in the same deal with Tommy Agee and Rocky Colavito.

Given a chance to break into the White Sox rotation, John threw effectively but not spectacularly. His first season with Chicago was his best, when he pitched his way to a 14-7 record and an ERA of 3.08. He followed with records of 14-11, 10-13, 10-5-sidelined from August 22, 1968 on, due to a torn ligament in his left shoulder—9-11, 12-17 and 13-16 in 1971.

Following the 1971 season, John was again involved in a controversial trade, sending him to the Dodgers with infielder Steve Huntz for Dick Allen.

Los Angeles was criticized severely for giving up on Allen, but John has proven himself.

In his first season with Los Angeles, John compiled an 11-5 record with a 2.89 ERA, giving up only 40 walks in 189 innings. Last year he gave up only 50 walks in 218 innings.

Don Sutton has been the team's pitching leader for the past three years, winning 17, 19 and 18 games respectively, but this year has not matched John's outstanding record. Sutton won only six of his first 10 decisions.

"I might have acquired some confidence that you get from pitching well after losses. Nine of my wins last year came after Dodger losses. So long as I throw well—and I have thrown well in my last 14 or 15 games—I'll do well."

John has contributed greatly to the Dodgers' runaway lead in the National League West Division.

"A .700 pace (which the Dodgers have maintained or exceeded for much of this season) might be a fast pace to keep up, but we can play this kind of ball all year. If we do keep playing this alert kind of ball we can do very well."

But he sets no personal goals for himself this season.

"I just take the games one at a time. I don't set goals. I just want to win for the team. My goals are more inwardly directed. How well I'll do I don't know.

"No one knows that but the Good Lord."

Crockett may turn to pros

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI) — Ivory Crockett, who recently set the world record of 9 seconds flat in the 100-yard dash, said Friday night that he is negotiating contracts to play professional football and to run track professionally.

"We're working everything out right now, so there aren't too many details. It should be almost a month before we get everything worked out, and then my lawyer and I will make an announcement," Crockett said in a telephone interview.

Rutherford leads voting

NEW YORK (UPI) — Johnny Rutherford's two straight victories in the Indianapolis 500 and the Rex Mays Classic earned the Fort Worth, Texas, veteran top recognition in second phase balloting for the Martini & Bossi Driver of the Year award.

Rutherford collected 132 points in voting by a panel of auto racing writers. He was impressivee in winning Indy after a 25th place start and showed his auto artistry in Milwaukee when he recovered from a 360-degree eighth lap spinout to win his second USAC championship race of the year.

Two stock car specialists finished two points apart in the battle for second place as David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C., drew 71 points and Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S.C. had 69. Yarborough was named winner of the first phase last March after winning three NASCAR races.

A.J. Foyt of Houston was fourth in the June balloting with 30 points, Bobby Unser of Albuquerque, N.M. finished fifth with 20 and Brian Redman of England had 12 points for sixth place.

Knicks sign draft choice

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Knicks signed their first draft rookie Friday when they agreed on a two-year contract with 6-9 Rudy Jackson of Hutchinson Junior College.

Jackson, who averaged 23.4 points and 13 rebounds a game at Hutchinson, was the club's second draft pick after the Knicks traded the rights to their opening round choice to Chicago for Howard Porter.

Garr's style drives them up the wall

ATLANTA (UPI) — Ralph Garr's batting style drives baseball purists up the wall.

But how do you go about changing the stance or swing of a man who has the highest career batting average in the major leagues?

"You don't," says Atlanta Braves Manager Eddie Mathews. "There are some people you just don't tamper with. You do them more harm than good. Now, if Ralph wasn't hitting so well, that's another story."

"A lot of people have tried to change me over the years, says Garr, a 28-year-old outfielder now in his seventh major league season. "But it's never done me any good and I've always gone back."

You wonder how he hits the ball at all, least of all as well as he does.

But Garr's career average though the first third of this season ws .325, tops among all active major league players. He was second in the National League in 1971 when he hit .343 (Joe Torre led with .363 and again in 1972 when he hit .325 (Billy Williams led with .333).

He started the week of June 9 hitting .382, tops in the National League and made no secret of his desire to win the title this year.

"You'd think I had nothing to prove, that finishing second two years in a row would convince people that I can hit," says Garr. "But last year, when I hit .299, a lot of people got on me even though I was the only player in the league besides Pete Rose to get 200 hits.

"If I win the batting title, maybe they'll get off my back. I want to hit in the high .300s, if possible. My objective is to beat Rose (the defending NL batting champ). If I do that, I'll be doing my job."

Garr, who uses a 36-inch, 38-ounce bat, says he has used his unorthodox batting style "for as long as I can remember.

"No one started me on it. It was something I did myself. I didn't pattern myself after anyone. My favorites when I was a kid were Willie Mays and Hank Aaron —and they're both righthanders.

"I thought I was somewhat like Billy Williams, but, then, I found out he didn't hit anything like I thought he did.

"Actually, I suppose I started hitting the way I do because, as a small kid, I was a bit afraid of the ball," says Garr. "I've tried to change from time to time, but it has never helped and I always slip back to what suits me best.

"I've never been a scientific hitter. I'm a guess hitter; I'm just a free swinger. I just watch the ball when it leaves the pithcer's hand and take my cut."

Ralph Garr was Atlanta's third choice in the 1967 free agent draft after leading the NAIA by hitting .568 for Grambling that spring.

Joe Rudi: soft talker, hard hitter

But Rudi, a quiet sort who believes in doing his playing on the field and not in the clubhouse or in the family newspaper, doesn't mind one bit.

"I'm just not as outspoken as some of the other guys around here," says the solidly built A's left fielder. "Sure, I have my ideas about baseball but I have to play the game my way. I wouldn't think of imposing my ideas on others."

Rudi was batting a solid .321 with six homers and 42 runs batted in as of June 12. He trailed teammate Reggie Jackson, the acknowledged star of the world champions, by nine homers but he had only one less RBI with 42.

Offensively, there isn't a tougher batter in the A's lineup than Rudi, who can muscle up and go for the long ball if need be, hit behind a runner if the situation warrants and bunt as well as anyone in the American League. On top of all that, he draws his share of bases on balls.

Bert Campaneris and Billy North are more obvious base stealers on the A's but Rudi is not too far behind. He doesn't attempt steals as often but he runs the bases on hits as well as the two speed merchants.

In the field, Rudi, now in his seventh big league season, isn't the most graceful left fielder you've seen but he makes all the plays and some that other more noted fielders never could. That's because of a quick jump and the ability to grab balls off walls. His arm is as strong as any in baseball and he rarely makes a mistake with a throw.

"It's time people start giving Joe some credit," says Jackson. "He's one of the stars in baseball but no one seems to know him. He's a great clutch hitter and he knows how to play the game in every way."

Garry Schumacher, a former baseball writer and public relations director who goes back more than 50 years in the game, compares Rudi to Irish Musel, who played left field for the Phillies, Dodgers and Giants for 15 years between 1915 and 1930.

"They are very much alike," says Schumacher of Rudi and Musel. "Irish's brother Bob played around the same time with the Yankees and was a better home run hitter. As a result, he got all the publicity, but Irish always drove in 100 runs while hitting only six to eight homers. He had a great arm in the outfield and knew how to run the bases.

"Like Rudi, not too many people noticed him but in my mind he was as tough a hitter in the middle of the lineup as there was in his day."

Because of his versatility with a bat, Rudi has to check the lineup card every day to see where he is hitting. Alvin Dark, the current A's manager, as did Dick Williams, the man who preceded him, usually pencils in the lineup for all the positions except one.

That's the spot he leaves for Rudi, depending on where he needs him the most. Lately, Joe has batted fifth behind Jackson, but at one time or another he has hit in every spot except ninth.

"In every way," says Dark of Rudi, "he is a professional. You can't begin to appreciate a player like him unless he is on your club where you can see him every day. Nothing he does, either at bat or in the field, surprises me any more. He's ball player's ball player."

No sense stealing

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Willie Stargell of the Pirates played 148 games in 1973 and did not steal a single base.

It really wasn't necessary for the Bucs' slugger, though. Among his 158 hits were 43 ree triples and 44 . Stargell scored

Weekly stocks

It's slow going on market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wall Street's hopes for an early drop in interest rates were dashed this week and stocks declined in slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 10.63 to 843.09 in marked contrast to the previous week's record 51.55-point advance. That gain came as First National City Bank of New York lowered its prime lending rate—the base rate on loans to best commercial borrowers— below the prevailing 11½ per cent level.

But no other major bank followed Citibank and analysts cited that failure as the key factor in the market's weakness.

Declines broadly led advances, 1,207 to 554, among the 1,963 stocks traded. But, in most cases, the individual losses were not too severe.

Perhaps the most depressing feature of the week was the apparent retreat of investors back to the sidelnes as Wall Street waited in vain for good interest rate news. Sales totaled only 58,648,986 shares, compared with the previous week's rather lively 74,583,100 shares, and with 64,666,515 the year before.

"The rally we had last week obviously ran out of steam," one analys said. "Unless some positive news develops, we will see at the least lethargy, and probably more declines."

As the week began, a spokesman for First Pennsylvania Corp. probably spoke for many in the banking community in calling Citibank's lowering of the prime "probably a bit premature."

On Tuesday, traders were further discouraged by a statement by a widely followed economist, Henry Kaufman of Salomon Brothers, forecasting still higher interest rates.

The following day, with hopes rapidly fading that any major bank would lower its prime as the June 15 corporate income tax date approached, fresh concern was sparked by a statement by new White House economic chief, Kenneth Rush, that the government plans to fight inflation with monetary and fiscal restraint "no matter how long it takes."

For the doubters on Wall Street that statement meant the Nixon administration still firmly believes in a tight money strategy to combat the nation's inflation problems.

As the market opened Thursday, those inflation problems again were brougtt home hard to investors. The government's May wholesale price index rose 1.5 per cent—an annual inflation rate of 15.6 per cent.

On the same day, virtually all hope for lower interest rates was dispelled when the Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported a $421 million rise in business loan demand for the week ended Wednesday. The weekly Fed figures have come to prominence on Wall Street in recent months since many blame rising commercial borrowing in part for the interest rate spiral.

By Friday, weighed down bz the week's unfavorable developments, the Dow declined 8.99 for its worst daily loss of the week.

Catalytic converter bound to be least-liked feature

By EDWARD S. LECHTZIN
UPI Auto Writer

DETROIT (UPI) — Like the seat belt-ignition interlock on this year's cars, the catalytic converter is almost sure to be the most talked-about and least-liked feature of the 1975 models.

It's an emission control device that will be on about 80 percent of next year's cars, will add about $150 to the price of the car and will send motorists searching for unleaded gasoline.

The catalytic converter is the auto industry's answer to the government's orders in 1970 to take the automobile out of the pollution picture by 1975. Many industry executives admit it's not the best answer.

But the muffler-like device treats the exhaust after combustion and will allow automakers to retune their engines and take off some of the emission control equipment that has cut into both mileage and performance Various estimates place the fuel economy improvement between 3 and 13 per cent.

The hot exhaust gases containing noxious carbon monoxide and unburned hydrocarbons are passed through the mufflerlike device containing two noble metal catalysts—platinum and palladium — available only from South Africa and the Soviet Union.

In the presence of heat and oxygen, the two gases are changed into harmless carbon dioxide and water. The catalyst metals only hasten the reaction. They are not affected by it and should last 50,000 miles with no significant deterioration.

That, at least, is what the industry now claims for the device which the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) says must last 50,000 miles.

Along with the catalytic converter, automakers will offer an emission control package consisting of improved carburetors, early fuel evaporation system, exhaust gas recirculation, air injection pump, an evaporative control system, positive crankcase ventilation and a high energy ignition.

All those devices may not be present on every car, but most will and the entire cost for 1975 should average between $130 and $155 a car. In California, where the requirements are even stiffer, there could be an additional cost o. between $35 and $45.

What is the American motorist going to get for that money?

According to EPA standards set for 1975 cars, hydrocarbon emissions in California will be reduced by at least 94 per cent from the uncontrolled cars of the 1960's and 90 per cent in the other 49 states. Carbon monoxide will be down by 90 per cent in California and 83 per cent elsewhere.

Those levels aren't as strict as the government originally wanted. They are interim standards set for 1975 and even more stringent levels are in store for 1976 unless Congress, as expected, pushes back the original standards even further.

If there is a fuel economy and performance improvement, it will still cost the American motorist more for the unleaded fuel he's going to be using in the 1975 models. It's expected the unleaded gasoline will cost two to three cents more a gallon.

Auto industry executives, worried that many prospective customers may decide not to buy a 1975-model because of the uncertainty over finding unleaded gasoline, have urged the government to clarify the gas picture.

It's not only the cars equipped with catalytic converters that will require the unleaded fuel. The Ford Motor Co. is going to build all 1975 models with narrow fuel tank filler necks that won't allow service stations to use present nozzles on pumps that contain leaded fuel. The other companies also say unleaded fuel will either be required or preferred in their new cars.

The EPA in early May ordered that 111,000 service stations across the country be ready to begin pumping unleaded fuel by July 1. Another 10,000 stations, mostly in rural areas, also will have to start selling unleaded gasoline after next Jan. 1.

That still leaves about four months between introduction of the 1975 models and the time when unleaded fuel should be readily available in all parts of the country. There's also the question of tourists taking their cars into Mexico and Canada and facing the possibility of ruining the emission control equipment.

The EPA said that when the program is fully effective, more than one out of every two gasoline stations will be able to offer unleaded gas to their customers.

Oil company executives have publicly stated the unleaded fuel will be available, but auto industry officials still fear another drop in sales this fall on top of the continuing slump this year because of the energy crisis during the winter.

One industry scientist has even raised the question of whether it's necessary to get the lead out of gasoline.

Dr. D. Maxwell Teague, chief research scientists at Chrysler which has fought the catalytic converters but will use them, says laboratory tests indicate it's not the lead additive that contaminates the converter.

Teague identified the culprit as ethylene dibromide, one of two "scavengers" added to gasoline to pull unburned lead out of the engine, minimixing the accumulation of lead on spark plugs, exhaust valves and combustion chamber walls.

While admitting his findings are preliminary because there has been no "on-the-road" testing, Teague did hold out the possibility that leaded fuel may be used if the ethylene dibromide is removed.

Other automotive scientists, notably at GM, contend the poisoning comes from the accumulation of lead and said the accumulation would even be greater without the "scavenger" to remove it.

Whether the catalystic converster will bring fuel economy won't be known until the EPA begins its new mileage tests this summer. If it doesn't materialize, many American motorists will question the extra cost of cleaning up the air.

New method of extracting oil from shale being tested

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — An Albuquerque research organization is experimenting with a method of extracting oil from Rocky Mountain shale deposits without removing the shale from the ground or using nuclear devices.

The Atomic Energy Commission, in cooperation with private industry, has been working for years on the "in situ," or in place, method of extracting oil locked in the tight shale formations.

But the AEC's methods, used in such projects as Grasbuggy in New Mexico and Rulison in Colorado, have employed nuclear devices to shatter the shale and release the oil. The use of nuclear explosions led to environmentalist outcries.

The Albuquerque experiments, by the Energy Technology Department of the private Sandia Laboratories, would be an alternative to nuclear devices. The experiments also could provide a cheaper method of getting the oil.

"Successful completion of the project would go a long way toward helping the country build up a large reserve of competitively priced oil," said H.M. Stoller, head of the Sandia project.

Stoller said his department will investigate the "in situ' treatment of other fossil fuels such as coal, but the initial experiments will be concerned with oil shale.

"In situ treatment should have the advantage of minimal environmental impact," he said. "Other forms of oil shale treatment would leave large amounts of shale on the surface after processing.

"In situ processing would also be safer than either underground or surface mining."

Oil shale deposits in Colorado, Wyoming and Utah are estimated at 1.8 trillion barrels of oil. The shale oil occurs as a solid bituminous material that yields 25 to 30 gallons of oil per ton of shale.

The coet of the technical problems of removing the oil from the shale has prohibited its commercial development until recent increases in crude oil prices boosted its competitive potential.

Stoller said the method proposed by the lab to remove the oil involves shattering and burning the shale deposits. The oil, now locked in the rock, would be forced to the bottom of the shale bed and could then be pumped to the surface.

The first step in the process, Stoller said, would be drilling of a verticle hole through the shale deposit. Then, the deposit would be caved in with nonnuclear explosives, he said.

Stoller said without the additional space created by the vertical hole, the shattered shale would not be porous enough to burn.

Propane gas would be fed into the rock and ignited, creating a smoldering bed of shale, he said. The heat, approximately 900 degrees, would be high enough to allow the oil to flow to the bottom of the deposit.

Getty Museum to inaugurate parking reservation program

Since it opened last January, over 150,000 visitors have come to see the museum, a recreation of a Roman seaside villa, and the outstanding collection of Greek and Roman antiquities, Renaissance and Baroque paintings and French decorative arts of the 18th Century.

Limited parking facilities have made it difficult to admit all of the people who would like to visit the museum, and frequently the museum has been forced to close its gates to visitors, according to Stephen Garrett, deputy director.

Garrett explained that only limited parking is available because when the museum was built Getty wanted to preserve the natural beauty of the grounds. Because of the museum's isolated location — on Pacific Coast Highway overlooking the ocean — parking is not availble outside of the museum.

Consequently the museum has decided to institute a reservation service to assist visitors who would like to obtain tickets to assure them of guaranteed parking and admission. Entrance to the museum is dependable on available parking, according to Garrett, and reservations will be made for parking spaces, not the number of people arriving in each car. There is no charge for either parking or admission.

Visitors may request a ticket to reserve parking on a specific day for the morning or afternoon. Morning tickets will guarantee reserved parking for arrival between 10-11:30 a.m. and afternoon tickets insure parking from 1:30-3 p.m. However, once visitors enter the museum they may stay for as long as they wish.

Garrett said the primary purpose of the reservation service is to insure that someone who must drive three hours to get to the museum and is willing to make advance reservations can be assured parking and admission when he arrives.

"The new reservation system generally means that people who want to be guaranteed admission into the museum must plan their visit in advance," Garrett said. Visitors without reservations will be admitted only if parking is available.

Reservations may be made either by telephoning the Museum at (213) 454-0361 or by writing to Reservations, J. Paul Getty Museum, 17985 Pacific Coast Highway, Malibu, 90265.

Requests must include a specific day and whether morning or afternoon arrival is preferred.

The Legend of the Lost Cement Mine

Somewhere northeast of Mammoth Peak and south of Mono Lake there is a basin near a spring, and there, like a ghost of all the wild dreams you've ever had, is a lost vein of reddish cement-like rock that contains "lumps of virgin gold as thick as raisins in a slice of fruitcake."

Two men first found it in 1857. One of the men identified the bright flecks in the peculiar rock as gold. But his companion said it was worthless. Nevertheless, the believer hacked off about 10 pounds of the rock and, in spite of a terrible cough that threatened to tear him apart, carried it over the mountains.

In San Francisco he discovered he was suffering from tuberculosis. He had no money, and now he was unable to return for the treasure he had found. In payment for the medical aid he so desperately needed, he gave his 10 pounds of ore and a rough map to his physician, a Dr. Randall. Next, he died.

The doctor had the rock assayed. It held a treasure trove of gold! And so began a 17-year search for the lost lode. A search that carried the doctor's party into the Owens River War. Hostile Indians warned them off, but the gold fever was too high. Years later their skeletons were found in the wilderness.

Next came a man named Farnsworth, who claimed to have made a rich strike near the headwaters of the Owens River. That single, crude map, now yellowed with the years of search and lying lost under the doctor's body, had shown this to be the area of the lost vein. But just as the excitement began to spread, Farnsworth was accused of murdering his partner, and disappeared.

It's said that in 1877 a man named Kent uncovered a narrow red vein, from which he hacked an estimated $40,000 in gold. And it was even rumored that Kent and Farnsworth were the same man.

The hang of it is, we'll never know. Somewhere out by Mammoth, though, there's some unlikely looking rock that could be holding a fortune.

Cinematographers fight for quality in movies

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Maybe you hadn't noticed but this is The Year of the Cinematographer. At least, the ASC — American Society of Cinematographers — is trying to get that idea across to the public.

They think, and there is some justice in their position, that movie-goers are not sufficiently aware of the contribution of cinematographers to motion pictures. And so they are launching a big campaign to remedy that situation.

Ernest Laszlo, one of Hollywood's great photographers, is currently president of ASC. He believes that more attention should be focused on the cameramen, because that art is currently in a state of decline.

"Quality has gone out the window" Laszlo says. "The current philosphy seems to be that as long as it gets on the screen, it's all right. It was hard for us to find five worthy nominees for the cinematography Oscar this year."

He thinks that today, with budgetary considerations so important to movie-making, the artistic part of films has become largely forgotten.

"There's no demand for quality photography today," Laszlo says.

He also believes the public has the wrong idea of just what is good photography. They look at films such as "Ryan's Daughter" and "Jonathan Livingston Seagull" and admire the beautiful landscapes and leap to the conslusion that those are great jobs of cinematography.

Laszlo points out that that's not exactly the way things should be judged.

"When you do an exterior picture," he says, "and you can wait for the proper lighting, the shots can be taken by a 10-year-old child. The way to tell quality photography is in an interior picture — God isn't there to help. People get carried away with natural beauty. The art comes in when you have to shoot interiors."

When you are shooting an interior scene, he says, you have to do the lighting yourself.

"Every light should have a meaning," he says. "But today they toss in a lot of light so people can walk anywhere and be lit. It works, but it isn't artistic."

The ASC is not a union nor a guild but an educational, professional and cultural organization. The members — there are only 185 active members — are invited to join. There are a few TV men who have become members but so far there are no women.

One of ASC's most recent activities is an every-other-month program honoring various pioneer cinematographers. Fifteen have been saluted so far.

"Most of our pioneers are getting along," Laszlo says. "We'd like to honor them while they're still alive."

Garden shed yields fortune in coins

LONDON (UPI) — A man poking through the backyard of an house he had just inherited found some coins in a garden shed.

He took a handful of them to Sotheby's, the fine art auction house. Sotheby's sold the collection for $633,026, including a world record price for an Italian silver coin.

The man who found the treasure trove sold it anonymously, and Sotheby's spokesmen would not reveal his identity.

Cristina Ferrare

Actress prefers elegant roles

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Cristina Ferrare has a beautiful face, a modulated voice, clean fingernails and a rich husband.

She is that wonder of wonders, a young actress who is not "trying to find herself."

Cristina will be remembered as the teen-ager who co-starred with David Niven in "The Impoesible Years."

But when Hollywood decided young girls should only be seen slobbering around in tangled hair, half nude, in tight blue jeans and barefooted, Cristina turned to modeling for fashion magazines.

Her face continues to adorn the covers of high fashion publications.

Currently she is starring in "Mary, Mary, Bloody Mary" and looking immaculate and strikingly gorgeous.

"Audiences are tired of seeing girls and women looking their worst," she said. "At least I am. And I refuse to play those sort of roles. Who wants to go to a theater to see a seamy slice of life? All you have to do is walk down the streets of any city."

Cristina is 24 now. She is tall (5-8) and slender and married to John Z. DeLorean, a noted auto engineer-designer. She makes her home in Detroit.

"It's only 40 minutes to New York," Cristina said, "where we have an apartment. I'm from Cleveland, Ohio, and I love that part of the country. It also keeps me in close touch with people who see movies.

"Most of the people I talk to want to see a return of beauty to the screen. I do myself. I love pictures starring Ali MacGraw, Candy Bergen, Katherine Ross and the other great looking actresses.

"My role in 'Bloody Mary' was originally a hippie. But the director decided it would be better if I had a beautiful wardrobe, so they changed the character to a more delicate, elegant woman.

"Some people may not be able to identify as well with a beautiful girl as with an ordinary one, but it depends on the actress and what she brings to the role."

Cristina can afford to be independent. Her husband takes care of all her financial needs, and she is among the most highly paid models.

She spent seven weeks in Mexico on "Mary, Mary, Bloody Mary," her longest separation from husband John in the year they've been married.

"He wasn't too happy with the arrangement," Cristina said. "It's different when I go to New York for modeling jobs. I commute. I fly to Manhattan in the morning and fly back the same evening, either that or John goes with me and we stay in our apartment.

"He flies out here to California a couple of times a month on business and I come with him to visit my mother.

"It will all work out in the future —as long as producers keep making movies that do not picture women looking their worst."

Horn virtuoso to perform at the Bowl

HOLLYWOOD — Barry Tuckwell, Australian-born French horn virtuoso, will perform with the Los Angeles Philharmonic in the Hollywood Bowl at 8 p.m. July 11.

Tuckwell, considered one of the great horn players of the day, will perform two concertos with the orchestra under Michael Tilson Thomas — Mozart's Horn Concerto No. 2 in E Flat, and Richards Strauss' Horn Concerto No. 1 in E Flat.

Called "a prince in his profession" by The Times of London, Tuckwell has mastered the most difficult of wind instruments.

Tuckwell now lives in London, where for 13 years he was principal horn with the London Symphony Orchestra.

The July 11 concert will include Stravinsky's Symphony in Three Movements and Strauss' tone poem "Also sprach Zarathustra."

The Bowl box office is open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Tickets can alo be purchased at Mutual, Liberty and Wallich's agencies.

Knott's Wild Animal Follies, staged by Ralph Helfer of "Daktari" and "Gentle Ben" fame, features wild animals live and uncaged on stage.

The wildest shows in the west.
Every day at Knott's.

See Ghost Town "Funfighters".

Walk into Knott's Ghost Town and you're in the middle of a shoot 'em up showdown between a sheriff and two "funfighters".

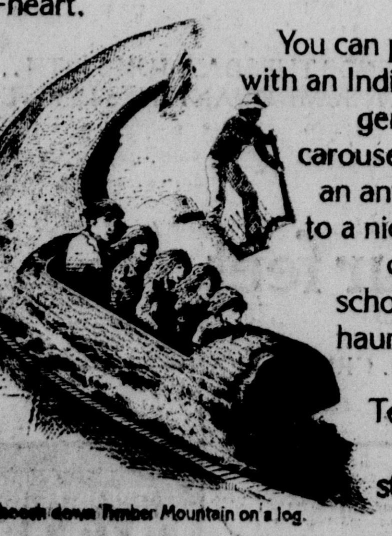
Or sit timidly in your seat during Knott's Wild Animal Follies—while steps away panthers, brahma bulls and other beasts prowl the stage live and uncaged! A lion leaps toward you. A husky man wrestles a 500 lb. bear.

You shoot the rapids on Knott's Timber Mountain log ride—plummeting through darkened underground caverns and plunging down a rocky spillway.

Then you board a mine train to creak and clatter your way deep into the earth, making a run for the tunnel mouth as dynamite goes off behind you.

Taming of the west.

Of course, there's plenty at Knott's for the tamer-of-heart.



Whoosh down Timber Mountain on a log.

You can pan for gold. Chat with an Indian chief. Ride the gentle beasts on the carousel. Go for a spin in an antique auto. Listen to a nickelodian. Attend class in a little red schoolhouse. Visit the haunted shack, where water flows uphill. Tell tall tales around the pot-bellied stove in the general store. Pet a goat or llama in Knott's animal farm. Watch the Mexican folk dancers and tap your toe to the rhythm of the "guitaron".

Looking at Knott's.

Like the covered wagon shows. The mighty fireworks show. The top name talent in the Knott's John Wayne Theater. The tiny world of "Knott's Miniatures". The horse drawn fire engines. The collection of carriages in the livery stable. The bottle house and the girls in Goldie's Place. The flamingoes and the peacocks and the roosters running loose. The glass blower with his bubbles and the blacksmith with his sparks and steel.

Pan for real gold.

Shop talk.

If you love the unusual, Knott's is a great place to shop. You'll find antique fire engines and contemporary cut glass. Home-made pickles and hand-made candy. Imported gowns and hand-carved leathergoods.

Watch an old time blacksmith forge horseshoes.

Eat your fill.

If you're famished at Knott's Berry Farm, you have a dozen places to fill your tummy. Best of all is Mrs. Knott's own chicken dinner restaurant. (Been bringing folks back to Knott's for 40 years.) Then there's the steak house, the cable-car kitchen and a host of snack shops. Old-fashioned hot pretzel and popcorn stands are everywhere at Knott's.

Show up at Knott's. Any day or night. You'll enjoy the wildest shows in the west...and then some.

Progress-Bulletin Entertainment

QUINTET PLUS ONE — The Jackson Five and a younger Jackson brother, front center, will perform in the Forum in Inglewood Saturday. Also on the program will be the Ohio Players, Molt Willis, the Whispers and the MDLT's, four singing sisters from Ashtabula, Ohio.

Lou Rawls to open at Gardens

VAN NUYS — Jazz and blues singer Low Rawls will open a summer season of name entertainment at Busch Gardens Monday.

Rawls, recording star and nightclub and television performer, will make appearances nightly Monday and Tuesday at 8 and 10 o'clock in the Eagle Playhouse at the family entertainment park.

Bo Donaldson and the Heywoods will open a two-week engagement Monday in the park's newly remodeled Amphitheater.

Rawls will be followed by David Clayton-Thomas, June 24-25; the Earl Scruggs Revue, July 1-4; Buck Owens and the Backaroos, July 8-9; Jack Sheldon, July 15-16; Max Morath, July 22-23; Carlos Moontoya, July 29-30; Kenny Rogers and the 1st Edition, Aug. 5-6; Mary Travers, Aug. 12-13; Willie Nelson, Aug. 19-20; Kelly Garrett, Aug. 26-27; and Rick Nelson, Sept. 1-2.

This is the first time name entertainers have appeared at Busch Gardens since the park was opened in 1966.

Regular prices will prevail. One gate admission covers all attractions within the park, including the entertainment.

Jackson Five to play at Inglewood Forum

INGLEWOOD — Saturday's performance of the Jackson Five at the Forum will be a benefit show to provide funds for the construction of schools and community centers in Africa, according to producer Dick Griffey.

"It's not an ordinary show, for the Jackson Five will be turning over a good slice of the gate to the African Development Fund Committee, headed by Bishop H. H. Brookins,'' explained Griffey.

"The fund will be building schools and community centers for youngsters in Zaire, Zambia and other African nations."

The quintet of brothers jumped into national prominence eight years ago in their home town of Gary, Ind. Gary's Mayor Richard Hatcher brought the singing family to the attention of Diana Ross of Motown Records while she was doing a local performance.

Miss Ross in turn called Motown president Barry Gordy from Detroit to hear the boys. He promptly signed the quintet to a contract.

In rapid succession came recording sessions, guest appearances on national television, their own television special and finally, their own animated weekly television show, the first black group to win such a theatrical vehicle. They have become the fastest selling roup in Motow history, outselling The Temptations, The Supremes and Stevie Wonder.

The Jackson Five will be joined at the Forum engagement by the Ohio Players, Molt Willis, the Whispers and the MDLT's, four singing sisters from Ashtabula, Ohio. Showtime is 7:30 p.m.

Lithuanian folk festival scheduled

HOLLYWOOD — The 25th annual Lithuanian Folk Song and Dance Festival will be held in the Hollywood Palladium starting at 3:30 p.m. June 30.

The festival will be followed by a banquet and dancing to the music of Latvala.

More than 200 singers and dancers from throughout the United States will perform. Among the troupes taking part are Grandis from Chicago, Ill., Shilaine from Detroit, Mich., the Los Angeles Youth Ensemble, and a company from San Francisco. All will be in native Lithuanian costume.

Tickets for the program, dinner and dancing are $15 general, $10 for students; program and dancing only, $8 and $6 general, $3 for students.

Cleaning saves

NEW YORK (UPI) — Clean bulbs, lamps and lampshades save energy—yours and the local electric company. The extra light lessens eyestrain and uses less fuel if it permits you to use a smaller watt bulb.

Keep washable shades clean with an occasional sudsy bath. Clean bulbs and the lamp with a damp cloth—but for safety's sake, unplug the lamp first to avoid shock.

Tar Heel State

North Carolina's nickname, the Tar Heel State, was started during the Civil War. It refers to the immovability of the North Carolina soldiers with tar on their feet.

Ballet schedules new productions

LOS ANGELES — The New York City Ballet will present nine ballets which have not been seen in Los Angeles before when the troupe makes its 10th appearance at the Greek Theater Aug. 12-24.

The new ballets include "La Source" by Balanchine to a score by Delibes, and Jerome Robbins' new ballet, "Dybbuk," to a specially commissioned score by Leonard Bernstein, on the first program, Aug. 12-14. The second program, Aug. 15-17, will include five ballets: "Scherzo Fantastique," "Le Baiser de la Fee,'' "Monumentum-Movements" and "Stravinsky Violin Concerto," all choreographed by Balanchine to Stravinsky music, and Jerome Robbins' "Circus Polka" which is a tribute to the composer. Two other premieres, both to be seen on the closing program, Aug. 22-24, are "Agon," which has been called one of the great ballets of all time, and the "Brahms-Schoenberg Quartet."

Ballets which have been performed here in past seasons include the all-time favorite classic ballet "Swan Lake," Bizet's "Symphony in C," "Dances at a Gathering," "Stars and Stripes" and "The Concert."

The 22nd summer season at the Greek opens July 5 with Harry Belafonte and his International Company. It will include popular entertainers, and the National Theater of Great Britain production of Shakespeare's "As You Like It."

Suplicas se hacen para adicional instruccion bilingue

Aspera critica fue dirigida hacia la Escuela Arroyo donde solamente un assistente bilingue es empleado mientras 11.35 por ciento de los 828 alumnos de la escuela tiene apellidos espanoles.

"Existen varias escuelas elementales que tienen en predominancia estudiantes anglos entre los cuales hay algunos estudiantes que no hablan el idioma Ingles, o aquellos estudiantes que tienen gran dificultad con el idioma," dijo Rafael Estupinian, director de la Escuela Intermedia Fremont y orador por los padres de habla hispana en la comunidad de Pomona.

"Sin embargo, su necesidad es critica. Mientras estan aprendiendo el lenguage, hay un retraso academico que algunas veces nunca es compensado. Este retraso resulta en resultados de examenes may desalentadores, bajo IQ, trauma emocional y una depreciacion de la perdida de la dignidad del mismo."

La Sra. Margarita Gonzalez, residente de Pomona por 19 anos, dijo a la Junta de Instruccion que solamente hay un ayudante bilingue en el kindergarten de la escuela Arroyo. Al mismo tiempo pregunto, "que ira a suceder con los alumnos del primer, segundo y tercer grados en Septiembre?"

La Sra. Irene Jimenez, madre de 6 ninos, dirigio la palabra a la Junta, en espanol que sus ninos, que asisten a la escuela Arroyo, estan "retrocediendo, no adelantando, y que no hay nadie que los pueda ayudar." Ella pidio instruccion en Espanol para sus ninos, y que material Espanol sea enviado a su casa para ella poder ayudar a sus hijos.

La Sra. Wilhelmina Garcia, dijo que ella habia trabajado como voluntaria en la escuela y que habia ninos incapaces de hacer su trabajo a causa de la barrera del lenguage," "Los maestros no saben como ensenar a un nino en su propio lenguage," dijo ella. "Ellos necesitan la ayuda de personas competentes."

"Existe un problema en Arroyo," agrego otra persona, la Sra. Nancy Lopez, quien es presidente de la Sociedad de Padres y Maestros en Garey. "Ellos necesitan el programa bilingue."

Mary Montes, consultante bilingue quien actualmente trabaja en su doctorado en educacion, urgio a la Junta de Instruccion a "encontrar maneras de levantar una estimacion o censo de los ninos de habla hispana en el distrito escolar y conocer sus necesidades. Esto requiere mas esfuerzo que dinero," ella dijo.

Estupinian recomendo que las cuales podrian incorporar el censo o estimacion de lenguage sea hecho en todas las escuelas elementales. El sugirio que un maestro visitador puede ser asignado a visitar varias escuelas proporcionando servicios instructivos en una base alternativa.

"El especialista bilingue puede ayudar a los maestros que no hablan espanol y escribir direcciones realisticas material en ambos idiomas," agrego Estupinian.

"Otra alternativa pudiera ser el enviar ayudantes bilingues de salon de clase a ayudar en aquellas escuelas donde exista un grupo de ninos sin conocimientos del idioma Ingles. Esta es una mejor alternativa que el tener un maestro visitador," dijo Estupinian.

El Dr. James Bell, presidente de la Junta de Instruccion, dijo a los padres de familia y maestros que durante su termino como presidente, la Junta ha puesto atencion a los programas bilingues para los estudiantes que no hablan Ingles. Dijo que el aprecia el interes que los padres muestran por sus hijos.

Durante este ano el Distrito Escolar de Pomona ha tenido maestros de habla hispana y ayudantes en 19 salones de classe en 11 escuelas, ocho elementales y tres escuelas secundárias. El programa ayudo a 1,052 alumnos.

En Marzo la Junta de Instruccion Publica reafirmo su apoyo al programa bilingue bicultural en las escuelas y dijo a ese tiempo que esperabe se pudiera ampliar el proximo ano.

Tomato juice gains new status on breakfast table

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tomato juice is about to win the same breakfast table status as that old standby orange juice, at least as far as vitamin C is concerned.

New regulations to be published by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) will allow the manufacturers of tomato juice to fortify it with vitamin C up to the level at which that nutrientis found naturally in orange juice.

That level of vitamin C, 10 milligrams an ounce, may also be added to all other beverages that imitate orange juice or are otherwise marketed for breakfast consumption.

The change in tomato juice, effective in 60 days, was requested by the Del Monte Corp., of San Francisco, a major food producer.

A citrus grower's association didn't like the idea, telling the FDA the tomato juice people only wanted it to grab a bigger share of the juice market.

The citrus lobby also contended that vitamin C added to food in the form of ascorbic acid isn't quite as good, or at least is different from, naturally occurring vitamin C such as that found in oranges.

FDA Commissioner Dr. Alexander M. Schmidt rejected those arguments, however, saying there was no scientific evidence to show there are any differences between the two forms of vitamin C.

He added that fortification is important because "tomato juice is used primarily as a breakfast beverage" and such beverages constitute the major source of vitamin C for Americans.

The tomato juice regulation was part of a package of 17 proposed or final food rules and guidelines which Schmidt said are designed to "prevent an irrational nutritional horsepower race."

Jardin de la comunidad esta abierto

POMONA — Residentes de apartamentos, casas movibles y otros residentes que carecen de espacio suficiente para trabajar en su propio jardin en la casa estan invitados a participar en el jardin de la comunidad en el Parque Filadelfia.

Todos fueron bienvenidos el Sabado pasado cuando se abrio las puertas para visitar el jardin, que esta ubicado en la parte oriental del parque, en la Calle Philadelphia entre las avenidas Towne y Garey.

Parcelas de aproximadamente 200 pies cuadrados cada una, suficientes para alimentar una familia de cuatro si son tra-bajadas extensamente, estan a la disposicion del publico calculando una por persona o familia, dijo Ray Hutton, director del jardin.

Hay una cuota de iniciacion de $6 mas la cuota anual de $4 por miembro, pero las cuotas se han rebajado a $2 por iniciacion y $1 por miembro para las personas sin empleo y ciudadanos mayores de edad con entrada de dinero fija.

El jardin ocupa 1.4 acres de terreno puesto a la disposicion por el Departamento de Parques de Pomona. Roger Taylor, superintendente de parques, dijo que el terreno est adisponible en lo que se espera sera un proyecto de amplio beneficio para la comunidad.

RTD blamed for poor patronage

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — County Board Chairman Kenneth Hahn, one of the first supporters of the Southern California Rapid Transit District's bus fare subsidy, Tuesday warned RTD officials that their "indifference" may cost them the subsidy.

Hahn said he was disappointed in patronage figures for the program and blamed RTD management for failing to make the project attractive enough to get more riders.

The RTD stands to lose a $39.9 million county subsidy that underwrites the 25 cent fare program. Fares are 10 cents on Sunday.

Hahn said the RTD does not seem to care whether or not it receives more help from the county.

Movement to free alleged murderer 'Ochiki' strong

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (UPI) — Irving "Ochiki" Young, convicted in 1970 in the torture death of a Black Panther police informer, spends his days hoping for a reprieve from the life sentence he believes he was given in a wave of national hysteria aimed at the Panthers.

"It was mass hysteria when I was sent up," Young said in an interview. "There was a lot of fear. It all came out in the Watergate how these certain groups were under surveillance and the mandate was out on them."

"Every time I pick up the newspaper I see murder, rape, robbery, embezzlement, corruption —every day. And you see I come to jail for something I didn't do. I wasn't even given bail. But these big shots can go back to their homes. They can commit a crime and stay in the streets."

Young, 36, was convicted in April of 1970 in the murder of Eugene Anderson, an artist and police informer whose body was found six months earlier in a Baltimore city park. Twenty other Black Panthers and sympathizers charged in the case were acquitted and the witnesses against Young were later discredited.

Others are free

Only Young, who contends he was innocent, was jailed.

Rep. Parren Mitchell, the state's only black Congressman, has asked Gov. Marvin Mandel to pardon Young or at least shorten his sentence. Others are also seeking his release, including friends from his old neighborhood and Morgan State University, which in May granted him one of the few college degrees ever given to an inmate of a Maryland prison.

Allowed to leave the prison for only the second time without handcuffs to attend Morgan State's commencement exercises, Young —who was a technologist at a Baltimore hospital before his arrest —has been teaching his fellow inmates elementary science. About 85 per cent of the 1,000 prisoners are black and most have an average of only six years of formal schooling.

Those seeking Young's release say his guilt or innocence is less important than the belief he has been rehabilitated and that he was imprisoned while others charged in the murder were not. They argue Young's misfortune was to be tried at the height of what they see as a hysterical campaign aimed at the destruction of the Panthers.

"Free Ochiki" movement

Marilyn Phillips, Young's tutor in Morgan State's "University Without Walls" program, has become a leader in the "Free Ochiki" movement. Ochiki, an African word meaning prayer, is the name preferred by Young.

"We want them to at least look at the justice of the situation and ask if someone who was supposed to be so peripheral to the crime should be treated like this while all the others are free," Miss Phillips said.

Young, who once studied to be a minister and converted to Judaism in 1964, says he is not bitter, although he admits anger about "the system."

"Those men who testified against me, the Black Panthers, they didn't put me here," he said. "It's the system that put me here and it's the system that's keeping me here."

But Young, who won't be eligible for parole until 1981, believes that playing along with the system is the only way he can obtain his release. He has written Mandel and met with one of the governor's aides in his effort to gain freedom.

Not vindictive

"I don't hold a vindictive attitude against the Panthers or the people who put me here," Young said. "If I went out there with the attitude of vindictiveness against these people, I know I would not be able to serve society the way I want to, to bring about change.

"I think I could return to society and do something to help a lot of the struggling people in the neighborhoods that I come out of who are doing bad and give them something to identify with, something to look up to. I'm not calling myself a hero but I will have been getting rewards as well because I will be getting the rewards of a common citizen and a human being and I think I'm entitled to this.

"In my heart I feel the governor wants to do something for me. I feel he will free me because I'd like to leave this world doing something for society because I think society has done a lot for me. So I owe them a debt, but I cannot fulfill that debt behind walls," he said.

Young says he also wants to be a father to his children, a 10-year-old daughter and 4-year-old son now in the custody of his ex-wife.

Foodaholic keeps monotonous diet

FOOD ADDICT — Actress Carolyn Jones comically pretends to eat the book, "Diary of a Food Addict," which she and her husband, Broadway musical conductor Herb Greene co-authored. The book recounts Greene's struggle to loosen the grips of obesity. "I can't handle food anymore than an alcoholic can handle booze," said Greene who has managed to keep his weight at a comfortable 150 for over three years.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Broadway musical conductor Herb Greene shed 106 pounds once he realized he was an insane, uncontrollable "addict" around food.

"I can't handle food anymore than an alcoholic can handle booze," said Greene, who has kept his weight to a comfortable 150 for over three years.

The curly-haired arranger of "The Music Man" and other show hits tried trimming his 256-pounds unsuccessfully until his discovery that eating was a "madness" he couldn't control.

"I don't know what eating normally means," the 50-year-old showman said over a cottage cheese and coffee lunch at San Francisco's Top of the Mark. "The amounts I can cram at any old time are so huge that I don't know when I'm full."

Once he realized he was a compulsive eater for whom no therapy existed, Greene devised a solution for dropping pounds by eating the same food —in small portions —each day.

Monotonous Diet

He substitutes one food for another each week, but except for an occasional binge, Greene hasn't deviated from this bland eating cycle since he worked it out over three years ago.

"It's a lifestyle I had to alter like an alcoholic alters his lifestyle," said Greene, who with his actress wife, Carolyn Jones, recounts Greene's struggle to loosen the grips of obesity in the sometimes sad, often hilarious book, "Diary of a Food Addict." (Grosset and Dunlap, $6.95).

Miss Jones recalls conflicts in her courtship and marriage to Greene, but she had always dismissed food as a source of the problem.

"I attributed the problems to everything else except the fact that he had overeaten the night before and was ashamed of it," said the actress, who is best known for her TV role as Morticia in "The Addams Family."

He once asked her to keep him on a low-calorie diet, but that didn't work oecause he would become irritable and finally accused her of cheating him on his portions.

"I became like judge, jury and executioner," said Miss Jones. "It was a terrific strain on our relationship."

Things got worse and worse until Greene, in desperation, concluded he was "mad" and could never eat normally, a condition he believes is shared by other overweight people.

"Since I'm irrational, I realize I must deal with this in an irrational way," said Greene. "By eating the same foods all the time there's no danger of choices."

Foodaholic

Doctors assured him there was no harm in his new eating habits as long as the food cycles were nutritionally balanced.

"It would be totally vain to say to an alcoholic, we'll give you a choice: Which would you prefer to drink—bourbon, rye, gin or champagne?

"It's the same difficulty when you give a food addict a choice of what he will eat, how much and when he will eat it."

Since Greene has dropped to a normal weight for his 5-7 frame, he feels healthier and enjoys living in a thin world enough to want to remain on his eating cycle the rest of his life.

Reducing, Greene said, has helped save his marriage and added years to his life. Besides, he said, obesity is "quite unaesthetic. It looks lousy."

Portuguese try to attract tourist trade

LISBON (UPI) — Like a hopeful gambler shaking a pair of dice, Portugal believes its "lucky seven" is about to come up.

The "lucky seven" the new government is hoping for is a new "invasion." Not the armed legions that have violated Portugal's borders six times over the centuries, but an invasion of foreigners armed with fat wallets.

To prepare for them, developers are spending nearly $100 million on three ultra-modern recreational complexes in a picturesque area of beaches and fishing villages that retain much of their old-world charm.

Backed by the government, they have built scores of new hotels and laid out golf courses, tennis courts, riding stables and boat basins. Topping off the venture are three gambling casinos rivaling any in Las Vegas.

While the developers are trying to insure something for everyone, the casinos are viewed as the main tourist attraction. The first was opened last year at Penina. Another began operating this year at Vilamoura and a third will open in July at Monte Gordo.

The doctor comments

See doctor now for passed blood

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am writing to you about my father-in-law. We have a very close relationship, and I love him very much. I am very worried. I fear he is doing himself more harm than good. For about a year now he has been urinating blood. He refuses to see a doctor and says he has seen many of his friends go go to a doctor and only become worse. He is 64. Dr. Lamb, could you please tell me what it could be that he has and how seious it could be. What can I do for him? I would appreciate any helpful information you can give me.

DEAR READER — Get him to go to a doctor without fail. Anyone who is passing blood in the urine should be carefully examined for the possibility of cancer. Painless bleeding in the urine which starts suddenly sometimes means cancer of the kindey. I don't mean to frighten you, but your father-in-law must understand the significance of his problem.

Less serious problems can cause bleeding. They too require medical attention. I don't believe there is anything you can really do for him other than to do your absolute best to get him to a doctor for a careful examination.

I would like to take opportunity to encourage everyone who has this kind of a problem at any time to go immediately to a doctor for a complete medical examination. Time, in these situations, can sometimes save a person's life.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have what is known as a nonmalignant fibroid tumor of the uterus. This was confirmed by my doctor a year ago. He said very little about it, and this is why I feel compelled to ask questions. Is there a possibility that a tumor of this kind would hinder pregnancy? My husband and I have been hoping for children for two years, but have had no success in our efforts to have a child.

Can you explain what a fibroid is? And, can they cause bleeding?

DEAR READER — A fibroid, sometimes called leiomyomata, is usually a fairly smooth, round tumor in the body of the uterus made up of connective tissue or the fibers similar to those in scar tissue. This means it's fairly firm or fiberous. It is not cancer. Fibroids will enlarge in time in most women. Very small ones can be tolerated and some women have gotten pregnant in the presence of a fibroid tumor. The location and size has a lot to do with this, and it's possible for the presence of such a tumor to interfere with normal pregnancy.

Occasionally these tumors are the cause for bleeding. However, no woman should assume this, and any woman who has unexplained uterine bleeding should immediately seek the attention of her doctor. An examination under thse circumstances may detect an early malignancy and make it possible for a complete cure. Day may mean disaster.

Fibroid tumors as they become larger may get big enough to cause distention of the lower abdomen and can even cause pressure on the bladder and bowels.

Whether or not a fibroid tumor should be removed depends a lot on the circumstances. If it's small, there is no bleeding and it doesn't seem to be enlarging or causing the patient any problem. the doctor may elect not to bother it. However, if its producing symptoms or causing pressure on the bladder or by causing bledding, he may elect to remove it. Similarly, he may decide to remove one if he thinks it fould be interferring with the possibility of achieving a desired pregnancy.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on constipation, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Constipation" booklet.

Keep pets elsewhere when painting room

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: We just repainted our house. We did it ourselves and are proud of it, but it was a tough job. The hardest part? You'd never guess. It was keeping Neanderthal, our young hound. out of the paint bucket. What a mess he made! Besides spilling the bucket, he leaned against the wet wall once and we had to do the whole thing over. Never again. Not with Neanderthal helping, anyway. Next time our house gets painted, he gets boarded out. And that's our tip for the day.—D.D.

DEAR D.D.: True, paints and pets don't mix, or at least they shouldn't. Many paints and paint-related products are poisonous and even the fumes can be deadly in a room where a caged small animal (i.e., bird) is confined. Be sure such pets are moved out of any affected area. You're quite right: For that big painting project it's often safest to board the pet out until the fuss and fumes have subsided.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My canary, Carrie, is only using one leg. The other foot and leg look OK, but she just holds it up. She never gets out of her cage, so I don't think it could be broken, but how do you tell if it's just sore or not?—W.E.

DEAR W.E.: Any time a caged bird goes for an entire day without using a leg, the problem's worthy of an expert's attention. Dislocations or fractures can occur in the upper part of the leg and may be difficult to detect even on close examination by the doctor. The confined bird can still manage to break a leg by becoming entwined in a toy or the cage wires. There are many causes for lameness, but a sudden refusal to use a leg usually indicates some type of injury.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I'm having a problem with athletes foot. Picked it up at the gym, I guess. What I'm wondering is, could my turtle, Timothy, get it from me? — R.V.

DEAR R.V.: If you and Timothy shower together, it's just possible he could pick up your foot fungus. It depends a lot on which one you happen to have. Turtles have a variety of funguses of their own, though there are some which could be transmitted from human to turtle and vice versa.

I LOVE HIM

Why my Dad is the Greatest

My Dad was a mechanic and he work on trucks and he work on tractors and he work on tires and the name of his work was General Tires and he was so nice to me and my sisters and brothers and one day my Dad went to work and the Tractor Tire blew up on him and he was in the hospital and he was in a coma for a year and 5 days and the 5th day he died.

Why My Dad Is The Greatest

My Dad is the greatest to me because he is patient when teaching me to do things.
He's the greatest because he never goes back on promises for something special.
I love him because he notices your good grades and rewards you for them usually a trip to 31 flavors.
He's something hard to put in words but he loves me and cares for me like a father should.

Mary Buchanan
Age 10
Pomona

Why is My Dad greatest?

Well, he always listens, no matter what I have to say. From "What's a record made of? to "Why am I alive?" He loves in his own way. Quietly, madly, nicely. Like if I'm leaving he'd yell, "Don't get lost" or "Stick with the group." Then quietly he'd say, "goodbye". He never says I love you. He would say it in his own way. Just sitting and looking at you. Or telling you to "move". So, if you ask me to show you a king, you can be sure I'll show you my Dad.

Donna Guisado
Age 10½
Pomona

Why I think my dad is the greatest.

I think my dad is the greatest because he is working very hard on necleur power plans to overcome the energy crisis and because he was riding his bike at the time of the energy crisis and even pick up some grocerys on the way home so Mom wouldn't have to use the car. And he helped me try to find my 24 carrot earring I lost in the lake but never did find it. He goes with me to Girl Scouts events if my Mom is not able to make it and he even wakes up early in the morning to bring the Girl Scouts to our camping place. I love him and my Mom very much!!! etc.

Ruby Baudoin
Age 11½ (12 the 23rd of this month)
W. Covina

Why is my Dad the greatest?

Because he loves me. I just think he is the greatest. He takes me to church to learn about Jesus. He takes me places without my mother, brother or sister. He took me to the store to buy roller skates. But I can't tell the secrets and there good. He helped me pull out my tooth. My friends asked me to play but I said no. I am about telling about my great dad and I said its going to be a long time. When I said my great dad I ment my great DAD.

Laura Blay
Age 8
Claremont

Why I think my dad is the greatest!

For one reason he's the only dad I've got, and if it wasn't for my dad I wouldn't have most of the things I've had if I didn't have a dad. For another thing, if it wasn't for fathers some kids wouldn't live the same as if they didn't have one. The way my dad is has something to do with the way I am. My father cannot stand to see an animal lock up in a cage or be mistreated. If it weren't for people like my father animals would be mistreated and locked up. So you see my dad is the greatest.
Because he's my dad and no body can take his place. Besides he's not even my real father.

For charity now

Rockette alumnae still kicking

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Now they do their high kicks for charity.

They're the girls who through the years have been featured at one of New York's top tourist attractions, Radio City Music Hall. They're the Rockettes and their precision dancing has been seen by an estimated 30 million persons.

Nineteen years ago, graduates of the group founded the Rockette Alumnae Association with a two-fold purpose, philanthrophy and maintenance of contact and friendships among themselves.

Each year, the association holds a ball to benefit one of its many causes. This Saturday night (June 15), they'll stage their own show at Essex House for the benefit of the National Foundation for Sudden Infant Death.

"We change charities each year," said Mrs. Thomas (Joy) Gibbons, of Lyndhurst, N.J., association president. "We've held benefits for retarded children, arthritis, kidney, cancer, USO, autistic kids, the heart fund, blind, multiple sclerosis....

"Every year we donate to the Will Rogers Memorial Fund which maintains a home in upstate New York primarily for theater people with respiratory disease.

"We have a fund from which our members can borrow without interest. We've established an annual Russell Markert scholarship at Juilliard (School of Music) for a deserving dance student.

"Each January we have a luncheon benefit for one of our members who is paralyzed and for the last 18 years has been in a wheelchair. She is able to do a lot, though, helping with our Christmas mailings, typing...."

This year's charity ball will honor Markert, the Rockettes founder and director for many years, who now is retired and will observe his 75th birthday this summer.

Markert keeps in close touch with his dancers and at last year's charity event got up and did a few steps, said Mrs. Cliff (Gloria) Callahan, of Morganville, N.J., a widowed mother of five from ages 2 to 20.

Mrs. Callahan, who will become association president in January, is one of the early alumnae.

She joined the Rockettes for the Christmas show in 1948, staying for four years and then going on to Broadway to dance in "Pal Joey."

"Oh, some of our members go back to the late '20s when Russell was in St. Louis organizing dance groups called the Missouri Rockets," said Mrs. Gibbons, wife of a construction executive and mother of three.

Markert brought his dancers to New York first as the Roxyettes playing at the old Roxy theater and then into its permanent starring spot at Radio City Music Hall when it opened Dec. 27, 1932.

Some graduates continued their show business careers, among them Lucille Bremmer and Vera Ellen. But the bulk of them elected marriage and family, although they also continued careers in the field of the arts.

Mrs. Gibbons, for instance, teaches dancing at a Clifton, N.J., studio run by another exRockette, Mrs. Walter (Terry) Michura.

The annual ball leans heavily on the volunteering of exRockettes in the greater New York area. But Mrs. Gibbons said the association's approximately 290 members are "scattered from Canada to Hawaii ... all over the country."

The ex-Rockettes started providing their own entertainment when "we found the cost from outside was bleeding our funds," said Mrs. Gibbons.

The 12 changes each year "depend on who's not having a baby ... who has the time to rehearse," said Mrs. Gibbons.

"I think that's how the 'Breathless Twelve' got its name," she said. "Sort of a joke. At this point in the game, could we make it? Most of us can. After being aware of fitness for so many years, we keep in shape.

Clubwomen!

Special forms are due

Valley Women, a supplement of the Progress-Bulletin highlighting activities of all women's clubs in the valley, will be published July 23.

Madame President will your club be included?

Fact sheets, sent out May 16 to club presidents or publicity chairmen, are due by the end of this week if they are to be included in the special edition.

If any club has not received the form to be filled out, an officer of the organization should contact the Progress-Bulletin women's editor, Mrs. Mary Remillard, at the newspaper, 622-1201, this week.

The annual edition will carry interviews with the four Woman Achievers for the valley who were selected recently by a panel of judges, in addition to the stories of almost 200 women's clubs.

Kids say fathers are great people

By GAY PAULEY

Fathers represent love, assurance, hard work, help with homework, trips and gifts in the words of a group of 8 and 9-year-olds we talked with the other morning at a Manhattan public school.

One thing father isn't —he's not a spanker. "We're too old," the children responded when asked if their fathers ever resorted to physical punishment.

"A father is a helping hand, a person who loves you and takes care of you and takes you places on special days," said Eric, 8.

"A father is something who can take you some place, can buy you clothes, can pay for the apartment. He's a big part of the family," said Jill, 8.

Said Maria F., 9, "even if I don't have a father, and I wish I had one, I think he works hard and earns money for your mother and you need help with your homework, he can help you. He works hard for the whole family."

The children are members of class 3-313 of New York City's Public School 59 located in the heart of Manhattan. They represent a cross-section of ethnic and racial patterns. Some are from solid family situations, some from separated and-or divorced parents, one adopted, one an illegitimate. Most have middle and uppermiddle class backgrounds.

First question of the whole group: "Do you know what day June 16 is this year?" Answer, in chorus: "It's Father's Day."

"A father can give you respect, loyalty and can take you where you want to go. A father gives you love," said Noam, 8.

"Whenever I need help with my homework, he looks it over," said Glenn, 8. "When he works he brings you a yo-yo or something."

"A father is someone to take you for a walk early Sunday morning ... somebody you can love. He travels. I miss him," said Ashley, 8.

"Father is someone who pays the rent. When you're not feeling too good he can cheer you up," said Paul, 8.

Several mentioned the role of father "when you're sick, he tries to cheer you up."

To Lisa, 8, a father is somebody "who on your birthday buys you presents ... takes you to movies and plays."

"A father tries to make you happy," said Evelyn, 9.

"A father likes you a lot. He makes sure nobody hurts you," said Lavone, 8.

"Sometimes like on a hot day, he never turns off the air conditioner, so I won't suffocate," said Maria C., 9.

The children with fathers at home all had plans to honor him some way on Father's Day. Some were going "to make him something". Others were saving their allowances for a variety of gifts from a watch, to a set of paints, to neckties to a box of pencils "because he says I take his."

Existing homes:

U.S. market still strong for single family houses

CHICAGO — The volume for existing single family home sales in the U.S. for April was 7.6 per cent above the volume for the same month last year, reports the National Association of Realtors.

This sharp upward trend in April follows eight consecutive months in which the volume of sales failed to match last year's pace. These figures, however, do not as yet reflect the impact of the current money crunch.

The median sales price of an existing home in April was $31,690, compared with $28,490 for the same month a year ago — an increase of 11.2 per cent.

By region, the median sales price of an existing home in April compared with the same month last year follows:

Northeast region: 1974, $35,300, 1973, $31,400; north central region: 1974, $27,000, 1973, $25,250; southern region: 1974, $32,570, 1973, $28,560; and western region: 1974, $34,690, 1973, $30,590.

By price class, 69.3 per cent of the existing single family homes sold April were in the $25,000 and over price class; 24.2 per cent in the $15,000 to $24,999 price class; and 6.5 per cent in the less than $15,000 price class.

These figures are consistent with a long term trend during which sales of homes in the higher price class have increased and sales in the middle and lower price classes have decreased.

The apparent reason for the trend is that inflation has pushed the cost of more homes out of the lower and middle and into the higher price class, explained officials.

Gas company gives award to "Gate"

UPLAND — The Southern California Gas Co. has presented its CONCERN award to Mountain Gate, a new 37 unit condominium development at 1193 Mountain Gate Road.

The development was cited for using energy saving insulation in walls and ceiling and natural gas appliances throughout the project.

Other amenities include formal dining rooms, family rooms, fireplaces, sliding glass doors which open to private fenced patios, and large master suites with special dressing areas.

Buyers have their choice of three floorplans. These have two or three bedrooms and two bathrooms. The units, with 1,200 to 1,440 square feet of living area, are priced from $34,995. Conventional financing is available.

Sales are being handled by William McCabe, Inc. Two furnished model homes, featuring interiors by Pamela Ayers and Associates, are on display daily from 10 a.m. to dusk.

Wide choice offered at Orchard Lane

UPLAND — At less than $22 per square foot, the cost of owning an Orchard Lane condominium home is substantially less than other homes on the local market, reports Jim Noever, sales manager.

The two bedroom, single story condominium structures have air conditioning and contain a full range of features. Buyers have a choice of eight exterior designs.

The homes are priced from $21,900 with conventional financing available.

"Interiors are fully carpeted and draped," said Noever. "Cathedral ceilings are standard. Each home is complete with a large private, fenced patio, enclosed garage and shake roof."

Kitchens have luminous ceilings, color coordinated ranges, ovens, dishwashers and "no wax" flooring. Double sinks with disposers and stain resistant countertops provide efficient space for meal preparation, he added.

Ceiling height wardrobe doors and carpeted dressing rooms are featured in the bedrooms. Compartmentalized baths are provided with the two bedroom plans.

Professionally landscaped grounds receive year-round maintenance. Trees and shrubs surround the homes and recreation center. Residents may enjoy the heated swimming pool, therapy pool and cabana. A children's playground is set in the green open spaces.

Orchard Lane, a Fredricks Development Corp. project, has received the Concern Award from the Southern California Gas Co. for its energy saving design.

All exterior walls and ceilings are fully insulated and party-walls are double constructed.

To reach Orchard Lane, persons may exit the San Bernardino Freeway at Mountain Avenue, go north to Seventh Street and then west to Spencer Avenue.

Plan has expensive features

Besides having an unusually attractive exterior, this striking three bedroom home has an equally imaginative interior design. Careful planning of this home has provided many features that are usually only found in much larger and expensive homes.

The front door opens to a center hall entry which channels traffic to each area of tthe house. An entry closet, another general storage closet, and a linen closet open to the entry and hall.

All rooms are very generous in area for a home of less than 1400 square feet in size. The living and dining areas appear even larger since there is no separation between the two and due to the large sliding glass doors which open from the dining to the patio. Similar doors open from the master bedroom.

There is apce for family meals in the roomy kitchen. Foot traffic has been directed away from the nook area by locating the dining door in the oppostie corner.

Laundry facilities plus a broom closet are in the servce. There is access from this room to both the kitchen and a bath. For privacy, the bedrooms do not share a common wall.

The garage roof extends over a roofed passageway which leads to the front entry on this Spanish, eye-catching exterior. The entry to this passageway is through an archway with an ornamental iron gate.

This same basic exterior plus a contemporary exterior are also available in a two and a four bedroom plan, at different price structures, and are illustrated in the book, Ranch and Modern Homes.

Complete working drawings for plan 31151 can be purchased for only $12.67 for the first set and $6.36 for each additional set ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these special prices until September 19, 1974. Please allow two to three weeks for delivery. A specification booklet is available for $1.06. A large reproduction rendering of the exterior is available for $1.06. The following home plan books are also available: Distinctive Homes — $1.33; Prize Homes — $1.33; Hallmark Homes — $1.33; Town & Country Homes — $1.33; Homes by Hiawatha — $1.33; Ranch & Modern Homes — $2.12. All six books — an $8.77 value — for only $6.89. Orders for less than three books, please add an extra 20c per book for postage and handling. Prices include sales tax. Send all orders to: Hiawatha Estes, P.O. Box 404-PO, Northridge, CA 91324.

Furniture moving is 'game' played by all

UPLAND — Among games that people play, probably none winds up with sorer tempers, let alone sore muscles, than the great American pastime known as rearranging furniture.

At least, that's the view of Mrs. Goldy Lewis, a homebuilding executive who spends countless hours poring over architectural blueprints in seeking ways to make the sport of rearranging furniture more exciting for the participants.

By participants, Mrs. Lewis said she means everybody — not only the family in whose house the "game" is being played, but friends and relatives as well.

"Everybody's a furntiure mover at heart. Your dinner guest no soner flatters you on your well-set table than she suggests moving the table to another part of the room."

Mrs. Lewis, a principal of the Lewis Homes building organization, believes that a floor plan isn't well designed unless it permits alternate ways of placing the furnishings.

"We all like to vary the looks of our living room or family room now and then," she said. "Yet I've seen houses whose doors and windows have been so positioned that they derpive the homeowner of any choice in even such details as where to put the plant or whatnot shelf."

As an indication of the importance Lewis Homes attaches to usable floor space and wall space in its floor plans, Mrs. Lewis pointed to the homes now under construction in the Phase II unit of her company's Prestige Series development in Upland.

"Families moving into these homes will not have to leave anything behind because of lack of room for it," she said. "Huge expanses of walls will accommodate the paintings of the most prolific art collectors, and a nine-foot sofa can be lost in some of our living rooms.

Floor plans at the Prestige Series Phase II measure up to 2,628 square feet in actual living area. One-story and two-story stylings are being built, all with three-car garages. Some models incorporate a powder room in addition to two full baths.

Mrs. Lewis noted that buyers making selection while the homes are still under construction are being offered personal choice of decorating colors.

"And that makes the game of moving furniture around all the more fun," she added.

For promotion

Banker says grads dislike long waiting

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — An assistant vice president for the Bank of California in San Francisco asserts that new college graduates are impatient and reluctant to go through long "seasoning" periods before being promoted.

Stephen A. Enna, addressing about 600 participants in the Western Regional Convention of the Bank Administrators Institute, said "they fail to see any real correlation between two years on a teller line and bank management responsibilities."

Enna said there are indications that banking doesn't seem "to project to the graduate's eye the prestige and security it formerly has."

He suggested that training of the bankers of the future will have to be more flexible since the newcomers oppose the rigidly structured "cradle-to-grave" programs.

Enna cautioned the bankers to be alert to changing attitudes so they can adapt today's graduates to "individual goals and objectives."

Kathy Keeton: feminine version of Hugh Hefner?

By JOE O'SULLIVAN

Blonde, blue-eyed Kathy Keeton, womankind's answer to Hugh Hefner and his bunny business, is associate publisher of Penthouse magazine, archrival of Hefner's Playboy. But the women's magazine, Viva, a Penthouse stablemate, is her literary baby.

As associate publisher of Viva, Ms. Keeton has nursed Viva along to a healthy circulation of "almost one million" since its birth last October.

That might make her one of the highest-paid women in the U.S. business world. "I think I'm the highest-paid employe," she says. "I'm sure that people who have their own companies get more."

Nudity and Love

The cover of the May issue of Viva offered, among other things: "What Turns Women On" (sample: "One thing that is very important to me is the shape of a man's bottom."); "Andrew Prine (an actor) in the nude." There is a photo layout of a young man and woman in various stages of dress and undress and in various stages of lovemaking.

Penthouse offers much the same fare with a masculine accent. Xaviera Hollander, "The Happy Hooker," has an advice column in it.

Both magazines offer advice. This was a recent suggestion to an anxious male: "Find the right girl and tell her about your fetishes. If she accepts them, then she really is the girl for you."

Some people might say —in fact do say —that such magazines are filthy, without redeeming social value, etc.

"To me, you know, love is the greatest human emotion. It's the source of the greatest amount of pleasure for human beings," is Ms. Keeton's reply.

Calls it art

The "Voice of Viva" listened patiently while it was suggested that there are people who do agree that "love" is great but that it is something intimate, sacred, private —not something to put between magazine covers and sell on the newsstands for a buck (the magazines, monthlies, go to $1.25 each soon).

Puffing on one of the 60 or so filter-tipped cigarettes she smokes a day, Ms. Keeton smiled tolerantly. "To me," she said, "It's no different than putting in pictures of chocolate cake, strawberry pies and cheesecakes. It's no different than showing anything that's fun and nice and pleasant to do."

Pornography isn't a dirty word to her. It's a kind of nonword. "There's no such thing as pornography," she insisted. "There is only good art and bad art."

Pressed about porn, she added, "To me, pollution is pornography. To me, war is pornography. And to my generation, these things are pornography."

"Erotica Reflects society"

In the field of the erotic, the magazines cover a lot of ground. How far will they go?

"We see our job as being reflective of contemporary society... as publishers, we would not go beyond the bounds of what we consider to be good taste, or beyond the bounds of what we consider to be acceptable to contemporary society. And by contemporary society, we mean our own contemporary society (Ms. Keeton says she's 29), which is the younger group of people, whose morality, in many instances, is very different from their mothers' and fathers'."

In contrast to all of this talk of erotica, Kathy Keeton's office has a chaste, virginal look. She sat in a high-back white wicker chair, rounded at the top. Other pieces of porch modern had cushions covered in a modest print. There was a white wicker affair shaped like a turtle, and behind her chair was a giant stuffed toy turtle. Philodendrons prospered. There were two tiny erotic sketches on one wall.

Wears costly jewelry

To use one of her favorite words, Ms. Keeton looked "elegant" in slacks and daringly-cut halter top. On her right hand was a big ring. Costume jewelry? No, those are real emeralds and diamonds, she said matter-of-factly. There were enough stones to finance a little literary magazine for a few issues. The ring was "a gift" from the man in her life.

Did or does the boss lady practice what her magazines might seem to preach? Swing?

"I have had a very happy relationship for the past ten years and that's all I'm going to say," she responded. "I'm a very old-fashioned lady! Believe me, I'm a one-man girl!"

The very happy relationship is with Bob Guccione, who owns the Penthouse empire "lock, stock and barrel." The two share a New York townhouse where Judy Garland once lived.

Hard Work and Ambition

But why is Kathy Keeton sitting in that big white wicker chair? Is she a business genius? What special talent or know-how equips her to put out the particular type of magazines she's involved with?

"I think perhaps I was more determined than most people. I was prepared to work longer hours and put more into it," she said. "I've always been ambitious. I've always been driven to do things."

And Guccione answers the question this way:

"... Because she is the perfect physical, mental and emotional prototype of the Viva woman. She has a sense of wonder about life, an extraordinary imagination and a flair for show business, all of which is rooted in the firm subsoil of good business awareness.

Soldier who hid on Guam will run for parliament

TOKYO (UPI) — Shoichi Yokoi, the Japanese soldier who held out on Guam for 27 years after World War II, has announced his candidacy for the Japanese parliament.

Yokoi, 58, gained fame in 1972 when he was spotted in the jungles of Guam where he held out since the end of the war.

A friend of Yokoi who came to the central election board to file his candidacy told newsmen the former sergeant wanted to conduct an ideal "campaign without spending too much money."

Yokoi, a tailor until he was drafted into the imperial army before the war, said upon his return to Japan that he was "ashamed" of coming back alive to his native country. Japanese soldiers, like Yokoi, were told before the end of the war that they should never "suffer a disgrace of being caught by their enemy."

Yokoi who got married and settled in Nagoya, southwest of Tokyo, spends much of his time giving lectures on his experience on Guam.

ILO pursues plight of illegal immigrants

GENEVA (UPI) — A Mexican who wants to work in the United States pays up to $300 to cross the border illegally. West Africans pay more than $1,000 to be smuggled into France.

They get the toughest and most dangerous jobs, the lowest pay, the worst but most expensive accommodations. They have no health insurance, no legal protection.

The International Labor Organization (ILO) plans to help both legal and illegal migrant workers at its Annual Assembly this month, June 5 through 26.

It says these workers are abused and exploited and that there are millions of them all over the world.

Army of Foreign Workers

Europe's army of foreign workers alone is enough to populate a new nation. There are 11 million of them, mostly Italians, Spaniards, Yugoslavs, Portuguese, Turks, and Greeks as well as Algerians, Tunisians, Moroccans and West Africans.

The United States has more than 4.2 million resident foreigners. More than one million Paraguayans and Bolivians have moved into Argentina, and 500,000 Colombians into Venezuela.

In Africa, the Ivory Coast and Ghana have received 1.5 million persons, mostly from Upper Volta.

Asia also has its migrant worker problems, with 600,000 Koreans in Japan and one million Tamils from the Indian mainland working on the plantations of Sri Lanka (Ceylon).

Clandestine migration exists everywhere—Mexicans into the United States, Mauretanians into France, Southern Europeans posing as tourists in West Germany and Switzerland.

Arbitrary expulsion

Foreigners now make up 19.8 per cent of the Swiss labor force. The percentages in other countries are 8.6 per cent in West Germany, 7.8 per cent in France, 7 per cent in Britain, 6.6 percent in Austria, 6.5 per cent in Sweden, 3.3 per cent in the Netherlands, 5.5 per cent in Belgium.

In addition to being hampered by lack of skill and experience, and language difficulties, many of the migrant workers are subject to arbitrary expulsions which causes them to accept substandard employment and living conditions.

"This legal insecurity," the ILO said, "is likely to place the migrant worker in relation to his employer in a situation where he hesitates to avail himself of his acknowledged rights and safeguards for fear of losing his job."

The ILO Assembly will study three proposed International Labor Standards to protect foreign workers:

Report on debate

—A convention on equality of opportunity and treatment to end social and economic discrimination.

—A recommendation urging equal access to training, promotion, pay and working conditions with a stipulation that a foreign worker who loses his job should not be automatically subject to loss of residence rights.

A report on the debate will be sent to ILO's 125 member states so that the 1975 Assembly can adopt final standards.

Teen forum

She loves them both

By JEAN ADAMS

LOVE: (Q.) I go out with Tim and also with Kenny. I like both of them. They both tell me they love me and I tell both of them I love them.

I talk to my girl friend about them. She says I shouldn't do this. She says I can love only one boy at a time.

What do you think? I don't want to hurt anybody's feelings. We are all 14. —Reprimanded in Connecticut

(A.) I think you are misusing the word "love." I don't think you really love either Kenny or Tim, and probably neither of them really loves you.

I also think you are making a mistake talking to your girl friend about what goes on between your boy friends and you.

Keep going with Tim and Kenny, but don't throw the word "love" around so freely.

NICKNAME: (Q.) I have an awful nickname. I hate it. What can I do about it? — George in Georgia

(A.) The right nickname can be very valuable to a boy or girl. It can help a person make friends. It can give a person identity, make a person rememberable.

But an unlikeld or repulsive nickname is very hard to live with.

You don't have to live with yours.

Two years ago a girl in Connecticut wrote to Teen Forum to tell how her sister got rid of her nickname: She refused to answer to it.

You can do the same. If someone called you Bill when your name is George, you would not answer him. Do the same with your nickname. When someone uses it, do not answer. If someone calls you George, do answer. It will take a while, but your friends will catch on and drop the nickname.

COLOR BLOCK: (Q.) My love is a Puerto Rican and black. I am white. My brother would kill me if he found out I love a Puerto Rican boy. The rest of my family is almost as prejudiced.

What can I do about them? — 15 in Pennsylvania

(A.) I do not think your brother will kill you. Introduce the boy to your family. They may like him. At least they will know how you feel, and will have an opportunity to help you and advise you.

Senate panel rejects bills for state lottery, bingo

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation to establish a statewide $140 million lottery and legalize charity bingo games have failed in a Senate committee.

Both proposals were rejected recently by the Governmental Organization Committee without a motion on their behalf.

Assemblyman Leon Ralph, D-South Gate, did not appear at the hearing to argue for his proposed constitutional amendment (ACA180) which would create a California lottery. The committee heard testimony at earlier sessions.

The measure would have allowed creation of a lottery where citizens buy tickets in hopes of striking it rich at drawings and would have brought the state an estimated $140 million a year in revenues.

At least two other lottery proposals have died in the legslature the past three years.

A separate constitutional amendment (SCA48) designed to legalize bingo by charitable, nonprofit organizations such as churches and clubs also was turned back without a motion. It was offered by Sen. David A. Roberti, D-Los Angeles.

Law enforcement officials generally have expressed opposition to both ideas on grounds they would promote gambling and lawlessness.

What's your reason for not buying a home NOW?

TROUBLED OVER HIGH INTEREST RATES

It is true interest rates have risen, but they do seem to have stabilized in the past several months. And while the rates may seem high, they are not climbing as rapidly as are labor and material costs. An increase or a decrease of ½ percent in interest rates only amounts to 30c per month per $1000 on a 25 year loan. Is it really wise to deny yourself the security, pleasure and pride of home ownership on the vague hope of interest rates going down, thus saving you only $3 or $4 a month? The value of your home will increase at a much faster rate than can be gained by any lowering of interest rates. NOW is a good time to buy!

WONDER WHERE TO BEGIN LOOKING?

Worry no more . . . most folks have found that the best place to shop for that new or lived-in home is in the Classified Real Estate columns of the Progress-Bulletin. It's here (and only here) that each day you'll find the very latest offerings of homes 'for sale' . . . advertised by the area's leading real estate firms and builders. Check the want ads today—and every day—to find the home that satisfies all your needs.

YES NOW IS A GOOD TIME

A MESSAGE TO CLASSIFIED AD USERS

You are about to invest money for an Ad and you are entitled to get results. To accomplish this it is necessary for you to TELL ALL about the details of your offer. Be sure you don't make any of the following errors that prevent results. Readers can't guess on important details. Remember, a well written informative ad will get results faster and cost less in the long run.

1. Don't Omit The Address

Many out-of-town readers will write you but will not spend money for a long distance call.

2. Don't Omit The Phone Number

Many readers will call you but do not find it convenient to come to your home.

3. Don't Use Blind Box Numbers

Avoid them if at all possible. They are difficult to answer and many people are suspicious of them.

4. Don't Conceal The Price

Surveys show that a high percentage of readers will not answer an ad unless the price is given.

5. Don't Leave Home On The Days You Advertise

Many good prospects will not call the second time if your phone is unanswered.

6. Don't Forget, Check Your Ad The First Day It Runs. Call

7. Don't Omit Important Words To Save Money

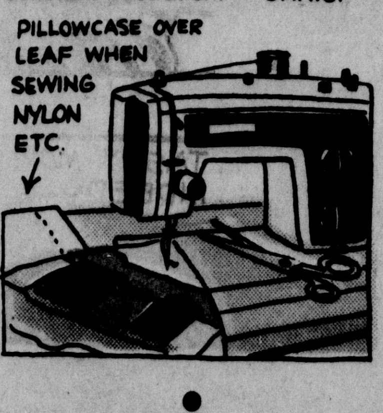
DEAR POLLY — When sewing with such materials as rayon, nylon and polished cotton that slide easily, I put a pillowcase over the leaf of the sewing machine. This prevents constant frustration. — CHRIS.



PILLOWCASE OVER LEAF WHEN SEWING NYLON ETC.

DEAR POLLY — Keeping measuring cups in my canisters is a great time saver. Keep a one-cup measure in the flour, one-half-cup in corn meal and one-third and one-fourth cup in the sugar. This certainly helps when I am in a hurry. — MRS. R.B.

●

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, ℅ this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — Never throw away outmoded or outgrown sewing patterns. When crushed, they make wonderful packing material for gifts or anything to be mailed. — CHRIS.

●

DEAR POLLY — My rolling pin broke as I was rolling out a pie crust. Company was coming so I was desperate. I had a can of those new-fangled potato chips. I covered it with a long, white child's cotton stocking and had a wonderful substitute. — NAN.

●

DEAR POLLY — A bit of toothpaste is great for removing those purple grocery store price marks that often come off on laminated plastic cabinet and table tops. Rub with a damp cloth and they're gone! — M.F.

●

DEAR POLLY — My mother made an inexpensive cannister set that looks most attractive with our wood cabinets and counter tops. One, two-and three-pound coffee cans were covered with wood-patterned adhesive-backed paper and marked with appropriate labels. — SHARON.

DEAR POLLY — I found our popcorn maker would not heat, so I made it in the electric fry pan. I put liquid shortening in the middle of the pan, heated it for a couple of minutes, put the corn in, shook the pan occasionally (with lid on) and had great popcorn in four minutes! — D.M.

●

DEAR POLLY — It is messy and time-consuming to press butter or margarine from an unwrapped quarter-pound into a cup for measuring. Cut out the amount markings on a wrapper, stiffen with cardboard and save for measuring against unwrapped quarters. — SARAH.

●

DEAR POLLY — I gave some old posters and pictures new life — and interest — by making record covers of them. In fact, want ads, or most anything that catches your eye can serve the purpose. With tape around three sides to join two pieces — presto — you'll have a cover for a 45 r.p.m. record! — MRS. M.B.

WHAT'S WRONG, PRINCE?
I DON'T KNOW WHAT TO GIVE MY DAD FOR FATHERS' DAY.
HE'S GOT EVERYTHING!
AFTER ALL, HE IS THE KING!
WHY DON'T YOU ASK HIM IF THERE IS ANYTHING HE NEEDS?
DAD, IS THERE ANYTHING YOU'D LIKE TO HAVE FOR...
I'D LIKE TO HAVE SOME ADVISORS I CAN TRUST...

Father's Day! That's when I miss him most!
OLIVER
Father's Day is only an empty mockery without him!
Dad, this is your son Oliver calling you!
On this day father and son should stand side by side!

Where are you, Dad?
I need you!

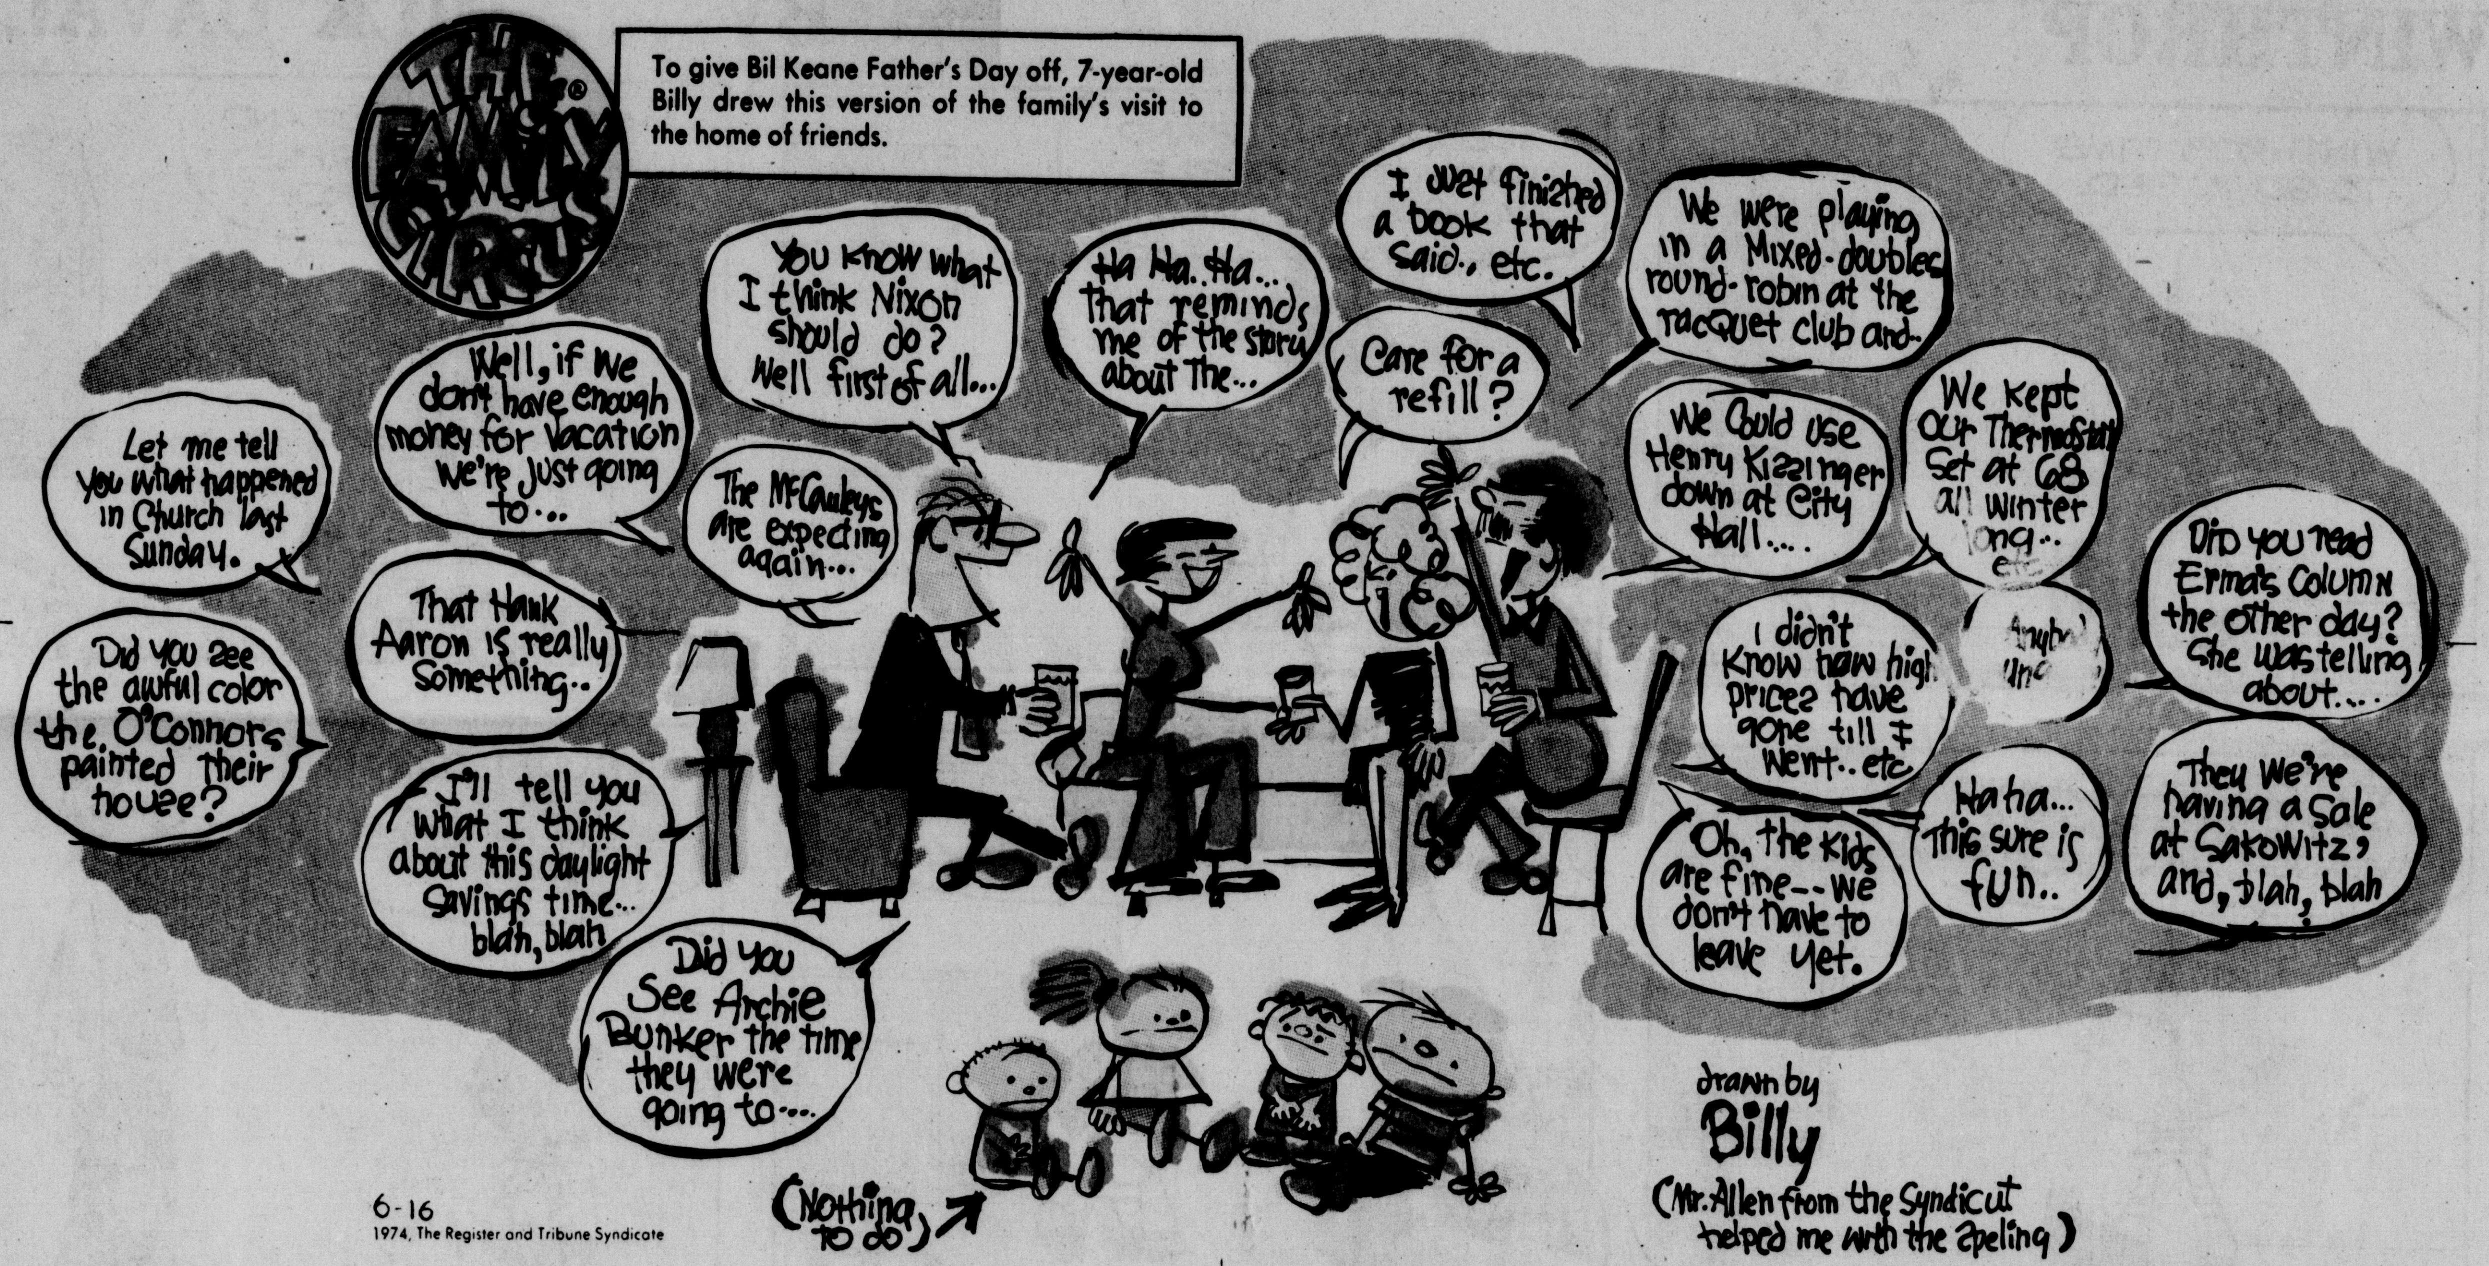
If only I might open my eyes and he'd be here!
AL VERMEER.
He could have waited till after supper !!



THE FAMILY CIRCUS
Let me tell you what happened in Church last Sunday.
Did you see the awful color the O'Connors painted their houee?
Well, if we don't have enough money for vacation we're just going to..
That Hank Aaron is really something..
I'll tell you what I think about this daylight savings time.. blah, blah
Did you See Archie Bunker the time they were going to....
You know what I think Nixon should do? Well first of all...
The McCauleys are expecting again...
Ha Ha. Ha... that reminds me of the story about the...
I just finished a book that said., etc.
Care for a refill?
We were playing in a Mixed-doubles round-robin at the racquet club and-
We Could use Henry Kissinger down at City Hall....
We kept our Thermostat Set at 68 all winter long.. etc
I didn't Know how high prices have gone till I went.. etc
Oh, the kids are fine-- we don't have to leave yet.
Ha ha... This sure is fun..
Did you read Erma's Column the other day? She was telling about....
They were having a sale at Sakowitz, and, blah, blah
(Nothing to do)

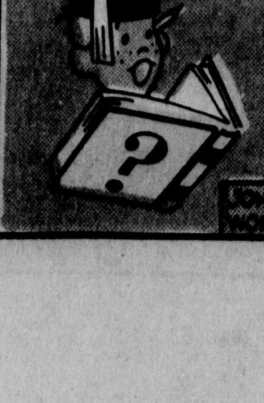
THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

[illegible] OF [illegible], CA, ASKS: "HOW DID THE TEDDY BEAR GET ITS NAME?"



THE LITTLE STUFFED TEDDY BEAR FOR CHILDREN GETS ITS NAME FROM THEODORE "TEDDY" ROOSEVELT, 26th U.S. PRESIDENT. CARTOONISTS OF THE TIME LIKED TO CARICATURE ROOSEVELT. ONE SUCH CARTOON SHOWED HIM SPARING THE LIFE OF A SMALL BEAR CUB WHILE HUNTING. TOY MAKERS SAW THE OPPORTUNITY AND MADE CUTE, FURRY TOY BEARS CALLED TEDDY BEARS AFTER THE PRESIDENT'S NICKNAME.

PRIMAL MAN Incredible But True!

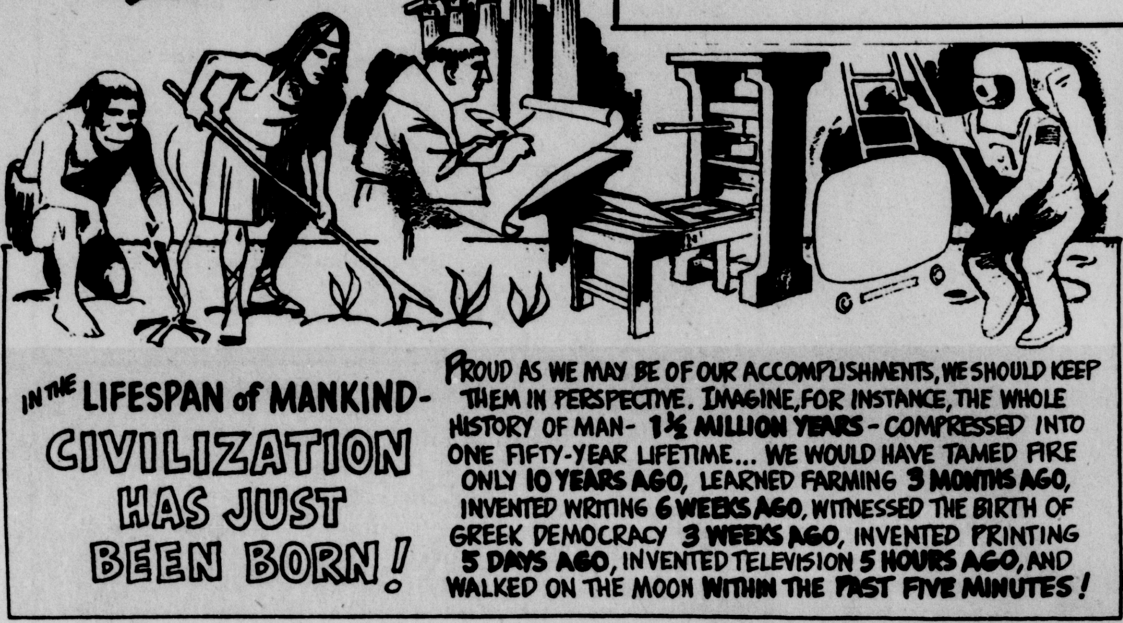
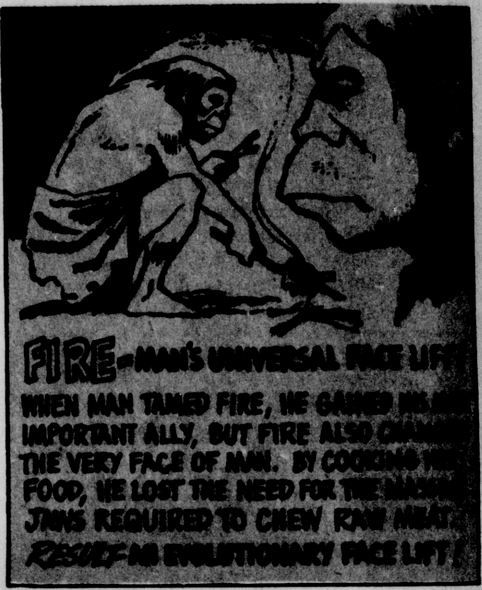
THE DINOSAUR–
A STUDY IN SURVIVAL
BECAUSE THESE GIANT LIZARDS BECAME EXTINCT NEARLY 100 MILLION YEARS AGO, WE THINK OF THEM AS FAILURES, BUT THEY SURVIVED FOR OVER 150 MILLION YEARS– WHILE MANKIND IS LESS THAN 1½ MILLION YEARS OLD!

"Struggle for Survival," next in The Travelers Theatre of Man series, Primal Man, airs Friday at 8:30 PM on ABC. The hour special was preceded by two critically-acclaimed segments, "The Killer Instinct" and "The Battle for Dominance." The upcoming "Struggle for Survival" again utilizes revolutionary make-up and film techniques to trace the development of human behavior from pre-history to the present. The telecast investigates the unique traits which have allowed man to thrive for over five million years in a dangerous, hostile environment. The special considers man's eternal conflict with the forces of nature. We follow the progress of man from his Eden-like existence in the rich tropical forests of Africa, through the horrors of the great famines and successive ice-ages, to the first primitive societies which resulted in modern culture. Modern-day footage also depicts man's current confrontation with the only remaining threat to his existence—himself. Interviews with men and women in the streets of America reveal our current anxieties about the future of human society.



IN THE LIFESPAN of MANKIND–
CIVILIZATION HAS JUST BEEN BORN!
PROUD AS WE MAY BE OF OUR ACCOMPLISHMENTS, WE SHOULD KEEP THEM IN PERSPECTIVE. IMAGINE, FOR INSTANCE, THE WHOLE HISTORY OF MAN– 1½ MILLION YEARS – COMPRESSED INTO ONE FIFTY-YEAR LIFETIME... WE WOULD HAVE TAMED FIRE ONLY 10 YEARS AGO, LEARNED FARMING 3 MONTHS AGO, INVENTED WRITING 6 WEEKS AGO, WITNESSED THE BIRTH OF GREEK DEMOCRACY 3 WEEKS AGO, INVENTED PRINTING 5 DAYS AGO, INVENTED TELEVISION 5 HOURS AGO, AND WALKED ON THE MOON WITHIN THE PAST FIVE MINUTES!



FIRE–MAN'S UNIVERSAL FACE LIF
WHEN MAN TAMED FIRE, HE GAINED HIS IMPORTANT ALLY, BUT FIRE ALSO CHAN
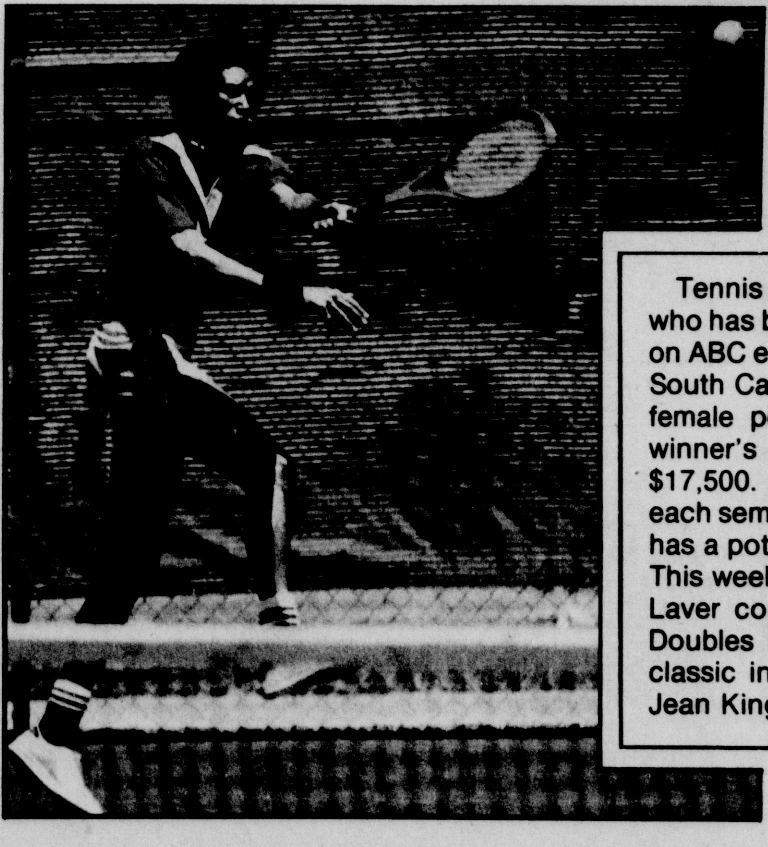
THE VERY FACE OF MAN. BY COOKING
FOOD, HE LOST THE NEED FOR THE MAS
JAWS REQUIRED TO CHEW RAW MEAT.
RESULT–AN EVOLUTIONARY FACE LIFT!

'WORLD TENNIS'



Tennis professional Arthur Ashe is just one of the leading tennis players who has been competing in the 11-week World Invitational Tennis Classic on ABC each Sunday from Hilton Head Racquet Club, Hilton Head Island, South Carolina. The Classic is one of the few events in which male and female performers compete on an equal basis for cash prizes. The winner's purse is $40,000; second place is worth $25,000 and third is $17,500. Each player is guaranteed $10,000. During the 11 matches, each semi-final and final winner is awarded one point, so that each player has a potential to score an overall maximum of five points for all events. This week's competition (Sunday, 3:30PM) is the Men's Finals, with Rod Laver competing against Stan Smith. Sunday (June 23) is the Mixed Doubles Finals and the final event in the series. Other players in the classic include Margaret Court, Chris Evert, Yvonne Goolagong, Billie Jean King and John Newcombe.

Susan Hayward, in her Academy Award-winning performance, plays convicted murderess Barbara Graham, in the based-on-fact drama, "I Want to Live" on The NBC Saturday Night Movie (June 22) at 9PM.

COVER CLOSE-UP

'COMEDYWORLD'

The producer of NBC's new summer series Dean Martin's Comedyworld figures the show will be a resounding financial success if there is just reimbursement for mileage. Greg Garrison, the peripatetic television production executive forsakes the comforts and conveniences of the studio once again (he did it last season with Music Country) and turns the entire country into a stage for "Comedyworld," a series of ten one-hour segments Thursdays at 10PM on NBC.

Starring Jackie Cooper, Barbara Feldon and Nipsey Russell as co-hosts plus the largest and most varied assemblage of comedy talent ever gathered on film and tape, Dean Martin's Comedyworld promises, says Garrison, "to be the freshest, brightest, most-talked-about genuinely funny show to hit the air since the first week of Laugh In . . . or it's gonna be a bomb. That's what I said. Bomb."

First, a look at those the viewers will be watching. There will be established funnymen such as Rich Little, Slappy White, Foster Brooks, Rodney Dangerfield, Scoey Mitchell and others appearing regularly throughout the series. There will be film clips from comedy classics including an assortment of silent film from the genius of Charlie Chaplin and Harold Lloyd. Other onetime comic greats such as Buster Keaton, Laurel and Hardy and Abbott and Costello will return to the screen via "Comedyworld" for obvious moments of nostalgia for their contemporaries and conceivably to introduce their talents to whole new audiences of the younger generation.

Each segment will have a two to three minute comedy sketch from a major comedy motion picture. Clips from "Blazing Saddles," "Mame," "American Graffitti," "The Three Musketeers," "A Touch of Class" and others will be highlighted throughout the series. But the emphasis, Garrison reminds us, will be on youth and the new and up-and-coming comics and comedy groups. "I want to give the young people a chance," he says. "That's what 'Comedyworld' really is all about.

Garrison has held auditions for young comedians all over this country and in England and he has looked at over 400 hopefuls in New York, San Francisco, Chicago, Los Angeles, Boston and London. "They're from the college campuses, off the street, from a car wash, from a super-market, drug stores, off Broadway, Picadilly Circus," says Garrison. "But this isn't amateur hour. They're professionals. They're only 'kids' as far as exposure is concerned. We're going to take care of that. Not for all of the ones we looked at because frankly, some of them, maybe most of them, just don't make it yet for network television. Some of the kids we looked at will be stars. Others won't. But at least those 30 or so we selected will have a crack at it," he states.

In addition to a production staff based on the west coast, two full production mobile units worked round the clock taping "new faces" and established pros doing their thing in the world's most famous entertainment lounges, night clubs, auditoriums and theatres. Some of the sites were The Concord Hotel in the Catskills, the Boarding House and the Great American Music Hall in San Francisco, the Playboy Clubs in New York and Los Angeles, the MGM Grand Hotel in Las Vegas and college campuses at Northwestern, U.S.C., Iowa and Boston College.

Crews spent eight days taping in New York City at such top clubs as The Bitter End, Reno Sweeney, Catch A Rising Star, Improvisation, the Plaza Hotel and Dangerfield's. They had scheduled to shoot comedian Judd Strunk in his homestate of Maine in April but a sudden snowstorm foiled that plan and it was re-set for a later date. Instead, they simply shifted gears, turned south and headed for a community of 1600 people 60 miles out of Raleigh, North Carolina to film comedian Lonnie Shorr doing his laugh-riot routine about his hometown.

Garrison's crews spent 11 days of production on location in England gathering tape on young English comedians, 90 per cent of whom have never been seen on American television.

Cooper, Feldon and Russell will have the job of pulling all this together as on-air hosts. Jackie will serve as anchorman back at the show's master control at the NBC Color Studios in Burbank, Calif. He will coordinate with Nipsey and Barbara who, from the actual location, will introduce the various performers, sketches and acts.

Dean Martin's Comedyworld has been described as "wall-to-wall comedy." It is. And would you look at that floor space?"

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR SEN. JAMES BUCKLEY (R-N.Y.)*

Howard Cosell says he may run for your Senate seat. How well do you know him?—J. B., Buffalo, N.Y.

● At the time he said that, I had never met Mr. Cosell nor had I seen him perform his specialty on television. I did hear that he is quite a controversial person. This was brought home to me when a vice president of The New York Times, which does not agree with my policies, said, "Senator Buckley, if Howard Cosell runs against you, I am going to recommend to the other officers that we endorse you!"

FOR ART BUCHWALD, columnist*

Do you ever get invited to a press conference at the White House, and are you welcome when you get there?—J. A. McNulty, Houston, Texas

● You don't have to be invited to a press conference. If you are a journalist accredited at the White House, this automatically entitles you to attend. I am sure reporters who ask friendly questions are more "welcome" than those who don't. I never go myself because you have to keep jumping up and down for recognition, and that's hard on my back.

You started modeling at 16. What, in your opinion, are the requirements for a model?—Mary Seeley, Norwood, Ohio

● The mental requirements are about the same as for an actress: self-discipline, the ability to turn on a lot, be awake and bright-eyed. Physically, there are so many kinds of fashion modeling, from junior high fashion, to American high fashion and the "far-out" looks—it runs all the way from Sophia Loren types to the Ali MacGraws. But it helps to have an interesting face and to be tall and thin.

FOR DORIS DAY

What are your plans now that your TV show has been canceled?—Danny Meyer, Chatsworth, Ga.

● I'm not sure what I'll do now, but I'll probably do more movies if the opportunities arise. Some friends are even urging me to make records again.

FOR DIAHANN CARROLL

I've seen a lot of pictures of you, but never one with a drink in your hand. Are you against it or don't you like it?—Ray Littleton, Miami, Fla.

● It doesn't like me. If I have two drinks, that's it. So I figure I am better off not having the first one. But I am not against drinking, although my grandfather on my father's side was a Baptist minister.

FOR JACK DEMPSEY, former heavyweight boxing champion*

Although Gene Tunney beat you twice, I've heard that you don't rate him as the best fighter you ever faced. Who was? —J. M., Austin, Texas

● Jack Sharkey. Tunney was a good boxer, but he caught me after I'd been out for about seven years.

FOR WAYNE ROGERS, costar of "M*A*S*H"*

I read that you and Peter Falk are in business together. Are you also good friends?—P. T. T., Nyack, N.Y.

● Yes. If I remember right, we met in a pool hall on 44th St. and 8th Ave. in New York City, and became roommates in New York. We've been friends ever since.

FOR SEN. GAYLORD A. NELSON (D-Wis.), sponsor of a bill to require court warrants for most government wiretaps*

How long has government wiretapping been going on?—G. Franklin, Albany, Ga.

● Since the early 20th century. The practice first became widespread on the eve of World War II, and continued under all presidential administrations. Warrantless taps have often been used to obtain information unrelated to national security, and therein lies the staggering potential for abuse.

FOR RICHARD CHAMBERLAIN

Was there any backlash from your portrayal of the Duke of Windsor in "The Woman I Love"? — B. Randolph, Houston, Texas

● Well, it still hasn't been seen in England. I am told the Duchess refused to see it. The quote she supposedly made was something to the effect she didn't want to see her life "desecrated by actors." That made me sad, because I had grown fond of them through reading about them and watching old newsreels.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

Dustin Hoffman is my favorite actor, and I've seen his film, "The Graduate," many times. How did he get the role?—Mary Watt, Denver, Colo.

● Director Mike Nichols, who had seen Hoffman in a couple of off-Broadway plays, offered him a screen test. Hoffman was one of the countless hopefuls and, when his turn came to do the short scene with actress Katherine Ross, he was so tense and scared he couldn't concentrate. He delivered what he felt was a dreadful audition, and left very depressed. But when Nichols viewed all the screen tests, he found that only Hoffman had those qualities that were essential for the part. Dustin was supposed to be in a state of perpetual confusion and panic—and that's exactly the way he appeared in his audition.

Notes From a Battlefront Veteran:

How to Fight the Computer and Win!

By Cindy Adams

Especially for FAMILY WEEKLY

In 1971, the Miss Universe Beauty Pageant was televised from a large hotel in Puerto Rico. As assistant-to-the-president of Miss Universe, Inc., I was there about a week. My bill had to have been inconsequential. My suite was gratis. I was alone. I don't drink. I was invited out nightly. The most I could have run up was a lunchtime tuna on white. In any case, my charges were paid by the pageant. One year later I personally received an "overdue" bill from the hotel for $50,000.

$50,000!!!???

In semi-shock I presented this to Harold Glasser, the president of Miss Universe, Inc. A reply was dispatched instantly, which, shorn of the legalese, meant, "Are you kidding?" Weeks later an amended statement reached me wrapped in an effusive apology. They were frightfully sorry for the error and were hereby shipping me my corrected bill: $20,000.

$20,000!!!???

A stronger letter from us to them produced a weaker bill: $18,000. The fact that I owed not a farthing ultimately dawned up on the coils and whorls and disks of the machine that was dunning me, and the hiccup in the computer subsided.

Then there was Angelo Panzarella's case. Angelo was moving, and being a nice, neat fellow, he requested a final tabulation from the Brooklyn Union Gas Company. It came–$286.53 for the final month. "This seemed unusual," Angelo explained, "because my yearly total is around $400." Angelo did the logical thing. He dialed the number on the bill. Here's the way he described it later:

"It was a real experience. The number was always busy. The second day I dialed, hung up, redialed for one hour straight, and eventually a recording announced that I was on the line and somebody would pick me up shortly. Fifteen minutes later I told some female voice the problem and she told me to pay the $286.53. The next month a dunning notice said pay this promptly or off goes my gas. So I called the Public Service Commission, which oversees the utilities. I sent them my Xeroxed bills. The action was immediate. One week later the gas company wrote to disregard the previous bill because they were in the process of recomputerizing me.

"Then followed my revised bill – for $1,753.20. I phoned them again. This time it only took a few hours to get through. I said, 'This is ridiculous. Gas for the Empire State Building for the month couldn't cost that much.' I called the commission again. Again action was immediate. One week later I received my newly revised bill – for $286.53!" The outcome of the story? Angelo has meanwhile moved and is outside the jurisdiction of the Brooklyn Union Gas Company. Last I heard he was now involved with the Long Island Gas Company.

How do these things happen, I asked William Lucas, whose Hanover Business Systems, Inc., is consultant to and does computer programming for Bankers Trust, Bache, Equitable Life Insurance and Helena Rubinstein. Lucas explained that the majority of goofs are human error. For example:

● The keyhole-punched card that arrives bent or mutilated won't fit through the mechanism. As a result, the operator has to fashion a new card and in haste repunches some vital information incorrectly.

● Each consumer is assigned an account number. But suppose an operator doesn't wipe a dormant account number from a computer's memory? It gets reassigned. It becomes active. Result? Duplication.

● Each program is comprised of many segments. Section A handles identification numbers. Section B handles area numbers. Section C handles account numbers, etc. Suppose a program orders the computer to Section C. Suppose at Section C the program orders the computer to execute an arithmetical algorithm such as adding five to both middle digits in order to expand the existing account numbers. But suppose the operator programs the computer to Section A by accident . . . !

● The introduction of a foreign substance. In the late sixties, the New York Stock Exchange computer operated via an optical-scanning unit. Someone dribbled talcum powder on it. It obliterated the markings, fogged up the lens and gummed up the whole works. At Dow Chemical during the years people were protesting napalm, someone deliberately flashed a magnet. Since information is stored on magnetic tape, it wiped all the formulas clean.

- Jealousy. Say that a dear little lady has been company bookkeeper for years. She resents being replaced by a chunk of steel. She thus doesn't give honest-Injun, true-blue, honor-bright total truth to the programmers. She wants the machine to mess up so she can zing her boss with, "See, I knew you couldn't do it without me." And the machine, being ignorant, does exactly what she hoped it would.

Theoretically there are backup systems and protective devices to prevent these things from happening—but there are also foul-ups such as the following:

A man who does business with a major credit-card company received a call one afternoon. His wife was hysterical. She'd been phoned by the company's collection agency and told that they would prosecute her husband, that he was defrauding them by misusing a canceled card, that he'd better get in touch with them immediately or he could wind up in jail! Coincidentally, when his wife phoned, he was sitting with a top executive of the credit-card company. In shock, he told this man the story. In the same sort of shock, the executive followed up the story. Seems two men had the same name – except the villian's middle initial was "C" and our hero's was "G," and the villain lived in Louisiana, and our hero in New York.

"Mr. Traum's area of frustration was a credit-card system that had billed him for 0.00 dollars, saying, 'Please pay the above.' The following month the bill was for 0.00 dollars plus .00 interest."

A consumer can strike back at this inanimate machine in varying ways. He can write a message on the computer card he returns with his payment, then he can bend, fold and mutilate it, causing it to clog the machine. Such action stimulates manual intervention. If the operator isn't pressed he brings the card to his supervisor, who reads your message, thereby affording you two chances. Either he'll mutter under his breath, "The same to you, buddy," or he'll check into the matter further.

The most expeditious method is to write the company president. I have done this myself on two occasions. The top echelon always produces instant action. The difficulty lies in getting to the top. Don't call the company and request the name of the president. They won't give it. One sufferer had a $116 overcharge on his telephone. Letters and phone calls to the number and name on the bill accomplished only aggravation. He rang the FCC. Nothing. Finally he telephoned the company president. Naturally, he didn't get through to him personally but he reached an assistant. The assistant clucked sympathetically, suggested he put it in writing and two weeks later everything was beautiful.

You can also register complaints with your Better Business Bureau, the regional office of the Federal Trade Commission and your state attorney general. Some states have laws that say that if a consumer advises a creditor of a billing error via registered letter, the company must respond within 30 days and settle it within 90 days. During this time it can take no dunning, penalty or collection action whatsoever. If the company does not comply it is liable for the consumer's damages, plus two times the billing error, plus the consumer's attorney's fees.

As I was compiling this article I met a lamp manufacturer named Julius Traum. Mr. Traum's area of frustration was a credit-card system that had billed him for 0.00 dollars, saying, "Please pay the above." The following month the bill was for 0.00 dollars plus .00 interest. Next he received notification that his account was delinquent, and would he please remit? He thought it was some sort of joke. Two weeks later he received a notice that his card was canceled for nonpayment.

Edgar Bergen Talks About Candy, Chris and Being a Father Today

Ellen Blume Graham

Edgar Bergen, his wife Frances and son Chris stand behind two boys who need no introduction—Charlie McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd.

> "When Candy was three, I used to put her on one knee and Charlie on the other, and have them talk to each other. One day I asked her, 'Isn't it marvelous that Charlie can talk?' and she said, 'But I can see your lips moving, Daddy.'"

I visited Edgar Bergen at his exquisitely furnished home in Brentwood. A man of gentleness and manners, Bergen lives with his beautiful wife Frances, his son Christopher, 12, and his two other "children," Charlie McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd. It was like stepping into the world of yesterday.

FAMILY WEEKLY: You retired from show business, but lately you've been making a comeback. Why?

BERGEN: Like Sinatra, I got tired of doing nothing. Maybe I just had to prove I can still do it. Feed my ego. Then, once you have made an appearance, the action starts all over again and you just keep going.

FW: Do you feel that audiences have changed a great deal in the last couple of decades?

BERGEN: I should say they have! Frankly, I don't understand how people can stand in line for an hour and a half to see a picture that makes them vomit and faint.

FW: Do you think today's films have a bad influence on young people?

BERGEN: How can I blame Chris after he's heard four-letter words used in a film and comes home and uses them? I still scold him, but I'm not sure he deserves it.

FW: Have you ever considered the idea of going into television full time?

BERGEN: A couple of years ago I was asked to play the grandfather in "The Waltons" series. It's a marvelous part and I love the show, but I couldn't see myself getting up at six every morning for anything anymore.

FW: I understand that Candy [his daughter, actress Candice Bergen] used to be jealous of Charlie McCarthy when she was little. Is that true?

BERGEN: No, not really. When she was three I used to put her on one knee and Charlie on the other, and have them talk to each other. One day I asked her, "Isn't it marvelous that Charlie can talk?" and she said, "But I can see your lips moving, Daddy."

FW: Are you a strict father?

BERGEN: No, never. I believe in love and discipline, but I don't think you could ever call me strict.

FW: Do you think Chris wants to go into show business?

BERGEN: I certainly won't talk him into it, but I think he has a fine sense of humor and there are some signs that he may end up in it.

FW: Both Candy and Chris grew up in show-business surroundings and were raised by wealthy parents. How did you keep them from getting spoiled?

BERGEN: That's a tough question to answer. In neighborhoods like Beverly Hills and Brentwood, there are good kids and there are bad kids. If I had my choice I would rather live in a small town. But as for keeping the kids from getting spoiled, we really didn't do anything. We just hoped for the best.

FW: Did you raise Chris and Candy differently?

BERGEN: In a way, because I have more time with Chris than I had with Candy. I'm not as busy now as I was. But in both cases I made a point for us to spend time together.

FW: How did you do that?

BERGEN: Well, when Candy was three, for instance, the two of us would go to the Grand Canyon. When she was four, I took her to Yellowstone. I read her bedtime stories. Braided her hair. That way we built up a friendship that has lasted. The same with Chris. Last year we went to Europe together and had a great time.

FW: Who's the more affectionate of your children?

BERGEN: I never thought a boy could be as affectionate as a girl, but Chris is. I go away for a couple of days and I get a warm embrace when I come back. Or when he says goodnight to me, he embraces me. It's a wonderful feeling for a father. Or when I come home, he'll slap me on the back. One time Frances asked him to stop and I told her, "Be grateful he's not crocheting! Let him roughhouse!"

FW: What about allowances for the children?

BERGEN: I never gave them very much. I have a feeling that Chris picks up the change I have on the top of my dresser. That isn't the right thing to do. When I talked to Candy about it, she said she did the same thing 20 years ago!

FW: Do you sometimes wish that Candy were married and had made you a grandfather?

BERGEN: I don't believe in early marriages. I was 41 or 42 when I got married because I was too busy with my show. As far as Candy is concerned, with her talent, her first marriage probably wouldn't be her only marriage. People have a great deal more freedom today than I had at her age.

FW: Do you ever miss the old vaudeville days?

BERGEN: Yes, in a way. After so many years in vaudeville, sometimes I feel I've just got to be on my own and I'll go to a nearby motel and spend a night or two. It's like being on a retreat. More often than not I'll go to Palm Springs where we have a condominium.

FW: How much has Hollywood changed in the past generation?

BERGEN: Well, let me give you one example. Thirty years ago when I went to a premiere I had a town car with a glass partition and a chauffeur, and I spoke through a tube to give him instructions. Today when I go to a premiere—and I am a lot better off now than I was then—I wouldn't be seen with a chauffeur unless I were too old or too feeble to wheel myself around. At the same time, I miss the glamour.

*EXPOSING EFFORTLESS EXERCISERS

Reader's Digest (Sept., 1971), New York Times and Good Housekeeping, among others, exposed sauna wraps, inflated belts, weighted belts and effortless exercisers as frauds. Scientific researchers, medical and fitness experts all agree...there is only one way to firm, shape and trim up your body...you must work the inches off!

Because you may have been fooled in the past by "Effortless Exercisers," we are giving you our nononsense Free Trial Offer as shown in the coupon below. We want to prove to you — at our risk — what these customers and thousands of others accomplished — So Can You!...Safely...comfortably ...in the privacy of your own home.

'5' MINUTE BODY SHAPER

We Care About The Shape You're In — DON'T YOU?

Results in just 3 days!

Joe Weider, fitness expert and trainer of champions since 1936 says:

"Give me 5 minutes twice daily for only 7 days and you'll lose up to 3 inches from your waistline, up to 6 pounds of unwanted weight, and 'shape up' — or I will return every penny."

LET'S FACE THE FACTS WHY YOU'RE OUT OF SHAPE

You eat the wrong combination of foods, you do not get enough exercise to thoroughly work your muscular, metabolic and respiratory systems daily. Because of this, fat accumulates around your waistline, heart and other body organs, slowing you down, aging your body and destroying your vitality, virility and youth. There is only one way to firm up and shape up: that is through proper exercise and proper nutrition. Effortless exercisers, reducing pills, sauna shorts, weighted belts, dangerous and painful diets and other gimmicks designed to appeal to your laziness will not work and have been exposed by the medical profession as frauds, ineffective and in some cases dangerous. They can only reduce your pocketbook.

Face up to it...If you want to slim down, firm and shape up, you must work off the inches, and there is no safer, faster and more enjoyable way to do it than with our patented, truly miraculous "5" Minute Body Shaper Plan.

HOW DOES THIS INGENIOUS "5" MINUTE PLAN SLIM, FIRM AND SHAPE YOU UP?

The Weider "5" Minute Body Shaper plan is based on doing ONE CONTINUOUS, RHYTHMIC COORDINATED EXERCISE, twice daily. That's all you do. No dieting. Eat the foods you like—however, we suggest you consume 20% less food, while on this plan, for maximum results. This one five-minute exercise is designed to attack the Waist and Hips (where fat accumulates quickest, giving your body a flabby, weak and distorted look)—as well as burn off excess fat fast by speeding up stored calories and reshaping your chest, abdomen, firming up your legs and arms—your total body!

It's safer than strenuous workouts, beats the time consumption and dangers of gym workouts . . . or any other vigorous sport.

The unit weighs about 16 oz. and fits any wallet size case. You can carry it and use it whenever there's floor space—anytime. Even while watching television.

TONY WALDROP:
Is He the Greatest Miler Ever?

Tony Waldrop from Columbus, N.C. (population 800), calls himself a "country boy"—but since the beginning of this year word of Tony's running greatness has spread around the world. During a seven-week period between mid-January and early March, Tony completed seven consecutive mile races in less than four minutes, a feat never before accomplished in track annals. Waldrop, who's 22, put together his string in indoor competitions starting with the East Coast Invitational at Richmond, Va., on January 19, where he turned in a 3:59.5 clocking, and ending with the National Collegiate championship meet at Detroit on March 9, where he ran another 3:59.5. Waldrop's most sensational performance came at the San Diego Indoor Games, February 17, where he broke Tom O'Hara's ten-year-old world indoor record with a time of 3:55.0. . . . Then, later, in the Penn Relays, Tony turned in a best effort of 3:53.2. . . . Tony, who's 5-11 and 145 pounds, is given a strong chance to overtake Jim Ryun's world record. Ryun's 3:51.1 has stood the test of time since June 23, 1967. . . . Surprisingly, Waldrop was not especially gifted as a high school miler. "I ran only 4:31 when I was a freshman," he recalls, "and when I graduated I was down to 4:18, not good enough to get many offers from colleges." Tony ended up accepting an academic scholarship to North Carolina, where he majored in political science as a college track man. An introspective young man, Tony shies away from talk that he is one of the track world's current wonders. "I've been lucky," he says. But he adds, "Maybe someday I'll look back and it'll mean a lot more to me than it does now. It's nice that I'm doing so well, but it isn't the whole world to me." Joe Hilton, Waldrop's college coach, says, "Tony doesn't even know how good he is. In a way that's fine. It keeps him from getting too cocky about his races. But I think he could become the greatest miler ever."

Others have added millimeters, filters and traps, but nobody ever found a way to pack in more flavor than the original Camel.

The Original Camel.
His name was Old Joe and he was just another face with Barnum & Bailey. Our artist sketched him, and 60 years later Old Joe remains world famous as the symbol of the finest cigarette made.

The Original Disappearing Pyramid.
Once we took this pyramid out to give Old Joe more walking room. Several tons of angry mail later, it was back in place forever.

The Original Blend.
The original measure of a cigarette was taste. So we blended the Burley, Virginia and Turkish tobaccos that deliver the most taste. Result: Camel, still the best tasting cigarette in the world.

Summer Survival Guide:

Tips Your Looks Can't Live Without

Used here: Maybelline's Ultra-Lash mascara

You can solve makeup drip without sacrificing glamour: choose waterproof cosmetics.

How can a girl look cool, beautiful and collected all humid-weather long? Why not try this advice on for size?

By Rosalyn Abrevaya
Women's Feature Editor

Whether you're an outdoor woman or not, summer makes its own special beauty demands. Here are timely tips to help you live up to your summer beauty potential.

Sun-Care Clues

1. Experts agree that a sun hat or beach umbrella is insufficient protection against the sun's burning rays. Sand or concrete can reflect the sun's rays and contribute to a painful sunburn. Even a walk to work or to the store dressed in a halter or cutout fashions can be transformed into a painful experience. So be sure to protect all exposed skin at all times with a suntan product containing a sunscreen. Or else stay out of the sun.

2. There's no need to stock up on lots of bottles and tubes. Some suntan preparations can also be used as moisturizers. For example, a lotion like Coppertone Shade is a recommended facial moisturizer that has two sunscreens for sun-sensitive skins.

Cosmetic Ideas

1. Don't give up on eye makeup just because you lead an active life and ordinary eye makeup tends to smudge or crease. Whether you're in the swim or perspiring at tennis, you can solve annoying makeup drip without sacrificing glamour by choosing waterproof cosmetics. They are easily removed with makeup-remover oil or cleansing cream.

2. While there are no hard-and-fast rules on eye-shadow color, it is not the thing this summer to precisely match eye shadow to clothing. For the most up-to-date look, select a shadow that harmonizes with your clothing. For example, choose pewter or misty teal to complement the important summer "naturals" – beige, tan, white. If you insist on matching eye shadow to your outfit, match it to the smallest block of color.

Your Hair

1. Fashionable heads should wear hats and scarves this summer, both for glamour and to protect the hair, especially color-treated hair, from color changes and drying due to the sun.

2. Hair grows faster in summer, so why not consider a really short cut. Even if you decide you don't like short hair, it will grow out by fall. Ask your hairdresser to teach you how to blow it dry so you needn't fuss with rollers.

3. Here's a fast set: After you wash your hair or after a swim, comb it smooth and twist pencil-thick strands into fat pin curls. If your hair is medium length, it will dry in about half an hour, and you can brush it into a soft pageboy. If your hair is shorter, roll the pin curls up and away from your face for a different effect.

Good Grooming and Exercise

1. Are you embarrassed to wear a revealing swimsuit because of superfluous hair on your legs, or do you find shaving your legs every couple of days a bother? Then why not ask your beauty salon about a professional waxing? Most waxing enthusiasts say it's a relatively painless procedure that leaves the skin smooth and hair-free for about six weeks.

2. Swimming is the best exercise of all. Resolve to take lessons this summer. Even if you don't learn to swim, you will burn up calories trying!

By Arlene Dahl:

"Planning Your Vacation? Don't Forget to Take a Beautiful Face!"

Follow Arlene Dahl's advice to put "beauty on your horizon!"

If you're planning two weeks in the country, an adventurous tour of Europe or a trip to the shore, plan ahead for a beauty-filled vacation.

- Select a hairstyle that's easy to manage and that will complement you and your mode of travel—and don't forget to pack your hair dryer. Take along a wig or two for convenience and a "touch-up" preparation if you color your hair.

- Kits are wonderful—and handy. Special containers for your manicure tools and sewing necessities keep them together and easily accessible.

If you're going abroad, you'll cherish a miniature wash kit with midget clothespins and line. At night, smooth laundered hankies on your tiled bathroom wall. Next morning they'll pull off without a wrinkle!

Lingerie cases are ideal to hold your sachet, underwear, nightgowns, negligees and small baby pillow. It's important to carry the latter with you, as most hotel pillows are oversized and hard.

- Streamline your makeup necessities. Choose a cream or lotion that can double as a makeup remover, lubricant and even a powder base. Take only the amount you'll need. Don't forget such items as shampoo, hair spray, dental floss, toothbrush and paste, hand and body lotions, hair cover-ups (scarves and turbans) and your favorite fragrance. Then, too, you'll need a good sun block or screen. And don't forget sunglasses and vitamins.

- Put your cosmetics in plastic jars or bottles. They minimize weight as well as the danger of leakage and breakage. They usually save space, too. Take only the quantities needed, but allow for variety. Different locales have varying climates that require special adaptations of your beauty routine. Add these extras for travel beauty: small facial linens (for your purse) to absorb excess oils before powdering; a colorless lip moisturizer for dry lips resulting from climate changes; eyewash and eyedrops to cleanse your eyes from dusty travel and fatigue. (Use the eyewash to dampen your eyeliner brush or eyeshadow if water is scarce.)

- Soap, soap, soap: powdered or liquid for laundering; a small non-alkaline facial one to carry in your purse; and one that's sweetly scented for your beauty bath.

While luxuriating in your bath at the end of a long travel day, lubricate your face well—especially around the eyes, then close them and relax while tensions disappear. Sometimes I use my bath time to do a series of facial-massage exercises designed to help erase forehead and frown lines, relieve tired eyes and firm the chin line. They only take two minutes a day. Try them. They really work if performed daily.

- Forehead lines – should be massaged in alternating up-and-down strokes, with the forefingers moving slowly toward the left with medium pressure. This vertical motion across the horizontal lines of the forehead helps smooth the brow. Repeat this "ironing out" process from right to left and back again at least five times—more if needed.

- Frown lines—can be minimized by using the same two fingers in horizontal back-and-forth strokes starting just above the lines and working down to the bridge of the nose then back up again. If frown lines are deep, repeat five to seven times a day.

- Tired eyes—can be relieved while improving the circulation around this area. Dark circles and bags can also benefit. Place the first fingers of each hand on your temples and push in firmly. At the same time close your eyes as tight as possible—hold for a count of five, release fingers and relax. Repeat five times.

- The chin line will be firmer if you repeat this tension-relaxing exercise at least five times a day. Place the balls of your two thumbs underneath your chin. Press up against the chin with your thumbs as hard as you can; at the same time press down with your chin with equal pressure. Each pressure should resist the other and the head should remain in place. Hold for a count of five. Relax and repeat five times to prevent a double chin—ten times to help correct one.

Bon voyage – there's beauty on your horizon!

Scientists can reproduce skin conditions without ever leaving the laboratory.

Bill Schmitt

A "Beauty Chemist" And What He Knows

By Rosalyn Abrevaya

Some days scientist Bill Schmitt does experiments on how long it takes to get a tan in Phoenix. Other times, he may compare the effects of the humidity and sun on Cape Cod with the effects of the humidity and sun in downtown Seattle. And he does it without leaving his laboratory in Connecticut.

Researcher Schmitt—who has examined the skin of more than 5,000 women—says his studies reveal the following interesting facts:

1. Fat people sunburn much more easily than thin people. The lymphoid tissue that adds the plumpness is especially reactive to the sun.

2. Moisturizer doesn't make the skin soft. It's the moisture content within the skin. The reason for using moisturizer is to create a protective barrier to prevent the loss of natural moisture.

3. The worst hazard to most women's complexions is dry air, caused by the low humidity of air conditioning in the summer and artificial heat in the winter.

Schmitt, who works for Chesebrough-Ponds, achieves the impossible with the aid of many interesting testing devices. One is a machine called a sun simulator, a boxlike contraption that can register the amount of burning rays given off by the sun anywhere in the world. Schmitt also has a little room—the "hot box"—where he can turn on hot weather. Have you ever wondered how it feels in the middle of Death Valley at high noon? Or what it's like to be trudging through the Everglades?

In the six-by-eight-foot "hot box," Schmitt has an intriguing process called the Moisture Vapor Transmission Test that evaluates how much moisture skin loses under different environmental conditions. Since the climate of any area in the world can be reproduced in the "hot box," lotions can be evaluated for their effectiveness under all conditions.

In pursuing his experiments, Schmitt has verified that a tan will last longer (with no flaking or peeling) when a moisturizer is used over a sun lotion.

No visit to Bill Schmitt's research laboratory is complete without a dermascope test. The dermascope, placed on the face, is actually a sophisticated microscope. But instead of showing dead cells encased in a slide, as do most microscopes, the dermascope shows the skin while the living processes are under way.

But a funny thing happened during one study, Schmitt tells us: "Scientifically controlled tests came to an impasse one afternoon when the same subject, in the same room; at the same temperature and humidity, revealed two vastly different readings during the course of an hour. It was finally noted that the girl being tested had switched from reading a catalog to a sexy novel. Its contents stimulated her life processes, including her temperature and rate of moisture loss!"

By Erwin Di Cyan, Ph.D.

PROSTRATE WITH YOUR PROSTATE? As a man gets older, so does his prostate gland. And often it begins to trouble him. Two problems that can arise are infection, which produces inflammation, and enlargement of the gland, which slows down urination. Another problem, the most dreaded one, is cancer of the prostate. There are some new products, however, that can reduce or protect against some of these. Infection and inflammation are now treated with a new antibacterial, trimethoprim. Available by prescription only, it is sold as Septra or Bactrim, which are combinations of trimethoprim with a sulfonamide. No breakthrough has yet occurred in the treatment of cancer of the prostate. However, a most important link between cancer of the prostate in men and cancer of the uterus or breast in their wives has been observed by Dr. John K. Lattimer, professor of urology at New York's Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center. For that reason, he advises wives to have more frequent examinations as a precaution against developing cancer. While there is no direct cause-and-effect relationship, there is evidence that a virus may be involved in prostate cancer that could produce a cancerous condition in the wife, through sexual intercourse, if her resistance is somehow impaired.

INFLATION—CAUSE OF HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE? That is what Dr. Oshima of Nihon University Medical School says. He believes that rising prices produce mental stress, which, accentuated by work pressure in modern Japan, causes high blood pressure (HBP). Japan's change from a fish diet to a Western meat diet only adds to the danger of HBP. With medication, however, the HBP (though not the high prices) can be held in check.

WANTED: HUMAN BEING, M.D. Is your doctor human? He may not be. He may be a medical machine instead, because today's medical student is dehumanized by education, according to several participants at the AMA-sponsored Congress of Medical Education. Psychiatrist David E. Reiser of Denver's University of Colorado Medical Center deplores this dehumanization. The medical student, he frets, is not taught to cope with the stresses in which he finds himself. He deals with them by detachment and by denial of his feelings. How can medical education be humanized? By teaching students that a doctor's empathy contributes to his patients' improvement. Another participant at the Congress, Dr. A. R. Dyer of Duke University School of Medicine, pleads that doctors must remain human if medical practice is to remain a humanistic calling.

WHEN YOU THROW SPITBALLS.... Choose your paper carefully. Because if you make spitballs from chewed-up Sunday comics, four-color magazines or pictures from children's books, you can get lead poisoning. The colors used in printing these are chockful of lead, though non-lead printing inks are slowly being introduced into the market.

DIAGNOSES BY READING TEA LEAVES? Not quite, but difficult diagnoses may well be aided by clairvoyants, palmists, astrologers, numerologists and other sensitives or psychics who often tune in on the correct diagnosis. That is what Dr. C. N. Shealy of the Pain Rehabilitation Center of La Crosse, Wis., declares. He has had first-hand experience. Working with eight different kinds of sensitives or psychics, he found that in 52 out of 60 times they were right in determining the correct location of pain. That is a high batting average for people not using regular diagnostic means. Dr. Shealy is in the process of correlating his cases. He believes that in difficult diagnoses, it is possible that the readings of the sensitives may turn out to be right 80 percent to 90 percent of the time—a formidable proportion!

RELAXATION WITHOUT DROWSINESS. People who truly need tranquilizers often refuse to take them because although they want to lessen their anxiety, they don't want to fall asleep during the day. The usual tranquilizers reduce people's awareness and make them drowsy. But a new tranquilizer that reduces anxiety but has a very weak sedative effect is being tested. Called pyrazapon, it is not yet available. When the tests are completed, it will be marketed by Parke, Davis and Company.

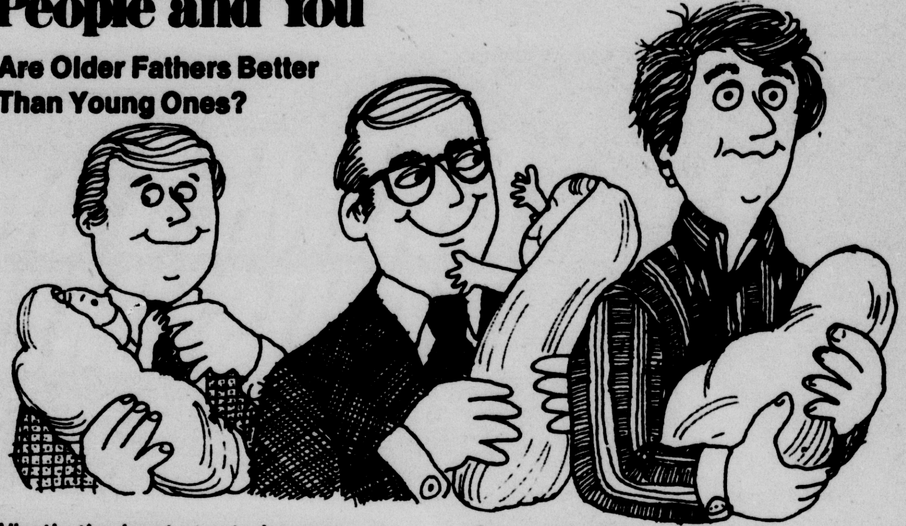
Are Older Fathers Better Than Young Ones?



What's the best age to become a father? Some interesting answers have come from a study by Dr. Corinne Nydegger of the University of California. Dr. Nydegger divided fathers into three age groups: "early" fathers, whose first child was born before the men were 24; "on time" fathers, whose first child was born when they were 24-33; and "late" fathers, whose first child arrived after Dad's 33rd birthday. Her findings: "Early" fathers often suffer severe strains from premature responsibility. This leads them to hasty judgments and a lack of patience and perspective about their children. These men also are troubled by severe conflict between family and career-launching pressures. "On time" fathers do have the energy of youth but they also are preoccupied with developing their careers. Their style of fathering is usually coping from day to day, deciding each child-problem as best they can according to immediate pressures rather than on the basis of long-range permanent effect on their children. The "late" fathers have established themselves to some extent in their work and tend to think through their father role more carefully. They try to use their daily decisions not only to solve the immediate problems but also to help their youngsters form permanent life values, habits and goals. As Dr. Nydegger summed up her findings: "If on-time fathering is good, late would seem even better."

MADELINE KAHN:

"We Women Should Kick The Youth Habit"

"I believe it's time that women should be permitted to age gracefully and not be expected to keep trying to look as if they were supposed to stay eternally young. The pressure women get to hide their age is unfair and unrealistic, and it is sad to see them trying to live up to that impossible image. Even women with success and money that others would envy are caught up in this pressure of trying to look young. Actresses are particularly vulnerable, and that's why aging actresses are photographed in a way that can make them look more like balls of wax than human beings. But the pressure exists for all women. I admire those women who can say the 'heck' with all that and be willing to change with the times and accept aging. I hope I'll be able to do that, and I think that the women who can are much happier." Madeline Kahn, who starred in "Blazing Saddlies," is to be seen next in the comedy "Young Frankenstein."

How your Horoscope can bring you wealth, love, success and happiness.

by Norman P. Kennedy

Astrology Today

PRESENTED BY THE AMERICAN ASTROLOGICAL ASSOCIATION
"The Nation's Largest Astrological Society"

© 1973 American Astrological Assn. of Ohio, Inc.

Did you know your horoscope could mean the erence between happiness or sorrow; between success failure?

Picture a long room with doors at each end. In this m there are money, attractive persons of the opposite , books that tell you the secret of happiness and ny other valuable articles. But, also in this room are ttomless pits, traps, hostile persons and dangerous asts chained in various places around the room. You st walk through this room, but you may take out of anything you can.

Now if you had a choice, would you choose to) go through the room blindfolded or 2) go through the oom with your eyes open and with written instructions which places and people to visit or avoid.

Of course, all of us would pick the second choice in a e such as this. Isn't it ridiculous, then, that we would hoose to go through life, the same situation, blindlded! Even when there is a means to go through life ith a map and our eyes wide open! The means provided Astrology. The map is our astrological horoscope.

How does it work? Nature's cosmos imprints each of s at the time of birth – when the umbilical cord is cut. We then become ourselves. Until the cord is cut, we are part of our mother. Why or how we presently do not know. The movement of the large solar bodies then times potentials for events in our lives. Astrology does not cause events but is timing of events. But, it's not fortune telling. It's a prediction of potentials which free will can override.

What does a natal horoscope analysis by a qualified astrologer contain? A natal horoscope analysis contains the best psychological analysis of yourself that you can get today. Because, in a controlled experiment in 1960, astrologers beat psychologists in predicting case histories.

In addition, a natal horoscope analysis includes discussions on the following: financial outlook; taxes and inheritances; early home environment; relationships with family, relatives and parents; lovelife and marriage; children; career and occupation; hopes; wishes and goals; and subconscious attitudes. In a major analysis, a one year forecast is also included.

Many people think that astrology only appeals to "way out" unscientific people. Nothing could be farther from the truth. In fact, studies show that astrology appeals most to intelligent and logical people. Famous scientists Galileo, Carl Jung, Johannes Kepler, Roger Bacon, Tycho Bache and Albert Einstein all believed in astrology.

Your horoscope can help you be in the right place at the right time.

Your horoscope can help you avoid disasters while guiding you to your beneficial opportunities.

Did you know that astrology helped the allies win World War II? The allies employed astrologers. The axis powers started out employing astrologers. But, this was ceased early when the famous astrologer, Karl Ernst Krafft, predicted the exact time and place of an attempt on Hitler's life in 1939. Hitler thought the astrologers were conspiring against him, so they were imprisoned.

Hitler turned back to astrology – too late. He read his horoscope in the last moments of the war as Berlin burned around him.

More on avoiding disaster, came these stories from a recent article in the Miami Herald newspaper. The article tells the story of Mary Kelly, a Miami computer programmer, who heeded the advice of her horoscope which warned her of a wrong medical diagnosis. She avoided an unnecessary operation that would have left her a cripple.

The Miami Herald also tells the story of astrologer Clifford McMullen, who is George McGovern's personal astrologer. He warned McGovern that if he ran for president, that he would win the Democratic nomination, but he would lose badly to President Nixon in the November election.

Your horoscope can bring you wealth. Famous business tycoon, J. P. Morgan, used astrology to acquire his fortune. Morgan did not make a financial move without checking his natal horoscope forecast.

From an article in the Miami Herald came this story:

"Stockbrokers on Wall Street are as likely to call an astrologer in this decade as Hollywood film stars would call a psychiatrist in the last. David Williams, a 75 year old retired financial expert who lives in Clearwater, has made $150,000 from the stock market in 13 years by using astrology as an investment guide."

Your horoscope can show you the way to success and happiness in love and marriage. Horoscopes of Grace Kelly and Jackie Kennedy predicted their current successful marriages, Grace Kelly to Prince Rainier and Jackie Kennedy to Aristotle Onassis.

Princess Grace and Prince Rainier have recently had their horoscopes done together by American astrologer, Keith Clayton. As with these famous people, your horoscope can help you find and keep a lasting and meaningful love relationship.

Now and through the ages a good natal horoscope analysis has meant success for many people. In other cases many men have missed their opportunity; some with tragic consequences, such as Adolf Hitler.

Will you miss your success opportunities? Will you stumble into pitfalls you could have avoided?

Today, right this moment, you can have your natal horoscope cast and analyzed. You can get it for only the cost to make your duplicate copy. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process – FREE. The article below will tell you how. The means are available, but the choice is yours.

Now, a blunt promise by an eminent dermatologist:

You can make your face look as though time was running backwards!

Revealed by an eminent dermatologist (see his word-by-word statement below): How, with the proper scientific instruction, you can literally look ten to twenty years younger than your real age . . . erase wrinkles, blemishes and coarseness . . . and do it all using nothing more than such simple ingredients as water, soap, and (especially) salt!

The Art of Looking Younger

This is, quite frankly, a vital message about what is perhaps the most revolutionary home-medical-guide ever published on facial care . . . facial beauty . . . renewed facial youth. Its results are so spectacular, its documentation is so overwhelming, and its methods are so vital to your future life that we must repeat, in full, two more quotes from its pages:

"We have only recently acquired the ability to really do something about the more serious changes in appearance that accompany aging . . .

In the past, the average person stood very little chance of being able to look younger. Without wealth or the right genes, there was very little hope. The advent of modern skin care has changed all this. Now it is no longer necessary to pamper yourself or be born with good skin. The idle rich no longer have any advantage . . . the genes you inherit are no longer a limiting factor, because we can now compensate for even delicate, age-prone skin . . . Thanks to modern research, we now know what causes many of the unattractive problems that appear with age. With this kind of knowledge, we have been able to develop methods that are effective in combatting or solving these problems."

"The practical application of these methods can produce spectacular results. A person can easily look ten to twenty years younger than his or her actual age, and this can be achieved with a minimum of effort."

This, Then, Is The Startling New Promise That Lies Right At Your Fingertips! And Here Are The Discoveries That Are Going To Give It To You!

For example—

Age is no longer a barrier to a flawless complexion, because the outer layer of your skin never stops growing! And, if you learn the right way to utilize that growth, you may actually reverse the dreaded aging process, and grow younger-looking, not older.

The ultimate moisturizer! How it can eliminate moisture loss instantly, and actually repair the ravages caused by years of facial dryness.

The three insidious structural changes that create "old" skin, and how to stop each at its source.

For example, master this simple technique of protecting the all-important "inner layer" of skin from damage, and you will never need the services of a plastic surgeon.

How to protect your skin against air pollution. (Otherwise, if you live in a big city, be prepared to have people guess you're ten years older than you really are.)

The Number One Rule for protecting your face against all the hazards of the environment. Follow it faithfully (see page 36), and when your friends look as old as Methuselah, you'll hardly have changed at all.

Indisputable Proof That It Would Take A Century For Your Face To Look Old, If You Didn't Abuse It Like This . . .

How to "quick-clean" your face, so thoroughly, and so fast, that you take years off it, rather than put them on.

Why you may never have to spend a cent on commercial face-care products again. For two reasons: Because most of them are actually harmful to your skin (see list on page 67). And because none of them could ever do as much for that skin as the almost-costless preparations given to you on page 71.

For example, the best daytime base in the world (and you should wear it every minute of every day, to keep the youth-force sealed in your skin) costs only 84¢ for a six-month supply. And the best night cream you can buy costs slightly more—about 91¢ for a six-month supply.

And the best face mask in the world costs 9¢ a treatment. And the best skin freshener probably costs a penny a day.

And not one of them contains a single ingredient that will unknowingly age your face, or dry out your face, or irritate your face. All they do is pull filth out of that face, at the same time they seal in youth.

But What About The Old Skin That's Marring Your Face Right Now? What Do You Do About It? THIS—

Here, on page 72, is (in our opinion at least) the really startling breakthrough in facial care in this generation. It is called, "Skin Thinning". It takes about two minutes of your time a week, and it costs about 3¢ a treatment. Its basic ingredient is salt. Plain ordinary table salt. But used in such a way that it almost instantly cuts down wrinkles. Opens clogged pores. Helps prevent age spots and whiteheads. May actually have your husband cooing with delight the very first day you use it.

And there's still more—much more—like this:

How your skin can warn you of the insidious development of diseases of the circulatory system, lungs, blood, thyroid, pancreas, sex glands, liver, kidneys and much more, all by simply knowing how to read the danger signals it sends out. (See page 105.)

How to save your hair. Why you must not overbrush it. The one overlooked cause of 99 per cent of all severe hair damage. A simple immediate test that tells you for sure, the rate of hair loss. Why the wrong use of vitamins may be causing that loss. Medical methods (your husband will bless you when you show them to him) of really compensating for that ugly loss.

At Last All You Need To Never Look Your Age Again! AND WE PROVE IT WITHOUT YOUR RISKING A PENNY!

Remember! YOU MUST BEGIN NOW! The effects of long neglect can NEVER BE COMPLETELY REVERSED! Return the No-Risk Coupon—TODAY!

What Makes a Happy Marriage?

True or False: Regardless of the situation, it's hazardous to a marriage when a wife uses sex as a weapon. (See number 3)

It has been observed that all husbands are alike, but they have different faces so you can tell them apart. It's also said that an ideal wife is any woman who has an ideal husband. In this True-or-False quiz we take a look at what has been termed the greatest educational institution on earth.

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. If you're trying to decide whether or not you should get married, the last thing you should do is to go to an outsider and ask for advice.

2. Most people believe they deserve a spouse who is better than they are.

3. Regardless of the situation, it's hazardous to a marriage when a wife uses sex as a weapon.

4. A wife's reaction when her husband forgets her birthday or their wedding anniversary reveals a lot about their marriage relationship.

5. You can tell in advance how well you're likely to get along with your future mother-in-law.

How YOU Can Turn Box-Tops Into Gold!

My husband laughed when I told him we could rake in over $500 a year with my "crazy" idea. "Too simple," he said. But today we both laugh all the way to the bank.

by Mrs. Ellen Michael

© 1974 The Good News Publishing Company

NORTH CANTON, OHIO

From this moment on, forget everything you've ever been told about making and saving money—because almost over night you can learn to change your mail box into a money machine. You'll learn how to open it six days a week for the next year to pull out a guaranteed minimum of $500—absolutely tax free or your money back.

Unless you simply don't need $500 in extra cash for 1974—to spend any way you like—take a few minutes to read about the simple, step-by-step method I've worked out.

The method is so incredibly easy that anyone can master it quickly—yet so valuable that it will give you and your family the money you need to buy the luxuries in life before you are too old to enjoy them. You can follow the method in just a few spare minutes a day—without any previous experience. And yes, it's all perfectly legal.

Sound impossible? It's really not. In fact, it's been proved by thousands of people just like you. You CAN learn the secret of how to get SOMETHING for NOTHING through the "magic" of refunding. But first, here's exactly what refunding is and exactly how refunding works.

It's simplicity itself. Refunding is the process of sending box-tops and labels to companies which offer to send you cash, coupons or gifts in return. You've probably taken advantage of offers like these from time to time in a hit-and-miss way. But, you discovered that the "profits" were small—hardly worth the effort. Me too.

But, once I found out that the big companies like Campbell's, Proctor & Gamble, General Mills, Bordens and Lever Brothers make 2,000 to 3,000 giveaway offers every year worth millions of dollars—I set out to find the way to get my share of all that money.

By trial and error and by reading and studying everything I could get my hands on by refunding experts, I finally figured out a simple, step-by-step method for raking in over $500 a year. The method was tested again and again to make sure it really works. It does. It's almost foolproof.

And now I've written down everything you need to know about the magic of refunding—so that you too can cash in on the gold mine just sitting there in your cupboard. I can hardly believe it myself, but I've actually had it published by The Good News Publishing Company in a book called "How To Turn Box-Tops & Labels Into Gold."

If you have any doubt in the world that you can take in the extra cash you need—here are some reported experiences of avid refunders:

- "I have been putting all my refunds in a special bank account... I have over $1,000 saved..."
- "I'm planning a week in Nassau with the special fund garnered from coupons and labels..."

Now, shopping is a money-making adventure, not a chore. You too can claim your share of the million dollar giveaway— when you know how.

- "I owed my mother-in-law $50... I've repaid $47 through refunding..."
- "This is really a god-send to me. Last month I received $62 in cash and about $30 in coupons for food..."
- "With refunds I have been able to buy gifts for birthdays and weddings..."
- "It seems that every time the mail comes in, I have 50¢ to $1.25 in change—sometimes crisp dollar bills..."
- "In the last few months I have saved over $150... that's not counting free cans and packages of food. Last year I bought a bedroom rug and a lawn edger out of my refund money..."

Money doesn't grow on trees, so stop for a minute to figure out how much cash—in the form of box-tops and labels—you've thrown into your trash can in the last few months. $200 or more would be a good guess.

I'll make you this promise: when you follow my method, you'll never do that again. Instead, you'll get the thrill of having your mail box filled to overflowing with money. You'll learn exactly how to claim your share of refunds on everything from soup to nuts. Just imagine, $2.00 for 4 Ajax box-tops; $1.00 for a Pillsbury Coffee Cake label; $1.00 for 3 Axion box-tops; $2.00 for a Palmolive Gold soap label. Every one of these cash refunds were actually offered last year.

Let me give you one warning, though. When you first start to use my method, some people may say, "What's the use—you only get back a quarter at a time." They may even laugh the way my husband did. Don't pay any attention to them. A national magazine survey reported that people from Maine to California take in an average of $420.00 a year refunding. If they can do it, you can too.

And money isn't the only thing you'll learn to get once you've read my book and followed my simple method. Top quality merchandise is offered regularly for box-tops and labels. For example, in the last year or so a Poloroid camera was given away for snack food labels; an electric deep fryer for oil labels; an electric mixer for fruit labels; bath towels for soup boxes; toys, dolls and games for mouthwash labels—plus hundreds more.

But make no mistake about it—unless you have the tips, advice and guidance you'll find in "How To Turn Box-Tops & Labels Into Gold" at your fingertips—you won't have a prayer. And, the only way to get your copy is to order it now, by mail. It's not for sale at any bookstore or newsstand in the world—at any price.

Quiz: Marriage

6. If you're a good-looking person, people expect your spouse to be good-looking, too.

ANSWERS

1. False—as evidenced by psychological studies at a leading university, which demonstrated that an impartial third party can predict the chances of a dating couple's marriage being successful with a high degree of accuracy. It has been noted that a third party is capable of evaluating a couple's character, attitudes, similarities and dissimilarities far more objectively, and thus in truer perspective, than the couple themselves. No matter how keen his perception, it's very difficult for a person to see himself as well as another can.

2. True—according to the findings of a Colorado State University study, where more than 200 men and women were given the Deserved Spouse Test. They were instructed to (1) "Describe yourself as you would like to be ideally"; (2) "Describe yourself as you feel you are today"; (3) "Describe the spouse you feel you deserve." In most cases, both males and females rated their Deserved Spouse more favorably than they rated themselves—but less favorably than they rated their ideal selves, the person they would like to be.

3. True. As one leading behavioral scientist has observed in summing up the findings of studies on the subject: "In many instances, a vicious cycle of marital incompatibility results from a tendency on the part of the husband, when frustrated by his wife in the love relationship, to react by developing an attitude of bitter grievance, which prevents a reconciliation."

4. True. The more confident a wife is of her husband's love and affection, the less likely she is to make a federal case out of it when he forgets birthdays or wedding anniversaries.

5. True—as evidenced by a study of in-law relationships, which showed that the more your spouse's mother or father resembles your own parent personality-wise, the better you are going to hit it off.

6. True. Studies show that people expect good-looking wives to go hand in hand with handsome husbands. It also works the other way. Psychologists found that subjects tended to react with surprise when a beautiful woman was married to a blah-looking spouse. FW

RUTHIE THE RIVETER
Demolition is her thing

Australia's first woman laborer is 28-year-old Ruth Maddison, who just happens to be six feet tall. After two years at an Australian university, Ruth decided to quit and become a hardhat because the pay was good and equal to the pay for men, which, as we all know, is often not the case. The Australian Building Construction Union welcomed her and soon she was knocking the walls down. "It's really hard work," says Ruth. "Dirty and dusty. But I think that applies to men as well as women. I'm really tired at the end of the day, but I expected to have more aches than I have." When Ruth gets home at night all she wants to do is take a bath, have a meal and go to sleep.

Bruce Lee

QUOTE: "I don't play the superhero," said Bruce Lee, the late King of Kung Fu. "But the audience wants to make me one. I don't always play the same kind of role. Each role is different, although when I fight, I come out the same — like an animal. I never depend solely on my fighting skill to fulfill any of my film roles, although the audiences in Southeast Asia seem to think so. I believe it is more my personality and the expression of my body and myself. I am not acting. I am just doing my thing. When somebody tries to mimic my battle cries or grimaces, he makes himself look ridiculous. There are two types of actors — the versatile, who can go from character to character, and then there is the kind who is typecast, like Clint Eastwood, John Wayne. . . . I see myself as lying somewhere between the two. I am a personality and each role I play shares a bit of that personality." From "The Legend of Bruce Lee," by Alex Ben Block (Dell, $1.25). UNQUOTE.

LORETTA SWIT
The only woman

Loretta Swit is the only woman in "M*A*S*H." "In the beginning," says the actress who plays "Hot Lips Houlihan," "this was a strain. I had the feeling that everyone felt when a woman said something, she had to be 100 percent right. But we've all grown and changed as we've worked together. Two years ago I was terribly aware of women's abuse in the business. Now I am beginning to see a total acceptance. They've even hired women writers. I think that's a decided step forward in the thinking. Now I'm mixed in like a person—not a female of the species."

SIMPLY GRAND

What is grand about a grandchild,
That is, a planned or else unplanned
child?
One thing, a very nice sensation,
Is this: Another generation,
A feeling, with this latest trend of things,
You are the start and not the end of
things.
Your children's children can have children,
Their children children. It's bewildren.
At least it helps offset, I'm saying,
Your loss of hearing and your graying,
Your pains arthritic, need for glasses,
Forgetting more, each day that passes. . . .
A grandchild's grand, a thing of glory,
Or anyhow compensatory.

Unannounced escort fighters cause tense moments

Nixon security scare in skies over Syria

DAMASCUS (UPI) — Flying in through an unintended security scare that caused tense moments aboard his Presidential jet, President Nixon Saturday got a cordial welcome to Damascus followed by the toughest lecture he has yet heard on the Arab requirements for Middle East peace.

President Hafez Assad greeted Nixon with formal honors upon arrival at his third Middle East tour stop, rode with him through throngs of applauding citizens in the heavily-guarded capital and then bluntly stated in an evening dinner speech what it will take to establish peace in the region.

"The only lasting and durable peace would be a peace that would terminate Israeli occupation, restore the land to its (Palestinian) people, remove the grievances inflicted upon the people of Palestine and ensure them of their legitimate national rights," he said.

Assad said the rights of the Palestinians lay at the heart of these peace requirements and, blaming Israel, he added that Palestinians "despair of the justice of man and international organizations."

"By doing this, they (the Israelis) have forced the Palestinian people to follow a path not of their own choice in order to remind the world of their existence, of their case," he said, referring to guerrilla action.

Assad also praised U.S. initiatives in attempting to mediate peace and Nixon responded, as he has to other Arab leaders, that he has "no instant solutions" to the problems of the region.

"You have indicated your concern about such matters as the Palestinians which we of course understand, your borders which we of course understand and your concern for other matters," Nixon said.

He said he and Assad Sunday would "explore in greater detail all of the factors involved in the problems you have touched on tonight."

"I can simply state tonight that we do not consider the first step the Syrian-Israeli disengagement agreement) to be the last step," he said. "It is a beginning and a good beginning."

Nixon's visit began with a brief scare, when Syria dispatched unannounced MIG fighter escorts to meet his inbound plane and the presidential pilot, unsure who they were, put Air Force One through a series of evasive swoops and dives until the matter was cleared up.

The seven tense minutes of aerial acrobatics and the protocol mix-up that caused them gave way to a relatively cordial greeting in Damascus, a stronghold of Palestinian sentiment and militant Arab feeling that was guarded by thousands of soldiers and security men for Nixon's protection.

Officials said the Damascus visit might lead to restoration of U.S.-Syrian diplomatic relations, but possibly at a high price. Syrian sources said Damascus would press for even more than the $100 million in aid and investments the United States has been considering.

Before dinner, Nixon and Assad talked for half an hour on Syria's plans for economic development and reconstruction, White House aides said.

No one in the White House party had an immediate explanation for the nerve-racking aerial incident that opened the visit to Damascus.

Suddenly, as Air Force One swept into Syria about 60 miles south of Damascus, four camouflaged MIG fighters approached and settled not far off the big jet's wingtips.

The president's pilot, Col. Ralph D. Albertazzie, threw the Boeing 707 into a violent righthand curve as an evasive measure and there followed seven minutes of aerial tag — with the President's jet zooming on right-angle tacks above and below the fighters —while Albertazzie tried to confirm their identity and intentions.

Albertazzie tried communicating with the MIG pilots through aviators' code maneuvers and finally got his answer from Damascus airport tower: They were indeed an honorary escort.

There was no early word of how Nixon took this, but back in the rear press section of the plane even veteran Middle East traveler Henry A. Kissinger showed concern.

"I've been here 14 times and none of this ever happened before," said Kissinger, who negotiated the Syrian-Israeli disengagement pact that cleared the way for Nixon's visit. Kissinger quickly broke off his chat with newsmen and returned to his seat.

White House officials awaiting Nixon's arrival in Damascus later said they had been told about the escort jets, but they did not know why Nixon's pilots were not informed.

Truckers warn of strike unless Congress acts

HARLINGEN, Tex. (UPI) — The president of Independent Produce Haulers of America who was instrumental in preventing a second truckers' strike four months ago Saturday said Congress had better aid the independent truckers' plight or a third shutdown might be in order.

"It seems the Congress of the U.S. is not concerned (with us) because the trucks continue to roll. What do we have to do — shut down the nation, hurt the economy —in order to urge Congress to action?" Millard Holden said in a statement to reporters.

Holden said he had just returned from Washington to lobby for a bill to increase trucking load weights and tares. He said he wasn't too optimistic.

"In today's world we can no longer take transportation for granted," Holden said. "It is a vital link in our nation's economy.

"During the last truck shutdown in early February the Department of Transportation in Washington promised to draft a bill to increase weights and tares. They have kept their promise. The bill is HR-14046," he said. "This bill is now lying dormant in the Senate Public Works Committee."

Holden said if the bill passed, it would mean truckers could carry more weight in their trucks.

"This will increase his revenue and helps offset the higher cost of operation," he said. "This way he will not have to increase produce rates that is passed on to the consumer."

Holden urged truckers and other interested citizens to wire their congressmen and let them know they must produce or they will not be reelected."

High court refuses to open up grand jury documents

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court Saturday refused to make public documents related to a grand jury decision naming President Nixon as an unindicted coconspirator in the Watergate cover-up, but it agreed to decide if the jurors had the power to list an incumbent President.

Both Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski and James D. St. Clair, Nixon's Watergate lawyer, had asked that the documents be made public. But lawyers for the six defendants in the cover-up case opposed it.

The documents are briefs and transcripts of private in-chamber discussions last May with Distrit Court Judge John J. Sirica, Jaworski, St. Clair and lawyers for the defendants. After those discussions, Sirica ordered tapes and documents relating to 64 White House conversations turned over to him for study and the President refused to comply.

No dissent was noted in the Supreme Court's brief unsigned order. Justice William H. Rehnquist, who worked for former Attorney General John N. Mitchell, refused to take part. Mitchell is a defendant in the cover-up trial, scheduled to begin Sept. 9, and Rehnquist has stayed out of previous consideration of the case.

The high court said it would hear oral arguments July 8 about the power of a grand jury to name a President as an unindicted co-conspirator. The White House had requested a ruling on that issue.

The issue of the grand jury's power will be combined with a dispute over whether Nixon can claim executive privilege in refusing to hand over the White House tapes and documents Jaworski says are needed to prosecute the cover-up defendants.

CASCADE, Idaho (UPI) — McCall, Idaho, Police Chief James Perkins was shot and killed Saturday following a high speed chase involving state police and county sheriff's deputies.

Perkins, driving wildly and reportedly shouting obscenities over the radio in his city patrol car, smashed into the front end of a camper vehicle driven by James Stavast, Grand Juncion, Colo., smashed windows and fired two shots into the Stavast car before he was killed by deputies and state police.

"When he hit our car he shouted, 'They won't get me here'," Stavast quoted Perkins as saying.

Cascade County prosecutor Robert Remalkus said Perkins was the object of a high-speed chase along state Highway 55 south of Cascade.

Citizens band radio operators who monitored police calls during the afternoon chase said Perkins apparently "went berserk," shouting obscenities to the officers chasing him.

Plane in search of yacht survivors

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) — A Navy P2V aircraft was dispatched from Pt. Mugu, Calif. Saturday to make a radar sweep of a 7,400 square mile area off the coast of Baja California, Mexico, for 10 survivors of the yacht "Shooting Star."

Coast Guard headquarters here said that weather conditions were providing the biggest obstacle in the search for the ship, which was last heard from in a "mayday" call Thursday.

Valley swelters in smog, 100-degree temperature

Heat wave hits; only slightly cooler today

By JON MORRIS

P-B Staff Writer

Hotter temperatures than expected, reaching 100 in the valley, along with heavy smog Saturday combined to send area residents to the beaches or in search of some shade.

The National Weather Service predicted readings in the upper 90's today, cooling to the lower 90's by Monday.

Health advisories were issued Saturday for all but coastal sections of Los Angeles County because of excess levels of ozone-charged smog.

Smog reached levels of .30 parts per million in the Pomona-Walnut valleys, according to the Air Pollution Control District, and was expected to remain there today. Lowest visibilty was between one and three miles.

It was no picnic in other areas, either, as the east and west San Gabriel Valleys received dosages of .25 to .30 parts per million. Most of the San Fernando Valley reported .20 parts per million, while .10 to .15 was reported elsewhere.

First-stage smog alerts were issued for the Pomona-Walnut areas, and the APCD advised motorists not to drive unless it was necessary.

Persons with respiratory and heart problems were advised to consult physicians before venturing outside. Small children and the elderly were told to curtail strenuous activities.

The wave was expected to continue, with the smog, at least through Monday.

The 100-degree mark reached Saturday was recorded for the area at Ontario International Airport.

A second-stage smog alert was issued for the second straight day for San Bernardino, County. Areas such as Riverside, Fontana, Bloomington and Rialto received the heaviest smog in this area.

Those who traveled to beaches to escape the heat were bothered by an onslaught of jellyfish and strong riptides, at least at South Bay and Santa Monica area beaches.

More than a million persons made it to county beaches.

IS THERE A GENIE INSIDE?

Mrs. Pat Nixon bargains with a shop keeper on a shopping trip in Jeddah, Saudi Arabia Saturday. She ended up buying a coffee pot while President Nixon was having talks with King Fiasal.

Escorted by machine guns

Pat goes shopping in Arab bazaar

JEDDAH, Saudi Arabia (UPI) — First Lady Pat Nixon enjoyed a brief shopping trip Saturday through an Arab bazaar, but she noted she would like to return some day without her machine gun-toting escorts.

Bowing to Moslem custom by wearing a long-sleeved dress in the scorching desert heat, Mrs. Nixon purchased a copper coffee pot for about $6 and discussed the peddler economy with a jewelry salesman, who spoke excellent English.

"How's biz?" she asked, testing the peddler's American slang.

"Pretty good," he replied quickly.

Like other tourists, Mrs. Nixon admired the hand-crafted gold jewelry selling for $6 a gram and the fine woven fabric, but satisfied her souvenir urge with the coffee pot.

"You have everything imaginable," she told one shopowner. "I could spend days here.

"I'd love to come back here some time without any escorts."

Mrs. Nixon had plenty of company on her shopping excursion. Five limousines carried the First Lady, traveling companions, reporters and Secret Service men.

Two jeeps led the motorcade. Machine guns were mounted on both, manned by soldiers assigned to keep a watchful eye on the First Lady. A street crowd applauded Mrs. Nixon from a distance.

Although her escorts were perspiring, especially the women who were told to wear long-sleeved dresses, Mrs. Nixon appeared cool and immaculate in her blue dress with horizontal white stripes.

An aide said Mrs. Nixon was fatigued from her difficult trip as she joined her husband for a two-hour flight to Damascus, Syria, Saturday afternoon.

She was the guest of honor Friday night at a dinner given by the queen. Moslem custom prevented her from attending an all male dinner given in the President's honor by King Faisal.

Pomona grass fire

POMONA — Firemen put out a small grass fire on Mission Boulevard, east of Temple Avenue Saturday. No injuries were reported.

The blaze consumed about two acres, fire officials said. Two engine companies and a battalion chief responded to the scene, at noon.

Nixon, Portugal's leader to meet?

LISBON (UPI) — Lisbon newspapers reported Saturday President Nixon and Portugal's new leader, President Antonio de Spinola, might meet in the Azores Tuesday. The government said it was just speculation.

Man tries to save 2 in water, dies in ship's propeller

STOCKTON (UPI) — A man was killed Saturday by the propeller of a houseboat as he tried to rescue two swimmers in the San Joaquin River delta.

John T. Debrick, 58, San Jose, was killed after he leaped into the river to aid a teen-ager and another man who became panicky while swimming near Bouldin Island, the San Joaquin County sheriff's office said.

The swimmers were rescued unharmed.

Door-to-door search on for escaped killer

EUGENE, Ore. (API) — Escaped killer Carl Cletus Bowles, 33, who once kidnaped California's state finance director remained at large Saturday after eluding a wave of police and exchanging shots with FBI agents.

Heavily armed officers made a cautious door-to-door check of homes in a four-square-mile area without finding a trace of the bearded convict.

"We certainly hope that Bowles has not taken a hostage somewhere in the area," Eugene Police Chief Dale Allen said.

Allen said residents of the area remained calm during the hunt for the man convicted nine years ago of killing a Lane County sheriff's deputy and kidnaping California Finance Director Hale Champion and his family.

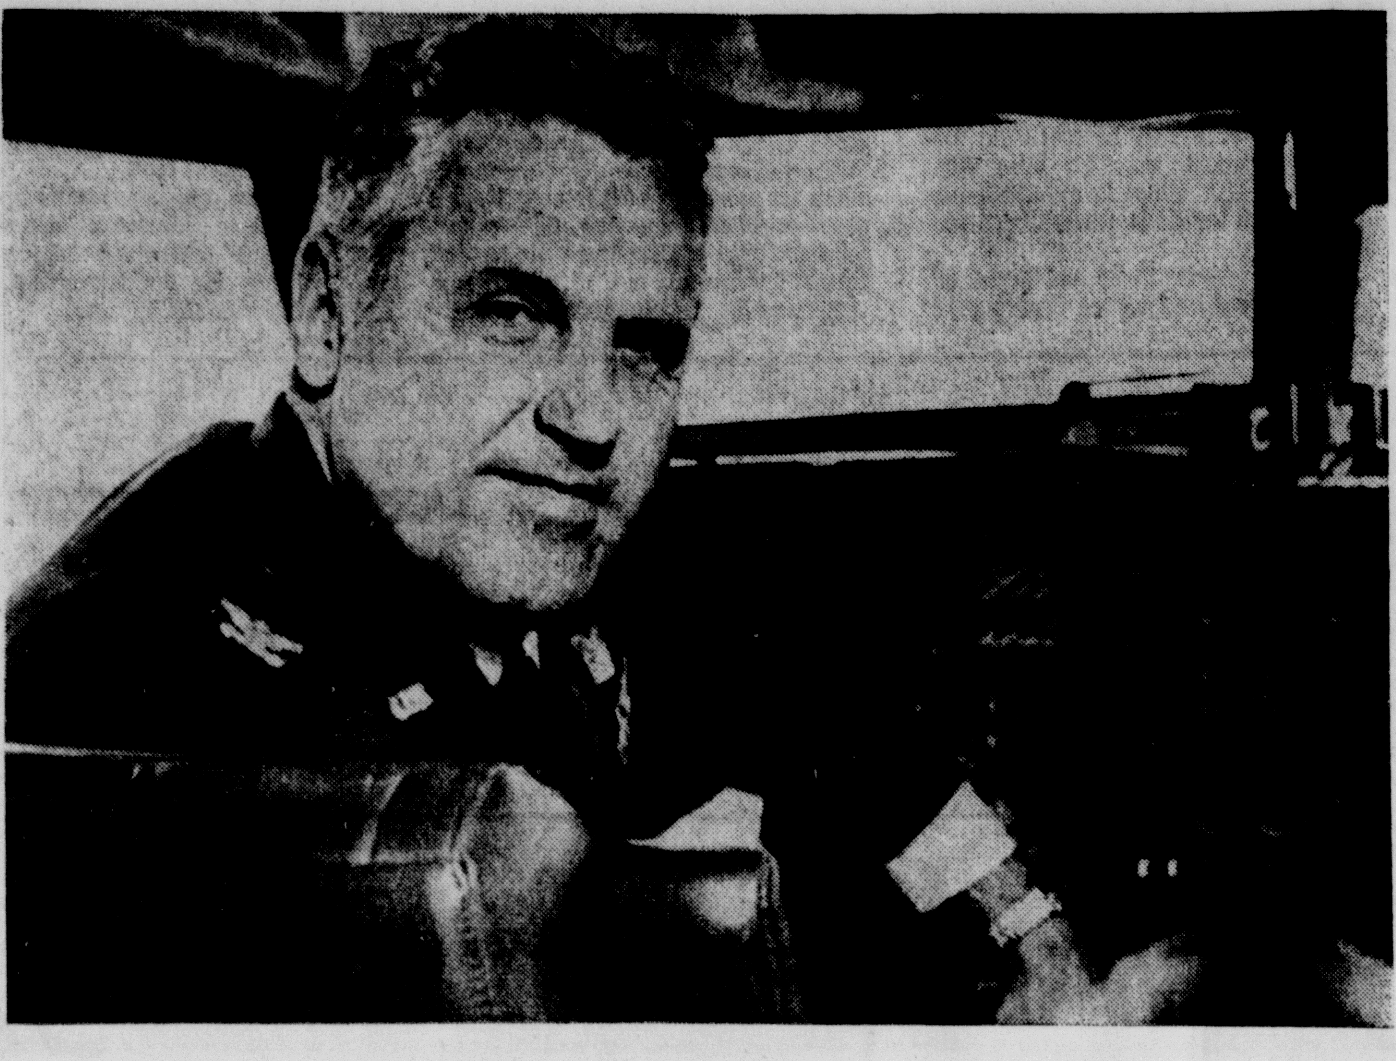
Two FBI agents pulled alongside Bowles in their car Friday as he walked on Willamette Street. They spoke to him, and Bowles drew a pistol, opened fire and fled.

Police sources said later that one of the agents tripped and dropped his service pistol, and that Bowles grabbed the weapon and made off with it. Robert Denz, assistant special agent in charge of the Portland FBI office, refused to confirm or deny that an agent's pistol was lost.

The escapee fled through the parking lot of an elementary school, and later ran through the back yard of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Herbison about three blocks away.

More shots were fired there, one of them crashing through a window in the Herbison home. Denz said he had not determined who fired those shots.

A door-to-door search was begun and 30 minutes later, officers located Joan Coberly, 23, in a house in the area. Bowles was visiting Mrs. Coberly on a "social pass" from the state penitentiary May 17 when he fled.



PILOT OF NIXON PLANE

If Nixon plane a target...

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Pentagon officials are reluctant to talk about security precautions for President Nixon's plane, but they do admit the craft is normally protected by air and sea and a special communications system.

The question of protection arose Saturday when Syrian jet fighters provoked diving, twisting evasive tactics by Air Force One before landing in Damascus. The four Soviet-built MIG fighters with camouflage markings appeared in pairs just as Nixon's Boeing 707 jet crossed the Jordan-Syria border.

Pentagon officials said their chief worry about Nixon's trip over the Middle East was that Air Fore One might trigger Russian-built SAM7 antiaircraft missiles, which target on the heat of jet engines and can be fired by a single soldier in similar fashion to the World War II "bazooka." At least one Palestinian guerrilla group was believed to own some of these missiles.

The Pentagon said the protection system for the President's plane is designed primarily to prevent crashes and engine trouble.

The Navy stations ships at 250-mile intervals along any oceanic routes the President takes and U.S. Air Force fighters are located nearby, officials said. The plane also has two communications systems for instantaneous ground contact, including the President's National Military Command System.

Although U.S. fighters have flown protective cover for the President in the United States, they do not fly over foreign nations.

It is customary, according to diplomatic observers, for host countries to provide fighter escorts while dignitaries are in their air space. When Pope Paul VI flew across the Middle East in late 1970, he was accompanied by Lebanese fighters over Lebanon, Syrian jets over Syria, Iraqi jets over Iraq and so on.

Robbery ring whose victims were shady characters broken by 2 cops

NEW YORK (UPI) — It was a sweet scheme, the way the ringleaders had it figured out. They would rob the homes of people with lots of money who wouldn't dare complain to the cops —people like loan sharks, bookmakers, and narcotics dealers.

And it worked. The ring, which involved as many as 40 men, sometimes was able to get away with as much as $35,000.

It worked because, as they figured, none of the victims squawked. But then the ringleaders made their big mistake —they tried to bribe two honest cops. The two honest cops, city detectives Vincent Rizzo and Edward Denaro, pretended to go along with the scheme until they got all the information.

Saturday the roof fell in on the ring.

The office of special state prosecutor Maurice Nadjari, which revealed the scheme, announced the arrest of three of the ringleaders —one of them a professional makeup artist who provided the gang with elaborate disguises when he wasn't working parttime for the police department.

Arrested were Stanley "The Fly" Simmons, 32, and Melvin "Cisco" Barnes, 29, and the makeup artist, Robert Martin, 30.

In a raid Friday on Martin's home, police confiscated an arsenal of 14 handguns, rifles and shotguns along with fake badges, wigs, masks and a professional makeup kit.

According to authorities, Rizzo and Denaro ran into Simmons in April while arraigning Barnes on a larceny charge. It was a reunion for Rizzo and Simmons —they had been high school classmates in Brokolyn.

Subsequently, Rizzo and Denaro, working with the Organized Crime Bureau, "accepted" $100 a week "protection" money.

Convinced the two were "rogue cops," the suspects told Rizzo and Denaro of the robbery ring. Rizzo and Denaro were good listeners.

Often, police said, the homes to be robbed by the ring were "fingered" by other organized crime figures in return for a percentage, but the ring sometimes found their own targets.

Three weeks ago, Simmons and Barnes allegedly recruited the detectives to join them in a different kind of robbery —that of the Brooklyn home of a city official.

The suspects took them to Martin, who concocted elaborate disguises so the detectives would not be recognized.

The robbery was scheduled for Friday morning but was postponed. Authorities decided to arrest the men before the robbery because the official's life might be endangered.

Message of Cal Poly graduation speaker

Keeping an eye on the road ahead in life, and looking backward over one's accomplishments may mean not seeing life for what it is today.

This was the message Marcia L. Lasswell, professor of behavioral sciences at Cal Poly presented to the graduating students at Cal Poly Pomona Saturday afternoon.

"It is easy in the kind of world we live in to get caught up in equating self worth with what we have accomplished and how far we have come. Somehow, looking back to things accomplished, the material possessions accumulated, and other signs of what we have produced serves as evidence of self worth.

"The problem of this measure of self worth, however, is that it more often than not results in the feeling of being overwhelmed by the unceasing need to produce more and more in order to continue to feel good. It's like a treadmill. It alienates us from what we really want in life and who we truly are," she said.

In summing up her short address, "A Psychologist's View of Commencement," Mrs. Lasswell said, "One of the most important lessons I have learned in life is that production does not have to be the goal itself, but instead, if I can do what I love, my enthusiasm for my work will make production a by-product."

Mrs. Lasswell, who joined the Cal Poly Pomona faculty in 1961, the year women students were first admitted to the Cal Poly campus, was the first woman in the university's history to address the graduating students.

Degrees were conferred by Dr. Robert C. Kramer, president of Cal Poly Pomona after he greeted the parents, congraduated the students and thanked the faculty for their involvement in making the current class the largest in the history of the university.

"The university does not run without a support staff," said Dr. Kramer as he paid tribute to the administrative team at Cal Poly.

Robert B. Marshall, senior class chairman, announced that the Class of '74 gift to the university will be a set of playground equipment for the new Child Care Center.

"It will be for youngsters today who will be Cal Poly students in the future. It is a gift of love," he said.

Dr. Kramer announced that the current class included students from 40 foreign countries, from 28 California counties and from 19 states.

The graduating class of 2,147 included 1,579 men and 568 women; 124 received master's degrees, and 431 graduated with honors.

Israel sounds note of concern

Egypt nuclear deal might tempt other Arab nations

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Deputy Prime Minister Yigal Allon said Saturday night he was "not happy" with the U.S.-Egyptian nuclear know-how agreement, saying it came to Israel as a surprise and might tempt other Arab states to seek atomic fuel from the Soviet Union.

In a national television interview, Allon sounded Israel's first note of concern about the deal, in contrast to his and Information Minister Aharon Yariv's earlier statements that played down its significance. But Allon repeated that the accord posed no military threat to Israel.

Allon, who is also foreign minister, said, "I am not happy with the paragraph concerning American aid to Egypt for the building of an electric power station based on nuclear energy."

"Effective inspection will prevent the use of the uranium (supplied as nuclear fuel) for military purposes," Allon said, adding he was sure "the inspection will be absolutely effective."

But he said: "I ask myself: Does Egypt already need atomic power so much, when she still hasn't exhausted the exploitation of energy from the hydroelectric power stations on the one hand or her independent oil resources on the other?"

In earlier Hebrew and English-language interviews carried on national radio and television, he and Yariv sounded no cautionary notes about the accord that was announced in Cairo Friday at the close of President Nixon's state visit.

But, Allon said in the later broadcast, "It might have been expected, owing to the special nature of the relationship that has evolved over the years between Washington and Jerusalem, that a subject like this would be made known to Israel..."

Asked whether the agreement would give other Arab countries "legitimization" to demand atomic fuel from Moscow, Allon answered: "legitimacy-no. An excuse-yes."

Allon had said ealier Israel saw little cause for concern over the Cairo agreement and indicated a similar accord would be reached in Jerusalem.

Allon said in a radio interview hundreds of thousands of Israelis would turn out to greet Nixon as he drives into Jerusalem in a closed bulletproof limousine from Ben Gurion International Airport.

Despite the smaller crowd, compared to the millions who saw Nixon in Egypt, "I'm sure President Nixon will realize this is a spontaneous, sincere and very warm welcome, not only on behalf of the people," Allon said.

Government sources said American security officials turned down Israeli proposals for sightseeing stops by the Nixons in the walled old city of Jerusalem and at the ancient Jewish desert fortress of Masada. Newsmen will be barred from viewing Nixon's tour of Yad Vashem, the capital's memorial for the Jewish dead of World War II, reportedly at the orders of the White House.

Asked about Israle's reaction to the expressions of closer U.S. relations with the Arab states sounded during the Presidential tour, Allon said:

"If the Arab governments don't misinterpret this closeness and try to impose upon America certain concessions at the expense of Israel, I don't think we have to worry."

Aside from talks to "clarify further commitments" to Israel, Allon said Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin and other Israeli officials will try to secure Nixon's help in winning emigration of Jews from Syria and the Soviet Union.

Walnut schools may seek end to daylight savings

WALNUT — School trustees will consider approval of a resolution Monday night to urge the U.S. Congress to go off daylight savings time next winter.

The Walnut board, meeting at 7:30 p.m. in Walnut High School's multipurpose room, will discuss a resolution that is expected to be considered by a number of Los Angeles County school districts.

If the majority of the districts favor dispensing with daylight savings, then the county superintendent of schools' office will urge Congress to enact legislation, officials said.

Complaints were common last winter about daylight savings because students had to travel to school in the dark in the early mornings.

The school board also will consider a possible salary boost for administrators at Monday's meeting. Administrators and other management have requested a 6 per cent increase.

Also on the agenda is a proposal for a new location for Del Paso Continuation High School, which is being forced by its landlard to find new quarters.

Error in headline

The Progress-Bulletin regrets an error in a headline Saturday which said that a La Verne man was involved in a killing.

According to the story, Larry L. Miller, 34-year-old La Verne man, pleaded guilty to stabbing his wife.

Mrs. Miller is recovering from stab wounds in the back and abdomen.

OXON HILL, Md. (UPI) — Robert Chambers, 28, said Saturday he will withdraw from Maryland's fourth Congressional district Democratic primary if the public feels he should not run against his father.

Chambers, a tennis instructor and self-proclaimed liberal, is running in the primary race against his father Roy, 54, who campaigned for George Wallace in 1964, 1968 and 1972. But the younger Chambers said he has been coming under heavy criticism for running against his father and will drop out of the race if the public tells him to.

In a letter mailed Saturday the younger Chambers urged his father to withdraw from the race to run against Sen. Charles Mathias, R-Md. So far no Demorat has emerged to run against the popular incumbent.

"Why don't you withdraw from the fourth district Congressional race and run against Sen. Charles Mac Mathias of Maryland? Mathias has supported forced busing which would give you a good reason to defeat him. But whatever the reason, please withdraw from the Congressional race so that I can have some peace of mind," Chambers wrote.

"I have come under a lot of criticism for running against you. The voters are blaming me for the father-son contest because they believe that the father in a household should have the right to run and have the support of his family. As a remedy, I will ask the citizens of this great country to help me conduct a poll.... I will abide by the results of the poll."

"I'm afraid of what the results will be," Chambers said in a telephone interview. "I would like the results to say stay in there and try to defeat my father, but I have my doubts."

If his father decides to run against Mathias, "I would campaign for Mathias," the younger Chambers said.

AN EXCITING MOMENT

Local gardeners reaping benefits from 'good earth'

POMONA — A 1.4-acre organic vegetable garden, a project of the Pomona Valley Organic Garden Club, has begun producing food for 20 of the club's members.

A result of cooperation between the city's Parks and recreation department and the garden club, the organic vegetable plot is adjacent to Philadelphia Park on E. Philadelphia St. between Towne and Gary avenues. Animal manure and decayed vegetable matter are the only fertilizers used by the gardeners.

Raymond Hutton of Claremont, chairman of the club which has more than 50 members, explains that the vegetable-growing endeavor is highly relevant to an era facing a world-wide food shortage.

"We're trying to get people involved in the food problem," Hutton says. "The more food you can grow yourself the better."

Hutton, himself, was the driving force behind the effort to establish the organic garden, and he enlisted the crucial support of Roger Taylor, the city's superintendent of parks.

Vivian Dube, a teacher at Arroyo Elementary School and secretary-treasurer for the club, is a native of east Texas. She is especially proud of her okra, a vegetable indigenous to the South, and her zucchini.

One of the more unusual vegetables grown at the Philadelphia St. lot is kohlrabi, a turnip-shaped cabbage which can be eaten like cauliflower. Mrs. Dube already has begun to eat kohlrabi she has grown.

The garden project, started eight months ago, now produces, in addtiion to the vegtables already mentioned, corn, reb cabbage, spinach, beets, collard and egg plants.

Four hospitalized in auto crash in good condition

POMONA — Four persons injured in a head-on collision on Garey Avenue at Eleventh Street Friday were listed in good condition Saturday at Pomona Valley Community Hospital.

The injured are Annie Pearl Smith, 34, of 2188 Glenroy St., Pomona, and her son Kevin, 6, Pete Hayes, 26, of 1114 S. Campus Ave., Ontario, and Bruce Smith of Mira Loma.

The accident occurred, said police, when Mrs. Smith attempted to turn left onto Eleventh Street from Garey Avenue in front of Hayes' car.

Three other persons sustained minor injuries in the accident but were not hospitalized.

Fourth blaze hits Industry warehouse

INDUSTRY — The fourth fire in 90 days did $6,000 damage early Saturday to a warehouse at A and E Plastics Co., 14505 Proctor Ave. The blaze, which broke out shortly before 8 a.m., was doused in about 10 minutes by two county fire engine companies.

The fire failed to close down operations, a spokesman said, and arson investigators were assigned to determine the cause.

Veterans roll on to Washington rally

LAS VEGAS (UPI)— A caravan of buses, cars and vans carrying about 150 veterans was rolled eastward Saturday toward a scheduled mass rally in Washington, D.C., July 4.

The AVM, which claims about 6,000 members, said a rally will be held at Washington's Lafayette Park, across from the White House to protest policies of the Veterans Administration.

Ron Kovic, Los Angeles, said the veterans are demanding improved conditions in all VA hospitals and increased benefits for veterans. He said thousands of veterans across the nation would join the march on Washington to recreate the 1932 protest in which World War I veterans demonstrated in a similar manner to seek increased benefits.

Kovic said a tent city would be set up in the park and the veterans would stay until their demands are met.

348 receive diplomas at Chino High School

CHINO — Chino High School held graduation ceremonies Friday evening on Memorial Field at the campus, as 348 students were awarded diplomas.

In the salutatory address, Lori Pinder told the graduates that they had been under great pressure to conform, but that they must now learn to make their own decisions.

Her address was entitled "The Teenage Fantasy."

Valedictorian Colleen Kayashima said that the high school was inheriting a society filled with technical achievements, but overshadowed by a multitude of social problems.

"We must face the ugly realities," she said, "overpopulation, pollution, political corruption, discrimination, immorality and drugs."

Education is the first step in learning to understand and reshape society, she said.

"It will take all of us to make this a better world," she continued.

The members of the class were presented for graduation by Principal Terry L. Terrill.

Closed door may have saved life

Mrs. Diane Rasmussen awoke to a popping sound at about 4:23 a.m. and discovered the couch on fire in the living room of her apartment at 1111 E. Seventh St., Apt. 7. She called the police department to report the fire, but could not make her way to the rear bedroom in the house where her son, James, was sleeping.

When firemen from Engine Co. 3 arrived they found the living room of the apartment totally in flames. Fire Capt. Beryl Felty and firemen John Schmelzle and Dane Prall entered the apartment through the living room to search for the small boy. Prall found James in the rear room and passed him from a window in the bedroom to an observer outside the building.

Capt. Felty said the closed door to the child's bedroom saved James from the heat and smoke of the fire and possibly saved his life.

Mrs. Rasmussen suffered smoke exposure, but was not hospitalized.

The fire, which was contained to the living room of the apartment, is believed to have been caused by a smoldering cigarette in the couch. Approximately $1,200 damage was done to Mrs. Rasmussen's apartment and the apartment above.

"Completion of a high school education is an important milestone for our wards, as it is for young people in the community," Kelly said. "Some of our young men hope to begin college careers. Others will be better prepared to compete successfully in the job market."

Kelly said that the graduates are being encouraged to invite their families and girl friends to the commencement and ball. Arrangements are being made for a live orchestra.

Efficiency tags now found on some air conditioners

By MICHAEL CONLON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you're thinking about buying an air conditioner before summer settles in, here's something to keep in mind.

Some manufacturers of room air conditioners are now placing tags on the units to tell you how efficient the machines are in terms of using energy. With electric bills going up in many parts of the country, that information may prove valuable in terms of your future utility bills.

Up to now, it's been hard to choose between two units with about the same cooling capacity but which require different wattage. One that uses more watts is usually cheaper than one that runs on less wattage — even though both might cool your room about the same.

To a degree the buyer still has a problem in making that choice. If you don't use the air conditioner very much, you may not save that much in electric bills by buying a more expensive, more energy-efficient air conditioner.

Formula Proposed

But in most cases efficiency is a good buy. And on May 1 of this year the government decided on a formula for manufacturers who want to may give efficiency information to the buyer in a standard formula on tags that will read the same throughout the industry.

The central feature of this tag is a number called an "energy efficiency ratio." The higher the number, the more efficient —and cheaper —the unit is to run.

The number is arrived at by dividing the unit's BTUs per hour (the cooling capacity) by the number of watts it uses. The tags not only will list that number, but also will show what the range of numbers is likely to be for other models with about the same cooling capacity. And the buyer is advised in writing on the tag that the higher numbers mean the unit will cost less to run over the years.

There are no firm figures available on how many of the 5.3 million window air conditioners turned out in the United States each year will be carrying the tags since the whole program is voluntary — although there are proposals pending in Congress to make it mandatory.

Helpful to Buyer

But there are indications some of the bigger companies are offering the information. Sears Roebuck & Co. tells us that energy efficiency ratio numbers are listed both in their catalog and on labels pasted on top of window units when they leave the factory.

General Electric reports GE and Hotpoint air conditioners have carried the efficiency numbers derived from the same formula for two years. The company plans to adopt the whole government formula tag for production starting this summer —meaning the tags will probably start showing up on their products later this year.

The Commerce Department now is working on a similar formula for refrigerators and freezers, but no firm date has been set on when it will be finished.

While the energy efficiency ratio number formula has been in use for some time, the fact that the information —and the explanation of what it is —will now be available on a standard tag should be a big help to the buyer.

Recent discussions in this column on how to avoid possible fire hazards witt "instant on" television sets prompted yet another possible solution from a reader in Alexandria, Va., who writes:

"My husband purchased an 'AMF Nite-Owl TV Timer' and connected it to the wall plug. The TV plugs into it. The timer may be set for six hours or less, and to watch, one must turn on both the TV and timer. However, it is necessary to turn off the TV only. Although at this point the 'instant on' is still burning, the timer will automatically shut off everything shortly without further attention.

"As I have a small child I would not want her to fiddle with anything at the back of the set, and find that we do have much greater peace of mind now."

Thank you.

Previous suggestions, in case you missed them, involved turning off the "instant on" switch behind the set, or installing an extension cord with a line switch between the plug and the TV cord so the power can be shut off without pulling the plug.

We'll be happy to hear your suggestions or complaints. Write us care of Buyer's Bilboard, UPI, 315 National Press Building, Washington D.C. 20004.

Artistic talent is inherited

Client asks if artistic talent is inherited. In a way, I think. Consider Edward Dickinson of Amherst, Mass. Certainly, he was no poet to compare with his daughter Emily, among the greatest. But one night a particularly beautiful sunset colored up the sky with pink and gold. The record shows Edward got so excited about it he rang the town fire bell violently until everybody went outside to see. Emily inherited something that Edward possessed before her.

City editors are a cynical lot. Years ago, when H. Allen Smith was a reporter, he telephoned the office to say he couldn't get to work that day, because he had slipped on the ice. Replied his city editor: "How did you get your foot in the glass?"

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS

Q. "How much did the first coast-to-coats telephone calls cost?"

A. Exactly $20.70 for three minutes. In 1915, that was. And that year, there were three transcontinental calls per day, average.

Q. "What proportion of the grownups in this country are over 6-feet tall?"

A. One man in 10, one woman in 1,000.

Q. "All right, Louie, get your Love and War man to recommend a diplomatic line I can drop on my wife now that I've forgotten her birthday?"

A. Suggests he: "How can you expect me to remember when you never look any older?"

Q. "What's the highest escalator in the world? And the fastest?"

HEALTHIEST

Most healthful place to live is where the average temperature varies at least three degrees from day to day in the summer and seven degrees in the winter. That's the claim of a climatologist.

It has been reported that food packaged in green sells best. Toys packaged in green, however, sell least well. Or so the toymakers report. They say red is their best package color with blue second.

"Truth always originates in a minority of one, and every custom begins as a broken precedent," said that sage Will Durant, sagely.

Just as a bullet can be linked by ballistics to the gun that fired it, so can rolled film be linked to the camera that took the pictures thereon, always.

Italian-Americans

Anti-bias league formed as reaction to stereotyping

NEW YORK (UPI) — When an apartment neighbor of Queens College Prof. Richard Gambino was found murdered, a police detective questioned Gambino repeatedly about his possible Mafia relationships and was surprised that this angered the educator and author.

The detective knew of Gambino's professional status—chairman of the first college program of Italian-American studies in the United States—but this might suggest Gambino got where he was through "connections."

Such is the logic, claim many Italian-Americans, that has grown out of the Mafia mania that swept the nation in the 1960s and rages on in the 1970s. Gambino's name alone—the same as that of a Mafia clan— was enough to make him of special interest to police.

Gambino is not the only American of Italian descent who is angered by a bigotry that links even men of eminence to a criminal minority. A group of business and professional leaders calling themselves the Columbian Coalition are channeling their anger into efforts to combat discrimination and ethnic stereotyping that has become respectable, even among educated, influential Americans.

Success Discounted

"So many men I talk to tell me their success is discounted as 'having connections' instead of being credited to talent, energy and drive," said Frank Bianco, a former public relations executive who is now executive director of the Columbian Coalition. "That's what they find most offensive. They tell me, 'Now that I own my own business, they won't let me own my own success.'"

Former New York Secretary of State John P. Lomenzo started the coalition, with headquarters in midtown Manhattan, two years ago and has enrolled more than 100 members at a $1,000 initiation fee. They include Phil Rizzuto, sports broadcaster and former N.Y. Yankees baseball star, TV personality Joe Garagiola, Bernard Castro of convertible bed fame, fabrics tycoon Franco Scalamandre, and fuel distributor Victor Allegreti, who is president of the organization.

The coalition's second Waldorf-Astoria dinner to raise funds for Verrazzano College on June 7 will be a showcase for such coalition supporters as Lee A. Iacocca, president of Ford Motor Co., Jack Valenti, head of the Motion Picture Association of America, and John Riccardo, president of Chrysler. Allying themselves with an Italian-American organization is a new experience for some of these men.

"Italians used to maintain as low a profile as the Jews, but ethnic stereotyping has gone beyond the tolerance level," Bianco said. "Italians have been singularly isolated and under great pressure to dive into the melting pot. We used to think you couldn't be ethnic and be American. Now there is a realization that much Italians brought with them and much in the Italian personality is valuable—worth putting up front. We are fighting our case in two courts—the court of public opinion and the court of law."

Film for students

Gambino, in a book, "Blood of My Blood: The Dilemma of the Italian Americans," recounts the responses he received from non-Italians he interviewed to the question, "What comes to mind when you think of an Italian-American?" He said the answers repeated with remarkable uniformity were, "the Mafia, pizza, hard hats, blue collar, emotional, jealous, sexy girls, overweight mammas, rough men, pop singers."

Musician can 'saw away' all night long

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — When Allen deLay buys a handsaw at the hardware store he doesn't buy it because he wants to build a house. He plays it.

"I buy it for tone, too," said the 59-year-old photographer, who first heard a carpenter play the tool in Topeka, Kan., when he was a boy. The saw carried him through the Depression, a seven-sergeant band that toured Alaska in World War II, and most recently a two-night stand with the Oregon Symphony Orchestra playing the Khachaturian piano concerto, a 19th-Century Russian folk ballad.

When he was 16, deLay said he found a saw hanging in the maintenance room of a Portland bank, and remembering the enchanting tunes played by the Topeka carpenter, began to experiment during lunch hours. He asked to take the saw home on weekends and was soon playing along with the radio.

A demonstration to the Milwaukie Grange one night as a 17-year-old soon brought more offers to hear his saw.

"I played for assemblies, garden clubs, for Job's Daughters," deLay said. "I'd play for a drink or dinner, and in those days that was really OK."

"It's all by ear, I just picked it up," he said.

DeLay's saw accompanied him in World War II and "played guys to sleep in the quonset huts." He tried out for a musical group while in Alaska and was promoted to sergeant to play in the seven-member "Arctic Antics." While touring Army bases there he met violinist Yehudi Menuhin and instructed him in the art of playing the saw.

To play his saw, deLay puts the wooden handle between his legs and grips the end with the left hand, thumb pushing back on the blade of the saw making a slight "S" curve. By increasing or decreasing pressure of the thumb the "S" curve is enlarged, flattened or moved up and down the saw. With a shortened violin bow, deLay strokes the saw in the "flat" of the "S" curve on the side opposite the teeth, producing a soprano-like melodious sound.

"It's an unusual tone, but a clean pure tone," he said.

"I haven't done much in the past years, just kept my mouth shut," deLay said. "But it's become such an oddity, and it's really well accepted."

DeLay says the highlight of his saw-playing career came during two nights last March when he performed with the Oregon Symphony playing the Khachaturian Piano Concerto.

St. Jude's mission still rolling along

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — Gasoline shortages and the leaping cost of living haven't stopped the St. Jude's Express.

This July, the mercy project run by some 25 Albuquerque area volunteers with donated goods will complete seven years of transporting tons of free food, medicine and clothing to remote areas of the Southwest and Mexico where they are most needed.

That's why the Express, which counts a small Cherokee aircraft and a truck as its principal material assets, is named for the patron saint of hopeless cases.

"This year, we have distributed more than 125,000 pounds of clothing, more than 3,000 pounds of food, and more than 3,000 pounds of medicines and medical supplies," Express president Art Eiffert said in a yearend report for 1973.

Dentist gives supplies

Beneficiaries of the mercy missions are mainly Indians and other persons living in poverty and being served by religious missions—both Catholic and Protestant.

Others during the past year have included a young man, paralyzed from the waist down, who was flown by an Express pilot to California for further treatment and rehabilitation. Fifteen priests and ministers got free transportation to their missionary posts the same way.

The work of the Express volunteers hasn't gone unrecognized and the rewards are all channeled to a furtherance of the group's charitable aims.

A Plainview, Tex., dentist—Dr. Kenneth Crum—donated $8,000 worth of office equipment and medical supplies, which were stored at Albuquerque for distribution to clinics in need of the items, said Eiffert, an employe of Sandia Laboratories in Albuquerque.

Costs Increase

When the Express' first truck was demolished in an accident, two Catholic parishes in Albuquerque provided sufficient donations for the purchase of a new truck. Several parochial schools made it possible for the Express to distribute 1,475 school desks in Mexico.

With inflation, Effert said, "our cost of operation has increased, as well as the cost of medicine and the food we buy. Dry milk has doubled at least. And pinto beans—last year we were buying them for $8 a sack, and now they are like $50."

Also, according to Eiffert, with the rise in the cost of living, "our contributions are down a little bit." But there is no thought given to pulling back on the services provided by the Express.

The project has five pilots and about 20 other members, including welfare workers, a Navy commander, a nurse, school teachers and defense industry employes.

Trucks Used

The idea of the St. Jude's Express took shape in 1967 in the remote Sierra Madre Mountains of Mexico at the small village of Sisoguichic.

The aircraft was acquired with money donated by the Raskob Foundation of Delaware, Eiffert said. He said in the early years of the Express, the plane often used remote rural roads on American Indian reservations for landing strips.

However, most goods delivered to the Indians of the Southwest are transported by truck, he said. The plane still serves about 15 missions, but always has safe conditions for landing at regular commercial airports in Mexico. Missioners to whom the goods are delivered meet the St. Jude pilots and pick up their cargos by truck.

Famed painting now in Russia

Armed guards and a squad of police cars met Leonardo da Vinci's masterpiece and escorted it to the museum near the Kremlin where it will be on display.

"Mona Lisa made the trip in very satisfactory conditions and has not suffered from her voyage," said Pierre Kouniam, director of Paris Louvre museum where the painting is normally displayed.

Demos hold edge in 5 of 7 district races

If valley residents follow their political party registration, area Democratic candidates will win most state and federal offices on Nov. 5.

Based on voter registration as of April 11, Democrats outnumber Republicans in the 62nd and 65th Assembly districts, 32nd Senatorial District and the 33rd and 35th congressional districts.

But in several districts where neither major party carries over 50 per cent of the registration, selection of who goes to Sacramento or Washington, D.C., could be decided by those listed under "miscellaneous" or "declined to state."

All the districts which include all or a part of the local valley have new boundaries which were carved out last year during reapportionment proceedings. In some cases, legislators had to switch their offices to new districts.

The districts, candidates, areas represented and voter registration follows:

Registration, Democratic, 56,521, 47.6 per cent; Republican, 54,616, 46 per cent; American Independent, 618, .5 per cent; Peace and Freedom, 391, .3 per cent; miscellaneous, 190, .2 per cent; and declined to state, 6,494, 5.5 per cent. Total, 118,830.

Registration, Democratic, 54,406, 46.2 per cent; Republican, 56,388, 47.9 per cent; American Independent, 602, .5 per cent; Peace and Freedom, 308, .3 per cent; miscellaneous, 363, .3 per cent; and declined to state, 5,700, 4.8 per cent. Total, 117,767.

—65th Assembly: Bill McVittie, Democrat, Upland, Chino city attorney; Peter VanderPoel, Republican, Chino, dairyman and member of Chino school board; William Vogel, American Independent, Ontario, interior designer. Includes Pomona, Chino, Montclair, Upland, Ontario and Cucamonga.

Registration, Democratic, 48,332, 52.8 per cent; Republican, 38,444, 42 per cent; American Independent, 411, .4 per cent; Peace and Freedom, 205, .2 per cent; miscellaneous, 302, .3 per cent; and declined to state, 3,849, 4.2 per cent. Total, 91,543.

32nd Senatorial: Ruben S. Ayala, Democrat, Chino, presently representative of 20th district; John Marcus, Republican, San Bernardino, attorney; Ray Clark, American Independent, San Bernardino. Includes Pomona, Ontario, Montclair, Chino and other San Bernardino County communities.

Registration, Democratic, 105,936, 58.3 per cent; Republican, 65,729, 36.2 per cent; American Independent, 1,030, .6 per cent; Peace and Freedom, 435, .2 per cent; miscellaneous, 470, .3 per cent; and declined to state, 7,969, 4.4 per cent. Total, 181,569.

26th Congressional: John H. Rousselot, Republican, San Marino, presently representative of 24th district; and Paul Conforti, Democrat, Glendora, educator and attorney. Includes San Dimas, Charter Oak and Glendora.

Voter registration figures were compiled in a "Report of Registration" compiled by the office of Edmund G. Brown Jr., secretary of state.

In a registration breakdown by cities, Chino, Montclair, Ontario, Pomona and San Dimas had more Democrats registered, while in Claremont, La Verne and Upland, the Republicans had the most number.

These follow:

3rd month over 100,000

OIA passenger totals mount

ONTARIO — For the third consecutive month, the number of passengers passing through Ontario International Airport exceeded the 100,000 mark. And based on last year's figures, the passenger count should continue strong during the remainder of the summer.

During May, officials counted, 101,073 persons getting on or off airplanes. This compares with April, 104,300 passengers, and March, 105,300 passengers.

This marked a big increase over May 1973, when 93,843 passengers were counted.

"Our best months last year were during the summer," said Al Dubiel, public relations officer. "We had 112,000 passengers during June, 117,00 during July and 126,000 during August."

Last month's passengers included 89,046 on scheduled flights, 11,966 on scheduled commuters, and 61 on non scheduled flights. There were no alternate operations.

This boosted the total number of passengers so far this year to 493,796, a 14 per cent increase over the 431,716 passengers for the same period last year.

The reason for the increase is "probably because a lot more people are becoming aware of our facility," said Dubiel. "And this may be due to the efforts of sales people from the various airlines which use the airport," he added.

Actually, he noted, there is a slight decrease in the number of scheduled flights this year compared to last year.

"We now have 72 scheduled carrier operations per day—36 departures and 36 arrivals. These flights connect Ontario with cities such as Chicago, Denver, Dallas, Portland, Las Vegas, Phoenix and also Northern California."

Popularity of the Chicago flight is noted by United Airlines starting a new service, said Dubiel. This flight will depart at 10:20 a.m., augmenting United's present service which has an 8 a.m. departure.

"United already has a large advance booking on its second Chicago flight, he added.

While the number of passengers increased last month, the number of flight operations was decreased. Officials counted 11,531 operations (landings and takeoffs), down from the 12,059 recorded in May of 1973.

Teachers may get 7% offer in Claremont

CLAREMONT — Schools Supt. R. S. Kirkendall will present to the school board Monday night a proposal for a 7 per cent salary increase for teachers.

The salary proposal, if approved by the board, would go into effect July 1, and would raise a beginning teacher's salary from $8,141 to $8,710 on the teachers schedule.

Kirkendall said he would support the proposal, put together during a recent meeting with the teachers group, the Certified Employes Council. The CEC has never publicly requested a percentage increase for this coming year.

Also for consideration by the board will be proposed salary increases for certificated supportive services, such as nurses and psychologists; administators, which includes principals and vice-principals; classified employes; and classified supervisors.

The board will discuss increased district contributions to group health insurance programs for employes, and changes policies on different salary schedule classifications.

The board will open sealed bids on the sale of the Garey and Sage school sites, and will receive oral bids on the two parcels.

NORMAN WILLIAMSON JR.

Red Cross unit elects officers

POMONA — The uniqueness of America lies in the vast scope of its volunteer programs, stated Dr. John B. O'Hara, dean of continuing education and educational services, Kellogg West Center, Cal Poly, when he addressed the 57th annual meeting of Pomona Red Cross.

With the outgoing chairman, Vincent F. Martin, presiding, the luncheon at Kellogg West was highlighted by the election of new officers and board members and the honoring of five volunteers.

Norman Williamson Jr. was elected chairman of the board for the 1974-75 term. Other officers named are Judge Clifton L. Allen, vice chairman; Mrs. Fred C. Utech, vice chairman; Mrs. Phillip Stoddard, secretary; and Joseph Corey, treasurer.

Hearing due for Pomona city budget

POMONA — The City Council will hold a public hearing Monday night on the proposed 1974-75 city budget of $18,198,701, which is 7.7 per cent higher than the budget for 1973-74.

The budget as it presently stands is balanced and will not require increases in taxes.

The budget was balanced through the use of more than $1 million in revenue sharing, $20,000 of the $325,000 received from the sale of the old City Hall, $86,000 from a fund set up for a northside library branch, and additional amounts from reserves and other sources.

The $18 million total includes $16,250,601 for the municipal budget and $1,948,100 for the water department.

Of the municipal budget total, 61 per cent would be spent for employe salaries, 22 per cent for operating costs, 13 per cent for personnel overhead, 2 per cent for bond retirement and 2 per cent for capital outlay.

In addition to the budget hearing, some two dozen other items are scheduled for the 8 p.m. meeting.

The council will consider recommendations from a study committee on the possibility of making the Community Redevelopment Agency separate from the City Council.

Fred Sharp, executive director of the agency, is retiring in September and the committee recommends that the council, as the governing body of the agency, enter into an agreement retaining Urban Projects, Inc. as interim executive director for a 90-day period.

According to the agreement, the cost would not exceed $21,000.

Urban Projects would assist "in developing and implementing an overall strategy for reorganizing the agency's structure so as to improve the agency's capability to function efficiently, effectively, and expeditiously in pursuing redevelopment goals and objectives."

The council also will be asked to authorize submittal by Pomona, as lead agency, of a grant application to develop a regional bicycle trail system that would involve the counties of Los Angeles and San Bernardino and six cities in those two counties.

HAND TO MOUTH

"Joy," a 14-day-old mockingbird, is fed by his (or her) surrogate mother, Linda Dalton, who saved the bird after it fell from its nest in her backyard.

A fussy gourmet

Bird rejects mother's food, prefers zucchini from human

POMONA — An unfledged mockingbird has rejected its natural mother in favor of Linda Dalton, her 3-year-old son, James, and her mother, Katherine Wolf.

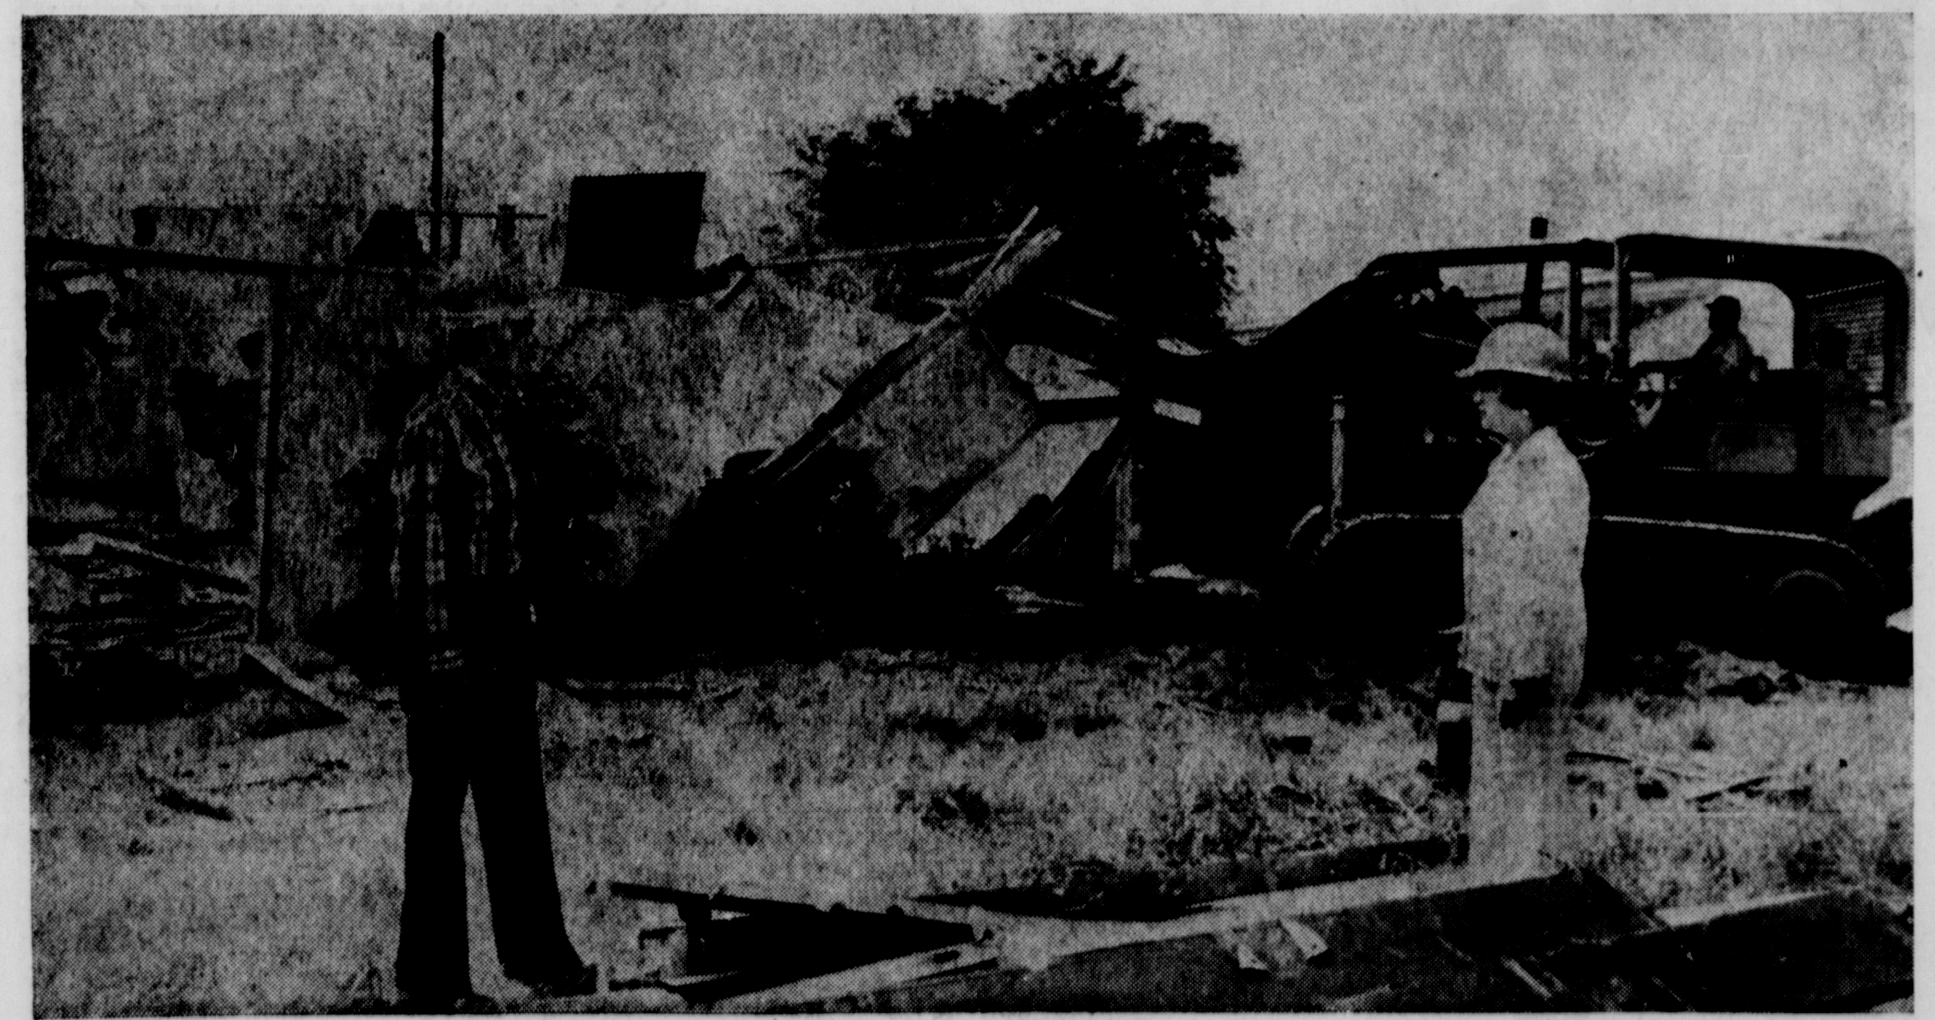
The hapless bird fell out of its nest in a tree behind Mrs. Dalton's home at 1365 S. San Antonio a week ago and was adopted by the inhabitants of the house. Mrs. Dalton fed the tiny bird a mixture of egg yolk and milk until it showed a preference for zucchini and other vegetables.

The mockingbird's mother has made numerous attempts to bring bugs and other conventional forms of comestibles to her fallen offspring, but the wayward tot has refused vehemently to take food from its mother's beak. Instead it eats from the fingers of Mrs. Dalton, her son and her mother.

After doing a little research at the library, Mrs. Dalton has concluded that her newest charge is approximately 14 days old. It has begun to fly about the house and has chosen a curtain rod as its favorite observation post. The bird appears to be undaunted by the two cats and the two dogs which also occupy the house.

Mrs. Dalton has read that mockinbirds reach maturity at 24 days. She plans, therefore, to give the creature its freedom in about a week. She hopes that it will decide to stay with her rather than take to the wild, but if the bird leaves, Mrs. Dalton believes that it may one day return to her with its future mate.

The mockingbird, Mrs. Dalton says, is extremely docile and seems to have accepted her as its surrogate mother.



BLIGHTED AREA CLEARED

Mayor Ray J. Lepire and Councilman Mrs. Georgia Grove, wearing hardhats, inspect site at 2738 Barjud Ave., as bulldozer zeroes in on one of five abandoned houses on the street to which City of Pomona has received title from the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Under a $2,675 contract received from the city, Thomas House Movers will demolish the vacant houses at 2738, 2726, 2722, 2718 and 2712 Barjud. The razed sites will become an open space belt until the city has funds for minimal landscaping. Lepire pointed to project as one way of removing the blight of abandoned housing while at the same time providing open space areas for the city's neighborhoods.

The environment loses a round

Nearly 178 years ago, George Washington left office as the first President of the embryonic United States. If at that time the fledgling nation could have been personified, it might have been depicted as a pink-faced lad with the world at his feet.

When the nation's first chief executive stepped down from office, he did not spew promises of nirvana in the years ahead.

Instead, Washington admonished the 13 disparate states to avoid enormous public debts, entanglement with foreign powers and a mammoth military, to remain essentially an agrarian country in order to feed its masses and preserve natural resources, to guard against an elite cadre of politicians centralizing and seizing power and always to be wary of big business.

It is ironic today to recall these ancient blueprints for the national future. Almost from the moment Washington turned over the presidency to his successor, John Adams, America began to follow an opposite course.

Disregard for Washington's warning on the economy and the environment is particularly relevant today.

One has only to look at our capricious environmental protection laws. And conservationists, who a few years ago had such a good thing going, today are prime targets for brickbats of corporations, bureaucrats, Wall Street's "Monday morning quarterbacks" and even the fellow who pumps gas at the neighborhood station, reasoning being that if these alarmists had not shot their mouths off, we'd still be burning away 34 cents a gallon hi-test.

Undaunted conservationists are nevertheless stepping forward again, but this time as sitting ducks and not messiahs.

Five conservation groups and three states filed suits against the Reserve Mining Company of Minnesota last month to stop its dumping 67,000 tons of industrial waste into Lake Superior every day. The plaintiffs charged the taconite rock discharge produced asbestos-like fibers in the lake which provides drinking water for residents of nearby Duluth.

U.S. District Judge Miles Lord subsequently issued an injunction against Reserve Mining citing their dumping as an "immediate health hazard" and ordered they cease at once.

On appeal, a three-judge federal panel overturned Lord's decision and issued a 70-day stay permitting the company to continue dumping wastes into the lake. The judges did stipulate that Reserve Mining must provide its own land disposal facility as soon as possible.

Reserve Mining officials claim it will require three to five years to complete the land disposal site. The judicial panel acquiesced, stating there was no proof of Lord's contention there is an immediate health hazard. (Reserve Mining has also requested $100 million in state and federal aid to offset the costs of preparing their land disposal.)

After all, the injunction might curtail Reserve Mining's production schedule whereas dumping will only effect anyone in Duluth who drinks water.

So Lake Superior joins that list of mistakes brought about by myopia and indifference.

Ailing isle

Romantic Ireland may not be dead and gone, as Yeats mourned sixty years ago, but it is sure a'hurting today.

Collapse of the coalition government—the five-month old Executive—came as the almost inevitable result of the general strike called by Protestant extremists — a strike that has crippled Northern Ireland with skeletonized power supplies, interrupted water and sewage service, and food shortages.

Creation of the Executive had been hailed as a substantial advance toward eventual realistic compromise and cooperation between the Protestant majority and the Catholic minority, which have been feuding for centuries. Moderates on both sides hoped that the fragile truce it created might give the province an opportunity to take a deep breath, search its collective soul and come up with some sort of brotherly acceptance inherent in the basic tenents of both religions. But ancient hatreds overcame.

What now? Temporary cessation of the strike certainly should help. But no one can tell for sure, of course. Brian Faulkner, who resigned as chief executive of the coalition government is one who won't give up. Asked if he intended to retire from politics he answered in a firm negative.

"I've come through a lot of difficulties in my life," he said, "and I have fought very hard, especially over these last two years, to try to see Northern Ireland set a path of progress and stability."

Dog bites taxpayer

Dog bites are costing the American taxpayer some $400,000 a year and maybe more, says an "urban ecologist."

According to Alan M. Beck of Washington University at St. Louis and author of a study entitled "Ecology of Stray Dogs," an estimated 10,000 persons are bitten each year by dogs. Government investigation of each case costs between $40 and $70.

Why the government should be investigating dog bites, he didn't say.

Nixon's risky Mideast trip

WASHINGTON — President Nixon's stubborn determination to visit the Middle East, in the opinion of experts, has placed him in the greatest physical danger of his White House experience.

He ignored secret intelligence warnings that the Popular Democratic Front for the Liberation of Palestine, an Arab terrorist ring, might attempt to assassinate him. They are believed to be equipped with shoulder-fired, heat-seeking Soviet missiles, which could knock down the presidential plane or blow up his ground transportation.

The greatest security precautions in history have been taken, therefore, to protect the President as he tours the world's most volatile hotspot.

Most of the Secret Service protection force has been airlifted to the Middle East to provide bodyguards for Nixon and to coordinate the security preparations of the host nations.

Intelligence teams departed a week ahead of the President and fanned out to every city on his itinerary. Secret Service chief Stuart Knight himself flew to the Middle East to direct the operations.

In case of an attack upon the President, a special medical team has been rushed to the Mediterranean and is now standing by on an aircraft carrier.

The five-man team is led by Capt. William J. Fouty, chief of surgery at the Bethesda Naval Hospital, and Dr. Myer Rosenthal, head of the hospital's Intensive Care Unit. Ready to assist them are three crack Navy corpsmen. The carrier was chosen because of its excellent hospital facilities.

The Secret Service considered the President's train trip from Cairo to Alexandria as the most dangerous time. The vulnerability of the train threw the security experts into a near panic. The Egyptians, therefore, stationed security police at every bend in the track along the entire route.

However, intelligence reports suggest that the terrorists, because of their good relations with Egypt and Syria, wouldn't want to embarrass them with an incident. They are more likely to attempt an assassination in Israel or Jordan, the two countries most hated by the Palestinians.

The intelligence reports warn, indeed, that the terrorists will hardly be able to resist attempting a spectacular stunt while the President is in Israel.

White House sources say the President insisted on making the trip, despite the risk, because he is determined to carry out his diplomatic objectives in the Middle East. He told visitors that the danger wouldn't deter him, recalling is experience with a mob that beseiged his vice presidential limousine in Venezuela in 1958.

Perhaps he also remembered that he received a hero's welcome after his return from Venezuela. Some insiders wonder whether he deliberately might now be courting danger in the Middle East to win public sympathy on the eve of the impeachment hearings.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: There is tentative talk inside the White House of extending President Nixon's travels to the Pacific. Congress would look bad trying to impeach the President, advisers feel, while he is traveling around the world in pursuit of peace . . . The President has told friends he sometimes remembered, sometimes forgot that recorders were taping everything said in his office. Those who have listened to the tapes agree he talked sometimes as if he didn't realize he was being bugged, other times as if he were making statements for the hidden microphones. Former Vice-President Spiro Agnew has told friends he'll hold his tongue until President Nixon is out of the White House. But then, said Agnew, he'll have a story to tell . . . The decision to take the patrols along the U.S.-Mexican border away from the Customs Service, Commissioner Vernon Acree complained to us, would cost the taxpayers $1.5 million. The budget managers have ordered the Custom Service to surrender the border authority to the Immigration Service. "They were tripping over each other's sensor devices, and there were even shootouts," a budget official told us. . . .

The Federal Aviation Administration, which licenses pilots and carefully regulates the number of hours they can work, lets the airlines overwork flight attendants on international trips. Some have told us of working 25 hours without a break until they couldn't respond properly to a hijacking or ditching. An FAA spokesman told us there "no justification" for licensing flight attendants or regulating their working hours. . . .

In our June 9 analysis of the American foreign aid program, we listed seven European countries while owe money to the U.S. In this "deadbeat" class we listed, unfortunately, the nation of Finland. It is true that Finland has an outstanding debt of about $8.8 million. But Finnish Ambassador Leo Tuominen has assured us that it is being paid off, with interest, in accordance with the loan agreements. "Finland is known around the world," he told us, "as a country which always pays her debts." . . .

In two columns last month, we revealed a secret White House master plan to use government agencies to generate votes for President Nixon in 1972. Not long afterwards, we appeared with White House aide Fred Malek, who authored the plan, on columnist Irv Kupcinet's television show. Unlike many other White House aides, Malek was able to disagree with us without malice. The transcript shows he finally turned to us and said generously: "The White House may not like you, but we find you are accurate, which is more than we can say for many of your colleagues."

BASH FOR BIBLE: Interior Secretary Roger Morton threw a bash the other night for retiring Sen. Alan Bible, D-Nev., and Rep. Julia Butler Hansen, D-Wash., at the stately Arlington House.

Outdoor torch lighting, wooden steps to the patio and other frills were installed at the taxpayers' expense. For the Arlington House, a Virginia estate, is run by the National Parks Service.

Food and liquor for the 100 guests was paid from a special Parks Service "discretionary fund," from souvenir sales. The fund has been set aside for promotion, entertainment and the like. An official spokesman said Morton's extravaganza cost $2,000. An unofficial source said it was closer to $18,000.

"What do you mean you feel left out? You get to take the picture, don't you?"

Gossip for today

The world is full of exceptions which, as the saying goes, proves the rule. And among those exceptions I feel sure, we must now include political contributions. As time goes on it becomes increasingly apparent they fail to live up to the Biblical admonition that it is more blessed to give than to receive. Indeed, instead of being more blessed, political contributions have now been ruled not only wicked to give but also wicked to receive — at least in amounts and denominations that can be easily traced.

But then a true statesman doesn't have to stoop to contributions in order to exist. After all, he knows we are going to pay him to take our money from us. What's more, he is going to charge us for handling it. And then, when he gives us a little of it back in the form of subsidies, small business grants, food stamps and increases in Social Security, unemployment relief and welfare aid, he knows we are going to bow down and fawn and smirk and loudly proclaim him a paragon of virtue and a fount of political wisdom — and when the time comes re-elect him for another term

OUR MAN IN WASHINGTON

Students get to see their school records

By RICK GOTCHER
P-B Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — Using his state's Freedom of Information Act as a guideline, Virginia Attorney General Andrew Miller recently ruled that children are entitled to see school records that have heretofore been kept confidential.

Miller rightly makes the point that children are citizens and should be accorded the privileges that entails. So, with a note from their parents, Virginia students can now entreaty teachers and principals to make available the "straight stuff" about their status as pupils.

In broad terms, Miller's effort is to insure students be given equal footing with each other and with the system. But his rationale fails to take into consideration that varying levels exist for individuals. That failure could have profound implications.

Not too long ago, it was customary for teachers to assign slow readers to themselves, as a unit; intermediate readers and fast readers received the same treatment.

Being relegated to the slow readers created an inherent distaste for reading among many of those in the lower group. It was humiliating to be publicly demeaned because of an inability to keep up with the class.

In some areas the categorizing of pupils continues. But many teachers are aware the system causes undue personal concern for students and they use other means.

The point here is that a pupil's personnel file may well contain private remarks teachers feel are necessary to pass on as a child moves from grade to grade. The significance of those remarks may be enlightening to a teacher — trained and equipped to deal with them — but what of a student? How can a child be expected to cope with a notation that says a learning handicap exists?

That information enables a teacher to proceed properly. But for the student, who has spent formative years dealing with his learning process in the best way possible, it can only be an ego-damaging revelation.

Further, other information contained in student files — I.Q. scores, various test ratings, etc. — may not be up to the level the individual feels is achievable. That kind of knowledge will urge some students to work harder, but it can also kill learning initiative for others who cannot accept the critical implications.

Teachers and administrators are fallible as anyone. Remarks they enter on a student's card may be correct. They may also be wide of the mark.

And, bluntly, children do not have every right their parents or teachers have. Some children are treated as welcome "house guests" and are extended gracious civility. While others are simply tolerated until they are old enough to move on.

It is somewhere between these two extremes — using a proper combination of head and heart — that is best suited to get the job done of rearing kids.

Already, youngsters are into awareness more than any generation has ever been. Much of that "awareness" is a commercial rip-off — movies that exploit; music that promotes drugs and sex; styles that intentionally stultify.

The Virginia attorney general has set a precedent that is liable to crack one of the last solidarities this society has reserved for its children. They enter the adult world soon enough; let them do so thinking they got there the best way they could.

Fire station project on L.V. council agenda

LA VERNE — The City Council will discuss contstruction of its proposed fire station in La Verne Heights when it holds its meeting Monday night.

Mayor Mike Morales said he decided to place the project on the agenda to get a progress report.

The council already has committed some $200,000 to the substation on N. Wheeler Avenue, including purchase of a new $65,000 pumper.

Morales said two possible sites, almost across the street from each other, are under consideration. He said he thought construction will start next year.

Money for the capital outlay is coming from federal revenue sharing funds.

The mayor said any person who wishes to comment on the city's plan to expand fire services to the north will have an opportunity to air his views at the meeting.

Pomonan has role in global weather study

POMONA — Stephen Whitaker of Pomona is one of the 4,000 scientists participating in a weather study described as the world's largest scientific experiment ever undertaken.

Whitaker, 25, will leave Moffitt Field for Dakar, Senegal, on Monday to join other scientists from around the world in a 100-day investigation of global weather. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Philip D. Whitaker of 1277 Douglass Drive, Pomona.

Whitaker graduated from Ganesha High School in 1966 and entered UC Santa Barbara where he studied physics. In 1971 he joined the Navy and was assigned to the National Oceanography Atmospheric Administration. He spent two summers in Alaskan waters on the USS MacArthur, which was conducting scientific surveys.

In 1973 the Navy sent Whitaker to the Atmospheric Research Center at Boulder, Colo., and assigned him to a specialized U.N. project known as GATE, an acronym for the Global Atmospheric Research Program Atlantic Tropical Experiement. He currently holds the naval rank of lieutenant.

Whitaker's wife, Suzanne, will join him in Africa for the summer. His assignment there will involve photographing clouds for future measurement, analysis and evaluation.

The weather survey includes 72 participating nations, ships from 10 countries and aircraft from five nations. It has been organized by a United Nations agency, the World Meterological Organization, and the project is under ths direction of Dr. Joachim Kuettner of the United States and Dr. Yuri Tarbeev of the Soviet Union. Its costs has been estimated to be $100 million.

Reading plan for youths in Claremont

CLAREMONT — The Claremont Public Library invites all children to its summer reading program, beginning Monday, with the theme—"Time Trek—Travel the Time Line — Share Books All the Way."

Children's Librarian Martha Ainsworth explained that a child may become a member of the program by reading a book and starting a folder which will be kept for him at the library, 1375 N. Indian Hill Blvd.

A star is affixed to the folder for each book a member completes. There is no maximum number of books to read.

"The Main ideas of the program is that a child enjoys what he reads without pressure," Mrs. Ainsworth said.

A large mural depicting the time span from prehistoric life to the space age has been painted for the program and is hanging in the main section of the library. Members may put colored tacks in the mural space representing the era of the book they have read.

Also continuing during the summer will be the library's monthly children's film program the second Saturday of each month in the community room of Frist Federal Savings and Loan Association.

A preschool story hour will be held each Tuesday from 11 to 11:30 a.m. for children 3 to 5 years old.

LA VERNE — The La Verne City Beautiful Committee received an honorable mention award from the Los Angeles Beautiful Association at the annual luncheon held recently, at the county Arboretum in Arcadia.

Comment was made about the committee's major project for several years, the La Verne Plaza. La Verne College's replacement of an old building with tennis courts in the downtown area also received notice.

Founders of beautification committees were presented five-gallon sized trees in recognition of their work. La Verne's tree will be given to Frank Johnson. About 9 years ago while he was mayor he appointed the first committee.

Expo '74 features 56 exhibitions

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — "The earth does not belong to man, man belongs to the earth."

These words were first spoken by Chief Seattle of the Suquamish tribe in 1854 when the federal government offered to purchase his tribal lands.

The statement is now emblazoned in 20-foot letters across a wall in the U.S. pavilion at Expo '74—this city's world exposition on the environment.

In sharp contrast are the metallic letters which form a passage from the Constitution of the Soviet Union affixed to the side of that nation's sprawling pavilion:

"The land, its mineral wealth, waters, forests, factories ... are state property, that is, belong to the whole people."

Ten foreign and 46 domestic exhibitors have come together to define "environment" in their own way.

Some exhibits touch on environmental themes lightly.

But few visitors go away from Expo '74 without some awareness of the world around them.

Just about all the exhibits on the 100-acre site fall into either of two groups: Those that are simply impressive and those that are impressively simple.

The Soviet Union heads the list in the first group with the most extravagant and flashy pavilion at the fair.

The fairgoer winds his way through 54,000 square feet of flashing lights, cascading water and massive and intricate displays on reforestation, city planning, endangered species, soil erosion and water pollution exhibits.

The mood is visibly different on Canada Island, where the Province of British Columbia shows a seven-panel slide show quietly projecting the beauty of the Canadian province.

The remainder of the small island has been turned into a park, with a children's playground for youngsters of all ages.

A large open-air mall beneath the canopy is sandwiched between an environmental action center and the Imax Theatre, possibly the most memorable fair experience of all.

Projected on the world's tallest indoor screen, measuring just over six stories, the movie is so realistic that those entering the theater are warned to sit near the aisle if they suffer from motion sickness.

The Washington State pavilion, centered around a melodramatic account of a young girl becoming aware of nature, includes a nifty toy called "decisions on the environment."

Visitors are given the opportunity to decide the fate of a small stream in an animated videotape presentation.

Two exhibitors—South Korea and Australia both present cases for comprehensive planning as a solution to the pollution problem.

Iran, Japan and Taiwan all express a similar theme of man's harmony with nature that has lately been overshadowed by industrialization and overpopulation.

The West German exhibit, although small, presents the devastation of strip mining in the brown coal development near Cologne and efforts made at reforestation in the area.

It also details the pollution problems of the Rhine River and instructs the visitor that technology must be brought into the picture when a river's natural regenerative powers are overtaxed by pollution.

In the middle of the exhibition, a simple sculpture presents for all to see a brief warning:

"Man destroys his environment to live. He must restore it now to survive."

Electroux convention cost high

NEW YORK (UPI) — Radio City Music Hall, New York's biggest theater, and the Waldorf-Astoria, its biggest hotel, both will be taken over June 27 through July 1 by Electrolux Co. of Old Greenwich, Conn.

Counting hotel bills and plane fares and overall traveling expenses of those who attend, president Charles McKee will spend half a million dollars on the vacuum cleaner maker's 50th anniversary sales convention.

Nor is such an outlay terribly unusual in American industry. Sales conventions costing upwards of $100,000 are common today.

The Waldorf won't be able to accommodate all of Electrolux's 4,000 or more guests, so the company is reserving space in two nearby hotels. A special train has been engaged to take the Electrolux regiment to Old Greenwich to see the factory and a company trade fair in nearby Stamford.

The fair will include a huge display of early vacuum cleaners and antique cleaning tools. Electrolux will spend $100,000 on this show, which will be sent all over the country as an educational exhibit.

The sales folk will be entertained both in New York and Old Greenwich by musical and other stage stars in a show being put together for Electrolux by Jack Morton Productions, Inc., of New York.

Electrolux is a division of Consolidated Foods Corp. of Chicago, the empire built by Nathan Cummings. Originally a small outfit like most vacuum cleaner makers, it has been built up by Consolidated Foods under McKee's leadership until its sales now run to $250 million a year.

In addition to home vacuum cleaners it sells floor polishers and waxers and industrial floor care machines and supplies. It is one of Consolidated Foods' two big house-to-house marketing companies that make their own products. The other is the Fuller Brush.

Asked just what a company hopes to get out of such an extravaganza, a spokesman for Electrolux explained succinctly: "Enthusiasm! We've been doing this for years. This 50th anniversary show will just be bigger than those of previous years, but the idea is the same. Get everybody together for a few days, show them a good time and reward those who have done exceptionally well with prizes. Experience shows you can't beat that for sales incentive.

He said Electrolux was returning to the Waldorf for the first time in about 15 years. "We used to hold all our sales conventions there until they got too big for the hotel. So, in recent years, we've had several regional shows instead of one big one."

Bill Morton of Morton Productions also said a convention and show could create sales incentive. He cited other recent shows of this kind by Deering Milliken, the textile people, Sony, the Japanese TV and radio producer, and State Farm Mutual Insurance Co. as having been successful in generating enthusiasm in the sales force.

"For a time last winter, my company and other producers of sales convention shows and trade fairs were worried that the gasoline shortage would hurt our business," Morton said. "Some of our customers did delay shows. Now everybody is going ahead full blast and things look rosy unless there's another gasoline shortage."

Morton said several thousand talent agents, convention arrangers and other firms around the country are producing or contributing to such shows. "We hire an awful lot of musical, acting and writing talent, stagehands, electricians and the like," he said. "and the number of shows that cost $100,000 or more would surprise you."

Counties of all sizes

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The 254 counties in Texas vary widely in size, from tiny 147 square miles of Rockwall County near Dallas to giant 6,,208 square mile Brewster County near Mexico. Brewster is equal to the combined sizes of Connecticut and Rhode Island.

Men's liberation movement increasing

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Family Editor

Over chicken with walnuts in an oriental eatery he told how the Men's Liberation Movement he heads will make life happier for men, women and children.

Farrell, of Arlington, Va., was in town to run a two-day meeting of the National Organization for Women (NOW) Task Force on the Masculine Mystique. He is national coordinator of that group.

The Men's Liberation Movement was spawned at that conference.

The spirit of it all in many ways runs on tracks put down by the Women's Liberation Movement. Lib and let Lib seems the thrust in each movement.

"We want to give every person the freedom to get into any area and pursue it," Farrell said. "Regardless of sex."

Farrell's wife, Ursula, is a mathematician and White House Fellow. She is executive assistant to the Secretary of the Treasury.

When she moved to Virginia from New York, Farrell pulled up his roots—becoming "the victim of a transfer," as many corporation wives refer to themselves when the company says "move."

He lectures on the movement and leads consciousness raising groups—the latter being key to the male liberation movement. He also writes and will tell all about the movement in a book that's to come out in the fall. It's called "The Liberated Man" (Random House).

One trouble is that most men don't realize how bad things are, according to Farrell. That's why the consciousness-raising groups—to make them understand how much better their lives could be if they were truly liberated.

Farrell, who will be getting a Ph.D. from New York University soon, said on the male problem about 300 consciousness-raising groups are functioning in the nation—on the male problem.

Problems of masculinity are considered at the meetings. Men meet alone, women meet alone, then they meet together to discuss the problems. Then they go back to several meetings of the single sex format. The meetings last about four hours and span several months' of weekly sessions.

Farrell said the problems of masculinity include pressures on a boy to recall with joy his first touch of Playboy magazine, his first Little League exposure. Also: such masculine pressures as-boys never cry, boys always are strong, boys and-or men must always be problem solvers.

"Middle-age is when men realize how the male mystique has been hurting them," Farrell said.

"They're on the corporate ladder and know they aren't going to make it to the top in middle-age—or else they may even fall off. They think they've been working all their lives as a way of showing love for their families.

In middle age they find they don't know how to express love to wife or children."

At this stage the men find some time to spend with the children -something they have been promising for many years. They make the time only to find the children are grown and they don't really have the time to spend with a dad who's just discovered them.

Farrell said a society that makes "success objects" out of men keeps the men in the rat race. This success object —win the game, bring home the bacon —role is just as unfair to men as is the sex object role thrust on women.

The destructiveness of the success object role is not so visible. American society values success so much, according to Farrell. Running after success can make a man race all the way to the grave —with never having time to know or be what he wants to be.

"The key to masculine liberation is giving every man a chance to ask —What do I want to do with my life; How do I make a living doing it," Farrell said.

"Today the questions are: How do I make a living and how must I shape myself to make that living." Young women can take a little test to show if they are helping to make success objects out of men. Farrell said:

"If the boy you love wants to be a poet, would you introduce him to your parents and friends with the same pride you'd introduce a young man who wanted to be a doctor or lawyer?"

"If you say yes —you are not making a success object out of men. If you say "no" you are."

NOW's Masculine Mystique Task Force focuses on those problems of masculinity which simultaneously hurt both women and men.

Consider:

The expectations for a man to dominate in conversations prevents a man from listening while it discourages a woman's full participation.

The pressure of society which dictates a dependent role for a woman pressures a him to put his ego on the line to be sexually indirect forces solver. The pressure for her man into being the problem by taking the initiative.

Farrell said:

"The Task Force's belief that the problems of masculinity start in many of the same areas in which the discrimination against women occur, has led to its encouragement of research and actions in the areas considered in the past only concerns of women's lib:

These areas include advertising, labor, reproduction, among others.

In advertising, the Male Mystique Task Force wants "elimination of the 'macho' figure." This would relieve the pressure on men to constantly perform and compete.

In communications, it is the Task Force position that violence and conflict orientation of the press should be minimized to allow space devoted to growth values. The former is part of the masculine mystique.

In labor, the Task Force asks for provisions for paternity leave and split work shifts, allowing men to participate in the lives of their families; elimination of division of work into men's jobs and women's jobs.

In reproduction, the Task Force wants more research on male birth control, reversible vasectomies, re-education of male attitudes toward their sex organs.

Great-grandma gets her high school diploma

BURLINGAME (UPI) — Margaret Moore, a 84-year-old great-grandmother, finally has her diploma.

Mrs. Moore, mother of six children, grandmother of 22, and great-grandmother of two, has been working 10 years for the high school diploma she received recently at Burlingame High School.

"I remembered I had studied many of these things when I started school in Macon, Miss.," she said.

"But science was the hardest thing I ever studied. We had nothing like that at all when I was a girl.

"School was three miles away and we had to walk."

Chinese love seat

By DOROTHY HAMMOND

QUESTION: I am interested in learning the value of this Chinese love seat with exquisite hand carving. P.G.S.

ANSWER: Your ornately carved seat is an example of Chinese export furniture, fashionable during the late nineteenth century. Today, pieces like yours are selling around the $400-$500 figure.

QUESTION: Because heavy Victorian pieces of furniture are not too popular in our area — and the amount we can spend on furnishings is limited—we have been able to purchase a graet many handsome old pieces very reasonable. One of the most interesting is a metal English coal vase in the shape of a nautilis shell, complete with small matching shovel. This fancy old containers still retains most of its original transfer-decorated gilt, and has been nicely japanned on the front side. We will appreciate anything you can tell us about these objects. M.H.

ANSWER: Coal vases — fancy containers for lump coal —became popular in English homes during the second half of the 19th century. Many were made in the metal and japanning shops of Wolver-catalogs of American jobbers during the 1870s.

QUESTION: Can you tell us what a middle-sized pressed-back rocking chair might be worth? The one that we have is solid oak with nicely turned hampton, the oldest center for iron trade in England. In 1862, Jones Brothers and Company introduced a new type of coal vase made like yours, and because of its unusual shape, rival companies copied this form. Many were exported to America and can be found illustrated in spindles, original seat (caned), and has just been refinished. My crude drawing will give you an idea of the style and size. G.R.

ANSWER: Fancy, refinished, pattern-back oak rockers like yours bring premium prices nowadays, selling from $75-$90.

QUESTION: I have many different items and find it impossible to evaluate most of what I have. I know that antique dealers use a manual which gives an estimated value as per market price for items from coffee grinders, butcher blocks to an old hutch . . . . etc. It would be appreciated if you could tell your readers of at least one good one of general nature that I could purchase or borrow from our local library (however, the library copies we have here are of an antique-nature in themselves.) M.H.L.

ANSWER: The three most popular price guides on the market are: Twelfth Antiques and their current prices by Edwin G. Warman, Warman Publishing Company, 8 Frankhoover Street, Uniontown, Pa. 15401; The Complete Antiques Price List by Ralph & Terry Kovel, Crown Publishers, Inc., New York; and the Antique Trader Price Guide to Antiques (published quarterly), Babka Publishing Company, P.O. Box 1050, Dubuque, Iowa 52001.

QUESTION: I recently purchased a 12-inch pewter plate for under fifty dollars. A very nice clear touch mark indicates that this piece was made by "L.H. Vaughan, Taunton, Mass."

Upon examining this plate more closely, I also found two other marks, one of which reads "L.H. Vaughan, Pewter." Is it true that the more recent pewter is marked in this fashion? How about those pieces marked "Pewter by Wilcox, Puritan Pewter, and [illegible] Pewter? F.F.

ANSWER: When the word "PEWTER" is found on an article, this indicates that the piece was made during the present century.

QUESTION: My question concerns two pieces of beautiful Heisey glass, two mallard ducks or geese — one with wings up and the other with wings down. Both are perfect. Can you tell me their value and if the firm that made them is still in operation. These were purchased new by my mother-in-law many years ago. Mrs. O.C.

ANSWER: The A.H. Heisey Company began operations in 1895 at Newark, Ohio, and the firm's name and molds were purchased by the Imperial Glass Company of Bellaire, Ohio, in 1958. Today, Heisey figures like yours are selling for about $50 each.

And God... created fathers

By ERMA BOMBECK

And a female angel nearby said, "What kind of Father is that? If you're going to make children so close to the ground, why have you put Fathers up so high? He won't be able to shoot marbles without kneeling, tuck a child in bed without bending, or even kiss a child without a lot of stooping."

And God smiled and said, "Yes, but if I make him child-size, who would children have to look up to?"

And when God made a Father's hands, they were large and sinewy.

And the angel shook her head sadly and said, "Do you know what you're doing? Large hands are clumsy. They can't manage diaper pins, small buttons, rubber bands on pony tails or even remove splinters caused by baseball bats."

And God smiled and said, "I know, but they're large enough to hold everything a small boy empties from his pockets at the end of a day . . . yet small enough to cup a child's face in his hands."

And then God molded long, slim legs and broad shoulders.

And the angel nearly had a heart attack. "Boy, this is the end of the week, all right," she clucked. "Do you realize you just made a Father without a lap? How is he going to pull a child close to him wihtout the kid falling between his legs?"

And God smiled and said, "A Mother needs a lap. A Father needs strong shoulders to pull a sled, balance a boy on a bicycle, or hold a sleepy head on the way home from the circus."

God was in the middle of creating two of the largest feet anyone had ever seen when the angel could contain herself no longer. "That's not fair. Do you honestly think those large boats are going to dig out of bed early in the morning when the baby cries? Or walk through a small birthday party without crushing at least three of the guests?"

And God smiled and said, "They'll work. You'll see. They'll support a small child who wants to 'ride a horse to Banbury Cross,' or scare off mice at the summer cabin, or display shoes that will be a challenge to fill."

God worked throughout the night, giving the Father few words, but a firm, authoritative voice; eyes that saw everything, but remained calm and tolerant.

Finally, almost as an afterthought, He added — tears. Then He turned to the angel and said, "Now, are you satisfied that he can love as much as a Mother?"

The angel shuteth up.

Gov. Evans urges amnesty for Nixon over Watergate

SEATTLE (UPI) — Republican Gov. Dan Evans of Washington urged Americans recently to join together and end the Weatergate affair by granting amnesty to President Nixon.

Evans, immediate past president of the National Governor's Conference, told a banquet meeting of the National Council of Christians and Jews that amnesty would end the turmoil for most Americans who he said are unsure about the president's culpability in Watergate.

He said the nation is headed down a road "with three perilous forks: resignation, which would leave millions more uncertain about the truth; impeachment, which would cause increasing turmoil and increasingly dismay among citizens; and acquittal, perhaps the least disruptive but not acceptable to many today who believe passionately in the President's guilt."

Evans said his plea for amnesty was not for "a man or even an office, but for a country and its people." He called for a joining of hands in a new political start free of the conflict and turmoil of Watergate.

He said he was prompted to suggest the alternative of amnesty when he noticed in the daily newapapers "niggling articles speculating on the intracacies of the Watergate affair" in the same edition with headlines about "an unprecedented reception for an American president" in Egypt.

He said the two views of Nixon were "a Jekyll and Hyde view of the President, totally without parallel in this nation's history."

"The cheers were for a nation and its people, as well as for the man," Evans said.

First office baby at Ms. proves boon to employes

NEW YORK (UPI) — When she was three months pregnant and job-hunting, Phyllis Langer felt most uneasy during interviews when asked:

"You're not going to have children, are you?"

Or, when asked:

"You don't have any children, do you?"

She heard of an opening at MS. Magazine, the publication spawned by the women's liberation movement by, among others, Gloria Steinem.

"I called," Mrs. Langer said in an interview. "And I said at once—I am pregnant. I hear you have a job opening."

Mrs. Langer, expectant mother, got the job on the staff of MS. Magazine. In August of '73, little Alix was born. She has become the first MS. Office Baby.

"I have been taking Alix to my office at MS. Magazine since she was five weeks old," Mrs. Langer said. "This has allowed me to see her grow and be with her during all those marvelous firsts—first smile, first word, first crawl—while also continuing to work in a job that is important to my feeling of independence."

Mrs. Langer said it is very important to she and Alix's father, Arnold, that they spend as much time with her as possible.

"We share the responsibility of her care at home and I find it important to integrate her into my work life."

What has happened at the office with Alix there is something of an old-fashioned nature. As Mrs. Langer put it:

"We no longer have large family networks and community ties in which children once were able to grow and develop within a more supportive and natural atmosphere.

"In our society, children often are the 'exclusive property' of two parents. But Alix is fortunate because she has an entended family at MS.—42 mothers and four fathers.

"It allows her to come in contact with people who love her, play with her, and help her to learn what people and the world are really like."

In the extended family of old —three generations living within earshot of one another— many hands helped to raise the babies and to spread work as well as joy. Mothers of that era weren't so prone to hang by the fingernails over being all alone. And fathers felt less trapped. Burdens could be shared.

Mrs. Langer said Alix's father has taken her with him to appointments associated with his work. As a result she has also made friends in the travel business.

Alix goes to the office three days a week. The other two working days a sitter comes in. Mrs. Langer has a set of the baby's gear in the office—food, case of pampers, other things. The baby, now nine months, sleeps in her stroller which makes into a bed.

Having Alix at MS. has allowed many of the staff members, for the first time, to have an ongoing relationship with an infant.

Some are taking new looks at motherhood.

"They are participating in all the ups and downs—with diaper changing, the feeding, the crying, the joys of her breakthroughs," Mrs. Langer said.

"This is a rich experience for Alix, an enlightening one for staff members and most certainly a boon for me."

MS. Magazine is expanding its quarters and if the policy of office babies continues, who knows, there may be a playroom for the little ones.

Patricia Carbine, publisher of MS. Magazine, talking about the office baby, said:

"Ever since Alix came to MS., I've stopped worrying about how to get enough light and sun into our busy lives.

Right on, little Alix!

Computers used to find campsites

NEW YORK (UPI) — Computers are coming to the rescue of summer vacation campers who are finding overnight sites in popular state parks increasingly difficult to find.

A computerized campsite reservation system, devised by Ticketron, was pioneered successfully in California in 1971 and was extended to Virginia the following year. Since then, Florida, New York, Ohio and Pennsylvania have joined the system which may eventually become nationwide.

The service is available in 1,000 department stores, shopping centers and banks. Computers have information on the space inventory at every campsite, issue reservations for place and time desired, or provide information on alternate camping areas if the preferred site is filled up.

The system eliminates the slow process of making reservations by mail or the risky business of finding locations by chance. Guaranteed reservations also will save gallons of precious gasoline and dollars because campers will no longer have to go from park to park looking for space.

"Campsite reservations were a logical extension of the theater-sports-family show concept which has made computerized tickets a nationwide concept in only six years," said William Schmitt, president of Ticketron. "We envision the day in the not too distant future when the vacationer can go coast-to-coast with every night's campsite assured in advance by computerized ticketing."

Death toll drops

The National Safety Council reports the nation's accident death toll dropped 1 per cent in 1973 and gives part of the credit to the gasoline shortage.

Watson overtakes Arnie

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (UPI) — Tom Watson, who was five years old when Arnold Palmer won his first pro tournament, birdied three of the last six holes Saturday to vault past Palmer and take the third round lead in the U.S. Open.

The 24-year-old Watson, only in his third year on the tour, escaped near-disaster with a bogey on the final hole to shoot a one-under-par 69 for a 54-hole total of 213.

His performance was only the sixth sub-par round in this tournament—one of the highest scoring Opens in recent years— and left him with a one-shot lead over Hale Irwin, who had a 71 Saturday.

Three other men who shared the second round lead with Irwin —Palmer, Gary Player and Ray Floyd —drifted back and when the day was over, only the 44-year-old Palmer could still be said to have a chance at the title.

Palmer started the day with a brief charge reminiscent of old but then encountered more of the problems that have been dogging him in recent years, bogeying the final two holes. He was alone in third place at 72-216.

Jim Colbert, Bert Yancey and Frank Beard were two strokes further back at 218.

Watson, a frequent challenger in the last year and a half but still looking for his first professional victory, said before he went out that he felt he — like Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino before him —was capable of winning the Open for his first pro victory.

"I've been in this position before," Watson said. "This time I hope to break through."

"I think I've learned from my failures. Of course the U.S. Open has more pressure than any of the other tournaments. It's the best tournament and the toughest —it has more pressure that the others."

Watson began the day a stroke behind the leaders and parred his way around until the tough ninth hole, where he missed a three-foot putt and made a bogey.

But he got that shot back at 13, a 212-yard par-3, where he ran in a 28-foot birdie putt. At both 16 and 17—exceptionally tough and long par-4s—Watson belted his iron approach shots to within 10 feet of the cup and sank both putts for birdies.

With Palmer and Player in the group directly behind him, and their huge gallery closing in, Watson hit his second shot at the 18th hole into a thicket of tall rough at the right side of the green.

He wedged over the green and into a bunker from there, but hit a superb sand trap close to the hole and made the pressure-packed putt for a bogey.

Player, the Masters champion who openly was talking about a Grand Slam sweep this year, found nine bunkers on the first 14 holes, finished with a back-nine 41 in a round of 77 and was at 220, seven strokes behind Watson.

Floyd, a non-winner since his triumph in the 1969 PGA championship, bogeyed the first four holes and ballooned to 78-221. He was tied at that figure with British Open champion Tom Weiskopf, who had 72 Saturday.

Hubert Green and Lanny Wadkins both were at 224 and Jack Nicklaus, defending champion Johnny Miller and Jerry Heard had 225 totals.

Palmer, the aging hero of millions, birdied two of the first four holes and assumed an early two-stroke lead on the field that sent visions of a "charge" dancing through his Army.

It was shortlived.

He began having trouble with his driving, hitting so far left at No. 5 that he had to play down an adjoining fairway; going over the green at the eighth hole and again using another fairway at nine when he hit far to the right.

All three holes were bogeys.

"I finished poorly," said Palmer, who came here in the worst slump of his career — three successive missed cuts — but now has been a challenger in the Open three years in a row.

"I had some bad tee shots and some bad irons," he added. "You just can't do that around here."

Bill Singer resting after surgery for back injury

ANAHEIM, Calif. (UPI) — California Angels pitcher Bill Singer underwent surgery Friday for repair of a ruptured lumbar disc and his doctor said the operation had been successful.

Singer, who has a record of 7-4 for the season, will be out at least two months.

Dr. Michael Sukoff, who performed the surgery at St. Joseph Hospital in Orange, Calif., said he had removed a piece of tissue three and one-half inches in diameter.

Singer was reported resting comfortably and expected to be in the hospital for about a week.

A club spokesman said that while it was hoped Singer would be pitching again by late August there was a possibility he would be out for the year.

Dalton sells Rudy May as Angels fall

By BILL LANGLEY
P-B Sports Editor

ANAHEIM — The big trade everybody has been waiting for from the Angels didn't happen Saturday night.

General Manager Harry Dalton was able to complete one transaction during the 5-3 loss to the Boston Red Sox but it wasn't of the magnitude of a superstar like Frank Robinson leaving.

The Angels announced after Saturday's game the sale of veteran left-handed pitcher Rudy May to the New York Yankees in a straight cash transaction.

"I had to sell Rudy to pay for our phone bill," Dalton joked to the writers in referring to his many hours on the telephone trying to get some help for his sagging ball club.

"Seriously, we made this deal as much for Rudy as for the club," Dalton continued. "He has asked us to trade him if he wesn't going to pitch here. This deal should help his confidence and enthusiasm."

May, who was the senior member of the Angels in a career dating back to 1965, has been struggling this season with an 0-1 record with a 7.09 earned run average.

"I got what I wanted," May said in the locker room. "That's what counts. At least I hope I get a chance to pitch for the Yankees."

The Angels pounded out 14 hits against Boston pitchers Bill Lee and Deigo Segui but stranded 12 runners in a futile waste of opportunities.

The Cap Night crowd of 26,401 showed their emotions in the ninth inning when they lustily booed Robinson when he struck out.

Actually, the Angels only scored one of their runs with a hit when Mickey Rivers beat out an infield single in the eighth inning to score Bob Oliver. The other Halo tallies came on Segui's wild pitch in the sixth and an error by Boston second baseman Rick Burleson in the eighth.

Meanwhile, the Red Sox belted ten hits to score all five runs against Angel starter Bill Stoneman (1-5).

Carl Yastremski led the Bosox attack by driving in three runs with two clutch singles. Catcher Carleton Fisk chipped in with two singles and a double while first baseman Cecil Cooper, who struck out six times in Friday's marathon game against Nolan Ryan, redeemed himself with three singles plus a double.

First baseman John Doherty led the Angels with four hits, including a double in the sixth inning.

ANGEL ANGLES — Dick Lange (2-2) will face Reggie Cleveland (4-5) in today's 2 p.m. finale of the weekend series. The New York Yankees close the brief homestand with games here Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday nights. Monday's will be a Family Night attraction, with all seats on the view level priced at $1. Ken Jones, a lefthanded pitcher at Azusa-Pacific College, signed an Angel contract Saturday as a free agent. He will report to the Angels' Class A farm club at Idaho Falls in the Pioneer League.

Trojans do it again in Omaha

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Southern California Saturday night defeated Miami (Fla.) 7-3 to win its fifth consecutive College World Series title and its 10th championship since the NCAA series was inaugurated 28 years ago.

The Trojans, (50-20), who entered the Series with the poorest won-loss average in the eight-team field, jumped on Miami, the nation's NCAA co-leader with Texas, with a three-run outburst in the second inning. They were never in serious trouble thereafter.

George Milke claimed the victory in relief for Southern California to win his third Series victory. Milke earned the most valuable player award. He came in to relieve starter John Racanelli in the fifth inning and pitched five innings of two-hit ball, allowing only two unearned runs in the seventh inning.

The loss for Miami (51-11) continued the frustration of eastern teams in the NCAA series. The Hurricanes were the first eastern team in the finals since 1957. No eastern team has won the Series since Wake Forest downed Western Michigan 7-6 in 1955.

Southern Cal scored three runs, two of them unearned, off losing pitcher Stan Jakubowski in the top half of the second inning. Bobby Mitchell reached base on an infield single and Ken Huizenga followed with a single when Miami leftfielder Kim Cesiete was fooled by a deceptive wind and misjudged his fly ball. Freshman first baseman Mark Carpenter drove Mitchell home with a single to left.

Both Carpenter and Huisenga advanced on a passed ball and scored when Creighton Tevlin grounded to Miami first baseman Orlando Gonzalez, who lobbed the ball too high to Jakubowski, who was covering the base.

Rob Adolph provided the margin of victory for the Trojans when he tagged Jakubowski for a two-run homer in the sixth inning. The ball went out of left centerfield at the 370-foot mark.

The Trojans then capped their scoring with two more runs in the seventh on singles by Marvin Cobb, All-America third baseman Rich Dauer, and catcher Ed Putman.

Jakubowski, who was seeking his third College World Series victory, worked seven innings and gave up seven runs, only three of them earned. He struck out seven while allowing 10 hits.

Miami scored a run in the fourth inning when Manny Trujillo singled up the middle, advanced on a passed ball, and scored on Ron Scott's sacrifice fly.

Miami scored two more unearned runs off Milke in the seventh inning when Rick D'Innocenzio walked and advanced to third on shortstop Marvin Cobb's throwing error. He scored on an infield out and Gonzalez then drove in Kim Siete with a single.

Gonzalez, the Miami first baseman, set an NCAA stolen base record when he stole his 62nd base of the season in the seventh inning. Three other NCAA records were broken earlier by Dauer, a draft choice of the Baltimore Orioles.

Tevlin and Adolph led the Trojans with two hits each as they outhit Miami 11-6. The Trojans had been outhit by their opponents in their last two ball games and had lost to Miami 7-3 in their first encounter Wednesday.

Action picks up in World Cup play

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI)—The world soccer cup games crackled into life for the first time Saturday with 11 goals in four matches and a nasty fright for second choice Italy.

Poland shook Argentina with two goals in the first eight minutes and then held on to win 3-2 in Group Four in Stuttgart while in Munich Italy, playing in the same group, found itself 1-0 down to Haiti in the 46th minute before recovering with goals by Gianni Rivera, Romeo Benetti and substitute Pietro Anastasi to win 3-1.

Holland's superstar Johan Cruyff in a Group Three game in Hannover led a 2-0 shredding of Uruguay which had center back Montero Castillo sent off in the 62nd minute for arguing with Hungarian referee Karoly Palotai.

With all 16 countries having now played one game each, South American teams have yet to win a match and have the dubious distinction of accounting for two expelled players in two days. Chilean forward Carlos Caszely today received a one-match ban from FIFA for being sent off against West Germany Friday.

Poland, which eliminated England in the qualifying round, tore apart the Argentinian defense in the first half of its see-saw match before 50,000 in Stuttgart's Neckar stadium. Grezgorz Lato tapped the first goal in after goalie Daniel Carneval collided with defender Enrique Wolff going for a corner and dropped the ball in the fifth minute. Andrej Szarmach stunned the Argentines three minutes later by hammering a 15-yard shot past the advancing Carnevalli.

Ramon Heredia pulled one back in the 60th minute and Carlos Babington scrambled a second in a goalmouth melee seven minutes later but the Poles hung on grimly to win.

Italy's 13-match golden spell was broken in its 1,142nd minute by the man who predicted he would on the eve of the match—Haitian center forward Emanuel Sanon. Haiti had the glory of leading for six minutes before Italy fought back with three goals, the specter of its 1966 defeat to North Korea looming large.

Koosman baffles Dodger hitters

By DON BRADLEY
P-B Staff Writer

Despite the prepondence of righthanded hitters on the club, and a 8-2 record against portsiders at home, the Dodgers are now only 5-4 against southpaws away from Los Angeles.

Jerry Koosman (6-4) is the latest to trouble L.A. bats. Koosman put the Dodgers down easily, 4-1, on just seven hits Saturday afternoon at Shea Stadium, his first victory since May 25.

The two hits that accounted for the only Dodger run were strictly of the lucky variety. The Dodgers hit some balls well, but all at somebody. In fact, the outs were more impressive than any of the hits, except for a fourth-inning double by Steve Garvey.

Unfortunately, Garvey's hit came after two were out, and he was left stranded when Joe Furguson grounded out. Furgy continued to have his difficulties at the plate Saturday.

In four at bats, Furguson had one hit. That has been his only hit in eight at bats in two games here. Including the single, Furguson has hit the ball out of the infield only twice in two games. He has struck out twice and hit into a doubleplay.

The Dodgers left seven runners on base Saturday, and have stranded 17 in the two games here. Inability to hit with men in scoring position has caused most of the recent Dodger woes.

Manager Walt Alston thinks he knows the answer.

"I think a lot of our hitters, after getting a home run or two, try to hit the ball out of the park every time," he said. "Koosman's curveball was about two inches off the ground and everybody was trying to hit it out.

"I think the home run is a nice tool," the Dodger manager continued, "and we've made good use of it. But I think we'll hit more if we quit trying to hit the ball out of the park."

Saturday's loss had little effect on Alston. When a scribe asked him if he was concerned that his team had lost four of its last five games, he simply grinned and replied, "We'll be out there again tomorrow."

"I can't do anything to change today's loss, and I don't concern myself with anything I can't do something about. But I am concerned that our hitting might get worse before it gets much better."

Starter and loser Doug Rau (5-2) gave up six hits and all four Met runs in four and one-third innings before giving way to Charlie Hough.

"Rau didn't look like he had his good stuff, even when he was warming up," observed Alston.

Two check-swing hits accounted for the only Dodger run. It came in the first inning.

Dave Lopes knocked a double over first base while attempting to check his swing. Bill Russell pulled back on his bat but still hit a line single to left, driving in Lopes.

That brought Alston out of the dugout, Rau out of the game, and Hough out of the bullpen.

It also brought a question from the Mets' manager Yogi Berra. Berra wondered if the oversized mitt the Dodger catchers use to catch Hough's knuckler was within the legal size limit proscribed by baseball law.

Play was halted while the umpires had the glove measured. It was found to be within the legal limits. When play resumed, Hough restored order quickly by inducing Theodore to ground into a fast Russell-to-Lopes-Garvey double play.

DODGER DATA — Andy Messersmith (6-2) takes on Tom Seaver (3-5) in today's series finale (11:15 p.m. PDT on Channell 11.). Seaver has given up 15 homers in 107 innings to date and has a 3.62 ERA.

Irwin wouldn't trade sports

BY MILTON RICHMAN
UPI Sports Eritor

MAMARONECK, N.Y. (UPI) — Hale Irwin, only one stroke off the U.S. Open lead, was an exceptionally good defensive back for Colorado and when somebody asked him whether he's sorry now he didn't take a shot at pro football, with all that money being thrown around, he just laughed.

"Never," said Irwin, who twice made All Big Eight and was regarded even better than teammate Dick Anderson, subsequently signed by the Miami Dolphins.

"Look at me!"

Irwin took his hands cut of his lap and spread them wide apart to show more of his not quite Mr. America 167-pound frame.

"You mean you don't think you could've made it in pro football?" his questioner kept pumping him.

"I didn't say that," Irwin came right back. "But I don't think I could've made it there the way I have here."

Hale Irwin hasn't done badly at all "here." He has won $96,936 so far this year, good for eighth place on the money winnings list, and he's doing fine here at the U.S. Open where he had a 71 Saturday that left him only one shot behind Tom Watson.

If he should happen to win this thing tomorrow, he has some plans.

"I might fly home...without an airplane," he says in that dry dead-pan style of his.

Home for Hale Irwin is St. Louis. Home right now is 18 more holes, the final 18 he needs Sunday to nail down his first major tournament. Since joining the tour six years ago, he has been a winner twice, both times at the Heritage Classic, once in 1971 and again last year.

"It's safe to say I'm not a household word," he says about his accomplishments up to now. "I'm not an Arnold Palmer or a Jack Nicklaus, so that when my name is brought up, people say, 'oh, yeah, I know him!'"

Irwin, who was 15 pounds heavier when he played football at Colorado, is the phlegmatic type, the kind who doesn't get excited too easily.

USD's Rae wins college net title

IRVINE, Calif. (UPI) — Second-seeded Andy Rae of the University of San Diego beat top-seeded Dan Lambert of Cal Poly San Luis Obispo 6-4, 6-4 for the NCAA Division II singles tennis title Saturday and then combined with Russell Watts to capture the doubles crown.

Lambert finished second in the singles competition for the third straight year.

The Rae-Watts team, seeded first, defeated second-seeded Glen Cripe and Scott Carnahan of UC Irvine 7-6, 6-4 in the doubles final.

USD picked up the team title with 25 points while host UC Irvine, winner of four straight championships, was second with 20. San Diego clinched its first-ever NCAA title Friday.

Jr. Tourney competition

The team of Raymond Linares and Anthony Parales captured the 7-10 year-old division with a best ball score of 32. In the 11-12 age bracket, the duo of Jerry Douthill and Lance Spangler took top honors with a 81 for 18 holes.

Jeff Keenan and Frank Miller teamed to win the 13-14 year-olds division with a 65, beating out the team of Frank Parales and Chris Stout in a playoff. The 15-17 group was copped by the twosome of Gary Calios and Allen Hoover with a 65.

Miss Post's 71 leads LPGA Open

MEDINA, Ohio (UPI) — Sandra Post, battling the wind and rain, fired a one-under par 71 Saturday for a 36-hole score of 143 and a one-stroke lead at the end of two rounds of the $40,000 Lawson's LPGA Open Golf Tournament.

The Canadian-born Miss Post, now playing out of Boyton Beach, Fla., started the day three shots off the pace of first-round leader Sue Roberts, who had her troubles with the elements as did many of the other players.

One shot behind Miss Post at 144 was Gloria Ehret, who had one of six 73's shot during the second round, and another stroke back was Pam Barnett who had a 74 Saturday.

Miss Roberts, who had a first-round 69, skied to a five over par 77 Saturday and a two-round score of 146, the same as Joanne Carner who had a 76 in the second round.

The tournament was halted for one-hour and 25 minutes when a thunderstorm struck the 6,142-yard par-72 Weymouth Valley Country Club course. At the same time, there were still nine threesomes on the course.

Miss Post, who was just leaving the 16th green when play was suspended, parred the 17th then ran in a 30-foot birdie putt on the 18th after the long wait.

"It was the longest putt I've made in quite awhile," said the 25-year-old blonde. She had three birdies and a pair of bogeys in a round of 35-36.

Most of the leaders played steadily for the first six holes, then, one by one, began to run into trouble.

Miss Roberts, who had escaped a bogey in her round of 69 on Friday, suffered her first bogey of the round when she hit over the seventh green, chipped back long and missed a seven-foot putt. She also bogeyed the ninth when she three-putted and made the turn in two-over 37.

Mrs. Carner started the day with a birdie on the first hole, but bogeyed the second when she three-putted. She also had three-putt bogeys on the 12th and 15th holes.

"It's funny," said Mrs. Carner, "yesteriday I drove terribly and putted good. Today, I drove it good and couldn't kink it into the hole. I think I'll go back to driving it terribly."

The 76 was the worst score in "quite a while" for Mrs. Carner, who has won three of the last four LPGA tour events.

While Mrs. Carner said she was bothered by the gusty winds, which buffeted the course, Miss Post, who was surprised to be the leader and left the course for her hotel before the last group finished, said it didn't effect her play too much.

"When you concentrate you can block it (the wind) out of your mind," she said. "But it never did really help you and it got a little scary out there with the thunder and lightning."

Five shots off the pace at 148 were Marie Astrologes, Ecko Nakamura and Jane Blalock. Another stroke back at 149 were Betty Burfeindt, Kathy McMullen and Sandra Palmer.

Murle Breer, who had a one-under 71 Friday, ballooned to an 83 in Saturday's second round and Lenore Beserra, who also had a 71 Friday, come in with a 79.

The field was cut to the low 60s and ties with 61 golfers teeing up for the final round. It took a score of 162 to make the cut.

Matras gain Le Mans lead

LE MANS, France (UPI) — Four French Matra-Simca sports cars sped to the lead in the opening hours of the 42nd Le Mans 24 hour endurance race.

The Matras, running smoothly, averaged 132 m.p.h. around the 8.46 mile circuit.

After the 10th lap, the Matras had lapped every car in the starting field of 49 but for a lone Gulf-Ford lying in fifth position.

Last year's winner, Henri Pescarolo of France, moved his blue Matra into the early lead with a second Matra driven by France's Jean-Pierre Jarier a few seconds behind.

The two British Gulf-Fords entered, and expected to give powerful Matra their only serious competition, could not keep up with the French cars in the early laps.

The Gulf-Ford driven by Vern Schuppan of Australia lost two vital laps with prolonged pit stops for ignition trouble.

The three-liter Matras gained seven seconds a lap on the other Gulf-Ford, driven by Derek Bell of Britain, in fifth spot.

The first entry to abandon was a Ferrari of the North American Racing team that hit a guardrail on the Mulsanne straightaway. The driver Jean-Pierre Paoli of France was not hurt.

Matra entered the race a strong favorite to win for the third straight year. The strong Alfa Romeo team canceled its participation one week before the race for financial reasons. Matra is currently first in the world constructors championship with Alfa-Romeo second.

The field was flagged off under sunny skies that soon clouded over. A crowd of 250,000 spectators, less than in recent years, was on hand.

The fastest lap early in the race was turned in by Pescarolo in a Matra. He went around in three minutes 42.7 seconds. He also set the fastest lap time in the trials with a 3:35.8, thus the Matras were not pushing their motors to the limit early in the race.

The Matras stopped in the pits to refuel every 45 minutes.

Miss Musket wins

Upset a month ago in the Railbird Stakes, Miss Musket relaid claim to the mythical title of top 3-year-old filly in the country.

Her time for the mile and one-eighth event was 1:47 4-5, just two fifths of a second off the race record.

At the request of owner Aaron Jones, Laffit Pincay rode Miss Mustket for the first time. Pincay reached the 100-victory plateau for the meeting with three triumphs Saturday.

Favored at 3-2 by 35,119 patrons, Miss Musket paid $5, $3.80 and $3. Lucky Spell returned $5.80 and $3.40 while Modus Vivendi, Miss Mukset's conqueror in the Railbird, was third and returned $4.

Miss Musket earned $48,900 for Jones, a lumber magnate from Oregon, and increased her career earnings to $194,965.

Bill Shoemaker rode Miss Musket to her first six wins this year but fell out of favor with Jones after taking himself off Linda's Chief prior to that horse's fatal accident in the Los Angeles Handicap.

Pincay has 26 days left in the 76-day meeting to break his Hollywood Park record of 116 victories set last year.

The $50,000 Will Rogers Handicap will be held at a mile and one-sixteenth on the turf Sunday, matching Agitate, Battery E., Satdust Mel and five other 3-year-olds.

Teacher seeded No. 1

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — UCLA sophomore Brian Teacher was seeded No. 1 Saturday for the 90th annual NCAA tennis championships which begin at University of Southern California Monday.

Michigan's Victor Amaya was seeded second and USC's John Andrews was seeded third.

Teacher defeated Amaya in their only meeting this year and took two out of three matches from Andrews. He split a pair of matches with Alex Mayer of Stanford, last year's champion whip will not be backed to defend his title.

Andrews and teammate Sashi Menon, of India, the No. 7 singles seed, were seeded first in doubles.

Dispute triggers mass walkout of CFL players

TORONTO (UPI) — -More than 95 per cent of Canadian Football Leauge veteran players were to officially resign at midnight EDT Saturday, following a breakdown in negotiations for a new two-year contract Saturday afternoon.

The 288 veteran players were supposed to report to preseason training camps beginning Saturday, but 278 of them will not do so, said George Reed, president of the CFL Players' Association. Rookies have already reported.

The players do not have the right to strike, so are using this mass retirement instead, Reed said.

He said the players broke off negotiating because "we were just too far apart on financial questions."

He said negotiations could resume next week, but "it would be foolish to meet just to meet if they (the league) don't have new proposals."

The players are seeking an $11,000-a-year minimum wage; extra money for training camp work, exhibition games, and playoffs; and increased pensions.

Reed said an independent audit of the league's finances released Friday showed that the league could afford to pay the players more than it is offering.

Norm Kimball, general manager of the Edmonton Eskimos and spokesman for the CFL teams, said the audit incorrectly included as income money raised at $100 a plate dinners which went directly to stadium expansion and player development.

Reed said the players plan to stay in shape by holding their own private training sessions and said the players would take part in the June 26 All-Star game even if they are still retired.

Pekarcik in shutout win for Post 30

Pomona Post 30's Larry Pekarcik fired a two-hit shutout as the Gems downed South Pasadena Post 140 4-0 Saturday evening at Whittier Narrows.

The win gives the Gems a perfect 5-0 record in District 18 American Legion play.

In other games, the Rowland Legion squad rolled past West Covina 8-3 and the Walnut Thorobred nine received a 9-0 forfeit victory at the expense of Monrovia.

Pekarcik fanned 11 and walked only one in his shutout victory. Post 30 waited until the seventh inning to break the scoreless deadlock between Pekarcik and Post 140's Mike Southerland.

In that frame the Gems got a solo homer from Tracy Cowger and a two-run shot from Gerard Piccioni to take a 3-0 lead. Mark Lambert's sacrifice fly made it 4-0 in the eighth, and Pekarcik pitched out of a seventh-inning jam to win it.

In the seventh the big righthander from Damien High allowed a basehit and Post 30 committed an error, but Pekarcik settled down to fan three straight South Pasadena batters.

Rowland got a four-hit pitching job from Dave Bourque and backed him with a 12-hit attack in their win over West Covina. Ray Etchebarren had three of those hits as Rowland advanced its District 18 Legion slate to 2-3 with the victory.

Walnut made its Thorobred League record a spotless 5-0 and the Reds now hold a 10-1-1 overall ledger with the Monrovia forfeit.

Porter's on wrong team

LA VERNE — Cleve Porter will be playing on the wrong team Tuesday night at the first annual Pomona Valley High School All-Star Basketball Game.

He should be playing for the North.

It would be the ideal situation.

"I would have liked to play against Kirk Christ," stated the valley's basketball Player of the Year. "But he's on my team. Most of the guys on the North team I've already played against."

Both Porter, the Most Valuable Player from the San Antonio League, and Christ (pronounced Krist), the Most Valuable Player from the Hacienda League, will be playing on the South squad when Tuesday night rolls around.

And they are two of the main reasons why the South is favored to win the inaugural classic at Claremont High.

Porter somewhat agrees the South is favored.

"Some people are saying we're bigger than the North," stated the 6-foot-6 leaping sensation from Ganesha High, "but that's not really true. We have four tall guys, but all the rest are Earl Wilson's size (5-foot-11). We'll be doing a lot of running and we'll be quick."

But wait a minute! Supposedly the North team has all the quickness.

Porter doesn't agree.

Porter has been a busy guy lately. Holding down a 40-hour a week job, Cleve is also playing Big League baseball, practicing for this All-Star game, and also working out with the CIF All-Stars in preparation for the City All-Stars game — which will be played July 10.

Unfortunately, the All-CIF (Second team) center from Giant country hasn't found much time to work out with the South stars. He arrives for practice just in time to get in about a half-hour of work. But he is putting in three hours a day for three days a week of practice for the CIF-City game, so he's at least staying in shape for the game.

Not only is he doing all that, but there are some people who are hoping to get a share of his time — namely, the Montreal Expos of the major league baseball ranks.

The Expos drafted Porter in the recent baseball draft during the 39th round, and have asked him to compete in the Montreal camp for two months. But Cleve can't find the time for it, even though he gave it some thought.

The Ganesha High graduate recently signed a letter of intent to play for USC next year, and he thinks his chances of making the varsity roster for the Trojans as a freshman are pretty good.

"I think they (the USC coaches) think I have a great chance to make the team," he remarked. "They want a running team, and there wasn't a returnee from last year's Trojan team I couldn't play with."

He also just returned from a tour with a California high school All-Star team in Brazil. While on tour, the California team won the eight-game tournament and suffered only one loss in an exhibition game which sported three Brazilian All-Stars.

Tipoff for Tuesday night's game is scheduled for 8 p.m., with tickets still on sale at the Sportsman in Claremont and at most of the high schools in the valley.

Tickets are priced at $2 for adults and $1.50 for students.

There will be one player missing from the South squad Tuesday night, even though he will be on the roster.

Nogales High's Dean Olson notified game officials that he will be unable to attend practices and the game, since graduation and baseball have kept him too busy.

Post 330 blasts La Punte as Beltran spins shutout

By TIM CLARK
P-B Correspondent

LA VERNE — Ralph Beltran has finally put it all together. And that means completely, everything! Beltran led his LaVerne Post 330 teammates over La Puente by hurling a 13-0 shutout.

Beltran only gave up five singles in his nine frames of work, and gave up only two walks. Known as a fast fader in the late innings, the LaVerne thrower showed no signs of this in the 92-degree weather at LaVerne College. The last batter Ralph faced went down on strikes.

LaVerne actually won the game in the first inning. LaPuente starter John Vanderwende walked Jim Richards. Richards stole second, as Vanderwende then walked Wally Pitts. H.P. Drake laid down a sacrifice bunt, and reached first safely as Vanderwende could not find the handle. After two strikeouts by Vanderwende, Steve Barnard received the third walk of the inning, driving in Richards for the go-ahead, 1-0 score.

With two outs recorded in the second, Richards again reached first on an error by LaPuente second baseman Mark Richichi. Once again Richards stole second, Pitts was walked again, and was followed by a loop single by Drake, scoring Richards for a 2-0 lead.

Rich Ortega then lined a single to left, loading the bases. Steve Hines, the hero of last Saturday's win over Claremont, lined a long drive to deep center for a triple, driving in Pitts, Drake, and Ortega for a 5-0 lead. Barnard finished the scoring in the inning by scoring Hines with a single to right.

Bruce McNaught started the LaVerne assault in the third by reaching first on an error. McNaught stole second, which was followed by an error by LaPuente right fielder Dave Clark of Jay Lacheur's pop fly. Beltran drove-in McNaught with single up the third base line, making it 7-0.

Art Aragon come in to pitch for the Flyers in the fourth, and quieted the LaVerne team. But he opened the fourth by walking Beltran, and later giving up a single to Pitts. Pinch runner Ranney scored on a basehit by H.P., advancing the score to 8-0.

After a walk to Hines, Barnard singled in Pitts and Drake for his third and fourth RBI's of the day.

Dave Clark came in to pitch for La Puente with his team down 10-0. After walking Richards, he yielded a double to Pitts, scoring Richards for the third time and making it 12-0.

Following Beltran's homer in the eighth, pinch-hitter Bill Bumstead singled to left. He then came home on a single by Dave Maloof for the final tally, 13-0.

LaVerne will travel to Los Altos High today for a rematch with LaPuente at 2 p.m. Coach Dan Drake will send Gary Zakem (2-0) to the mound, while keeping reliever's Ranney and Bumstead warm.

Claremont drops 8-3 decision

By BILL MORRIS
P-B Correspondent

CLAREMONT — Covina Post 207 defeated Claremont Post 78, 8-3 Saturday at Pomona College. Covina took advantage of a throwing error in the third inning to score four runs which were all they needed.

The loss made Claremont's record in American Legion District 18 play 1-4.

The big inning for Covina was the third when, after a fly out to short, John Amaluxen reached first on a throwing error by Claremont third baseman Rich Tullis.

Claremont pitcher Harry Brown then walked Bob Waldusky to put runners on first and second. Jim Wilfong singled to load the bases and bring up Chris Cashen.

Cashen singled to score Amaluxen and Waldusky. Val Primimte hit a double-play ball to Todd Ervin but when he threw it to second baseman Dave Aguilera he dropped it for an error to load the bases.

Brown struck out Dale Adair for the second out of the inning. Covina pitcher Dave Melton hit a single up the middle scoring Wilfong and Cashen. When Primimte rounded third too far, Claremont catcher Lou Caudillo threw to Tullis at third who tagged out Primimte to end the inning.

The big inning for Claremont was the seventh when they rallied for two runs. Rob Haerr got a lead-off single to center. Todd Ervin walked and Chris Tracey singled to load the bases.

Brown singled to score Haerr and make the score 7 to 2. Janusz then hit a ground ball at Covina third baseman Dan Wirth. Wirth, after allowing Ervin to score by holding the ball, stepped on third to force out Tracey for the first out of the inning.

Jim Ayers flied to left-center for the second out of the inning. Caudillo struckout to end the inning.

Claremont loaded the bases in the ninth, but the game ended when centerfielder Amaluxen made a shoe-string catch of Tullis's line drive to short center.

The two teams go at it again today with starting time set for 2:00 pm. The game will be held at Mt. San Antonio College.

Players sue Aztec owner

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Two Argentine soccer players sued the Los Angeles Aztecs for $2 million Friday, claiming team owner Jack Gregory broke their contracts by capitalizing on their inability to understand English and then having them arrested as illegal aliens.

Hector Bentron and Miguel Ferrari said the North American Soccer League team agreed to pay their way to Los Angeles, put them up in an apartment and give them each $1,000 a month for six months as salaries.

MSAC girls complete big pool season

WALNUT — Mt. San Antonio College's women's swim team completed an energetic season recently by taking second place in the Southern California swimming championships at East Los Angeles College, and third place in the Swim Relays at Ventura. The team also broke six school swim records, one which had been standing since 1968.

The ten-woman team, coached by Sue La Comb, scored 232 points to finish second behind Pasadena City College. Mountie swim team members are — Karen Baker, Pomona; Debbie Brickner, Covina; Nancy Koop, West Covina; Laura Larsen, Covina; Mary Lynch, Hacienda Heights; Denise Nance, Diamond Bar; Linda Phillips, La Verne; Debbie and Pam Stoyanoff, Hacienda Heights, and Rose Wilson, West Covina.

Rose Wilson took three second places, in the 50-yard freestyle, 50-yard butterfly, and 50-yard backstroke, to lead the team in individual performances and gain 51 points toward the team total.

Wilson showed up again nn the medley relay, with Karen Baker and the Stoyanoff sisters to take a 3rd place and 32 team points. Laura Larsen took a 3rd in the 200-yard freestyle. Pam Stoyanoff took a 4th in the 100-yard individual medley, and a 5th in the 50-yard breaststroke. Denise Nance placed 5th in the diving competition.

Pam Stoyanoff, Nancy Koop, Baker and Larsen swam to 6th place in the 200-yard freestyle relay, and Koop took another 7th place in the 200-yard freestyle.

Rose Wilson broke three of the MSAC swim records this year, and figured in a fourth. Wilson swam the 50-yd butterfly in 29.5 breaking the 1968 30-4 record. She also broke the 50-yd freestyle with a 26.4 (old — 28.1), and the 50-yd breaststroke with a 34.8 (old — 35.2). Wilson joined the Stoyanoff sisters and Baker in the 200-yd medley relay for a new record of 2:03.2, over the previous 2:11.5.

Debbie Stoyanoff bested the old 33.3 mark for the 50-yd backstroke with a 32.3. And the freestyle relay team of Koop, Larsen, Baker and Pam Stoyanoff finished in 1:51.9, over the previous record of 1:52.4.

Quarry, Foreman tiff even

NEW YORK (UPI) — Both Joe Frazier and Jerry Quarry want to climb into the ring against heavyweight champion George Foreman.

After their 12-round battle in Madison Square Garden Monday night, only the winner may get that chance. In Las Vegas, odds makers rate the bout even.

For Frazier, who lost his crown to Foreman and then dropped a close but unanimous verdict to Muhammad Ali here in January, a victory over Quarry is vital. Although he stopped the rugged Irishman in seven savage rounds in June of 1969, the one-time heavyweight champion has obviously gone back.

In the January return with Ali, Frazier dominated the middle rounds, slowing Muhammad down with his left. But the power of the punch, once Joe's greatest stock in trade, is diminished. In their great first match in March of 1971, it was Joe's left hand that carried him to the 15-round unanimous decision over Ali. This time, over 12 rounds, he lost.

Frazier's hope is that a clean win over Quarry will bring about a rematch with Foreman —a rematch he says the champion should give him.

"I gave George the title shot," Joe says quietly, "and, as a gentleman, I think George should return the favor and give me a chance to win it back."

Both Frazier and Quarry seem convinced Ali will be no match for Foreman in their title bout in Zaire in September.

For Quarry, his clash with Frazier is the bout which the 29-year-old is certain will be the springboard to a title match for him.

"I was careless and carefree," Quarry says of the years he has wasted. "This is a new me, and when I whip Frazier people will accept me."

Depressed and disgusted with himself, plagued by marital and other personal problems, Quarry was ready to quit the ring after taking a bad beating from Ali in June of 1972. But he got things straightened out, induced the veteran Gil Clancy to take over his career, and since then everything has dropped into place.

"The key fight for me," Quarry says, "was against Ron Lyle. Everyone said Lyle was the coming tiger. Well, they saw the new Quarry that night. I fought the way I should always have fought. I kept my temper, I didn't get careless."

Jerry won the 12-rounder from Lyle decisively. It is the only bout of the six he has had since the Ali disaster in which he failed to knock his man out. Most sensational of the knockouts was the one-punch win over Earnie Shavers.

In his last outing, with the commitment already made to meet Frazier, Jerry got tagged by hammer-hitting Joe Alexander near the end of the first round, crashing down from a wicked left hook.

"The old Quarry might have been finished with that shot," Jerry agrees, "but I knew what was going on. I was in great shape, and I had no trouble putting him away in the second round."

Quarry is certain he's going to win Monday night because "Joe has gone back. The legs are beginning to go. And while I thought Joe had beaten Ali in January—the ref spoiled that fight for Frazier—it still wasn't the same Frazier who was in the ring with me back in 1969. If Joe still had the power, some of the shots he hit Ali with in January would have sent Muhammad kicking."

COMEBACK? — They're saying Joe Frazier is over the hill. He'll try to prove them and Jerry Quarry wrong Monday night in a 12-round heavyweight fight at Madison Square Garden.

Cardinals defend net title at Troy

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Stanford, minus 1973 singles champion Alex Mayer, opens defense of its NCAA tennis title Monday with the Cardinals expected to battle it out with Pacific-8 rivals University of Southern California and UCLA for the national crown.

However, Stanford won the Pac-8 championship this year, beating UCLA 5-4 in the finals. The Cards won four of the six singles matches from the Bruins and finished with a 17-1 record for the season.

A year ago, Stanford won with 33 points followed by USC with 28 and UCLA with 24. Houston and Southern Methodist tied for fourth with 15 points each.

This year's six-day tournament will be played at USC's two-year-old David X. Marks Tennis Stadium. It has attracted 64 teams and 210 players.

USC has a strong one-two threat in returning quarterfinalists John Andrews and Sashi Meonin, who also form the leading college doubles team.

For the Bruins, sophomore Brian Teacher could be the man to replace Mayer as college tennis' No. 1 man. He beat Andrews and Delaney in singles competition in the conference this year.

Foster makes 14th defense of light heavyweight title

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (UPI) — Many people call champion Bob Foster the greatest light heavyweight boxer of all time. He gets another chance to bear that out Monday when he defends his crown for the 14th time.

The foe this time will be Argentina's Jorge Ahumada, a speedy, aggressive and solid puncher who has built an impressive record of late to earn the title shot against Foster.

The championship fight at University Arena will be Foster's third within a year and 14th since he won the title in May of 1968 from the late Dick Tiger of Nigeria. South Africa's Pierre Fourie was the latest unsuccessful aspirant to Foster's title.

Fourie failed last August in Albuquerque and again in December in his hometown of Johannesburg. Each time Foster scored 15-round decisions to defend his 175-pound title.

The champ says he could have named the round each time against Fourie, but stretched the action out because he needed the work.

Foster, an Albuquerque native who doubles as a sergeant on the Bernalillo County sheriff's force, says he could take Ahumada in three or four rounds Monday, but that it could go 14 to 15, especially for the sake of the home crowd.

"I feel good, real good. I'm in great shape," said the 35-year-old champ on the eve of his title defense. "I'm back to my combination shots —the left and the right.

"I was at my best with combination shots —and that's what I'm working on now."

It was that combination, accented by a stinging, lightning-fast left jab, that was most responsible for 42 knockouts in Foster's 57-bout career. He has lost only six fights since turniing professional.

Foster has never lost to a light heavyweight and his only two losses since winning the crown were to heavyweights Muhammad Ali and Joe Frazier.

Ahumada of Mendoza, Argentina, has won nine straight fights since coming to the United States in April of 1973. Six of those were by knockouts. His overall record is 40-5-1 with 21 kayoes.

The 29-year-old Ahumada is 5-10 and will be at a distinct height disadvantage againsst the 6-3 ½ Foster.

"My toughest job will be in trying to get inside his (Foster's) reach," Ahumada said. "His arms tend to keep fighters at a distance -and he gets tremendous leverage on his left because of his reach."

To counter that, Ahumada intends to "be aggressive Very aggressive. You have to be to beat Foster."

While conceding that Foster is an excellently-conditioned fighter, Ahumada feels he can counteract that with his speed.

"I hope to use my speed. I think I have an advantage there," he said. "I don't know about matching the hard blows —the knockout punches."

Should Ahumada find a way to counteract Foster's "hard blows," he would be the first light heavyweight to do so and that could bring him the title.

Florida favored: USC a contender

SAN DIEGO (UPI) — The 77th annual NCAA golf championships, three years older than the U.S. Open, opens Wednesday with defending champion University of Florida and University of Southern California listed as co-favorites.

In the Aztec Invitational at the Carlton Oaks Country Club here in March, the Trojans finished five shots ahead of the Gators for the team title in a tournament that was billed as an NCAA title preview.

With Ben Crenshaw, the only three-time winner in NCAA golf history, now on the PGA tour, the battle for the individual crown matches, among others, U.S. Amateur champion Craig Stadler of USC and Florida's Gary Koch, runner-up to Crenshaw last year and a two-time Southeast Conference champ.

Stadler's teammates include U.S. Walker Cup member Mark Pfeil. However, Pfeil has been playing as the No. 3 man on the USC team this year behind Stadler and junior Jim Ruziecki.

While Florida has won the NCAA tournament twice (1968 and '73), the Trojans have never won the event.

"Maybe this is the year," said Stan Wood, the 17-year USC coach.

Wake Forest has a young team, including sophomore Jay Haas, Bob Goalby's nephew, and Bob Byman, 1972 U.S. Junior champion, but has to be considered (a top contender.

Also rated threats are perennial powers Houston, Oklahoma State, San Jose State, Arizona State, Brigham Young and Stanford.

Other top individual players in the 72-hole, four-day event are USC's Jon Fiedler, Arizona State's Charles Gibson, Bill Kratzert of Georgia and Mark Lyle of San Jose State. Lyle won the Aztec Invitational title three months ago over the 6,980-yard Carlton Oaks course.

Williams is No. 2, so he'll try harder

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Steve Williams was the No. 1 sprinter in the world last year but he'll be an underdog when he defends his two titles at the National AAU track and field championships next Friday and Saturday.

"I don't mind being No. 2 temporarily," said Williams, a 20-year-old sophomore at San Diego State. "It just makes me work harder.

At Bakersfield, Calif., last June, the lanky Williams won the 100-yard dash in 9.4 and the 220 in 20.4.

In Crockett and Quarrie, Williams will be facing the favorites in this year's 100 and 200-meter dashes. Crockett, an IBM marketing representative from Peoria, Ill., is a two-time AAU 100 champion who became the first man in history to run nine seconds flat in the 100-yard dash.

The 5-foot-7 veteran who runs for Philadelphia's Pioneer Club bettered the world mark of 9.1, which Williams equalled last year, and then came back to nip Williams in 9.2 at Modesto, Calif.

Quarrie, a Jamacian and a former USC star who is running free of injuries this season while competing for the Beverly Hills (Calif.) Striders, also will be a factor at 100 meters but his race is the 200.

Quarrie has run the fastest 220 in the world this year—20.2 in defeating Williams at Modesto. He shares the world 200 record of 19.8 which he set in 1971.

Reggie Jones, a Tennessee freshman who won the 100-yard dash in 9.2 and was second in the 220 at the NCAA meet at Austin, Tex., also is rated a strong threat in the AAU sprints.

Since the meet is being held on UCLA's quick Tartan surface, a world record—or world records—will not surprise anybody, including Williams.

"In any race there's a possibility of a world record," said Williams, "but the factors at UCLA for the nationals will enhance the possibility. The track is very fast, the weather will be ideal, there will be a good crowd and, of course, the competition will be super."

In addition to Crockett and Quarrie, the AAU has attracted three other world record holders—Al Feuerbach, shot put, 71-7; Dwight Stones, high jump, 7-6 ⅝, and Rick Wohlhuter, 800, 1:44.1.

Five-hundred athletes are expected for the two-day competition.

Three valley players sign with San Francisco

POMONA — The San Francisco Giants Friday signed three valley baseball players to professional contracts.

The three—Mt. San Antonio College pitcher Charlie Fallon, a righthander and Cal Poly's John Riddle and Dennie Rogers. Riddle is a left handed pitcher and Rogers plays both the outfield and infield.

The trio will report to the Giants' Casa Grande, Ariz. training complex for a week of practice before moving on to the club's Great Falls Mont. franchise in the class "A" Rookie League.

MSAC baseball coach Art Mazmanian manages the Ex Great Falls team. He pointed out that Fallon was the 22nd MSAC player to sign a professional baseball contract in his six-year tenure at the valley's largest community college.

Little League pairings set

WILLIAMSPORT, Pa. (UPI) — The pairings for the annual Little League World Series to be played here in August were announced Friday by Dr. Creighton J. Hale, president of Little League Baseball, Inc.

The U.S. East team will play the Far East squad and the European winner will take on U.S. Central Aug. 20. On Aug. 21, Canada will meet U.S. West and the U.S. South will play Latin America.

The semi-final games will be played Aug. 22 and the championship on Aug. 24.

Tee to cup

Although Florida is expected to repeat as NCAA golf champion when the best teams from all over the country meet for the NCAA tournament this week at San Diego, USC golf coach Stan Wood has other ideas.

In his 19 years as the Trojan coach, Wood's golfers have dominated college play on the West Coact, winning nearly every type of event, including nine of the last 12 Pac-8 championships.

One title has eluded Wood and his troops, however, and that is the NCAA championship.

This year's tournament is hosted by San Dego State and will be played at Carlton Oaks Country Club in San Diege Tuesday through Saturday.

Wood is very optimistic about Troy's chances for the following reasons:

—The tournament is being held in California, which Wood calls a "big psychological edge."

—USC beat No. 1 ranked Florida on the same course in the 54-hole Aztec Invitational in late March.

—The Trojans came out of an April slump by winning three of four tournaments in May and all of their dual matches.

On the year the Trojans won nine of 12 tourneys and compiled a dual match record of 17-5.

Those figuring in the race for NCAA individual honors include the USC trio of Craig Stadler, Mark Pfeil and Jon Fiedler, a Claremont High product.

The top five teams, as ranked by Golf World Magazine going into the tournament are Florida, Wake Forest, Oklahoma State, USC and Brigham Young in that order.

The Trojans set two new tournament records in winning the 54-hole Trojan Invitational at Pomona National by 21 strokes in late May. The team finished a record 20 shots under par, while Fielder set an individual mark with a nine-under-par 204 (69, 67, 68).

With Fielder at the peak of his game, along with the others the Trojans appear to have as good a chance as they've ever had to bring USC its first national championship in golf.

IT WAS A BIG month for Lucille Connors during May. She not only finished second in the Palm Lakes Women's Club ringer tournament, but also shot her first hole-in-one . . . Emily Miller won the tournament and Phyllis Bass was third. . . .Ginny Ferrer was selected the most improved player.

Valley's top coaches pilot all-star teams

By CRAIG TRAVIS
P-B Staff Writer

All-star baseball games always seem to generate a lot of excitement.

And why not? Usually the best coaches are working with the best players from their respective areas.

And the fourth annual Pomona Valley All-star Baseball game to be played Friday at Chino High at 8 p.m. should be no different.

Four of the better coaches in the valley will be working with the areas top 32 ballplayers in the yearly North-South tiff.

The North will be piloted by Upland High's Herb Christian, who directed the Highlanders to the San Antonio League title, and Bonita's Dick Salomon, who guided the Bearcats to the Hacienda championship and the finals of the CIF 2-A playoffs.

The South will be helmed by Chino's Jim Rawls, whose Cowboys finished in fourth place, and Montclair's Tom McFadden, who steered the Cavaliers to a second place tie.

Needless to say the coaches are excited with the talent and competition the game will feature.

"It will certainly be a challenge to see what we can come up with," said Christian. "I think we've got a pretty good group there and we shouldn't have any trouble fielding a team.

"I'm really looking forward to the game," stated the elated Upland skipper." I think it will be a lot of fun. I served as an assistant to the Fontana coach in '72 (when the game was called the San Bernardino County All-star game—which featured an East vs. West matchup). We got beat pretty badly but we had several players sign pro contracts which forced us to juggle the lineup."

"I invented the Pomona Valley game a few years ago but this is the first time I've had the opportunity to coach." said the enthused Cowboy leader. "It's very exciting. Any time you get athletes like this together you see top notch baseball."

While Rawls was tickled to be working with ballplayers of this calibre, he was quick to point out that his team should be the underdog.

"The North would have to be the favorite," stated the game's administrative supervisor. "They have some very fine pitchers in (John) Breaux (Royal Oak), (Larry) Bell (Alta Loma), (Larry) Pekarcik (Damien) and (Steve) Iles (Upland). That Breaux stands about 6-3 and weighs about 190 pounds and throws the ball about 800 miles an hour.

"We'll have to play for the big inning and do a lot of running," continued the Chino baseball-football coach. "This should be one of the better games we've had. And the pitching should be better than it's ever been."

Christian concurred that the North should have the stronger of the two mound corps.

"The South looks weak in pitching," said Christian, who has announced his retirement as Upland's head baseball coach after 11 years. "Bob Salas (Nogales) is outstanding but he can only go three innings. We saw him in the (CIF) playoffs and he's as fast as Pekarcik and may even have a better curve. They only have him and (Ed) Rubidoux (Ontario) as pitchers and they'll probably use (Lance) Parrish (Walnut)."

Even with talent of this nature problems can arise. Of the North's man squad, six are pitchers—although a couple of them play other positions as well. And the rules state every player must see action.

"We'll have a couple of guys out of position from where they're used to playing but it shouldn't be too hard of an adjustment," said Christian. "We'll probably move Todd (Ervin of Claremont) from shortstop to second and (Clyde) Christensen (Royal Oak) may play first base. We have five infielders but only four outfielders. Bell, Iles and Breaux have to putch because as far as I know that's the only position they played this year. I know pitching is all Iles did this year."

Rawls is having problems with players switch positions, only Montclair's Pat Proulx will be in a different role. He played short for the Cavs but will start at second base Friday night.

Rawls is worried about his pitching.

"Salas has already signed so he won't be available for action and Parrish may sign at 2 p.m. today (Friday). I understand they're dangling a lot of money in front of him," said a calm but somewhat preplexed Rawls." If Parrish signs we'll try to pick up Lou Johnson (Nogales) as his replacement and we're trying to get David Bourque from Rowland. Bourque throws hard and could go three innings for us.

While the game's outcome appears to hinge on the pitching, both teams will know more about their fortunes after next Thursday.

The North will practice on the Chino field at 8 p.m. on Wednesday and again at 3 p.m. on Thursday while the South is slated to workout at 4 p.m. and 7:30 p.m., Wednesday and Thursday, respectively.

Tickets for the game will be sold at $1.50 for adults and .75 cents for children under 12.

Rutherford leads voting

NEW YORK (UPI) — Johnny Rutherford's two straight victories in the Indianapolis 500 and the Rex Mays Classic earned the Fort Worth, Texas, veteran top recognition in second phase balloting for the Martini & Bossi Driver of the Year award.

Rutherford collected 132 points in voting by a panel of auto racing writers. He was impressivee in winning Indy after a 25th place start and showed his auto artistry in Milwaukee when he recovered from a 360-degree eighth lap spinout to win his second USAC championship race of the year.

Two stock car specialists finished two points apart in the battle for second place as David Pearson of Spartanburg, S.C., drew 71 points and Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S.C. had 69. Yarborough was named winner of the first phase last March after winning three NASCAR races.

A.J. Foyt of Houston was fourth in the June balloting with 30 points, Bobby Unser of Albuquerque, N.M. finished fifth with 20 and Brian Redman of England had 12 points for sixth place.

Knicks sign draft choice

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Knicks signed their first draft rookie Friday when they agreed on a two-year contract with 6-9 Rudy Jackson of Hutchinson Junior College.

Jackson, who averaged 23.4 points and 13 rebounds a game at Hutchinson, was the club's second draft pick after the Knicks traded the rights to their opening round choice to Chicago for Howard Porter.

Tommy John: he knew he could do even better in '74

NEW YORK (UPI) — Los Angeles pitcher Tommy John, coming off a 16-7 season in 1973, his best record in an 11-year major league career, finds himself doing even better in 1974—and he knew all along it would happen.

"Yes, I knew that I would pitch well this year," said the 6-foot-3, 185-pound Dodger lefthander. "But I don't think you can say you'll win a certain number of games. You can go out and pitch on days that your team will score a lot of runs, then have them not score for you the next time.

"The whole last half of last year I threw the ball well, though. I thought I would keep it up this year."

John, who celebrated his 31st birthday May 22, was leading the National League in wins and winning percentage with a 9-1 record by June 12 and had a very respectable 2.67 ERA in 101 innings.

He began the season by capturing his first five starts, giving him 10 straight victories counting from last season. Three of these five victories were shutouts, one more than his 1973 total, including a 1-0 four-hitter against Philadelphia April 25.

After a no-decision game, his only loss and two more outings without a decision, John won four in a row, including another shutout, before pitching a June 9 game without a decision.

In five of his nine triumphs, he completed the full nine innings, one more route-going performance than he achieved last year. Mike Marshall has come in from the bullpen to save John's four other wins.

The Yorba Linda, Calif., resident, a control pitcher throughout his career—he has given up more than 58 walks in only two of his 11 seasons—is continuing his frugality in the free-pass department this year, surrendering only 26 bases-on-balls—an average of one every four innings.

"I rely on the fastball, curve and changeup, but the fastball is the one I use to get the batters out," he said.

"As to my control, some of it is natural ability, but the big thing is confidence in myself. Control is mental as much as physical. If your body is mechanically sound the rest is up to your head.

"I think positively and throw the ball, thinking whatever I throw is the best pitch I could have thrown at the time."

John started pitching in the major leagues with the Cleveland Indians in 1963. He had an undistinguished career in Cleveland, working there for parts of two years. He then was traded to the Chicago White Sox in the winter of 1965 in the same deal with Tommy Agee and Rocky Colavito.

Given a chance to break into the White Sox rotation, John threw effectively but not spectacularly. His first season with Chicago was his best, when he pitched his way to a 14-7 record and an ERA of 3.08. He followed with records of 14-11, 10-13, 10-5-sidelined from August 22, 1968 on, due to a torn ligament in his left shoulder—9-11, 12-17 and 13-16 in 1971.

Following the 1971 season, John was again involved in a controversial trade, sending him to the Dodgers with infielder Steve Huntz for Dick Allen.

Los Angeles was criticized severely for giving up on Allen, but John has proven himself.

In his first season with Los Angeles, John compiled an 11-5 record with a 2.89 ERA, giving up only 40 walks in 189 innings. Last year he gave up only 50 walks in 218 innings.

Don Sutton has been the team's pitching leader for the past three years, winning 17, 19 and 18 games respectively, but this year has not matched John's outstanding record. Sutton won only six of his first 10 decisions.

Despite his explosive start, however, Tommy does not regard himself as the new No. 1.

"I might have acquired some confidence that you get from pitching well after losses. Nine of my wins last year came after Dodger losses. So long as I throw well—and I have thrown well in my last 14 or 15 games—I'll do well."

John has contributed greatly to the Dodgers' runaway lead in the National League West Division.

"A .700 pace (which the Dodgers have maintained or exceeded for much of this season) might be a fast pace to keep up, but we can play this kind of ball all year. If we do keep playing this alert kind of ball we can do very well."

But he sets no personal goals for himself this season.

"I just take the games one at a time. I don't set goals. I just want to win for the team. My goals are more inwardly directed. How well I'll do I don't know.

"No one knows that but the Good Lord."

Crockett may turn to pros

PEORIA, Ill. (UPI) — Ivory Crockett, who recently set the world record of 9 seconds flat in the 100-yard dash, said Friday night that he is negotiating contracts to play professional football and to run track professionally.

"We're working everything out right now, so there aren't too many details. It should be almost a month before we get everything worked out, and then my lawyer and I will make an announcement," Crockett said in a telephone interview.

Garr's style drives them up the wall

ATLANTA (UPI) — Ralph Garr's batting style drives baseball purists up the wall.

But how do you go about changing the stance or swing of a man who has the highest career batting average in the major leagues?

"You don't," says Atlanta Braves Manager Eddie Mathews. "There are some people you just don't tamper with. You do them more harm than good. Now, if Ralph wasn't hitting so well, that's another story."

"A lot of people have tried to change me over the years, says Garr, a 28-year-old outfielder now in his seventh major league season. "But it's never done me any good and I've always gone back."

Ralph Garr, batting left-handed, stands well back from home plate, his weight on his back foot, and pulls even further away while lunging at the ball.

You wonder how he hits the ball at all, least of all as well as he does.

But Garr's career average though the first third of this season ws .325, tops among all active major league players. He was second in the National League in 1971 when he hit .343 (Joe Torre led with .363 and again in 1972 when he hit .325 (Billy Williams led with .333).

He started the week of June 9 hitting .382, tops in the National League and made no secret of his desire to win the title this year.

"You'd think I had nothing to prove, that finishing second two years in a row would convince people that I can hit," says Garr. "But last year, when I hit .299, a lot of people got on me even though I was the only player in the league besides Pete Rose to get 200 hits.

"If I win the batting title, maybe they'll get off my back. I want to hit in the high .300s, if possible. My objective is to beat Rose (the defending NL batting champ). If I do that, I'll be doing my job."

Garr, who uses a 36-inch, 38-ounce bat, says he has used his unorthodox batting style "for as long as I can remember.

"No one started me on it. It was something I did myself. I didn't pattern myself after anyone. My favorites when I was a kid were Willie Mays and Hank Aaron —and they're both righthanders.

"I thought I was somewhat like Billy Williams, but, then, I found out he didn't hit anything like I thought he did.

"Actually, I suppose I started hitting the way I do because, as a small kid, I was a bit afraid of the ball," says Garr. "I've tried to change from time to time, but it has never helped and I always slip back to what suits me best.

"I've never been a scientific hitter. I'm a guess hitter; I'm just a free swinger. I just watch the ball when it leaves the pithcer's hand and take my cut."

Ralph Garr was Atlanta's third choice in the 1967 free agent draft after leading the NAIA by hitting .568 for Grambling that spring.

Joe Rudi: soft talker, hard hitter

But Rudi, a quiet sort who believes in doing his playing on the field and not in the clubhouse or in the family newspaper, doesn't mind one bit.

"I'm just not as outspoken as some of the other guys around here," says the solidly built A's left fielder. "Sure, I have my ideas about baseball but I have to play the game my way. I wouldn't think of imposing my ideas on others."

Rudi was batting a solid .321 with six homers and 42 runs batted in as of June 12. He trailed teammate Reggie Jackson, the acknowledged star of the world champions, by nine homers but he had only one less RBI with 42.

Offensively, there isn't a tougher batter in the A's lineup than Rudi, who can muscle up and go for the long ball if need be, hit behind a runner if the situation warrants and bunt as well as anyone in the American League. On top of all that, he draws his share of bases on balls.

Bert Campaneris and Billy North are more obvious base stealers on the A's but Rudi is not too far behind. He doesn't attempt steals as often but he runs the bases on hits as well as the two speed merchants.

In the field, Rudi, now in his seventh big league season, isn't the most graceful left fielder you've seen but he makes all the plays and some that other more noted fielders never could. That's because of a quick jump and the ability to grab balls off walls. His arm is as strong as any in baseball and he rarely makes a mistake with a throw.

"It's time people start giving Joe some credit," says Jackson. "He's one of the stars in baseball but no one seems to know him. He's a great clutch hitter and he knows how to play the game in every way."

Garry Schumacher, a former baseball writer and public relations director who goes back more than 50 years in the game, compares Rudi to Irish Musel, who played left field for the Phillies, Dodgers and Giants for 15 years between 1915 and 1930.

''They are very much alike," says Schumacher of Rudi and Musel. "Irish's brother Bob played around the same time with the Yankees and was a better home run hitter. As a result, he got all the publicity, but Irish always drove in 100 runs while hitting only six to eight homers. He had a great arm in the outfield and knew how to run the bases.

"Like Rudi, not too many people noticed him but in my mind he was as tough a hitter in the middle of the lineup as there was in his day."

Because of his versatility with a bat, Rudi has to check the lineup card every day to see where he is hitting. Alvin Dark, the current A's manager, as did Dick Williams, the man who preceded him, usually pencils in the lineup for all the positions except one.

That's the spot he leaves for Rudi, depending on where he needs him the most. Lately, Joe has batted fifth behind Jackson, but at one time or another he has hit in every spot except ninth.

"In every way," says Dark of Rudi, "he is a professional. You can't begin to appreciate a player like him unless he is on your club where you can see him every day. Nothing he does, either at bat or in the field, surprises me any more. He's ball player's ball player."

No sense stealing

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Willie Stargell of the Pirates played 148 games in 1973 and did not steal a single base.

It really wasn't necessary for the Bucs' slugger, though. Among his 158 hits were 43 ree triples and 44 . Stargell scored

Weekly stocks

It's slow going on market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Wall Street's hopes for an early drop in interest rates were dashed this week and stocks declined in slow trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Dow Jones industrial average fell 10.63 to 843.09 in marked contrast to the previous week's record 51.55-point advance. That gain came as First National City Bank of New York lowered its prime lending rate—the base rate on loans to best commerrial borrowers— below the prevailing 11½ per cent level.

But no other major bank followed Citibank and analysts cited that failure as the key factor in the market's weakness.

Declines broadly led advances, 1,207 to 554, among the 1,963 stocks traded. But, in most cases, the individual losses were not too severe.

Perhaps the most depressing feature of the week was the apparent retreat of investors back to the sidelnes as Wall Street waited in vain for good interest rate news. Sales totaled only 58,648,986 shares, compared with the previous week's rather lively 74,583,100 shares, and with 64,666,515 the year before.

"The rally we had last week obviously ran out of steam," one analys said. "Unless some positive news develops, we will see at the least lethargy, and probably more declines."

As the week began, a spokesman for First Pennsylvania Corp. probably spoke for many in the banking community in calling Citibank's lowering of the prime "probably a bit premature."

On Tuesday, traders were further discouraged by a statement by a widely followed economist, Henry Kaufman of Salomon Brothers, forecasting still higher interest rates.

The following day, with hopes rapidly fading that any major bank would lower its prime as the June 15 corporate income tax date approached, fresh concern was sparked by a statement by new White House economic chief, Kenneth Rush, that the government plans to fight inflation with monetary and fiscal restraint "no matter how long it takes."

For the doubters on Wall Street that statement meant the Nixon administration still firmly believes in a tight money strategy to combat the nation's inflation problems.

As the market opened Thursday, those inflation problems again were brougtt home hard to investors. The government's May wholesale price index rose 1.5 per cent—an annual inflation rate of 15.6 per cent.

On the same day, virtually all hope for lower interest rates was dispelled when the Federal Reserve Bank of New York reported a $421 million rise in business loan demand for the week ended Wednesday. The weekly Fed figures have come to prominence on Wall Street in recent months since many blame rising commercial borrowing in part for the interest rate spiral.

By Friday, weighed down bz the week's unfavorable developments, the Dow declined 8.90 for its worst daily loss of the week.

Catalytic converter bound to be least-liked feature

By EDWARD S. LECHTZIN
UPI Auto Writer

DETROIT (UPI) — Like the seat belt-ignition interlock on this year's cars, the catalytic converter is almost sure to be the most talked-about and least-liked feature of the 1975 models.

It's an emission control device that will be on about 80 percent of next year's cars, will add about $150 to the price of the car and will send motorists searching for unleaded gasoline.

The catalytic converter is the auto industry's answer to the government's orders in 1970 to take the automobile out of the pollution picture by 1975. Many industry executives admit it's not the best answer.

But the muffler-like device treats the exhaust after combustion and will allow automakers to retune their engines and take off some of the emission control equipment that has cut into both mileage and performance Various estimates place the fuel economy improvement between 3 and 13 per cent.

The hot exhaust gases containing noxious carbon monoxide and unburned hydrocarbons are passed through the mufflerlike device containing two noble metal catalysts—platinum and palladium — available only from South Africa and the Soviet Union.

In the presence of heat and oxygen, the two gases are changed into harmless carbon dioxide and water. The catalyst metals only hasten the reaction. They are not affected by it and should last 50,000 miles with no significant deterioration.

That, at least, is what the industry now claims for the device which the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) says must last 50,000 miles.

Along with the catalytic converter, automakers will offer an emission control package consisting of improved carburetors, early fuel evaporation system, exhaust gas recirculation, air injection pump, an evaporative control system, positive crankcase ventilation and a high energy ignition.

All those devices may not be present on every car, but most will and the entire cost for 1975 should average between $130 and $155 a car. In California, where the requirements are even stiffer, there could be an additional cost o. between $35 and $45.

What is the American motorist going to get for that money?

According to EPA standards set for 1975 cars, hydrocarbon emissions in California will be reduced by at least 94 per cent from the uncontrolled cars of the 1960's and 90 per cent in the other 49 states. Carbon monoxide will be down by 90 per cent in California and 83 per cent elsewhere.

Those levels aren't as strict as the government originally wanted. They are interim standards set for 1975 and even more stringent levels are in store for 1976 unless Congress, as expected, pushes back the original standards even further.

If there is a fuel economy and performance improvement, it will still cost the American motorist more for the unleaded fuel he's going to be using in the 1975 models. It's expected the unleaded gasoline will cost two to three cents more a gallon.

Auto industry executives, worried that many prospective customers may decide not to buy a 1975-model because of the uncertainty over finding unleaded gasoline, have urged the government to clarify the gas picture.

It's not only the cars equipped with catalytic converters that will require the unleaded fuel. The Ford Motor Co. is going to build all 1975 models with narrow fuel tank filler necks that won't allow service stations to use present nozzles on pumps that contain leaded fuel. The other companies also say unleaded fuel will either be required or preferred in their new cars.

The EPA in early May ordered that 111,000 service stations across the country be ready to begin pumping unleaded fuel by July 1. Another 10,000 stations, mostly in rural areas, also will have to start selling unleaded gasoline after next Jan. 1.

That still leaves about four months between introduction of the 1975 models and the time when unleaded fuel should be readily available in all parts of the country. There's also the question of tourists taking their cars into Mexico and Canada and facing the possibility of ruining the emission control equipment.

The EPA said that when the program is fully effective, more than one out of every two gasoline stations will be able to offer unleaded gas to their customers.

Oil company executives have publicly stated the unleaded fuel will be available, but auto industry officials still fear another drop in sales this fall on top of the continuing slump this year because of the energy crisis during the winter.

One industry scientist has even raised the question of whether it's necessary to get the lead out of gasoline.

Dr. D. Maxwell Teague, chief research scientists at Chrysler which has fought the catalytic converters but will use them, says laboratory tests indicate it's not the lead additive that contaminates the converter.

Teague identified the culprit as ethylene dibromide, one of two "scavengers" added to gasoline to pull unburned lead out of the engine, minimixing the accumulation of lead on spark plugs, exhaust valves and combustion chamber walls.

While admitting his findings are preliminary because there has been no "on-the-road" testing, Teague did hold out the possibility that leaded fuel may be used if the ethylene dibromide is removed.

Other automotive scientists, notably at GM, contend the poisoning comes from the accumulation of lead and said the accumulation would even be greater without the "scavenger" to remove it.

Whether the catalystic converster will bring fuel economy won't be known until the EPA begins its new mileage tests this summer. If it doesn't materialize, many American motorists will question the extra cost of cleaning up the air.

New method of extracting oil from shale being tested

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (UPI) — An Albuquerque research organization is experimenting with a method of extracting oil from Rocky Mountain shale deposits without removing the shale from the ground or using nuclear devices.

The Atomic Energy Commission, in cooperation with private industry, has been working for years on the "in situ," or in place, method of extracting oil locked in the tight shale formations.

But the AEC's methods, used in such projects as Grasbuggy in New Mexico and Rulison in Colorado, have employed nuclear devices to shatter the shale and release the oil. The use of nuclear explosions led to environmentalist outcries.

The Albuquerque experiments, by the Energy Technology Department of the private Sandia Laboratories, would be an alternative to nuclear devices. The experiments also could provide a cheaper method of getting the oil.

"Successful completion of the project would go a long way toward helping the country build up a large reserve of competitively priced oil," said H.M. Stoller, head of the Sandia project.

Stoller said his department will investigate the "in situ' treatment of other fossil fuels such as coal, but the initial experiments will be concerned with oil shale.

"In situ treatment should have the advantage of minimal environmental impact," he said. "Other forms of oil shale treatment would leave large amounts of shale on the surface after processing.

"In situ processing would also be safer than either underground or surface mining."

Oil shale deposits in Colorado, Wyoming and Utah are estimated at 1.8 trillion barrels of oil. The shale oil occurs as a solid bituminous material that yields 25 to 30 gallons of oil per ton of shale.

The coet of the technical problems of removing the oil from the shale has prohibited its commercial development until recent increases in crude oil prices boosted its competitive potential.

Stoller said the method proposed by the lab to remove the oil involves shattering and burning the shale deposits. The oil, now locked in the rock, would be forced to the bottom of the shale bed and could then be pumped to the surface.

The first step in the process, Stoller said, would be drilling of a verticle hole through the shale deposit. Then, the deposit would be caved in with nonnuclear explosives, he said.

Stoller said without the additional space created by the vertical hole, the shattered shale would not be porous enough to burn.

Propane gas would be fed into the rock and ignited, creating a smoldering bed of shale, he said. The heat, approximately 900 degrees, would be high enough to allow the oil to flow to the bottom of the deposit.

Getty Museum to inaugurate parking reservation program

Since it opened last January, over 150,000 visitors have come to see the museum, a recreation of a Roman seaside villa, and the outstanding collection of Greek and Roman antiquities, Renaissance and Baroque paintings and French decorative arts of the 18th Century.

Limited parking facilities have made it difficult to admit all of the people who would like to visit the museum, and frequently the museum has been forced to close its gates to visitors, according to Stephen Garrett, deputy director.

Garrett explained that only limited parking is available because when the museum was built Getty wanted to preserve the natural beauty of the grounds. Because of the museum's isolated location — on Pacific Coast Highway overlooking the ocean — parking is not availble outside of the museum.

Consequently the museum has decided to institute a reservation service to assist visitors who would like to obtain tickets to assure them of guaranteed parking and admission. Entrance to the museum is dependable on available parking, according to Garrett, and reservations will be made for parking spaces, not the number of people arriving in each car. There is no charge for either parking or admission.

Visitors may request a ticket to reserve parking on a specific day for the morning or afternoon. Morning tickets will guarantee reserved parking for arrival between 10-11:30 a.m. and afternoon tickets insure parking from 1:30-3 p.m. However, once visitors enter the museum they may stay for as long as they wish.

Garrett said the primary purpose of the reservation service is to insure that someone who must drive three hours to get to the museum and is willing to make advance reservations can be assured parking and admission when he arrives.

"The new reservation system generally means that people who want to be guaranteed admission into the museum must plan their visit in advance," Garrett said. Visitors without reservations will be admitted only if parking is available.

Reservations may be made either by telephoning the Museum at (213) 454-0361 or by writing to Reservations, J. Paul Getty Museum, 17985 Pacific Coast Highway, Malibu, 90265.

Requests must include a specific day and whether morning or afternoon arrival is preferred.

The Legend of the Lost Cement Mine

Somewhere northeast of Mammoth Peak and south of Mono Lake there is a basin near a spring, and there, like a ghost of all the wild dreams you've ever had, is a lost vein of reddish cement-like rock that contains "lumps of virgin gold as thick as raisins in a slice of fruitcake."

Two men first found it in 1857. One of the men identified the bright flecks in the peculiar rock as gold. But his companion said it was worthless. Nevertheless, the believer hacked off about 10 pounds of the rock and, in spite of a terrible cough that threatened to tear him apart, carried it over the mountains.

In San Francisco he discovered he was suffering from tuberculosis. He had no money, and now he was unable to return for the treasure he had found. In payment for the medical aid he so desperately needed, he gave his 10 pounds of ore and a rough map to his physician, a Dr. Randall. Next, he died.

The doctor had the rock assayed. It held a treasure trove of gold! And so began a 17-year search for the lost lode. A search that carried the doctor's party into the Owens River War. Hostile Indians warned them off, but the gold fever was too high. Years later their skeletons were found in the wilderness.

Next came a man named Farnsworth, who claimed to have made a rich strike near the headwaters of the Owens River. That single, crude map, now yellowed with the years of search and lying lost under the doctor's body, had shown this to be the area of the lost vein. But just as the excitement began to spread, Farnsworth was accused of murdering his partner, and disappeared.

It's said that in 1877 a man named Kent uncovered a narrow red vein, from which he hacked an estimated $40,000 in gold. And it was even rumored that Kent and Farnsworth were the same man.

The hang of it is, we'll never know. Somewhere out by Mammoth, though, there's some unlikely looking rock that could be holding a fortune.

Cinematographers fight for quality in movies

By DICK KLEINER

HOLLYWOOD (NEA)—Maybe you hadn't noticed but this is The Year of the Cinematographer. At least, the ASC — American Society of Cinematographers — is trying to get that idea across to the public.

They think, and there is some justice in their position, that movie-goers are not sufficiently aware of the contribution of cinematographers to motion pictures. And so they are launching a big campaign to remedy that situation.

Ernest Laszlo, one of Hollywood's great photographers, is currently president of ASC. He believes that more attention should be focused on the cameramen, because that art is currently in a state of decline.

"Quality has gone out the window" Laszlo says. "The current philosphy seems to be that as long as it gets on the screen, it's all right. It was hard for us to find five worthy nominees for the cinematography Oscar this year."

He thinks that today, with budgetary considerations so important to movie-making, the artistic part of films has become largely forgotten.

"There's no demand for quality photography today," Laszlo says.

He also believes the public has the wrong idea of just what is good photography. They look at films such as "Ryan's Daughter" and "Jonathan Livingston Seagull" and admire the beautiful landscapes and leap to the conslusion that those are great jobs of cinematography.

Laszlo points out that that's not exactly the way things should be judged.

"When you do an exterior picture," he says, "and you can wait for the proper lighting, the shots can be taken by a 10-year-old child. The way to tell quality photography is in an interior picture — God isn't there to help. People get carried away with natural beauty. The art comes in when you have to shoot interiors."

When you are shooting an interior scene, he says, you have to do the lighting yourself.

"Every light should have a meaning," he says. "But today they toss in a lot of light so people can walk anywhere and be lit. It works, but it isn't artistic."

The ASC is not a union nor a guild but an educational, professional and cultural organization. The members — there are only 185 active members — are invited to join. There are a few TV men who have become members but so far there are no women.

ERNEST LASZLO:

One of ASC's most recent activities is an every-other-month program honoring various pioneer cinematographers. Fifteen have been saluted so far.

"Most of our pioneers are getting along," Laszlo says. "We'd like to honor them while they're still alive."

Garden shed yields fortune in coins

LONDON (UPI) — A man poking through the backyard of an house he had just inherited found some coins in a garden shed.

He took a handful of them to Sotheby's, the fine art auction house. Sotheby's sold the collection for $633,026, including a world record price for an Italian silver coin.

The man who found the treasure trove sold it anonymously, and Sotheby's spokesmen would not reveal his identity.

CRISTINA FERRARE

Cristina Ferrare

Actress prefers elegant roles

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Cristina Ferrare has a beautiful face, a modulated voice, clean fingernails and a rich husband.

She is that wonder of wonders, a young actress who is not "trying to find herself."

Cristina will be remembered as the teen-ager who co-starred with David Niven in "The Impoesible Years."

But when Hollywood decided young girls should only be seen slobbering around in tangled hair, half nude, in tight blue jeans and barefooted, Cristina turned to modeling for fashion magazines.

Her face continues to adorn the covers of high fashion publications.

Currently she is starring in "Mary, Mary, Bloody Mary" and looking immaculate and strikingly gorgeous.

"Audiences are tired of seeing girls and women looking their worst," she said. "At least I am. And I refuse to play those sort of roles. Who wants to go to a theater to see a seamy slice of life? All you have to do is walk down the streets of any city."

Cristina is 24 now. She is tall (5-8) and slender and married to John Z. DeLorean, a noted auto engineer-designer. She makes her home in Detroit.

"It's only 40 minutes to New York," Cristina said, "where we have an apartment. I'm from Cleveland, Ohio, and I love that part of the country. It also keeps me in close touch with people who see movies.

"Most of the people I talk to want to see a return of beauty to the screen. I do myself. I love pictures starring Ali MacGraw, Candy Bergen, Katherine Ross and the other great looking actresses.

"My role in 'Bloody Mary' was originally a hippie. But the director decided it would be better if I had a beautiful wardrobe, so they changed the character to a more delicate, elegant woman.

"Some people may not be able to identify as well with a beautiful girl as with an ordinary one, but it depends on the actress and what she brings to the role."

Cristina can afford to be independent. Her husband takes care of all her financial needs, and she is among the most highly paid models.

She spent seven weeks in Mexico on "Mary, Mary, Bloody Mary," her longest separation from husband John in the year they've been married.

"He wasn't too happy with the arrangement," Cristina said. "It's different when I go to New York for modeling jobs. I commute. I fly to Manhattan in the morning and fly back the same evening, either that or John goes with me and we stay in our apartment.

"He flies out here to California a couple of times a month on business and I come with him to visit my mother.

"It will all work out in the future —as long as producers keep making movies that do not picture women looking their worst."

Horn virtuoso to perform at the Bowl

HOLLYWOOD — Barry Tuckwell, Australian-born French horn virtuoso, will perform with the Los Angeles Philharmonic in the Hollywood Bowl at 8 p.m. July 11.

Tuckwell, considered one of the great horn players of the day, will perform two concertos with the orchestra under Michael Tilson Thomas — Mozart's Horn Concerto No. 2 in E Flat, and Richards Strauss' Horn Concerto No. 1 in E Flat.

Called "a prince in his profession" by The Times of London, Tuckwell has mastered the most difficult of wind instruments.

Tuckwell now lives in London, where for 13 years he was principal horn with the London Symphony Orchestra.

The July 11 concert will include Stravinsky's Symphony in Three Movements and Strauss' tone poem "Also sprach Zarathustra."

The Bowl box office is open from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday. Tickets can alo be purchased at Mutual, Liberty and Wallich's agencies.

Knott's Wild Animal Follies, staged by Ralph Helfer of "Daktari" and "Gentle Ben" fame, features wild animals live and uncaged on stage.

The wildest shows in the west.
Every day at Knott's.

There's no place in the west where the shows are wilder than they are at Knott's.

Walk into Knott's Ghost Town and you're in the middle of a shoot 'em up showdown between a sheriff and two "funfighters".

See Ghost Town "Funfighters".

Or sit timidly in your seat during Knott's Wild Animal Follies—while steps away panthers, brahma bulls and other beasts prowl the stage live and uncaged! A lion leaps toward you. A husky man wrestles a 500 lb. bear.

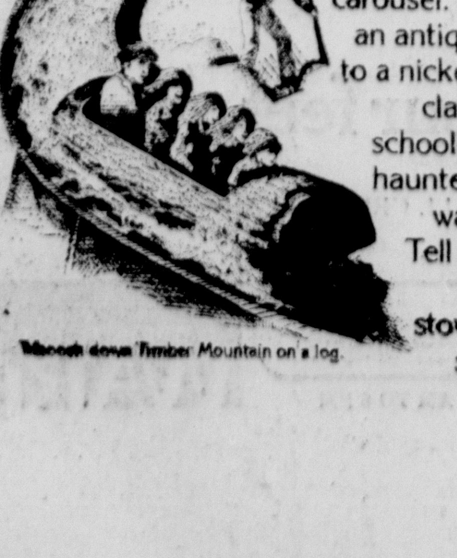
You shoot the rapids on Knott's Timber Mountain log ride—plummeting through darkened underground caverns and plunging down a rocky spillway.

Then you board a mine train to creak and clatter your way deep into the earth, making a run for the tunnel mouth as dynamite goes off behind you.

Taming of the west.

Of course, there's plenty at Knott's for the tamer-of-heart.

You can pan for gold. Chat with an Indian chief. Ride the gentle beasts on the carousel. Go for a spin in an antique auto. Listen to a nickelodian. Attend class in a little red schoolhouse. Visit the haunted shack, where water flows uphill. Tell tall tales around the pot-bellied stove in the general store. Pet a goat or llama in Knott's animal farm. Watch the Mexican folk dancers and tap your toe to the rhythm of the "guitaron".



Whoosh down Timber Mountain on a log.

Looking at Knott's.

Like the covered wagon shows. The mighty fireworks show. The top name talent in the Knott's John Wayne Theater. The tiny world of "Knott's Miniatures". The horse drawn fire engines. The collection of carriages in the livery stable. The bottle house and the girls in Goldie's Place. The flamingoes and the peacocks and the roosters running loose. The glass blower with his bubbles and the blacksmith with his sparks and steel.

Pan for real gold.

Shop talk.

If you love the unusual, Knott's is a great place to shop. You'll find antique fire engines and contemporary cut glass. Home-made pickles and hand-made candy. Imported gowns and hand-carved leathergoods.

Eat your fill.

If you're famished at Knott's Berry Farm, you have a dozen places to fill your tummy. Best of all is Mrs. Knott's own chicken dinner restaurant. (Been bringing folks back to Knott's for 40 years.) Then there's the steak house, the cable-car kitchen and a host of snack shops. Old-fashioned hot pretzel and popcorn stands are everywhere at Knott's.

Show up at Knott's. Any day or night. You'll enjoy the wildest shows in the west... and then some.

Watch an old time blacksmith forge horseshoes.

Rawls, recording star and nightclub and television performer, will make appearances nightly Monday and Tuesday at 8 and 10 o'clock in the Eagle Playhouse at the family entertainment park.

Bo Donaldson and the Heywoods will open a two-week engagement Monday in the park's newly remodeled Amphitheater.

Rawls will be followed by David Clayton-Thomas, June 24-25; the Earl Scruggs Revue, July 1-4; Buck Owens and the Backaroos, July 8-9; Jack Sheldon, July 15-16; Max Morath, July 22-23; Carlos Moontoya, July 29-30; Kenny Rogers and the 1st Edition, Aug. 5-6; Mary Travers, Aug. 12-13; Willie Nelson, Aug. 19-20; Kelly Garrett, Aug. 26-27; and Rick Nelson, Sept. 1-2.

This is the first time name entertainers have appeared at Busch Gardens since the park was opened in 1966.

Regular prices will prevail. One gate admission covers all attractions within the park, including the entertainment.

Cleaning saves

NEW YORK (UPI) — Clean bulbs, lamps and lampshades save energy—yours and the local electric company. The extra light lessens eyestrain and uses less fuel if it permits you to use a smaller watt bulb.

Keep washable shades clean with an occasional sudsy bath. Clean bulbs and the lamp with a damp cloth—but for safety's sake, unplug the lamp first to avoid shock.

Jackson Five to play at Inglewood Forum

INGLEWOOD — Saturday's performance of the Jackson Five at the Forum will be a benefit show to provide funds for the construction of schools and community centers in Africa, according to producer Dick Griffey.

"It's not an ordinary show, for the Jackson Five will be turning over a good slice of the gate to the African Development Fund Committee, headed by Bishop H. H. Brookins,'' explained Griffey. "The fund will be building schools and community centers for youngsters in Zaire, Zambia and other African nations."

The quintet of brothers jumped into national prominence eight years ago in their home town of Gary, Ind. Gary's Mayor Richard Hatcher brought the singing family to the attention of Diana Ross of Motown Records while she was doing a local performance.

Miss Ross in turn called Motown president Barry Gordy from Detroit to hear the boys. He promptly signed the quintet to a contract.

In rapid succession came recording sessions, guest appearances on national television, their own television special and finally, their own animated weekly television show, the first black group to win such a theatrical vehicle. They have become the fastest selling roup in Motow history, outselling The Temptations, The Supremes and Stevie Wonder.

The Jackson Five will be joined at the Forum engagement by the Ohio Players, Molt Willis, the Whispers and the MDLT's, four singing sisters from Ashtabula, Ohio. Showtime is 7:30 p.m.

Lithuanian folk festival scheduled

HOLLYWOOD — The 25th annual Lithuanian Folk Song and Dance Festival will be held in the Hollywood Palladium starting at 3:30 p.m. June 30.

The festival will be followed by a banquet and dancing to the music of Latvala.

More than 200 singers and dancers from throughout the United States will perform. Among the troupes taking part are Grandis from Chicago, Ill., Shilaine from Detroit, Mich., the Los Angeles Youth Ensemble, and a company from San Francisco. All will be in native Lithuanian costume.

Tickets for the program, dinner and dancing are $15 general, $10 for students; program and dancing only, $8 and $6 general, $3 for students.

Tar Heel State

North Carolina's nickname, the Tar Heel State, was started during the Civil War. It refers to the immovability of the North Carolina soldiers with tar on their feet.

Ballet schedules new productions

LOS ANGELES — The New York City Ballet will present nine ballets which have not been seen in Los Angeles before when the troupe makes its 10th appearance at the Greek Theater Aug. 12-24.

The new ballets include "La Source" by Balanchine to a score by Delibes, and Jerome Robbins' new ballet, "Dybbuk," to a specially commissioned score by Leonard Bernstein, on the first program, Aug. 12-14. The second program, Aug. 15-17, will include five ballets: "Scherzo Fantastique," "Le Baiser de la Fee,'' "Monumentum-Movements" and "Stravinsky Violin Concerto," all choreographed by Balanchine to Stravinsky music, and Jerome Robbins' "Circus Polka" which is a tribute to the composer. Two other premieres, both to be seen on the closing program, Aug. 22-24, are "Agon," which has been called one of the great ballets of all time, and the "Brahms-Schoenberg Quartet."

Ballets which have been performed here in past seasons include the all-time favorite classic ballet "Swan Lake," Bizet's "Symphony in C," "Dances at a Gathering," "Stars and Stripes" and "The Concert."

The 22nd summer season at the Greek opens July 5 with Harry Belafonte and his International Company. It will include popular entertainers, and the National Theater of Great Britain production of Shakespeare's "As You Like It."

Suplicas se hacen para adicional instruccion bilingue

Aspera critica fue dirigida hacia la Escuela Arroyo donde solamente un assistente bilingue es empleado mientras 11.35 por ciento de los 828 alumnos de la escuela tiene apellidos espanoles.

"Existen varias escuelas elementales que tienen en predominancia estudiantes anglos entre los cuales hay algunos estudiantes que no hablan el idioma Ingles, o aquellos estudiantes que tienen gran dificultad con el idioma," dijo Rafael Estupinian, director de la Escuela Intermedia Fremont y orador por los padres de habla hispana en la comunidad de Pomona.

"A lo mas las necesidades de estos ninos han recibido solamente atencion superficial porque ellos no estan incluidos en los programas bajo Title I o bilingue.

"Sin embargo, su necesidad es critica. Mientras estan aprendiendo el lenguage, hay un retraso academico que algunas veces nunca es compensado. Este retraso resulta en resultados de examenes may desalentadores, bajo IQ, trauma emocional y una depreciacion de la perdida de la dignidad del mismo.'

La Sra. Margarita Gonzalez, residente de Pomona por 19 anos, dijo a la Junta de Instruccion que solamente hay un ayudante bilingue en el kindergarten de la escuela Arroyo. Al mismo tiempo pregunto, "que ira a suceder con los alumnos del primer, segundo y tercer grados en Septiembre?"

La Sra. Irene Jimenez, madre de 6 ninos, dirigio la palabra a la Junta, en espanol que sus ninos, que asisten a la escuela Arroyo, estan "retrocediendo, no adelantando, y que no hay nadie que los pueda ayudar." Ella pidio instruccion en Espanol para sus ninos, y que material Espanol sea enviado a su casa para ella poder ayudar a sus hijos.

La Sra. Wilhelmina Garcia, dijo que ella habia trabajado como voluntaria en la escuela y que habia ninos incapaces de hacer su trabajo a causa de la barrera del lenguage," "Los maestros no saben como ensenar a un nino en su propio lenguage," dijo ella. "Ellos necesitan la ayuda de personas competentes."

"Existe un problema en Arroyo," agrego otra persona, la Sra. Nancy Lopez, quien es presidente de la Sociedad de Padres y Maestros en Garey. "Ellos necesitan el programa bilingue."

Mary Montes, consultante bilingue quien actualmente trabaja en su doctorado en educacion, urgio a la Junta de Instruccion a "encontrar maneras de levantar una estimacion o censo de los ninos de habla hispana en el distrito escolar y conocer sus necesidades. Esto requiere mas esfuerzo que dinero," ella dijo.

Estupinian recomendo que las cuales podrian incorporar el censo o estimacion de lenguage sea hecho en todas las escuelas elementales. El sugirio que un maestro visitador puede ser asignado a visitar varias escuelas proporcionando servicios instructivos en una base alternativa.

"El especialista bilingue puede ayudar a los maestros que no hablan espanol y escribir direcciones realisticas material en ambos idiomas," agrego Estupinian.

"Otra alternativa pudiera ser el enviar ayudantes bilingues de salon de clase a ayudar en aquellas escuelas donde exista un grupo de ninos sin conocimientos del idioma Ingles. Esta es una mejor alternativa que el tener un maestro visitador," dijo Estupinian.

El Dr. James Bell, presidente de la Junta de Instruccion, dijo a los padres de familia y maestros que durante su termino como presidente, la Junta ha puesto atencion a los programas bilingues para los estudiantes que no hablan Ingles. Dijo que el aprecia el interes que los padres muestran por sus hijos.

Durante este ano el Distrito Escolar de Pomona ha tenido maestros de habla hispana y ayudantes en 19 salones de classe en 11 escuelas, ocho elementales y tres escuelas secundárias. El programa ayudo a 1,052 alumnos.

En Marzo la Junta de Instruccion Publica reafirmo su apoyo al programa bilingue bicultural en las escuelas y dijo a ese tiempo que esperabe se pudiera ampliar el proximo ano.

Tomato juice gains new status on breakfast table

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Tomato juice is about to win the same breakfast table status as that old standby orange juice, at least as far as vitamin C is concerned.

New regulations to be published by the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) will allow the manufacturers of tomato juice to fortify it with vitamin C up to the level at which that nutrientis found naturally in orange juice.

That level of vitamin C, 10 milligrams an ounce, may also be added to all other beverages that imitate orange juice or are otherwise marketed for breakfast consumption.

The change in tomato juice, effective in 60 days, was requested by the Del Monte Corp., of San Francisco, a major food producer.

A citrus grower's association didn't like the idea, telling the FDA the tomato juice people only wanted it to grab a bigger share of the juice market.

The citrus lobby also contended that vitamin C added to food in the form of ascorbic acid isn't quite as good, or at least is different from, naturally occurring vitamin C such as that found in oranges.

FDA Commissioner Dr. Alexander M. Schmidt rejected those arguments, however, saying there was no scientific evidence to show there are any differences between the two forms of vitamin C.

He added that fortification is important because "tomato juice is used primarily as a breakfast beverage" and such beverages constitute the major source of vitamin C for Americans.

The tomato juice regulation was part of a package of 17 proposed or final food rules and guidelines which Schmidt said are designed to "prevent an irrational nutritional horsepower race."

Jardin de la comunidad esta abierto

POMONA — Residentes de apartamentos, casas movibles y otros residentes que carecen de espacio suficiente para trabajar en su propio jardin en la casa estan invitados a participar en el jardin de la comunidad en el Parque Filadelfia.

Todos fueron bienvenidos el Sabado pasado cuando se abrio las puertas para visitar el jardin, que esta ubicado en la parte oriental del parque, en la Calle Philadelphia entre las avenidas Towne y Garey.

Parcelas de aproximadamente 200 pies cuadrados cada una, suficientes para alimentar una familia de cuatro si son tra-bajadas extensamente, estan a la disposicion del publico calculando una por persona o familia, dijo Ray Hutton, director del jardin.

Hay una cuota de iniciacion de $6 mas la cuota anual de $4 por miembro, pero las cuotas se han rebajado a $2 por iniciacion y $1 por miembro para las personas sin empleo y ciudadanos mayores de edad con entrada de dinero fija.

El jardin ocupa 1.4 acres de terreno puesto a la disposicion por el Departamento de Parques de Pomona. Roger Taylor, superintendente de parques, dijo que el terreno est adisponible en lo que se espera sera un proyecto de amplio beneficio para la comunidad.

Mas de 20 residentes actualmente estan tomando parte en el proyecto. Calabazas y otros vegetales se estan cosechando.

Precios crecen para taxicabs

POMONA — Un aumento en la tarifa de los servicios de carros de alquiler (taxis) entrara en vigor probablemente dentro de un mes.

El aumento en las tarifas para la Compania de Taxis Paul's fue aprobado por el Concilio de la ciudad durante de sesion del Lunes pasado.

El precio actual de $6 por hora de tiempo de espera o retraso en trafico subira a $7.20 por hora.

RTD blamed for poor patronage

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — County Board Chairman Kenneth Hahn, one of the first supporters of the Southern California Rapid Transit District's bus fare subsidy, Tuesday warned RTD officials that their "indifference" may cost them the subsidy.

Hahn said he was disappointed in patronage figures for the program and blamed RTD management for failing to make the project attractive enough to get more riders.

The RTD stands to lose a $39.9 million county subsidy that underwrites the 25 cent fare program. Fares are 10 cents on Sunday.

Hahn said the RTD does not seem to care whether or not it receives more help from the county.

Movement to free alleged murderer 'Ochiki' strong

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (UPI) — Irving "Ochiki" Young, convicted in 1970 in the torture death of a Black Panther police informer, spends his days hoping for a reprieve from the life sentence he believes he was given in a wave of national hysteria aimed at the Panthers.

"It was mass hysteria when I was sent up," Young said in an interview. "There was a lot of fear. It all came out in the Watergate how these certain groups were under surveillance and the mandate was out on them."

"Every time I pick up the newspaper I see murder, rape, robbery, embezzlement, corruption —every day. And you see I come to jail for something I didn't do. I wasn't even given bail. But these big shots can go back to their homes. They can commit a crime and stay in the streets."

Young, 36, was convicted in April of 1970 in the murder of Eugene Anderson, an artist and police informer whose body was found six months earlier in a Baltimore city park. Twenty other Black Panthers and sympathizers charged in the case were acquitted and the witnesses against Young were later discredited.

Others are free

Only Young, who contends he was innocent, was jailed.

Rep. Parren Mitchell, the state's only black Congressman, has asked Gov. Marvin Mandel to pardon Young or at least shorten his sentence. Others are also seeking his release, including friends from his old neighborhood and Morgan State University, which in May granted him one of the few college degrees ever given to an inmate of a Maryland prison.

Allowed to leave the prison for only the second time without handcuffs to attend Morgan State's commencement exercises, Young —who was a technologist at a Baltimore hospital before his arrest —has been teaching his fellow inmates elementary science. About 85 per cent of the 1,000 prisoners are black and most have an average of only six years of formal schooling.

Those seeking Young's release say his guilt or innocence is less important than the belief he has been rehabilitated and that he was imprisoned while others charged in the murder were not. They argue Young's misfortune was to be tried at the height of what they see as a hysterical campaign aimed at the destruction of the Panthers.

"Free Ochiki" movement

Marilyn Phillips, Young's tutor in Morgan State's "University Without Walls" program, has become a leader in the "Free Ochiki" movement. Ochiki, an African word meaning prayer, is the name preferred by Young.

"We want them to at least look at the justice of the situation and ask if someone who was supposed to be so peripheral to the crime should be treated like this while all the others are free," Miss Phillips said.

Young, who once studied to be a minister and converted to Judaism in 1964, says he is not bitter, although he admits anger about "the system."

"Those men who testified against me, the Black Panthers, they didn't put me here," he said. "It's the system that put me here and it's the system that's keeping me here."

But Young, who won't be eligible for parole until 1981, believes that playing along with the system is the only way he can obtain his release. He has written Mandel and met with one of the governor's aides in his effort to gain freedom.

Not vindictive

"I don't hold a vindictive attitude against the Panthers or the people who put me here," Young said. "If I went out there with the attitude of vindictiveness against these people, I know I would not be able to serve society the way I want to, to bring about change.

"I think I could return to society and do something to help a lot of the struggling people in the neighborhoods that I come out of who are doing bad and give them something to identify with, something to look up to. I'm not calling myself a hero but I will have been getting rewards as well because I will be getting the rewards of a common citizen and a human being and I think I'm entitled to this.

"In my heart I feel the governor wants to do something for me. I feel he will free me because I'd like to leave this world doing something for society because I think society has done a lot for me. So I owe them a debt, but I cannot fulfill that debt behind walls," he said.

Young says he also wants to be a father to his children, a 10-year-old daughter and 4-year-old son now in the custody of his ex-wife.

FOOD ADDICT — Actress Carolyn Jones comically pretends to eat the book, "Diary of a Food Addict," which she and her husband, Broadway musical conductor Herb Greene co-authored. The book recounts Greene's struggle to loosen the grips of obesity. "I can't handle food anymore than an alcoholic can handle booze," said Greene who has managed to keep his weight at a comfortable 150 for over three years.

Foodaholic keeps monotonous diet

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Broadway musical conductor Herb Greene shed 106 pounds once he realized he was an insane, uncontrollable "addict" around food.

"I can't handle food anymore than an alcoholic can handle booze," said Greene, who has kept his weight to a comfortable 150 for over three years.

The curly-haired arranger of "The Music Man" and other show hits tried trimming his 256-pounds unsuccessfully until his discovery that eating was a "madness" he couldn't control.

"I don't know what eating normally means," the 50-year-old showman said over a cottage cheese and coffee lunch at San Francisco's Top of the Mark. "The amounts I can cram at any old time are so huge that I don't know when I'm full."

Once he realized he was a compulsive eater for whom no therapy existed, Greene devised a solution for dropping pounds by eating the same food —in small portions —each day.

Monotonous Diet

He substitutes one food for another each week, but except for an occasional binge, Greene hasn't deviated from this bland eating cycle since he worked it out over three years ago.

"It's a lifestyle I had to alter like an alcoholic alters his lifestyle," said Greene, who with his actress wife, Carolyn Jones, recounts Greene's struggle to loosen the grips of obesity in the sometimes sad, often hilarious book, "Diary of a Food Addict." (Grosset and Dunlap, $6.95).

Miss Jones recalls conflicts in her courtship and marriage to Greene, but she had always dismissed food as a source of the problem.

"I attributed the problems to everything else except the fact that he had overeaten the night before and was ashamed of it," said the actress, who is best known for her TV role as Morticia in "The Addams Family."

He once asked her to keep him on a low-calorie diet, but that didn't work because he would become irritable and finally accused her of cheating him on his portions.

"I became like judge, jury and executioner," said Miss Jones. "It was a terrific strain on our relationship."

Things got worse and worse until Greene, in desperation, concluded he was "mad" and could never eat normally, a condition he believes is shared by other overweight people.

"Since I'm irrational, I realize I must deal with this in an irrational way," said Greene. "By eating the same foods all the time there's no danger of choices."

Foodaholic

Doctors assured him there was no harm in his new eating habits as long as the food cycles were nutritionally balanced.

"It would be totally vain to say to an alcoholic, we'll give you a choice: Which would you prefer to drink—bourbon, rye, gin or champagne?

"It's the same difficulty when you give a food addict a choice of what he will eat, how much and when he will eat it."

Since Greene has dropped to a normal weight for his 5-7 frame, he feels healthier and enjoys living in a thin world enough to want to remain on his eating cycle the rest of his life.

Reducing, Greene said, has helped save his marriage and added years to his life. Besides, he said, obesity is "quite unaesthetic. It looks lousy."

Portuguese try to attract tourist trade

LISBON (UPI) — Like a hopeful gambler shaking a pair of dice, Portugal believes its "lucky seven" is about to come up.

The "lucky seven" the new government is hoping for is a new "invasion." Not the armed legions that have violated Portugal's borders six times over the centuries, but an invasion of foreigners armed with fat wallets.

To prepare for them, developers are spending nearly $100 million on three ultramodern recreational complexes in a picturesque area of beaches and fishing villages that retain much of their old-world charm.

Backed by the government, they have built scores of new hotels and laid out golf courses, tennis courts, riding stables and boat basins. Topping off the venture are three gambling casinos rivaling any in Las Vegas.

While the developers are trying to insure something for everyone, the casinos are viewed as the main tourist attraction. The first was opened last year at Penina. Another began operating this year at Vilamoura and a third will open in July at Monte Gordo.

The doctor comments

See doctor now for passed blood

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am writing to you about my father-in-law. We have a very close relationship, and I love him very much. I am very worried. I fear he is doing himself more harm than good. For about a year now he has been urinating blood. He refuses to see a doctor and says he has seen many of his friends go go to a doctor and only become worse. He is 64. Dr. Lamb, could you please tell me what it could be that he has and how seious it could be. What can I do for him? I would appreciate any helpful information you can give me.

DEAR READER — Get him to go to a doctor without fail. Anyone who is passing blood in the urine should be carefully examined for the possibility of cancer. Painless bleeding in the urine which starts suddenly sometimes means cancer of the kindey. I don't mean to frighten you, but your father-in-law must understand the significance of his problem.

Less serious problems can cause bleeding. They too require medical attention. I don't believe there is anything you can really do for him other than to do your absolute best to get him to a doctor for a careful examination.

I would like to take opportunity to encourage everyone who has this kind of a problem at any time to go immediately to a doctor for a complete medical examination. Time, in these situations, can sometimes save a person's life.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have what is known as a nonmalignant fibroid tumor of the uterus. This was confirmed by my doctor a year ago. He said very little about it, and this is why I feel compelled to ask questions. Is there a possibility that a tumor of this kind would hinder pregnancy? My husband and I have been hoping for children for two years, but have had no success in our efforts to have a child.

Can you explain what a fibroid is? And, can they cause bleeding?

DEAR READER — A fibroid, sometimes called leiomyomata, is usually a fairly smooth, round tumor in the body of the uterus made up of connective tissue or the fibers similar to those in scar tissue. This means it's fairly firm or fiberous. It is not cancer. Fibroids will enlarge in time in most women. Very small ones can be tolerated and some women have gotten pregnant in the presence of a fibroid tumor. The location and size has a lot to do with this, and it's possible for the presence of such a tumor to interfere with normal pregnancy.

Occasionally these tumors are the cause for bleeding. However, no woman should assume this, and any woman who has unexplained uterine bleeding should immediately seek the attention of her doctor. An examination under thse circumstances may detect an early malignancy and make it possible for a complete cure. Day may mean disaster.

Fibroid tumors as they become larger may get big enough to cause distention of the lower abdomen and can even cause pressure on the bladder and bowels.

Whether or not a fibroid tumor should be removed depends a lot on the circumstances. If it's small, there is no bleeding and it doesn't seem to be enlarging or causing the patient any problem. the doctor may elect not to bother it. However, if its producing symptoms or causing pressure on the bladder or by causing bledding, he may elect to remove it. Similarly, he may decide to remove one if he thinks it fould be inteferring with the possibility of achieving a desired pregnancy.

Send your questions to Dr. Lamb, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019. For a copy of Dr. Lamb's booklet on constipation, send 50 cents to the same address and ask for "Constipation" booklet.

World of animals

Keep pets elsewhere when painting room

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: We just repainted our house. We did it ourselves and are proud of it, but it was a tough job. The hardest part? You'd never guess. It was keeping Neanderthal, our young hound. out of the paint bucket. What a mess he made! Besides spilling the bucket, he leaned against the wet wall once and we had to do the whole thing over. Never again. Not with Neanderthal helping, anyway. Next time our house gets painted, he gets boarded out. And that's our tip for the day.—D.D.

DEAR D.D.: True, paints and pets don't mix, or at least they shouldn't. Many paints and paint-related products are poisonous and even the fumes can be deadly in a room where a caged small animal (i.e., bird) is confined. Be sure such pets are moved out of any affected area. You're quite right: For that big painting project it's often safest to board the pet out until the fuss and fumes have subsided.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My canary, Carrie, is only using one leg. The other foot and leg look OK, but she just holds it up. She never gets out of her cage, so I don't think it could be broken, but how do you tell if it's just sore or not?—W.E.

DEAR W.E.: Any time a caged bird goes for an entire day without using a leg, the problem's worthy of an expert's attention. Dislocations or fractures can occur in the upper part of the leg and may be difficult to detect even on close examination by the doctor. The confined bird can still manage to break a leg by becoming entwined in a toy or the cage wires. There are many causes for lameness, but a sudden refusal to use a leg usually indicates some type of injury.

DEAR DR. MILLER: I'm having a problem with athletes foot. Picked it up at the gym, I guess. What I'm wondering is, could my turtle, Timothy, get it from me? — R.V.

DEAR R.V.: If you and Timothy shower together, it's just possible he could pick up your foot fungus. It depends a lot on which one you happen to have. Turtles have a variety of funguses of their own, though there are some which could be transmitted from human to turtle and vice versa.

I LOVE HIM

Why my Dad is the Greatest

My Dad was a mechanic and he work on trucks and he work on tractors and he work on tires and the name of his work was General Tires and he was so nice to me and my sisters and brothers and one day my Dad went to work and the Tractor Tire blew up on him and he was in the hospital and he was in a coma for a year and 5 days and the 5th day he died.

Why My Dad Is The Greatest

My Dad is the greatest to me because he is patient when teaching me to do things.
He's the greatest because he never goes back on promises for something special.
I love him because he notices your good grades and rewards you for them usually a trip to 31 flavors.
He's something hard to put in words but he loves me and cares for me like a father should.

Mary Buchanan
Age 10
Pomona

Why is My Dad greatest?

Well, he always listens, no matter what I have to say. From "What's a record made of? to "Why am I alive?" He loves in his own way. Quietly, madly, nicely. Like if I'm leaving he'd yell, "Don't get lost" or "Stick with the group." Then quietly he'd say, "goodbye". He never says I love you. He would say it in his own way. Just sitting and looking at you. Or telling you to "move". So, if you ask me to show you a king, you can be sure I'll show you my Dad.

Donna Guisado
Age 10½
Pomona

Why I think my dad is the greatest.

I think my dad is the greatest because he is working very hard on necleur power plans to overcome the energy crisis and because he was riding his bike at the time of the energy crisis and even pick up some grocerys on the way home so Mom wouldn't have to use the car. And he helped me try to find my 24 carrot earring I lost in the lake but never did find it. He goes with me to Girl Scouts events if my Mom is not able to make it and he even wakes up early in the morning to bring the Girl Scouts to our camping place. I love him and my Mom very much!!! etc.

Ruby Baudoin
Age 11½ (12 the 23rd of this month)
W. Covina

Why is my Dad the greatest?

Because he loves me. I just think he is the greatest. He takes me to church to learn about Jesus. He takes me places without my mother, brother or sister. He took me to the store to buy roller skates. But I can't tell the secrets and there good. He helped me pull out my tooth. My friends asked me to play but I said no. I am about telling about my great dad and I said its going to be a long time. When I said my great dad I ment my great DAD.

Laura Blay
Age 8
Claremont

Why I think my dad is the greatest!

For one reason he's the only dad I've got, and if it wasn't for my dad I wouldn't have most of the things I've had if I didn't have a dad. For another thing, if it wasn't for fathers some kids wouldn't live the same as if they didn't have one. The way my dad is has something to do with the way I am. My father cannot stand to see an animal lock up in a cage or be mistreated. If it weren't for people like my father animals would be mistreated and locked up. So you see my dad is the greatest.
Because he's my dad and no body can take his place. Besides he's not even my real father.

For charity now

Rockette alumnae still kicking

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Now they do their high kicks for charity.

They're the girls who through the years have been featured at one of New York's top tourist attractions, Radio City Music Hall. They're the Rockettes and their precision dancing has been seen by an estimated 30 million persons.

Nineteen years ago, graduates of the group founded the Rockette Alumnae Association with a two-fold purpose, philanthrophy and maintenance of contact and friendships among themselves.

Each year, the association holds a ball to benefit one of its many causes. This Saturday night (June 15), they'll stage their own show at Essex House for the benefit of the National Foundation for Sudden Infant Death.

"We change charities each year," said Mrs. Thomas (Joy) Gibbons, of Lyndhurst, N.J., association president. "We've held benefits for retarded children, arthritis, kidney, cancer, USO, autistic kids, the heart fund, blind, multiple sclerosis....

"Every year we donate to the Will Rogers Memorial Fund which maintains a home in upstate New York primarily for theater people with respiratory disease.

"We have a fund from which our members can borrow without interest. We've established an annual Russell Markert scholarship at Juilliard (School of Music) for a deserving dance student.

"Each January we have a luncheon benefit for one of our members who is paralyzed and for the last 18 years has been in a wheelchair. She is able to do a lot, though, helping with our Christmas mailings, typing...."

This year's charity ball will honor Markert, the Rockettes founder and director for many years, who now is retired and will observe his 75th birthday this summer.

Markert keeps in close touch with his dancers and at last year's charity event got up and did a few steps, said Mrs. Cliff (Gloria) Callahan, of Morganville, N.J., a widowed mother of five from ages 2 to 20.

Mrs. Callahan, who will become association president in January, is one of the early alumnae.

She joined the Rockettes for the Christmas show in 1948, staying for four years and then going on to Broadway to dance in "Pal Joey."

"Oh, some of our members go back to the late '20s when Russell was in St. Louis organizing dance groups called the Missouri Rockets," said Mrs. Gibbons, wife of a construction executive and mother of three.

Markert brought his dancers to New York first as the Roxyettes playing at the old Roxy theater and then into its permanent starring spot at Radio City Music Hall when it opened Dec. 27, 1932.

Some graduates continued their show business careers, among them Lucille Bremmer and Vera Ellen. But the bulk of them elected marriage and family, although they also continued careers in the field of the arts.

Mrs. Gibbons, for instance, teaches dancing at a Clifton, N.J., studio run by another exRockette, Mrs. Walter (Terry) Michura.

The annual ball leans heavily on the volunteering of exRockettes in the greater New York area. But Mrs. Gibbons said the association's approximately 290 members are "scattered from Canada to Hawaii ... all over the country."

The ex-Rockettes started providing their own entertainment when "we found the cost from outside was bleeding our funds," said Mrs. Gibbons.

The 12 changes each year "depend on who's not having a baby ... who has the time to rehearse," said Mrs. Gibbons.

Away from the daily rehearsals and shows for years, how are they now at the high kicks?

"I think that's how the 'Breathless Twelve' got its name," she said. "Sort of a joke. At this point in the game, could we make it? Most of us can. After being aware of fitness for so many years, we keep in shape.

Kids say fathers are great people

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI) — Let's hear it for Dad from a group of third graders.

Fathers represent love, assurance, hard work, help with homework, trips and gifts in the words of a group of 8 and 9-year-olds we talked with the other morning at a Manhattan public school.

One thing father isn't —he's not a spanker. "We're too old," the children responded when asked if their fathers ever resorted to physical punishment.

"A father is a helping hand, a person who loves you and takes care of you and takes you places on special days," said Eric, 8.

"A father is something who can take you some place, can buy you clothes, can pay for the apartment. He's a big part of the family," said Jill, 8.

Said Maria F., 9, "even if I don't have a father, and I wish I had one, I think he works hard and earns money for your mother and you need help with your homework, he can help you. He works hard for the whole family."

The children are members of class 3-313 of New York City's Public School 59 located in the heart of Manhattan. They represent a cross-section of ethnic and racial patterns. Some are from solid family situations, some from separated and-or divorced parents, one adopted, one an illegitimate. Most have middle and uppermiddle class backgrounds.

We talked with the children about "What is a father?" Through the courtesy of the school principal, William Aberbach, and their teacher, Mrs. Jennie Fohr.

First question of the whole group: "Do you know what day June 16 is this year?" Answer, in chorus: "It's Father's Day."

"A father can give you respect, loyalty and can take you where you want to go. A father gives you love," said Noam, 8.

"Whenever I need help with my homework, he looks it over," said Glenn, 8. "When he works he brings you a yo-yo or something."

"A father is someone to take you for a walk early Sunday morning ... somebody you can love. He travels. I miss him," said Ashley, 8.

"Father is someone who pays the rent. When you're not feeling too good he can cheer you up," said Paul, 8.

Several mentioned the role of father "when you're sick, he tries to cheer you up."

To Lisa, 8, a father is somebody "who on your birthday buys you presents ... takes you to movies and plays."

"A father tries to make you happy," said Evelyn, 9.

"A father likes you a lot. He makes sure nobody hurts you," said Lavone, 8.

"Sometimes like on a hot day, he never turns off the air conditioner, so I won't suffocate," said Maria C., 9.

The children with fathers at home all had plans to honor him some way on Father's Day. Some were going "to make him something". Others were saving their allowances for a variety of gifts from a watch, to a set of paints, to neckties to a box of pencils "because he says I take his."

Clubwomen!

Special forms are due

Valley Women, a supplement of the Progress-Bulletin highlighting activities of all women's clubs in the valley, will be published July 23.

Madame President will your club be included?

Fact sheets, sent out May 16 to club presidents or publicity chairmen, are due by the end of this week if they are to be included in the special edition.

If any club has not received the form to be filled out, an officer of the organization should contact the Progress-Bulletin women's editor, Mrs. Mary Remillard, at the newspaper, 622-1201, this week.

The annual edition will carry interviews with the four Woman Achievers for the valley who were selected recently by a panel of judges, in addition to the stories of almost 200 women's clubs.

Existing homes:

U.S. market still strong for single family houses

CHICAGO — The volume for existing single family home sales in the U.S. for April was 7.6 per cent above the volume for the same month last year, reports the National Association of Realtors.

This sharp upward trend in April follows eight consecutive months in which the volume of sales failed to match last year's pace. These figures, however, do not as yet reflect the impact of the current money crunch.

The median sales price of an existing home in April was $31,690, compared with $28,490 for the same month a year ago — an increase of 11.2 per cent.

By region, the median sales price of an existing home in April compared with the same month last year follows:

Northeast region: 1974, $35,300, 1973, $31,400; north central region: 1974, $27,000, 1973, $25,250; southern region: 1974, $32,570, 1973, $28,560; and western region: 1974, $34,690, 1973, $30,590.

By price class, 69.3 per cent of the existing single family homes sold April were in the $25,000 and over price class; 24.2 per cent in the $15,000 to $24,999 price class; and 6.5 per cent in the less than $15,000 price class.

These figures are consistent with a long term trend during which sales of homes in the higher price class have increased and sales in the middle and lower price classes have decreased.

The apparent reason for the trend is that inflation has pushed the cost of more homes out of the lower and middle and into the higher price class, explained officials.

Data for the national association's monthly existing single family home sales report are taken from a survey of Realtor boards in representative market areas.

Erne will tell its purpose, what role the reserve system has in the economy, statutory responsibility of the reserve system in formulating and implementing national monetary policy, and the tools of the monetary policy at the disposal of the reserve system for use in influencing the volume of bank lending.

The program starts at 11:45 a.m. Erne has been with the reserve bank for 30 years and now directs the branch office's bank and public service function.

Gas company gives award to "Gate"

UPLAND — The Southern California Gas Co. has presented its CONCERN award to Mountain Gate, a new 37 unit condominium development at 1193 Mountain Gate Road.

The development was cited for using energy saving insulation in walls and ceiling and natural gas appliances throughout the project.

Other amenities include formal dining rooms, family rooms, fireplaces, sliding glass doors which open to private fenced patios, and large master suites with special dressing areas.

Buyers have their choice of three floorplans. These have two or three bedrooms and two bathrooms. The units, with 1,200 to 1,440 square feet of living area, are priced from $34,995. Conventional financing is available.

Sales are being handled by William McCabe, Inc. Two furnished model homes, featuring interiors by Pamela Ayers and Associates, are on display daily from 10 a.m. to dusk.

22,000 hospital beds

Taiwan has 22,000 hospital beds, averaging one bed for each 700 persons, the National Health Administration says.

Wide choice offered at Orchard Lane

UPLAND — At less than $22 per square foot, the cost of owning an Orchard Lane condominium home is substantially less than other homes on the local market, reports Jim Noever, sales manager.

The two bedroom, single story condominium structures have air conditioning and contain a full range of features. Buyers have a choice of eight exterior designs.

The homes are priced from $21,900 with conventional financing available.

"Interiors are fully carpeted and draped," said Noever. "Cathedral ceilings are standard. Each home is complete with a large private, fenced patio, enclosed garage and shake roof."

Kitchens have luminous ceilings, color coordinated ranges, ovens, dishwashers and "no wax" flooring. Double sinks with disposers and stain resistant countertops provide efficient space for meal preparation, he added.

Ceiling height wardrobe doors and carpeted dressing rooms are featured in the bedrooms. Compartmentalized baths are provided with the two bedroom plans.

Professionally landscaped grounds receive year-round maintenance. Trees and shrubs surround the homes and recreation center. Residents may enjoy the heated swimming pool, therapy pool and cabana. A children's playground is set in the green open spaces.

Orchard Lane, a Fredricks Development Corp. project, has received the Concern Award from the Southern California Gas Co. for its energy saving design.

All exterior walls and ceilings are fully insulated and party-walls are double constructed.

To reach Orchard Lane, persons may exit the San Bernardino Freeway at Mountain Avenue, go north to Seventh Street and then west to Spencer Avenue.

Plan has expensive features

Besides having an unusually attractive exterior, this striking three bedroom home has an equally imaginative interior design. Careful planning of this home has provided many features that are usually only found in much larger and expensive homes.

The front door opens to a center hall entry which channels traffic to each area of tthe house. An entry closet, another general storage closet, and a linen closet open to the entry and hall.

All rooms are very generous in area for a home of less than 1400 square feet in size. The living and dining areas appear even larger since there is no separation between the two and due to the large sliding glass doors which open from the dining to the patio. Similar doors open from the master bedroom.

There is apce for family meals in the roomy kitchen. Foot traffic has been directed away from the nook area by locating the dining door in the oppostie corner.

Laundry facilities plus a broom closet are in the service. There is access from this room to both the kitchen and a bath. For privacy, the bedrooms do not share a common wall.

The garage roof extends over a roofed passageway which leads to the front entry on this Spanish, eye-catching exterior. The entry to this passageway is through an archway with an ornamental iron gate.

This same basic exterior plus a contemporary exterior are also available in a two and a four bedroom plan, at different price structures, and are illustrated in the book, Ranch and Modern Homes.

Complete working drawings for plan 31151 can be purchased for only $12.67 for the first set and $6.36 for each additional set ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these special prices until September 19, 1974. Please allow two to three weeks for delivery. A specification booklet is available for $1.06. A large reproduction rendering of the exterior is available for $1.06. The following home plan books are also available: Distinctive Homes — $1.33; Prize Homes — $1.33; Hallmark Homes — $1.33; Town & Country Homes — $1.33; Homes by Hiawatha — $1.33; Ranch & Modern Homes — $2.12. All six books — an $8.77 value — for only $6.89. Orders for less than three books, please add an extra 20c per book for postage and handling. Prices include sales tax. Send all orders to: Hiawatha Estes, P.O. Box 404-PO, Northridge, CA 91324.

Furniture moving is 'game' played by all

UPLAND — Among games that people play, probably none winds up with sorer tempers, let alone sore muscles, than the great American pastime known as rearranging furniture.

At least, that's the view of Mrs. Goldy Lewis, a homebuilding executive who spends countless hours poring over architectural blueprints in seeking ways to make the sport of rearranging furniture more exciting for the participants.

By participants, Mrs. Lewis said she means everybody — not only the family in whose house the "game" is being played, but friends and relatives as well.

"Everybody's a furntiure mover at heart. Your dinner guest no soner flatters you on your well-set table than she suggests moving the table to another part of the room."

Mrs. Lewis, a principal of the Lewis Homes building organization, believes that a floor plan isn't well designed unless it permits alternate ways of placing the furnishings.

"We all like to vary the looks of our living room or family room now and then," she said. "Yet I've seen houses whose doors and windows have been so positioned that they derpive the homeowner of any choice in even such details as where to put the plant or whatnot shelf."

As an indication of the importance Lewis Homes attaches to usable floor space and wall space in its floor plans, Mrs. Lewis pointed to the homes now under construction in the Phase II unit of her company's Prestige Series development in Upland.

"Families moving into these homes will not have to leave anything behind because of lack of room for it," she said. "Huge expanses of walls will accommodate the paintings of the most prolific art collectors, and a nine-foot sofa can be lost in some of our living rooms.

Floor plans at the Prestige Series Phase II measure up to 2,628 square feet in actual living area. One-story and two-story stylings are being built, all with three-car garages. Some models incorporate a powder room in addition to two full baths.

Mrs. Lewis noted that buyers making selection while the homes are still under construction are being offered personal choice of decorating colors.

"And that makes the game of moving furniture around all the more fun," she added.

For promotion

Banker says grads dislike long waiting

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — An assistant vice president for the Bank of California in San Francisco asserts that new college graduates are impatient and reluctant to go through long "seasoning" periods before being promoted.

Stephen A. Enna, addressing about 600 participants in the Western Regional Convention of the Bank Administrators Institute, said "they fail to see any real correlation between two years on a teller line and bank management responsibilities."

Enna said there are indications that banking doesn't seem "to project to the graduate's eye the prestige and security it formerly has."

He suggested that training of the bankers of the future will have to be more flexible since the newcomers oppose the rigidly structured "cradle-to-grave" programs.

Enna cautioned the bankers to be alert to changing attitudes so they can adapt today's graduates to "individual goals and objectives."

Kathy Keeton: feminine version of Hugh Hefner?

By JOE O'SULLIVAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — What's the feminine of tycoon? Kathy Keeton.

Blonde, blue-eyed Kathy Keeton, womankind's answer to Hugh Hefner and his bunny business, is associate publisher of Penthouse magazine, archrival of Hefner's Playboy. But the women's magazine, Viva, a Penthouse stablemate, is her literary baby.

As associate publisher of Viva, Ms. Keeton has nursed Viva along to a healthy circulation of "almost one million" since its birth last October.

That might make her one of the highest-paid women in the U.S. business world. "I think I'm the highest-paid employe," she says. "I'm sure that people who have their own companies get more."

Nudity and Love

The cover of the May issue of Viva offered, among other things: "What Turns Women On" (sample: "One thing that is very important to me is the shape of a man's bottom."); "Andrew Prine (an actor) in the nude." There is a photo layout of a young man and woman in various stages of dress and undress and in various stages of lovemaking.

Penthouse offers much the same fare with a masculine accent. Xaviera Hollander, "The Happy Hooker," has an advice column in it.

Both magazines offer advice. This was a recent suggestion to an anxious male: "Find the right girl and tell her about your fetishes. If she accepts them, then she really is the girl for you."

Some people might say —in fact do say —that such magazines are filthy, without redeeming social value, etc.

"To me, you know, love is the greatest human emotion. It's the source of the greatest amount of pleasure for human beings," is Ms. Keeton's reply.

Calls it art

The "Voice of Viva" listened patiently while it was suggested that there are people who do agree that "love" is great but that it is something intimate, sacred, private —not something to put between magazine covers and sell on the newsstands for a buck (the magazines, monthlies, go to $1.25 each soon).

Puffing on one of the 60 or so filter-tipped cigarettes she smokes a day, Ms. Keeton smiled tolerantly. "To me," she said, "It's no different than putting in pictures of chocolate cake, strawberry pies and cheesecakes. It's no different than showing anything that's fun and nice and pleasant to do."

Pornography isn't a dirty word to her. It's a kind of nonword. "There's no such thing as pornography," she insisted. "There is only good art and bad art."

Pressed about porn, she added, "To me, pollution is pornography. To me, war is pornography. And to my generation, these things are pornography."

"Erotica Reflects society"

In the field of the erotic, the magazines cover a lot of ground. How far will they go?

"We see our job as being reflective of contemporary society... as publishers, we would not go beyond the bounds of what we consider to be good taste, or beyond the bounds of what we consider to be acceptable to contemporary society. And by contemporary society, we mean our own contemporary society (Ms. Keeton says she's 29), which is the younger group of people, whose morality, in many instances, is very different from their mothers' and fathers'."

In contrast to all of this talk of erotica, Kathy Keeton's office has a chaste, virginal look. She sat in a high-back white wicker chair, rounded at the top. Other pieces of porch modern had cushions covered in a modest print. There was a white wicker affair shaped like a turtle, and behind her chair was a giant stuffed toy turtle. Philodendrons prospered. There were two tiny erotic sketches on one wall.

Wears costly jewelry

To use one of her favorite words, Ms. Keeton looked "elegant" in slacks and daringly-cut halter top. On her right hand was a big ring. Costume jewelry? No, those are real emeralds and diamonds, she said matter-of-factly. There were enough stones to finance a little literary magazine for a few issues. The ring was "a gift" from the man in her life.

Did or does the boss lady practice what her magazines might seem to preach? Swing?

"I have had a very happy relationship for the past ten years and that's all I'm going to say," she responded. "I'm a very old-fashioned lady! Believe me, I'm a one-man girl!"

The very happy relationship is with Bob Guccione, who owns the Penthouse empire "lock, stock and barrel." The two share a New York townhouse where Judy Garland once lived.

Hard Work and Ambition

But why is Kathy Keeton sitting in that big white wicker chair? Is she a business genius? What special talent or know-how equips her to put out the particular type of magazines she's involved with?

"I think perhaps I was more determined than most people. I was prepared to work longer hours and put more into it," she said. "I've always been ambitious. I've always been driven to do things."

And Guccione answers the question this way:

"... Because she is the perfect physical, mental and emotional prototype of the Viva woman. She has a sense of wonder about life, an extraordinary imagination and a flair for show business, all of which is rooted in the firm subsoil of good business awareness.

Soldier who hid on Guam will run for parliament

TOKYO (UPI) — Shoichi Yokoi, the Japanese soldier who held out on Guam for 27 years after World War II, has announced his candidacy for the Japanese parliament.

Yokoi, 58, gained fame in 1972 when he was spotted in the jungles of Guam where he held out since the end of the war.

A friend of Yokoi who came to the central election board to file his candidacy told newsmen the former sergeant wanted to conduct an ideal "campaign without spending too much money."

Yokoi, a tailor until he was drafted into the imperial army before the war, said upon his return to Japan that he was "ashamed" of coming back alive to his native country. Japanese soldiers, like Yokoi, were told before the end of the war that they should never "suffer a disgrace of being caught by their enemy."

Yokoi who got married and settled in Nagoya, southwest of Tokyo, spends much of his time giving lectures on his experience on Guam.

ILO pursues plight of illegal immigrants

GENEVA (UPI) — A Mexican who wants to work in the United States pays up to $300 to cross the border illegally. West Africans pay more than $1,000 to be smuggled into France.

Once arrived these illegal migrants soon find they're in no promised land.

They get the toughest and most dangerous jobs, the lowest pay, the worst but most expensive accommodations. They have no health insurance, no legal protection.

The International Labor Organization (ILO) plans to help both legal and illegal migrant workers at its Annual Assembly this month, June 5 through 26.

It says these workers are abused and exploited and that there are millions of them all over the world.

Army of Foreign Workers

Europe's army of foreign workers alone is enough to populate a new nation. There are 11 million of them, mostly Italians, Spaniards, Yugoslavs, Portuguese, Turks, and Greeks as well as Algerians, Tunisians, Moroccans and West Africans.

The United States has more than 4.2 million resident foreigners. More than one million Paraguayans and Bolivians have moved into Argentina, and 500,000 Colombians into Venezuela.

In Africa, the Ivory Coast and Ghana have received 1.5 million persons, mostly from Upper Volta.

Asia also has its migrant worker problems, with 600,000 Koreans in Japan and one million Tamils from the Indian mainland working on the plantations of Sri Lanka (Ceylon).

Clandestine migration exists everywhere—Mexicans into the United States, Mauretanians into France, Southern Europeans posing as tourists in West Germany and Switzerland.

Arbitrary expulsion

Foreigners now make up 19.8 per cent of the Swiss labor force. The percentages in other countries are 8.6 per cent in West Germany, 7.8 per cent in France, 7 per cent in Britain, 6.6 percent in Austria, 6.5 per cent in Sweden, 3.3 per cent in the Netherlands, 5.5 per cent in Belgium.

In addition to being hampered by lack of skill and experience, and language difficulties, many of the migrant workers are subject to arbitrary expulsions which causes them to accept substandard employment and living conditions.

"This legal insecurity," the ILO said, "is likely to place the migrant worker in relation to his employer in a situation where he hesitates to avail himself of his acknowledged rights and safeguards for fear of losing his job."

The ILO Assembly will study three proposed International Labor Standards to protect foreign workers:

Report on debate

—A convention on equality of opportunity and treatment to end social and economic discrimination.

—A recommendation urging equal access to training, promotion, pay and working conditions with a stipulation that a foreign worker who loses his job should not be automatically subject to loss of residence rights.

A report on the debate will be sent to ILO's 125 member states so that the 1975 Assembly can adopt final standards.

Senate panel rejects bills for state lottery, bingo

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation to establish a statewide $140 million lottery and legalize charity bingo games have failed in a Senate committee.

Both proposals were rejected recently by the Governmental Organization Committee without a motion on their behalf.

Assemblyman Leon Ralph, D-South Gate, did not appear at the hearing to argue for his proposed constitutional amendment (ACA180) which would create a California lottery. The committee heard testimony at earlier sessions.

The measure would have allowed creation of a lottery where citizens buy tickets in hopes of striking it rich at drawings and would have brought the state an estimated $140 million a year in revenues.

At least two other lottery proposals have died in the legslature the past three years.

A separate constitutional amendment (SCA48) designed to legalize bingo by charitable, nonprofit organizations such as churches and clubs also was turned back without a motion. It was offered by Sen. David A. Roberti, D-Los Angeles.

Law enforcement officials generally have expressed opposition to both ideas on grounds they would promote gambling and lawlessness.

Teen forum

She loves them both

By JEAN ADAMS

LOVE: (Q.) I go out with Tim and also with Kenny. I like both of them. They both tell me they love me and I tell both of them I love them.

I talk to my girl friend about them. She says I shouldn't do this. She says I can love only one boy at a time.

What do you think? I don't want to hurt anybody's feelings. We are all 14. —Reprimanded in Connecticut

(A.) I think you are misusing the word "love." I don't think you really love either Kenny or Tim, and probably neither of them really loves you.

I also think you are making a mistake talking to your girl friend about what goes on between your boy friends and you.

Keep going with Tim and Kenny, but don't throw the word "love" around so freely.

NICKNAME: (Q.) I have an awful nickname. I hate it. What can I do about it? — George in Georgia

(A.) The right nickname can be very valuable to a boy or girl. It can help a person make friends. It can give a person identity, make a person rememberable.

But an unlikeld or repulsive nickname is very hard to live with.

You don't have to live with yours.

Two years ago a girl in Connecticut wrote to Teen Forum to tell how her sister got rid of her nickname: She refused to answer to it.

You can do the same. If someone called you Bill when your name is George, you would not answer him. Do the same with your nickname. When someone uses it, do not answer. If someone calls you George, do answer. It will take a while, but your friends will catch on and drop the nickname.

COLOR BLOCK: (Q.) My love is a Puerto Rican and black. I am white. My brother would kill me if he found out I love a Puerto Rican boy. The rest of my family is almost as prejudiced.

What can I do about them? — 15 in Pennsylvania

(A.) I do not think your brother will kill you. Introduce the boy to your family. They may like him. At least they will know how you feel, and will have an opportunity to help you and advise you.

What's your reason for not buying a home NOW?

TROUBLED OVER HIGH INTEREST RATES

It is true interest rates have risen, but they do seem to have stabilized in the past several months. And while the rates may seem high, they are not climbing as rapidly as are labor and material costs. An increase or a decrease of ½ percent in interest rates only amounts to 30c per month per $1000 on a 25 year loan. Is it really wise to deny yourself the security, pleasure and pride of home ownership on the vague hope of interest rates going down, thus saving you only $3 or $4 a month? The value of your home will increase at a much faster rate than can be gained by any lowering of interest rates. NOW is a good time to buy!

WONDER WHERE TO BEGIN LOOKING?

Worry no more . . . most folks have found that the best place to shop for that new or lived-in home is in the Classified Real Estate columns of the Progress-Bulletin. It's here (and only here) that each day you'll find the very latest offerings of homes 'for sale' . . . advertised by the area's leading real estate firms and builders. Check the want ads today—and every day—to find the home that satisfies all your needs.

YES NOW IS A GOOD TIME

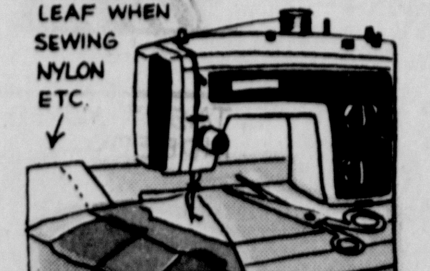
Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — When sewing with such materials as rayon, nylon and polished cotton that slide easily, I put a pillowcase over the leaf of the sewing machine. This prevents constant frustration. — CHRIS.



PILLOWCASE OVER LEAF WHEN SEWING NYLON ETC.

DEAR POLLY — Keeping measuring cups in my canisters is a great time saver. Keep a one-cup measure in the flour, one-half-cup in corn meal and one-third and one-fourth cup in the sugar. This certainly helps when I am in a hurry. — MRS. R.B.

●

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, ℅ this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — Never throw away outmoded or outgrown sewing patterns. When crushed, they make wonderful packing material for gifts or anything to be mailed. — CHRIS.

●

DEAR POLLY — My rolling pin broke as I was rolling out a pie crust. Company was coming so I was desperate. I had a can of those new-fangled potato chips. I covered it with a long, white child's cotton stocking and had a wonderful substitute. — NAN.

●

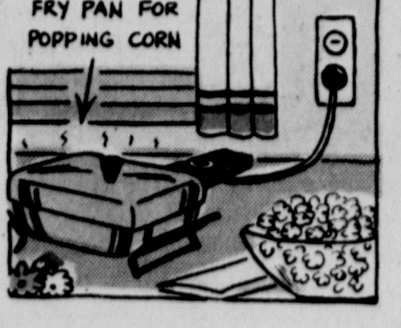
DEAR POLLY — A bit of toothpaste is great for removing those purple grocery store price marks that often come off on laminated plastic cabinet and table tops. Rub with a damp cloth and they're gone! — M.F.

●

DEAR POLLY — My mother made an inexpensive cannister set that looks most attractive with our wood cabinets and counter tops. One, two-and three-pound coffee cans were covered with wood-patterned adhesive-backed paper and marked with appropriate labels. — SHARON.

© 1974 by NEA, Inc., 6-16 E.H

DEAR POLLY — I found our popcorn maker would not heat, so I made it in the electric fry pan. I put liquid shortening in the middle of the pan, heated it for a couple of minutes, put the corn in, shook the pan occasionally (with lid on) and had great popcorn in four minutes! — D.M.



USE ELECTRIC FRY PAN FOR POPPING CORN

●

DEAR POLLY — It is messy and time-consuming to press butter or margarine from an unwrapped quarter-pound into a cup for measuring. Cut out the amount markings on a wrapper, stiffen with cardboard and save for measuring against unwrapped quarters. — SARAH.

●

DEAR POLLY — I gave some old posters and pictures new life — and interest — by making record covers of them. In fact, want ads, or most anything that catches your eye can serve the purpose. With tape around three sides to join two pieces — presto — you'll have a cover for a 45 r.p.m. record! — MRS. M.B.

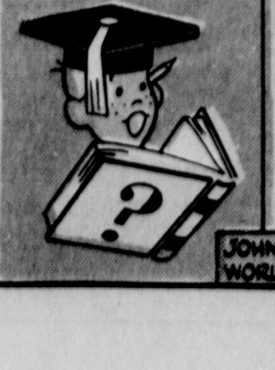
YVONNE CARTWRIGHT OF LOS BANOS, CA, ASKS:
"HOW DID THE TEDDY BEAR GET ITS NAME?"



THE LITTLE STUFFED TEDDY BEAR FOR CHILDREN GETS ITS NAME FROM THEODORE "TEDDY" ROOSEVELT, 26th U.S. PRESIDENT. CARTOONISTS OF THE TIME LIKED TO CARICATURE ROOSEVELT. ONE SUCH CARTOON SHOWED HIM SPARING THE LIFE OF A SMALL BEAR CUB WHILE HUNTING. TOY MAKERS SAW THE OPPORTUNITY AND MADE CUTE, FURRY TOY BEARS CALLED TEDDY BEARS AFTER THE PRESIDENT'S NICKNAME.

PRIMAL MAN Incredible But True!

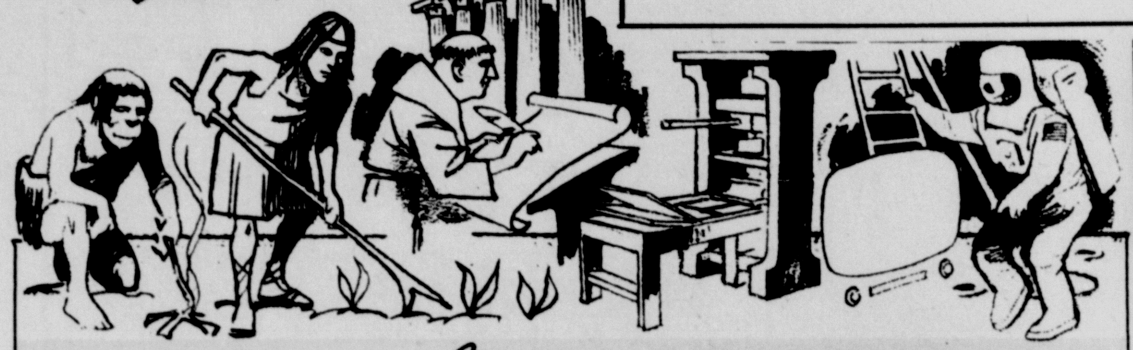
THE DINOSAUR - A STUDY IN SURVIVAL

BECAUSE THESE GIANT LIZARDS BECAME EXTINCT NEARLY 100 MILLION YEARS AGO, WE THINK OF THEM AS FAILURES, BUT THEY SURVIVED FOR OVER 150 MILLION YEARS - WHILE MANKIND IS LESS THAN 1½ MILLION YEARS OLD!

"Struggle for Survival," next in The Travelers Theatre of Man series, Primal Man, airs Friday at 8:30 PM on ABC. The hour special was preceded by two critically-acclaimed segments, "The Killer Instinct" and "The Battle for Dominance." The upcoming "Struggle for Survival" again utilizes revolutionary make-up and film techniques to trace the development of human behavior from pre-history to the present. The telecast investigates the unique traits which have allowed man to thrive for over five million years in a dangerous, hostile environment. The special considers man's eternal conflict with the forces of nature. We follow the progress of man from his Eden-like existence in the rich tropical forests of Africa, through the horrors of the great famines and successive ice-ages, to the first primitive societies which resulted in modern culture. Modern-day footage also depicts man's current confrontation with the only remaining threat to his existence—himself. Interviews with men and women in the streets of America reveal our current anxieties about the future of human society.



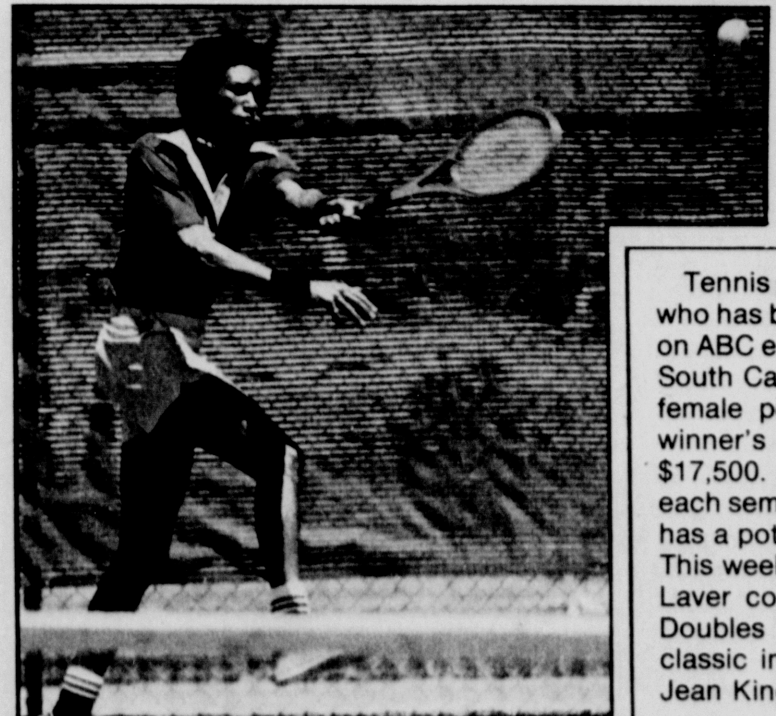
IN THE LIFESPAN of MANKIND - CIVILIZATION HAS JUST BEEN BORN!

PROUD AS WE MAY BE OF OUR ACCOMPLISHMENTS, WE SHOULD KEEP THEM IN PERSPECTIVE. IMAGINE, FOR INSTANCE, THE WHOLE HISTORY OF MAN - 1½ MILLION YEARS - COMPRESSED INTO ONE FIFTY-YEAR LIFETIME... WE WOULD HAVE TAMED FIRE ONLY 10 YEARS AGO, LEARNED FARMING 3 MONTHS AGO, INVENTED WRITING 6 WEEKS AGO, WITNESSED THE BIRTH OF GREEK DEMOCRACY 3 WEEKS AGO, INVENTED PRINTING 5 DAYS AGO, INVENTED TELEVISION 5 HOURS AGO, AND WALKED ON THE MOON WITHIN THE PAST FIVE MINUTES!

FIRE - MAN'S UNIVERSAL FACE LIFT!

WHEN MAN TAMED FIRE, HE GAINED HIS MOST IMPORTANT ALLY, BUT FIRE ALSO CHANGED THE VERY FACE OF MAN. BY COOKING HIS FOOD, HE LOST THE NEED FOR THE MASSIVE JAWS REQUIRED TO CHEW RAW MEAT. RESULT - AN EVOLUTIONARY FACE LIFT!

'WORLD TENNIS'



Tennis professional Arthur Ashe is just one of the leading tennis players who has been competing in the 11-week World Invitational Tennis Classic on ABC each Sunday from Hilton Head Racquet Club, Hilton Head Island, South Carolina. The Classic is one of the few events in which male and female performers compete on an equal basis for cash prizes. The winner's purse is $40,000; second place is worth $25,000 and third is $17,500. Each player is guaranteed $10,000. During the 11 matches, each semi-final and final winner is awarded one point, so that each player has a potential to score an overall maximum of five points for all events. This week's competition (Sunday, 3:30PM) is the Men's Finals, with Rod Laver competing against Stan Smith. Sunday (June 23) is the Mixed Doubles Finals and the final event in the series. Other players in the classic include Margaret Court, Chris Evert, Yvonne Goolagong, Billie Jean King and John Newcombe.

COVER CLOSE-UP

'COMEDYWORLD'

The producer of NBC's new summer series Dean Martin's Comedyworld figures the show will be a resounding financial success if there is just reimbursement for mileage. Greg Garrison, the peripatetic television production executive forsakes the comforts and conveniences of the studio once again (he did it last season with Music Country) and turns the entire country into a stage for "Comedyworld," a series of ten one-hour segments Thursdays at 10PM on NBC.

Starring Jackie Cooper, Barbara Feldon and Nipsey Russell as co-hosts plus the largest and most varied assemblage of comedy talent ever gathered on film and tape, Dean Martin's Comedyworld promises, says Garrison, "to be the freshest, brightest, most-talked-about genuinely funny show to hit the air since the first week of Laugh In . . . or it's gonna be a bomb. That's what I said. Bomb."

First, a look at those the viewers will be watching. There will be established funnymen such as Rich Little, Slappy White, Foster Brooks, Rodney Dangerfield, Scoey Mitchell and others appearing regularly throughout the series. There will be film clips from comedy classics including an assortment of silent film from the genius of Charlie Chaplin and Harold Lloyd. Other onetime comic greats such as Buster Keaton, Laurel and Hardy and Abbott and Costello will return to the screen via "Comedyworld" for obvious moments of nostalgia for their contemporaries and conceivably to introduce their talents to whole new audiences of the younger generation.

Each segment will have a two to three minute comedy sketch from a major comedy motion picture. Clips from "Blazing Saddles," "Mame," "American Graffitti," "The Three Musketeers," "A Touch of Class" and others will be highlighted throughout the series. But the emphasis, Garrison reminds us, will be on youth and the new and up-and-coming comics and comedy groups. "I want to give the young people a chance," he says. "That's what 'Comedyworld' really is all about.

Garrison has held auditions for young comedians all over this country and in England and he has looked at over 400 hopefuls in New York, San Francisco, Chicago, Los Angeles, Boston and London. "They're from the college campuses, off the street, from a car wash, from a super-market, drug stores, off Broadway, Picadilly Circus," says Garrison. "But this isn't amateur hour. They're professionals. They're only 'kids' as far as exposure is concerned. We're going to take care of that. Not for all of the ones we looked at because frankly, some of them, maybe most of them, just don't make it yet for network television. Some of the kids we looked at will be stars. Others won't. But at least those 30 or so we selected will have a crack at it," he states.

In addition to a production staff based on the west coast, two full production mobile units worked round the clock taping "new faces" and established pros doing their thing in the world's most famous entertainment lounges, night clubs, auditoriums and theatres. Some of the sites were The Concord Hotel in the Catskills, the Boarding House and the Great American Music Hall in San Francisco, the Playboy Clubs in New York and Los Angeles, the MGM Grand Hotel in Las Vegas and college campuses at Northwestern, U.S.C., Iowa and Boston College.

Crews spent eight days taping in New York City at such top clubs as The Bitter End, Reno Sweeney, Catch A Rising Star, Improvisation, the Plaza Hotel and Dangerfield's. They had scheduled to shoot comedian Judd Strunk in his homestate of Maine in April but a sudden snowstorm foiled that plan and it was re-set for a later date. Instead, they simply shifted gears, turned south and headed for a community of 1600 people 60 miles out of Raleigh, North Carolina to film comedian Lonnie Shorr doing his laugh-riot routine about his hometown.

Garrison's crews spent 11 days of production on location in England gathering tape on young English comedians, 90 per cent of whom have never been seen on American television.

Cooper, Feldon and Russell will have the job of pulling all this together as on-air hosts. Jackie will serve as anchorman back at the show's master control at the NBC Color Studios in Burbank, Calif. He will coordinate with Nipsey and Barbara who, from the actual location, will introduce the various performers, sketches and acts.

Dean Martin's Comedyworld has been described as "wall-to-wall comedy." It is. And would you look at that floor space?"

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR SEN. JAMES BUCKLEY (R-N.Y.)

Howard Cosell says he may run for your Senate seat. How well do you know him?—J. B., Buffalo, N.Y.

● At the time he said that, I had never met Mr. Cosell nor had I seen him perform his specialty on television. I did hear that he is quite a controversial person. This was brought home to me when a vice president of The New York Times, which does not agree with my policies, said, "Senator Buckley, if Howard Cosell runs against you, I am going to recommend to the other officers that we endorse you!"

FOR ART BUCHWALD, columnist

Do you ever get invited to a press conference at the White House, and are you welcome when you get there?—J. A. McNulty, Houston, Texas

● You don't have to be invited to a press conference. If you are a journalist accredited at the White House, this automatically entitles you to attend. I am sure reporters who ask friendly questions are more "welcome" than those who don't. I never go myself because you have to keep jumping up and down for recognition, and that's hard on my back.

FOR DORIS DAY

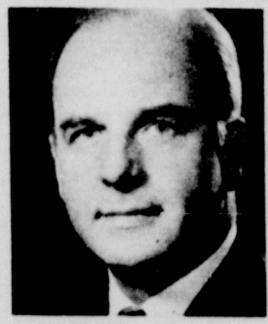
What are your plans now that your TV show has been canceled?—Danny Meyer, Chatsworth, Ga.

● I'm not sure what I'll do now, but I'll probably do more movies if the opportunities arise. Some friends are even urging me to make records again.

FOR JACK DEMPSEY, former heavyweight boxing champion

Although Gene Tunney beat you twice, I've heard that you don't rate him as the best fighter you ever faced. Who was? —J. M., Austin, Texas

● Jack Sharkey. Tunney was a good boxer, but he caught me after I'd been out for about seven years.



FOR SEN. GAYLORD A. NELSON (D-Wis.), sponsor of a bill to require court warrants for most government wiretaps

How long has government wiretapping been going on?—G. Franklin, Albany, Ga.

● Since the early 20th century. The practice first became widespread on the eve of World War II, and continued under all presidential administrations. Warrantless taps have often been used to obtain information unrelated to national security, and therein lies the staggering potential for abuse.

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

Dustin Hoffman is my favorite actor, and I've seen his film, "The Graduate," many times. How did he get the role?—Mary Watt, Denver, Colo.

● Director Mike Nichols, who had seen Hoffman in a couple of off-Broadway plays, offered him a screen test. Hoffman was one of the countless hopefuls and, when his turn came to do the short scene with actress Katherine Ross, he was so tense and scared he couldn't concentrate. He delivered what he felt was a dreadful audition, and left very depressed. But when Nichols viewed all the screen tests, he found that only Hoffman had those qualities that were essential for the part. Dustin was supposed to be in a state of perpetual confusion and panic—and that's exactly the way he appeared in his audition.

You started modeling at 16. What, in your opinion, are the requirements for a model?—Mary Seeley, Norwood, Ohio

● The mental requirements are about the same as for an actress: self-discipline, the ability to turn on a lot, be awake and bright-eyed. Physically, there are so many kinds of fashion modeling, from junior high fashion, to American high fashion and the "far-out" looks—it runs all the way from Sophia Loren types to the Ali MacGraws. But it helps to have an interesting face and to be tall and thin.

FOR DIAHANN CARROLL

I've seen a lot of pictures of you, but never one with a drink in your hand. Are you against it or don't you like it?—Ray Littleton, Miami, Fla.

● It doesn't like me. If I have two drinks, that's it. So I figure I am better off not having the first one. But I am not against drinking, although my grandfather on my father's side was a Baptist minister.

*FOR WAYNE ROGERS, costar of "M*A*S*H"*

I read that you and Peter Falk are in business together. Are you also good friends?—P. T. T., Nyack, N.Y.

● Yes. If I remember right, we met in a pool hall on 44th St. and 8th Ave. in New York City, and became roommates in New York. We've been friends ever since.

FOR RICHARD CHAMBERLAIN

Was there any backlash from your portrayal of the Duke of Windsor in "The Woman I Love"? — B. Randolph, Houston, Texas

● Well, it still hasn't been seen in England. I am told the Duchess refused to see it. The quote she supposedly made was something to the effect she didn't want to see her life "desecrated by actors." That made me sad, because I had grown fond of them through reading about them and watching old newsreels.

Notes From a Battlefront Veteran:

How to Fight the Computer and Win!

By Cindy Adams
Especially for FAMILY WEEKLY

In 1971, the Miss Universe Beauty Pageant was televised from a large hotel in Puerto Rico. As assistant-to-the-president of Miss Universe, Inc., I was there about a week. My bill had to have been inconsequential. My suite was gratis. I was alone. I don't drink. I was invited out nightly. The most I could have run up was a lunchtime tuna on white. In any case, my charges were paid by the pageant. One year later I personally received an "overdue" bill from the hotel for $50,000.

$50,000!!!???

In semi-shock I presented this to Harold Glasser, the president of Miss Universe, Inc. A reply was dispatched instantly, which, shorn of the legalese, meant, "Are you kidding?" Weeks later an amended statement reached me wrapped in an effusive apology. They were frightfully sorry for the error and were hereby shipping me my corrected bill: $20,000.

$20,000!!!???

A stronger letter from us to them produced a weaker bill: $18,000. The fact that I owed not a farthing ultimately dawned up on the coils and whorls and disks of the machine that was dunning me, and the hiccup in the computer subsided.

Then there was Angelo Panzarella's case. Angelo was moving, and being a nice, neat fellow, he requested a final tabulation from the Brooklyn Union Gas Company. It came–$286.53 for the final month. "This seemed unusual," Angelo explained, "because my yearly total is around $400." Angelo did the logical thing. He dialed the number on the bill. Here's the way he described it later:

"It was a real experience. The number was always busy. The second day I dialed, hung up, redialed for one hour straight, and eventually a recording announced that I was on the line and somebody would pick me up shortly. Fifteen minutes later I told some female voice the problem and she told me to pay the $286.53. The next month a dunning notice said pay this promptly or off goes my gas. So I called the Public Service Commission, which oversees the utilities. I sent them my Xeroxed bills. The action was immediate. One week later the gas company wrote to disregard the previous bill because they were in the process of recomputerizing me.

"Then followed my revised bill – for $1,753.20. I phoned them again. This time it only took a few hours to get through. I said, 'This is ridiculous. Gas for the Empire State Building for the month couldn't cost that much.' I called the commission again. Again action was immediate. One week later I received my newly revised bill – for $286.53!" The outcome of the story? Angelo has meanwhile moved and is outside the jurisdiction of the Brooklyn Union Gas Company. Last I heard he was now involved with the Long Island Gas Company.

How do these things happen, I asked William Lucas, whose Hanover Business Systems, Inc., is consultant to and does computer programming for Bankers Trust, Bache, Equitable Life Insurance and Helena Rubinstein. Lucas explained that the majority of goofs are human error. For example:

- The keyhole-punched card that arrives bent or mutilated won't fit through the mechanism. As a result, the operator has to fashion a new card and in haste repunches some vital information incorrectly.
- Each consumer is assigned an account number. But suppose an operator doesn't wipe a dormant account number from a computer's memory? It gets reassigned. It becomes active. Result? Duplication.
- Each program is comprised of many segments. Section A handles identification numbers. Section B handles area numbers. Section C handles account numbers, etc. Suppose a program orders the computer to Section C. Suppose at Section C the program orders the computer to execute an arithmetical algorithm such as adding five to both middle digits in order to expand the existing account numbers. But suppose the operator programs the computer to Section A by accident . . . !
- The introduction of a foreign substance. In the late sixties, the New York Stock Exchange computer operated via an optical-scanning unit. Someone dribbled talcum powder on it. It obliterated the markings, fogged up the lens and gummed up the whole works. At Dow Chemical during the years people were protesting napalm, someone deliberately flashed a magnet. Since information is stored on magnetic tape, it wiped all the formulas clean.

- Jealousy. Say that a dear little lady has been company bookkeeper for years. She resents being replaced by a chunk of steel. She thus doesn't give honest-Injun, true-blue, honor-bright total truth to the programmers. She wants the machine to mess up so she can zing her boss with, "See, I knew you couldn't do it without me." And the machine, being ignorant, does exactly what she hoped it would.

Theoretically there are backup systems and protective devices to prevent these things from happening—but there are also foul-ups such as the following:

A man who does business with a major credit-card company received a call one afternoon. His wife was hysterical. She'd been phoned by the company's collection agency and told that they would prosecute her husband, that he was defrauding them by misusing a canceled card, that he'd better get in touch with them immediately or he could wind up in jail! Coincidentally, when his wife phoned, he was sitting with a top executive of the credit-card company. In shock, he told this man the story. In the same sort of shock, the executive followed up the story. Seems two men had the same name – except the villian's middle initial was "C" and our hero's was "G," and the villain lived in Louisiana, and our hero in New York.

"Mr. Traum's area of frustration was a credit-card system that had billed him for 0.00 dollars, saying, 'Please pay the above.' The following month the bill was for 0.00 dollars plus .00 interest."

A consumer can strike back at this inanimate machine in varying ways. He can write a message on the computer card he returns with his payment, then he can bend, fold and mutilate it, causing it to clog the machine. Such action stimulates manual intervention. If the operator isn't pressed he brings the card to his supervisor, who reads your message, thereby affording you two chances. Either he'll mutter under his breath, "The same to you, buddy," or he'll check into the matter further.

The most expeditious method is to write the company president. I have done this myself on two occasions. The top echelon always produces instant action. The difficulty lies in getting to the top. Don't call the company and request the name of the president. They won't give it. One sufferer had a $116 overcharge on his telephone. Letters and phone calls to the number and name on the bill accomplished only aggravation. He rang the FCC. Nothing. Finally he telephoned the company president. Naturally, he didn't get through to him personally but he reached an assistant. The assistant clucked sympathetically, suggested he put it in writing and two weeks later everything was beautiful.

You can also register complaints with your Better Business Bureau, the regional office of the Federal Trade Commission and your state attorney general. Some states have laws that say that if a consumer advises a creditor of a billing error via registered letter, the company must respond within 30 days and settle it within 90 days. During this time it can take no dunning, penalty or collection action whatsoever. If the company does not comply it is liable for the consumer's damages, plus two times the billing error, plus the consumer's attorney's fees.

As I was compiling this article I met a lamp manufacturer named Julius Traum. Mr. Traum's area of frustration was a credit-card system that had billed him for 0.00 dollars, saying, "Please pay the above." The following month the bill was for 0.00 dollars plus .00 interest. Next he received notification that his account was delinquent, and would he please remit? He thought it was some sort of joke. Two weeks later he received a notice that his card was canceled for nonpayment.

Edgar Bergen Talks About Candy, Chris and Being a Father Today

Edgar Bergen, his wife Frances and son Chris stand behind two boys who need no introduction—Charlie McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd.

Ellen Blume Graham

> "When Candy was three, I used to put her on one knee and Charlie on the other, and have them talk to each other. One day I asked her, 'Isn't it marvelous that Charlie can talk?' and she said, 'But I can see your lips moving, Daddy.'"

I visited Edgar Bergen at his exquisitely furnished home in Brentwood. A man of gentleness and manners, Bergen lives with his beautiful wife Frances, his son Christopher, 12, and his two other "children," Charlie McCarthy and Mortimer Snerd. It was like stepping into the world of yesterday.

FAMILY WEEKLY: You retired from show business, but lately you've been making a comeback. Why?

BERGEN: Like Sinatra, I got tired of doing nothing. Maybe I just had to prove I can still do it. Feed my ego. Then, once you have made an appearance, the action starts all over again and you just keep going.

FW: Do you feel that audiences have changed a great deal in the last couple of decades?

BERGEN: I should say they have! Frankly, I don't understand how people can stand in line for an hour and a half to see a picture that makes them vomit and faint.

FW: Do you think today's films have a bad influence on young people?

BERGEN: How can I blame Chris after he's heard four-letter words used in a film and comes home and uses them? I still scold him, but I'm not sure he deserves it.

FW: Have you ever considered the idea of going into television full time?

BERGEN: A couple of years ago I was asked to play the grandfather in "The Waltons" series. It's a marvelous part and I love the show, but I couldn't see myself getting up at six every morning for anything anymore.

FW: I understand that Candy [his daughter, actress Candice Bergen] used to be jealous of Charlie McCarthy when she was little. Is that true?

BERGEN: No, not really. When she was three I used to put her on one knee and Charlie on the other, and have them talk to each other. One day I asked her, "Isn't it marvelous that Charlie can talk?" and she said, "But I can see your lips moving, Daddy."

FW: Are you a strict father?

BERGEN: No, never. I believe in love and discipline, but I don't think you could ever call me strict.

FW: Do you think Chris wants to go into show business?

BERGEN: I certainly won't talk him into it, but I think he has a fine sense of humor and there are some signs that he may end up in it.

FW: Both Candy and Chris grew up in show-business surroundings and were raised by wealthy parents. How did you keep them from getting spoiled?

BERGEN: That's a tough question to answer. In neighborhoods like Beverly Hills and Brentwood, there are good kids and there are bad kids. If I had my choice I would rather live in a small town. But as for keeping the kids from getting spoiled, we really didn't do anything. We just hoped for the best.

FW: Did you raise Chris and Candy differently?

BERGEN: In a way, because I have more time with Chris than I had with Candy. I'm not as busy now as I was. But in both cases I made a point for us to spend time together.

FW: How did you do that?

BERGEN: Well, when Candy was three, for instance, the two of us would go to the Grand Canyon. When she was four, I took her to Yellowstone. I read her bedtime stories. Braided her hair. That way we built up a friendship that has lasted. The same with Chris. Last year we went to Europe together and had a great time.

FW: Who's the more affectionate of your children?

BERGEN: I never thought a boy could be as affectionate as a girl, but Chris is. I go away for a couple of days and I get a warm embrace when I come back. Or when he says goodnight to me, he embraces me. It's a wonderful feeling for a father. Or when I come home, he'll slap me on the back. One time Frances asked him to stop and I told her, "Be grateful he's not crocheting! Let him roughhouse!"

FW: What about allowances for the children?

BERGEN: I never gave them very much. I have a feeling that Chris picks up the change I have on the top of my dresser. That isn't the right thing to do. When I talked to Candy about it, she said she did the same thing 20 years ago!

FW: Do you sometimes wish that Candy were married and had made you a grandfather?

BERGEN: I don't believe in early marriages. I was 41 or 42 when I got married because I was too busy with my show. As far as Candy is concerned, with her talent, her first marriage probably wouldn't be her only marriage. People have a great deal more freedom today than I had at her age.

FW: Do you ever miss the old vaudeville days?

BERGEN: Yes, in a way. After so many years in vaudeville, sometimes I feel I've just got to be on my own and I'll go to a nearby motel and spend a night or two. It's like being on a retreat. More often than not I'll go to Palm Springs where we have a condominium.

FW: How much has Hollywood changed in the past generation?

BERGEN: Well, let me give you one example. Thirty years ago when I went to a premiere I had a town car with a glass partition and a chauffeur, and I spoke through a tube to give him instructions. Today when I go to a premiere—and I am a lot better off now than I was then—I wouldn't be seen with a chauffeur unless I were too old or too feeble to wheel myself around. At the same time, I miss the glamour.

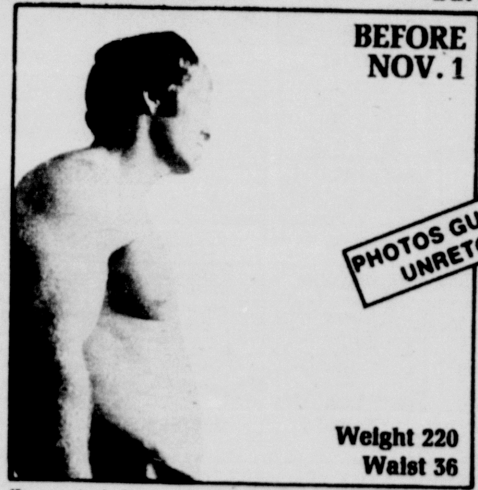
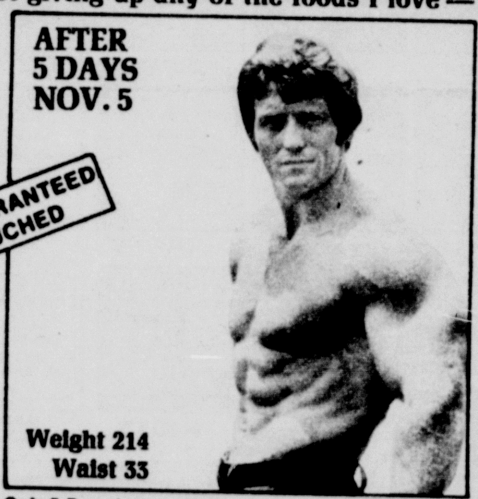
CASE #136

"I lost 3 inches off my waistline, 6 pounds...and shaped up - in 5 days!"

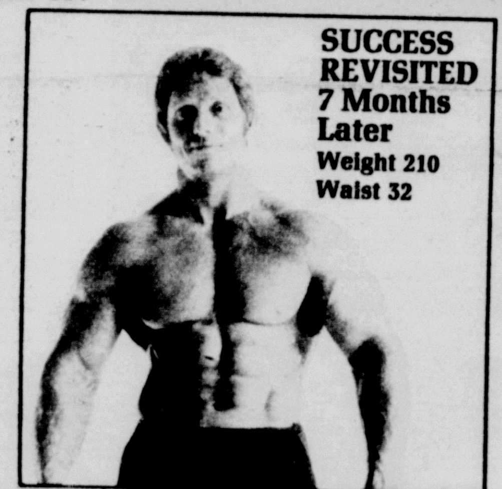
One 5 Minute exercise, twice daily, lying on my back watching T.V., reducing my food intake only by 20% — but not giving up any of the foods I love — DID IT!



Ken, out of shape, the day he started the Plan.



Only 5 Days Later — Gut gone, and shaping up. Fast Enough?



7 Months Later — Still in great shape — muscular, firm and rugged — Results that Stay!

Results in just 3 days!

Joe Weider, fitness expert and trainer of champions since 1936 says:

"Give me 5 minutes twice daily for only 7 days and you'll lose up to 3 inches from your waistline, up to 6 pounds of unwanted weight, and 'shape up' — or I will return every penny."

LET'S FACE THE FACTS WHY YOU'RE OUT OF SHAPE

You eat the wrong combination of foods, you do not get enough exercise to thoroughly work your muscular, metabolic and respiratory systems daily. Because of this, fat accumulates around your waistline, heart and other body organs, slowing you down, aging your body and destroying your vitality, virility and youth. There is only one way to firm up and shape up: that is through proper exercise and proper nutrition. Effortless exercisers, reducing pills, sauna shorts, weighted belts, dangerous and painful diets and other gimmicks designed to appeal to your laziness will not work and have been exposed by the medical profession as frauds, ineffective and in some cases dangerous. They can only reduce your pocketbook.

Face up to it...If you want to slim down, firm and shape up, you must work off the inches, and there is no safer, faster and more enjoyable way to do it than with our patented, truly miraculous "5" Minute Body Shaper Plan.

Patent Pending. Copyright Joe Weider, 1974

HOW DOES THIS INGENIOUS "5" MINUTE PLAN SLIM, FIRM AND SHAPE YOU UP?

The Weider "5" Minute Body Shaper plan is based on doing ONE CONTINUOUS, RHYTHMIC CO-ORDINATED EXERCISE, twice daily. That's all you do. No dieting. Eat the foods you like—however, we suggest you consume 20% less food, while on this plan, for maximum results. This one five-minute exercise is designed to attack the Waist and Hips (where fat accumulates quickest, giving your body a flabby, weak and distorted look)—as well as burn off excess fat fast by speeding up stored calories and reshaping your chest, abdomen, firming up your legs and arms—your total body!

It's safer than strenuous workouts, beats the time consumption and dangers of gym workouts . . . or any other vigorous sport.

The unit weighs about 16 oz. and fits any wallet size case. You can carry it and use it whenever there's floor space—anytime. Even while watching television.

WHAT SATISFIED CUSTOMERS SAY:

"I lost 18 lbs. and 4½" off my waist in 14 days," R. Mathews • "I lost 13 lbs. and 4" off my waist in 14 days," M. Harvey • "I lost 15 lbs. and 2½" off my waist in 14 days," P. Boyd • "I lost 10½ lbs. and 3" off my waist in 14 days," M. Pearson • "I lost 15 lbs. and 5" off my waist in 14 days," L. Heathcock • "I lost 11 lbs. and 4½" off my waist in 14 days," R. Peetrich • "I lost 13 lbs. and 2⅞" off my waist in 14 days," R. Vaderity • "I lost 9 lbs. and 3" off my waist in 14 days," J. Miniford •

Results vary depending upon how much overweight you are and how much time you give to the Plan. These people have given from 5 to 15 minutes twice daily to our one simple exercise, lying on their backs in comfort, even while watching TV—(some ate between 10 to 20% less foods). Naturally, their impressive results vary. The above sampling of our hundreds of thousands of users proves that you, too, can make sensational gains. Satisfaction is guaranteed!

WHAT THE EXPERTS SAY:

Medical Doctors, Chiropractors, Osteopaths, Athletic Coaches....agree it's the most successful Waistline-Weight Reducer and Shaping Up Plan ever invented!

WHAT COMES OFF IN 14 DAYS?

Individual results vary, but during an average 14-day period you can expect to lose up to 4 inches from your waistline and up to 10 pounds from your present weight. It strengthens your heart and lungs, increases stamina and endurance, improves your digestive function and general health. It also shapes you up — from head to toes. For a "5" Minute Exerciser — it sure does a lot.

*EXPOSING EFFORTLESS EXERCISERS

Reader's Digest (Sept., 1971), New York Times and Good Housekeeping, among others, exposed sauna wraps, inflated belts, weighted belts and effortless exercisers as frauds. Scientific researchers, medical and fitness experts all agree...there is only one way to firm, shape and trim up your body...you must work the inches off!

Because you may have been fooled in the past by "Effortless Exercisers," we are giving you our no-nonsense Free Trial Offer as shown in the coupon below. TONY WALDROP:

Is He the Greatest Miler Ever?

Tony Waldrop from Columbus, N.C. (population 800), calls himself a "country boy"—but since the beginning of this year word of Tony's running greatness has spread around the world. During a seven-week period between mid-January and early March, Tony completed seven consecutive mile races in less than four minutes, a feat never before accomplished in track annals. Waldrop, who's 22, put together his string in indoor competitions starting with the East Coast Invitational at Richmond, Va., on January 19, where he turned in a 3:59.5 clocking, and ending with the National Collegiate championship meet at Detroit on March 9, where he ran another 3:59.5. Waldrop's most sensational performance came at the San Diego Indoor Games, February 17, where he broke Tom O'Hara's ten-year-old world indoor record with a time of 3:55.0. . . . Then, later, in the Penn Relays, Tony turned in a best effort of 3:53.2. . . . Tony, who's 5-11 and 145 pounds, is given a strong chance to overtake Jim Ryun's world record. Ryun's 3:51.1 has stood the test of time since June 23, 1967. . . . Surprisingly, Waldrop was not especially gifted as a high school miler. "I ran only 4:31 when I was a freshman," he recalls, "and when I graduated I was down to 4:18, not good enough to get many offers from colleges." Tony ended up accepting an academic scholarship to North Carolina, where he majored in political science as a college track man. An introspective young man, Tony shies away from talk that he is one of the track world's current wonders. "I've been lucky," he says. But he adds, "Maybe someday I'll look back and it'll mean a lot more to me than it does now. It's nice that I'm doing so well, but it isn't the whole world to me." Joe Hilton, Waldrop's college coach, says, "Tony doesn't even know how good he is. In a way that's fine. It keeps him from getting too cocky about his races. But I think he could become the greatest miler ever."

The original cigarette.

The Original Length.
Others have added millimeters, filters and traps, but nobody ever found a way to pack in more flavor than the original Camel.

The Original Camel.
His name was Old Joe and he was just another face with Barnum & Bailey. Our artist sketched him, and 60 years later Old Joe remains world famous as the symbol of the finest cigarette made.

The Original Disappearing Pyramid.
Once we took this pyramid out to give Old Joe more walking room. Several tons of angry mail later, it was back in place forever.

The Original Blend.
The original measure of a cigarette was taste. So we blended the Burley, Virginia and Turkish tobaccos that deliver the most taste. Result: Camel, still the best tasting cigarette in the world.

Summer Survival Guide:

Tips Your Looks Can't Live Without

Whether you're an outdoor woman or not, summer makes its own special beauty demands. Here are timely tips to help you live up to your summer beauty potential.

Sun-Care Clues

1. Experts agree that a sun hat or beach umbrella is insufficient protection against the sun's burning rays. Sand or concrete can reflect the sun's rays and contribute to a painful sunburn. Even a walk to work or to the store dressed in a halter or cutout fashions can be transformed into a painful experience. So be sure to protect all exposed skin at all times with a suntan product containing a sunscreen. Or else stay out of the sun.

2. There's no need to stock up on lots of bottles and tubes. Some suntan preparations can also be used as moisturizers. For example, a lotion like Coppertone Shade is a recommended facial moisturizer that has two sunscreens for sun-sensitive skins.

Cosmetic Ideas

1. Don't give up on eye makeup just because you lead an active life and ordinary eye makeup tends to smudge or crease. Whether you're in the swim or perspiring at tennis, you can solve annoying makeup drip without sacrificing glamour by choosing waterproof cosmetics. They are easily removed with makeup-remover oil or cleansing cream.

2. While there are no hard-and-fast rules on eye-shadow color, it is not the thing this summer to precisely match eye shadow to clothing. For the most up-to-date look, select a shadow that harmonizes with your clothing. For example, choose pewter or misty teal to complement the important summer "naturals" – beige, tan, white. If you insist on matching eye shadow to your outfit, match it to the smallest block of color.

Your Hair

1. Fashionable heads should wear hats and scarves this summer, both for glamour and to protect the hair, especially color-treated hair, from color changes and drying due to the sun.

2. Hair grows faster in summer, so why not consider a really short cut. Even if you decide you don't like short hair, it will grow out by fall. Ask your hairdresser to teach you how to blow it dry so you needn't fuss with rollers.

3. Here's a fast set: After you wash your hair or after a swim, comb it smooth and twist pencil-thick strands into fat pin curls. If your hair is medium length, it will dry in about half an hour, and you can brush it into a soft pageboy. If your hair is shorter, roll the pin curls up and away from your face for a different effect.

Good Grooming and Exercise

1. Are you embarrassed to wear a revealing swimsuit because of superfluous hair on your legs, or do you find shaving your legs every couple of days a bother? Then why not ask your beauty salon about a professional waxing? Most waxing enthusiasts say it's a relatively painless procedure that leaves the skin smooth and hair-free for about six weeks.

2. Swimming is the best exercise of all. Resolve to take lessons this summer. Even if you don't learn to swim, you will burn up calories trying!

How can a girl look cool, beautiful and collected all humid-weather long? Why not try this advice on for size?

By Arlene Dahl:

"Planning Your Vacation? Don't Forget to Take a Beautiful Face!"

Follow Arlene Dahl's advice to put "beauty on your horizon!"

If you're planning two weeks in the country, an adventurous tour of Europe or a trip to the shore, plan ahead for a beauty-filled vacation.

● Select a hairstyle that's easy to manage and that will complement you and your mode of travel – and don't forget to pack your hair dryer. Take along a wig or two for convenience and a "touch-up" preparation if you color your hair.

● Kits are wonderful–and handy. Special containers for your manicure tools and sewing necessities keep them together and easily accessible.

If you're going abroad, you'll cherish a miniature wash kit with midget clothespins and line. At night, smooth laundered hankies on your tiled bathroom wall. Next morning they'll pull off without a wrinkle!

Lingerie cases are ideal to hold your sachet, underwear, nightgowns, negligees and small baby pillow. It's important to carry the latter with you, as most hotel pillows are oversized and hard.

● Streamline your makeup necessities. Choose a cream or lotion that can double as a makeup remover, lubricant and even a powder base. Take only the amount you'll need. Don't forget such items as shampoo, hair spray, dental floss, toothbrush and paste, hand and body lotions, hair cover-ups (scarves and turbans) and your favorite fragrance. Then, too, you'll need a good sun block or screen. And don't forget sunglasses and vitamins.

● Put your cosmetics in plastic jars or bottles. They minimize weight as well as the danger of leakage and breakage. They usually save space, too. Take only the quantities needed, but allow for variety. Different locales have varying climates that require special adaptations of your beauty routine. Add these extras for travel beauty: small facial linens (for your purse) to absorb excess oils before powdering; a colorless lip moisturizer for dry lips resulting from climate changes; eyewash and eyedrops to cleanse your eyes from dusty travel and fatigue. (Use the eyewash to dampen your eyeliner brush or eyeshadow if water is scarce.)

● Soap, soap, soap: powdered or liquid for laundering; a small non-alkaline facial one to carry in your purse; and one that's sweetly scented for your beauty bath.

While luxuriating in your bath at the end of a long travel day, lubricate your face well–especially around the eyes, then close them and relax while tensions disappear. Sometimes I use my bath time to do a series of facial-massage exercises designed to help erase forehead and frown lines, relieve tired eyes and firm the chin line. They only take two minutes a day. Try them. They really work if performed daily.

● Forehead lines – should be massaged in alternating up-and-down strokes, with the forefingers moving slowly toward the left with medium pressure. This vertical motion across the horizontal lines of the forehead helps smooth the brow. Repeat this "ironing out" process from right to left and back again at least five times–more if needed.

● Frown lines–can be minimized by using the same two fingers in horizontal back-and-forth strokes starting just above the lines and working down to the bridge of the nose then back up again. If frown lines are deep, repeat five to seven times a day.

● Tired eyes–can be relieved while improving the circulation around this area. Dark circles and bags can also benefit. Place the first fingers of each hand on your temples and push in firmly. At the same time close your eyes as tight as possible–hold for a count of five, release fingers and relax. Repeat five times.

● The chin line will be firmer if you repeat this tension-relaxing exercise at least five times a day. Place the balls of your two thumbs underneath your chin. Press up against the chin with your thumbs as hard as you can; at the same time press down with your chin with equal pressure. Each pressure should resist the other and the head should remain in place. Hold for a count of five. Relax and repeat five times to prevent a double chin–ten times to help correct one.

Bon voyage – there's beauty on your horizon!

Scientists can reproduce skin conditions without ever leaving the laboratory.

Bill Schmitt

A "Beauty Chemist" And What He Knows

By Rosalyn Abrevaya

Some days scientist Bill Schmitt does experiments on how long it takes to get a tan in Phoenix. Other times, he may compare the effects of the humidity and sun on Cape Cod with the effects of the humidity and sun in downtown Seattle. And he does it without leaving his laboratory in Connecticut.

Researcher Schmitt—who has examined the skin of more than 5,000 women—says his studies reveal the following interesting facts:

1. Fat people sunburn much more easily than thin people. The lymphoid tissue that adds the plumpness is especially reactive to the sun.

2. Moisturizer doesn't make the skin soft. It's the moisture content within the skin. The reason for using moisturizer is to create a protective barrier to prevent the loss of natural moisture.

3. The worst hazard to most women's complexions is dry air, caused by the low humidity of air conditioning in the summer and artificial heat in the winter.

Schmitt, who works for Chesebrough-Ponds, achieves the impossible with the aid of many interesting testing devices. One is a machine called a sun simulator, a boxlike contraption that can register the amount of burning rays given off by the sun anywhere in the world. Schmitt also has a little room—the "hot box"—where he can turn on hot weather. Have you ever wondered how it feels in the middle of Death Valley at high noon? Or what it's like to be trudging through the Everglades?

In the six-by-eight-foot "hot box," Schmitt has an intriguing process called the Moisture Vapor Transmission Test that evaluates how much moisture skin loses under different environmental conditions. Since the climate of any area in the world can be reproduced in the "hot box," lotions can be evaluated for their effectiveness under all conditions.

In pursuing his experiments, Schmitt has verified that a tan will last longer (with no flaking or peeling) when a moisturizer is used over a sun lotion.

No visit to Bill Schmitt's research laboratory is complete without a dermascope test. The dermascope, placed on the face, is actually a sophisticated microscope. But instead of showing dead cells encased in a slide, as do most microscopes, the dermascope shows the skin while the living processes are under way.

But a funny thing happened during one study, Schmitt tells us: "Scientifically controlled tests came to an impasse one afternoon when the same subject, in the same room; at the same temperature and humidity, revealed two vastly different readings during the course of an hour. It was finally noted that the girl being tested had switched from reading a catalog to a sexy novel. Its contents stimulated her life processes, including her temperature and rate of moisture loss!"

Medicine Chest: At-a-Glance Bulletins From the Changing World of Medical Science...

By Erwin Di Cyan, Ph.D.

PROSTRATE WITH YOUR PROSTATE? As a man gets older, so does his prostate gland. And often it begins to trouble him. Two problems that can arise are infection, which produces inflammation, and enlargement of the gland, which slows down urination. Another problem, the most dreaded one, is cancer of the prostate. There are some new products, however, that can reduce or protect against some of these. Infection and inflammation are now treated with a new antibacterial, trimethoprim. Available by prescription only, it is sold as Septra or Bactrim, which are combinations of trimethoprim with a sulfonamide. No breakthrough has yet occurred in the treatment of cancer of the prostate. However, a most important link between cancer of the prostate in men and cancer of the uterus or breast in their wives has been observed by Dr. John K. Lattimer, professor of urology at New York's Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center. For that reason, he advises wives to have more frequent examinations as a precaution against developing cancer. While there is no direct cause-and-effect relationship, there is evidence that a virus may be involved in prostate cancer that could produce a cancerous condition in the wife, through sexual intercourse, if her resistance is somehow impaired.

INFLATION—CAUSE OF HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE? That is what Dr. Oshima of Nihon University Medical School says. He believes that rising prices produce mental stress, which, accentuated by work pressure in modern Japan, causes high blood pressure (HBP). Japan's change from a fish diet to a Western meat diet only adds to the danger of HBP. With medication, however, the HBP (though not the high prices) can be held in check.

WANTED: HUMAN BEING, M.D. Is your doctor human? He may not be. He may be a medical machine instead, because today's medical student is dehumanized by education, according to several participants at the AMA-sponsored Congress of Medical Education. Psychiatrist David E. Reiser of Denver's University of Colorado Medical Center deplores this dehumanization. The medical student, he frets, is not taught to cope with the stresses in which he finds himself. He deals with them by detachment and by denial of his feelings. How can medical education be humanized? By teaching students that a doctor's empathy contributes to his patients' improvement. Another participant at the Congress, Dr. A. R. Dyer of Duke University School of Medicine, pleads that doctors must remain human if medical practice is to remain a humanistic calling.

WHEN YOU THROW SPITBALLS. . . . Choose your paper carefully. Because if you make spitballs from chewed-up Sunday comics, four-color magazines or pictures from children's books, you can get lead poisoning. The colors used in printing these are chockful of lead, though non-lead printing inks are slowly being introduced into the market.

DIAGNOSES BY READING TEA LEAVES? Not quite, but difficult diagnoses may well be aided by clairvoyants, palmists, astrologers, numerologists and other sensitives or psychics who often tune in on the correct diagnosis. That is what Dr. C. N. Shealy of the Pain Rehabilitation Center of La Crosse, Wis., declares. He has had first-hand experience. Working with eight different kinds of sensitives or psychics, he found that in 52 out of 60 times they were right in determining the correct location of pain. That is a high batting average for people not using regular diagnostic means. Dr. Shealy is in the process of correlating his cases. He believes that in difficult diagnoses, it is possible that the readings of the sensitives may turn out to be right 80 percent to 90 percent of the time—a formidable proportion!

RELAXATION WITHOUT DROWSINESS. People who truly need tranquilizers often refuse to take them because although they want to lessen their anxiety, they don't want to fall asleep during the day. The usual tranquilizers reduce people's awareness and make them drowsy. But a new tranquilizer that reduces anxiety but has a very weak sedative effect is being tested. Called pyrazapon, it is not yet available. When the tests are completed, it will be marketed by Parke, Davis and Company.

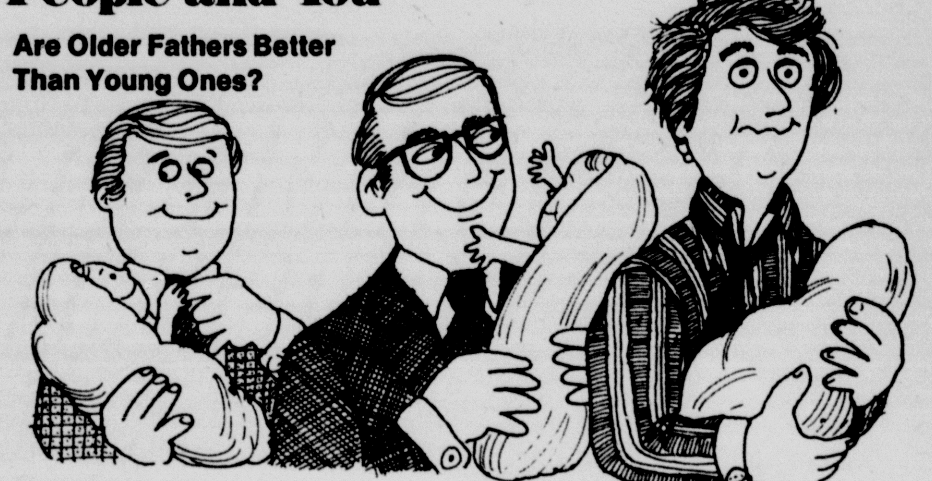
Are Older Fathers Better Than Young Ones?



What's the best age to become a father? Some interesting answers have come from a study by Dr. Corinne Nydegger of the University of California. Dr. Nydegger divided fathers into three age groups: "early" fathers, whose first child was born before the men were 24; "on time" fathers, whose first child was born when they were 24-33; and "late" fathers, whose first child arrived after Dad's 33rd birthday. Her findings: "Early" fathers often suffer severe strains from premature responsibility. This leads them to hasty judgments and a lack of patience and perspective about their children. These men also are troubled by severe conflict between family and career-launching pressures. "On time" fathers do have the energy of youth but they also are preoccupied with developing their careers. Their style of fathering is usually coping from day to day, deciding each child-problem as best they can according to immediate pressures rather than on the basis of long-range permanent effect on their children. The "late" fathers have established themselves to some extent in their work and tend to think through their father role more carefully. They try to use their daily decisions not only to solve the immediate problems but also to help their youngsters form permanent life values, habits and goals. As Dr. Nydegger summed up her findings: "If on-time fathering is good, late would seem even better."

MADELINE KAHN:
"We Women Should Kick The Youth Habit"

"I believe it's time that women should be permitted to age gracefully and not be expected to keep trying to look as if they were supposed to stay eternally young. The pressure women get to hide their age is unfair and unrealistic, and it is sad to see them trying to live up to that impossible image. Even women with success and money that others would envy are caught up in this pressure of trying to look young. Actresses are particularly vulnerable, and that's why aging actresses are photographed in a way that can make them look more like balls of wax than human beings. But the pressure exists for all women. I admire those women who can say the 'heck' with all that and be willing to change with the times and accept aging. I hope I'll be able to do that, and I think that the women who can are much happier." Madeline Kahn, who starred in "Blazing Saddlies," is to be seen next in the comedy "Young Frankenstein."

How your Horoscope can bring you wealth, love, success and happiness.

by Norman P. Kennedy

Astrology Today

PRESENTED BY THE AMERICAN ASTROLOGICAL ASSOCIATION
"The Nation's Largest Astrological Society"

© 1973 American Astrological Assn. of Ohio, Inc.

Did you know your horoscope could mean the difference between happiness or sorrow; between success or failure?

Picture a long room with doors at each end. In this room there are money, attractive persons of the opposite sex, books that tell you the secret of happiness and many other valuable articles. But, also in this room are bottomless pits, traps, hostile persons and dangerous beasts chained in various places around the room. You must walk through this room, but you may take out of it anything you can.

Now if you had a choice, would you choose to 1) go through the room blindfolded or 2) go through the room with your eyes open and with written instructions on which places and people to visit or avoid.

Of course, all of us would pick the second choice in a case such as this. Isn't it ridiculous, then, that we would choose to go through life, the same situation, blindfolded! Even when there is a means to go through life with a map and our eyes wide open! The means provided is Astrology. The map is our astrological horoscope.

How does it work? Nature's cosmos imprints each of us at the time of birth – when the umbilical cord is cut. We then become ourselves. Until the cord is cut, we are part of our mother. Why or how we presently do not know. The movement of the large solar bodies then times potentials for events in our lives. Astrology does not cause events but is timing of events. But, it's not fortune telling. It's a prediction of potentials which free will can override.

What does a natal horoscope analysis by a qualified astrologer contain? A natal horoscope analysis contains the best psychological analysis of yourself that you can get today. Because, in a controlled experiment in 1960, astrologers beat psychologists in predicting case histories.

In addition, a natal horoscope analysis includes discussions on the following: financial outlook; taxes and inheritances; early home environment; relationships with family, relatives and parents; lovelife and marriage; children; career and occupation; hopes; wishes and goals; and subconscious attitudes. In a major analysis, a one year forecast is also included.

Many people think that astrology only appeals to "way out" unscientific people. Nothing could be farther from the truth. In fact, studies show that astrology appeals most to intelligent and logical people. Famous scientists Galileo, Carl Jung, Johannes Kepler, Roger Bacon, Tycho Bache and Albert Einstein all believed in astrology.

Your horoscope can help you be in the right place at the right time.

Your horoscope can help you avoid disasters while guiding you to your beneficial opportunities.

Did you know that astrology helped the allies win World War II? The allies employed astrologers. The axis powers started out employing astrologers. But, this was ceased early when the famous astrologer, Karl Ernst Krafft, predicted the exact time and place of an attempt on Hitler's life in 1939. Hitler thought the astrologers were conspiring against him, so they were imprisoned.

Hitler turned back to astrology – too late. He read his horoscope in the last moments of the war as Berlin burned around him.

More on avoiding disaster, came these stories from a recent article in the Miami Herald newspaper. The article tells the story of Mary Kelly, a Miami computer programmer, who heeded the advice of her horoscope which warned her of a wrong medical diagnosis. She avoided an unnecessary operation that would have left her a cripple.

The Miami Herald also tells the story of astrologer Clifford McMullen, who is George McGovern's personal astrologer. He warned McGovern that if he ran for president, that he would win the Democratic nomination, but he would lose badly to President Nixon in the November election.

Your horoscope can bring you wealth. Famous business tycoon, J. P. Morgan, used astrology to acquire his fortune. Morgan did not make a financial move without checking his natal horoscope forecast.

From an article in the Miami Herald came this story:

> "Stockbrokers on Wall Street are as likely to call an astrologer in this decade as Hollywood film stars would call a psychiatrist in the last. David Williams, a 75 year old retired financial expert who lives in Clearwater, has made $150,000 from the stock market in 13 years by using astrology as an investment guide."

Your horoscope can show you the way to success and happiness in love and marriage. Horoscopes of Grace Kelly and Jackie Kennedy predicted their current successful marriages, Grace Kelly to Prince Rainier and Jackie Kennedy to Aristotle Onassis.

Princess Grace and Prince Rainier have recently had their horoscopes done together by American astrologer, Keith Clayton. As with these famous people, your horoscope can help you find and keep a lasting and meaningful love relationship.

Now and through the ages a good natal horoscope analysis has meant success for many people. In other cases many men have missed their opportunity; some with tragic consequences, such as Adolf Hitler.

Will you miss your success opportunities? Will you stumble into pitfalls you could have avoided?

Today, right this moment, you can have your natal horoscope cast and analyzed. You can get it for only the cost to make your duplicate copy. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process – FREE. The article below will tell you how. The means are available, but the choice is yours.

Now, a blunt promise by an eminent dermatologist:

You can make your face look as though time was running backwards!

Revealed by an eminent dermatologist (see his word-by-word statement below): How, with the proper scientific instruction, you can literally look ten to twenty years younger than your real age . . . erase wrinkles, blemishes and coarseness . . . and do it all using nothing more than such simple ingredients as water, soap, and (especially) salt!

This is, quite frankly, a vital message about what is perhaps the most revolutionary home-medical-guide ever published on facial care . . . facial beauty . . . renewed facial youth. Its results are so spectacular, its documentation is so overwhelming, and its methods are so vital to your future life that we must repeat, in full, two more quotes from its pages:

"We have only recently acquired the ability to really do something about the more serious changes in appearance that accompany aging . . .

In the past, the average person stood very little chance of being able to look younger. Without wealth or the right genes, there was very little hope. The advent of modern skin care has changed all this. Now it is no longer necessary to pamper yourself or be born with good skin. The idle rich no longer have any advantage . . . the genes you inherit are no longer a limiting factor, because we can now compensate for even delicate, age-prone skin . . . Thanks to modern research, we now know what causes many of the unattractive problems that appear with age. With this kind of knowledge, we have been able to develop methods that are effective in combatting or solving these problems."

"The practical application of these methods can produce spectacular results. A person can easily look ten to twenty years younger than his or her actual age, and this can be achieved with a minimum of effort."

This, Then, Is The Startling New Promise That Lies Right At Your Fingertips! And Here Are The Discoveries That Are Going To Give It To You!

For example—

Age is no longer a barrier to a flawless complexion, because the outer layer of your skin never stops growing! And, if you learn the right way to utilize that growth, you may actually reverse the dreaded aging process, and grow younger-looking, not older.

The ultimate moisturizer! How it can eliminate moisture loss instantly, and actually repair the ravages caused by years of facial dryness.

The three insidious structural changes that create "old" skin, and how to stop each at its source.

For example, master this simple technique of protecting the all-important "inner layer" of skin from damage, and you will never need the services of a plastic surgeon.

How to protect your skin against air pollution. (Otherwise, if you live in a big city, be prepared to have people guess you're ten years older than you really are.)

The Number One Rule for protecting your face against all the hazards of the environment. Follow it faithfully (see page 36), and when your friends look as old as Methuselah, you'll hardly have changed at all.

Indisputable Proof That It Would Take A Century For Your Face To Look Old, If You Didn't Abuse It Like This . . .

How to "quick-clean" your face, so thoroughly, and so fast, that you take years off it, rather than put them on.

How to practice modern acne therapy, right in your own home.

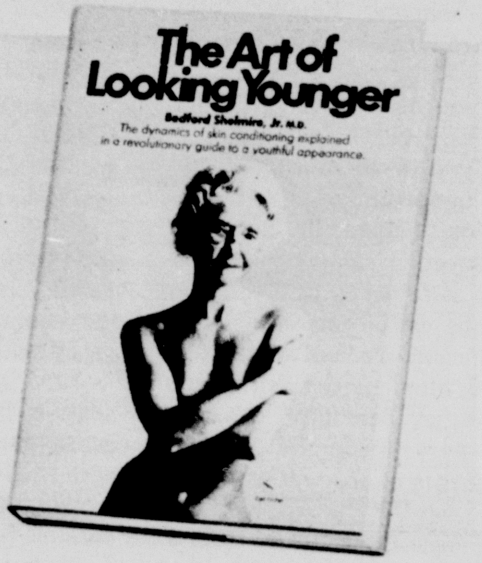
Why you may never have to spend a cent on commercial face-care products again. For two reasons:

ABOUT THE AUTHOR

BEDFORD SHELMIRE, JR. graduated from the University of Chicago School of Medicine. He is a former staff member of the American Hospital in Paris and the Columbia-Presbyterian Hospital in New York. Dr. Shelmire is a diplomate of the American Board of Dermatology, a member of the American Academy of Dermatology, and currently Assistant Professor of Dermatology at the Southwestern Medical School of Texas.



The Art of Looking Younger
Bedford Shelmire, Jr. M.D.
The dynamics of skin conditioning explained in a revolutionary guide to a youthful appearance.

Because most of them are actually harmful to your skin (see list on page 67). And because none of them could ever do as much for that skin as the almost-costless preparations given to you on page 71.

For example, the best daytime base in the world (and you should wear it every minute of every day, to keep the youth-force sealed in your skin) costs only 84¢ for a six-month supply. And the best night cream you can buy costs slightly more—about 91¢ for a six-month supply.

And the best face mask in the world costs 9¢ a treatment. And the best skin freshener probably costs a penny a day.

And not one of them contains a single ingredient that will unknowingly age your face, or dry out your face, or irritate your face. All they do is pull filth out of that face, at the same time they seal in youth.

But What About The Old Skin That's Marring Your Face Right Now? What Do You Do About It? THIS—

Here, on page 72, is (in our opinion at least) the really startling breakthrough in facial care in this generation. It is called, "Skin Thinning". It takes about two minutes of your time a week, and it costs about 3¢ a treatment. Its basic ingredient is salt. Plain ordinary table salt. But used in such a way that it almost instantly cuts down wrinkles. Opens clogged pores. Helps prevent age spots and whiteheads. May actually have your husband cooing with delight the very first day you use it.

And there's still more—much more—like this:

How your skin can warn you of the insidious development of diseases of the circulatory system, lungs, blood, thyroid, pancreas, sex glands, liver, kidneys and much more, all by simply knowing how to read the danger signals it sends out. (See page 105.)

How to save your hair. Why you must not overbrush it. The one overlooked cause of 99 per cent of all severe hair damage. A simple immediate test that tells you for sure, the rate of hair loss. Why the wrong use of vitamins may be causing that loss. Medical methods (your husband will bless you when you show them to him) of really compensating for that ugly loss.

At Last All You Need To Never Look Your Age Again! AND WE PROVE IT WITHOUT YOUR RISKING A PENNY!

Remember! YOU MUST BEGIN NOW! The effects of long neglect can NEVER BE COMPLETELY REVERSED! Return the No-Risk Coupon—TODAY!

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

What Makes a Happy Marriage?

True or False: Regardless of the situation, it's hazardous to a marriage when a wife uses sex as a weapon. (See number 3)

It has been observed that all husbands are alike, but they have different faces so you can tell them apart. It's also said that an ideal wife is any woman who has an ideal husband. In this True-or-False quiz we take a look at what has been termed the greatest educational institution on earth.

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. If you're trying to decide whether or not you should get married, the last thing you should do is to go to an outsider and ask for advice.

2. Most people believe they deserve a spouse who is better than they are.

3. Regardless of the situation, it's hazardous to a marriage when a wife uses sex as a weapon.

4. A wife's reaction when her husband forgets her birthday or their wedding anniversary reveals a lot about their marriage relationship.

5. You can tell in advance how well you're likely to get along with your future mother-in-law.

Now, shopping is a money-making adventure, not a chore. You too can claim your share of the million dollar giveaway— when you know how.

NORTH CANTON, OHIO

From this moment on, forget everything you've ever been told about making and saving money—because almost over night you can learn to change your mail box into a money machine. You'll learn how to open it six days a week for the next year to pull out a guaranteed minimum of $500—absolutely tax free or your money back.

Unless you simply don't need $500 in extra cash for 1974—to spend any way you like—take a few minutes to read about the simple, step-by-step method I've worked out.

The method is so incredibly easy that anyone can master it quickly—yet so valuable that it will give you and your family the money you need to buy the luxuries in life before you are too old to enjoy them. You can follow the method in just a few spare minutes a day—without any previous experience. And yes, it's all perfectly legal.

Sound impossible? It's really not. In fact, it's been proved by thousands of people just like you. You CAN learn the secret of how to get SOMETHING for NOTHING through the "magic" of refunding. But first, here's exactly what refunding is and exactly how refunding works.

It's simplicity itself. Refunding is the process of sending box-tops and labels to companies which offer to send you cash, coupons or gifts in return. You've probably taken advantage of offers like these from time to time in a hit-and-miss way. But, you discovered that the "profits" were small—hardly worth the effort. Me too.

But, once I found out that the big companies like Campbell's, Proctor & Gamble, General Mills, Bordens and Lever Brothers make 2,000 to 3,000 giveaway offers every year worth millions of dollars—I set out to find the way to get my share of all that money.

By trial and error and by reading and studying everything I could get my hands on by refunding experts, I finally figured out a simple, step-by-step method for raking in over $500 a year. The method was tested again and again to make sure it really works. It does. It's almost foolproof.

And now I've written down everything you need to know about the magic of refunding—so that you too can cash in on the gold mine just sitting there in your cupboard. I can hardly believe it myself, but I've actually had it published by The Good News Publishing Company in a book called "How To Turn Box-Tops & Labels Into Gold."

If you have any doubt in the world that you can take in the extra cash you need—here are some reported experiences of avid refunders:

- "I have been putting all my refunds in a special bank account . . . I have over $1,000 saved . . ."
- "I'm planning a week in Nassau with the special fund garnered from coupons and labels . . ."
- "I owed my mother-in-law $50 . . . I've repaid $47 through refunding . . ."
- "This is really a god-send to me. Last month I received $62 in cash and about $30 in coupons for food . . ."
- "With refunds I have been able to buy gifts for birthdays and weddings . . ."
- "It seems that every time the mail comes in, I have 50¢ to $1.25 in change —sometimes crisp dollar bills . . ."
- "In the last few months I have saved over $150 . . . that's not counting free cans and packages of food. Last year I bought a bedroom rug and a lawn edger out of my refund money . . ."

Money doesn't grow on trees, so stop for a minute to figure out how much cash—in the form of box-tops and labels—you've thrown into your trash can in the last few months. $200 or more would be a good guess.

I'll make you this promise: when you follow my method, you'll never do that again. Instead, you'll get the thrill of having your mail box filled to overflowing with money. You'll learn exactly how to claim your share of refunds on everything from soup to nuts. Just imagine, $2.00 for 4 Ajax box-tops; $1.00 for a Pillsbury Coffee Cake label; $1.00 for 3 Axion box-tops; $2.00 for a Palmolive Gold soap label. Every one of these cash refunds were actually offered last year.

Let me give you one warning, though. When you first start to use my method, some people may say, "What's the use—you only get back a quarter at a time." They may even laugh the way my husband did. Don't pay any attention to them. A national magazine survey reported that people from Maine to California take in an average of $420.00 a year refunding. If they can do it, you can too.

And money isn't the only thing you'll learn to get once you've read my book and followed my simple method. Top quality merchandise is offered regularly for box-tops and labels. For example, in the last year or so a Poloroid camera was given away for snack food labels; an electric deep fryer for oil labels; an electric mixer for fruit labels; bath towels for soup boxes; toys, dolls and games for mouthwash labels—plus hundreds more.

But make no mistake about it—unless you have the tips, advice and guidance you'll find in "How To Turn Box-Tops & Labels Into Gold" at your fingertips—you won't have a prayer. And, the only way to get your copy is to order it now, by mail. It's not for sale at any bookstore or newsstand in the world—at any price.

Quiz: Marriage

Continued

6. If you're a good-looking person, people expect your spouse to be good-looking, too.

ANSWERS

1. False—as evidenced by psychological studies at a leading university, which demonstrated that an impartial third party can predict the chances of a dating couple's marriage being successful with a high degree of accuracy. It has been noted that a third party is capable of evaluating a couple's character, attitudes, similarities and dissimilarities far more objectively, and thus in truer perspective, than the couple themselves. No matter how keen his perception, it's very difficult for a person to see himself as well as another can.

2. True—according to the findings of a Colorado State University study, where more than 200 men and women were given the Deserved Spouse Test. They were instructed to (1) "Describe yourself as you would like to be ideally"; (2) "Describe yourself as you feel you are today"; (3) "Describe the spouse you feel you deserve." In most cases, both males and females rated their Deserved Spouse more favorably than they rated themselves—but less favorably than they rated their ideal selves, the person they would like to be.

3. True. As one leading behavioral scientist has observed in summing up the findings of studies on the subject: "In many instances, a vicious cycle of marital incompatibility results from a tendency on the part of the husband, when frustrated by his wife in the love relationship, to react by developing an attitude of bitter grievance, which prevents a reconciliation."

4. True. The more confident a wife is of her husband's love and affection, the less likely she is to make a federal case out of it when he forgets birthdays or wedding anniversaries.

5. True—as evidenced by a study of in-law relationships, which showed that the more your spouse's mother or father resembles your own parent personality-wise, the better you are going to hit it off.

6. True. Studies show that people expect good-looking wives to go hand in hand with handsome husbands. It also works the other way. Psychologists found that subjects tended to react with surprise when a beautiful woman was married to a blah-looking spouse. fw

RUTHIE THE RIVETER
Demolition is her thing

Australia's first woman laborer is 28-year-old Ruth Maddison, who just happens to be six feet tall. After two years at an Australian university, Ruth decided to quit and become a hardhat because the pay was good and equal to the pay for men, which, as we all know, is often not the case. The Australian Building Construction Union welcomed her and soon she was knocking the walls down. "It's really hard work," says Ruth. "Dirty and dusty. But I think that applies to men as well as women. I'm really tired at the end of the day, but I expected to have more aches than I have." When Ruth gets home at night all she wants to do is take a bath, have a meal and go to sleep.

Bruce Lee

QUOTE: "I don't play the superhero," said Bruce Lee, the late King of Kung Fu. "But the audience wants to make me one. I don't always play the same kind of role. Each role is different, although when I fight, I come out the same – like an animal. I never depend solely on my fighting skill to fulfill any of my film roles, although the audiences in Southeast Asia seem to think so. I believe it is more my personality and the expression of my body and myself. I am not acting. I am just doing my thing. When somebody tries to mimic my battle cries or grimaces, he makes himself look ridiculous. There are two types of actors – the versatile, who can go from character to character, and then there is the kind who is typecast, like Clint Eastwood, John Wayne. . . . I see myself as lying somewhere between the two. I am a personality and each role I play shares a bit of that personality." From "The Legend of Bruce Lee," by Alex Ben Block (Dell, $1.25). UNQUOTE.

LORETTA SWIT
The only woman

Loretta Swit is the only woman in "M*A*S*H." "In the beginning," says the actress who plays "Hot Lips Houlihan," "this was a strain. I had the feeling that everyone felt when a woman said something, she had to be 100 percent right. But we've all grown and changed as we've worked together. Two years ago I was terribly aware of women's abuse in the business. Now I am beginning to see a total acceptance. They've even hired women writers. I think that's a decided step forward in the thinking. Now I'm mixed in like a person—not a female of the species."

SIMPLY GRAND

What is grand about a grandchild,
That is, a planned or else unplanned
child?
One thing, a very nice sensation,
Is this: Another generation,
A feeling, with this latest trend of
things,
You are the start and not the end of
things.
Your children's children can have children,
Their children children. It's bewildren.
At least it helps offset, I'm saying,
Your loss of hearing and your graying,
Your pains arthritic, need for glasses,
Forgetting more, each day that
passes. . . .
A grandchild's grand, a thing of glory,
Or anyhow compensatory.
